News From the Board of Elections (BOE)

2012 Promises to be a Big Election Year, and the BOE wants to do all it can to help prepare New York City Voters. They are taking steps to improve current operations including improving poll worker recruitment and training, responding to voter concerns and feedback and continuing to educate voters on the use of the new voting system.

The Board of Elections (BOE) wishes to remind all voters of some important dates to remember:

- April 24, 2012 Republican Presidential Primary (only those registered in the Republican Party will be casting their vote on this day).
- June 26, 2012 Federal Primary (everyone votes for Congressional Representative).
- September 11, 2012 (Primary for local state office).
- November 6, 2012 Presidential (General election day)
- Questions or concerns please call (212) 487-5604 or (718) 797-8803.

CITY TO SELL REAL ESTATE AT PUBLIC AUCTION

Over 30 Parcels to be Offered to the Public

On Thursday, May 10, 2012, the New York City Department of Citywide Administrative Services (DCAS) will hold a public real estate auction of City-owned property located throughout the City of New York. The auction, which starts at 10:00a.m., will be held at the former Emigrant Savings Bank Building located at 49-51 Chambers Street in Manhattan. This will be DCAS' first real estate auction in nearly six years.

The City's public real estate auction offers potential bidders the opportunity, among other uses, to purchase a site for a new home, secure a space to establish a business, or find a development opportunity. Most of the properties are vacant lots.

Purchasers of City-owned property are required to provide a deposit of 20% of the purchase price on the day of the auction. The balance payment of 80% will be due by June 25, 2012. The City will not offer purchase money mortgages or any other payment plans.

"This is an exciting opportunity for the public to own a piece of New York and for the City to raise revenue by putting lots back on the tax rolls," said DCAS Commissioner Edna Wells Handy. The auction not only allows City residents to buy property, but there is also opportunity for local business owners to purchase and develop land."

A Pre-Auction Seminar will be held at 49-51 Chambers Street, Manhattan, on Thursday, May 3rd, beginning at 6:00p.m., for those who have never bid at a City auction or who may have questions.

Information and free copies of the auction brochure are now available. Visit the DCAS website at nyc.gov/dcas to download a copy. Potential bidders without access to computers can call 311 or (212) NEW-YORK (outside the city); or go to the DCAS/Asset Management office in the Manhattan Municipal Building at One Centre Street, 20th Floor South.

Brooklyn Public Library/Service to the Aging

Offering a variety of programs such as:

- Free Events for Older Adults-Lectures, films and performers that reflect the wide interest and diversity of today's 55+adults.
- Talking Needles-Seniors meet weekly and bring in their own projects such as knitting, crocheting or crafts while engaging in a friendly conversation. Completed projects are donated to the Department of Veterans Affairs or other community based organizations.
- Words and Memories-A program in which Senior Assistants read poetry and short stories thereby interacting with residents in nursing homes, senior centers and other senior recreational sites. Participants are engaged through the art of story telling thus sharing memories while maintaining social connections.
- Books-To-Go-Serving over 150 sites-supplying older adults with reading and viewing materials-often responding to specific requests. Included are books in English and other languages (some in large print), Bi-Folkal Kits (a collection of memorabilia to spark discussion), videos, descriptive videos and audio books.
- Service to the Aging also offers Books by Mail service. This convenient service supplies library materials to any homebound Brooklyn residents who have a physical disability that limits their ability to handle standard printed materials.

These services are free of charge. Anyone interested in these services can visit www.brooklynpubliclibrary.org/seniors/ to fill out an application.
