

MillionTreesNYC Community Grant Program Presented by The Home Depot Foundation

MillionTreesNYC is an initiative to plant and care for one million new trees throughout New York City by 2017. The initiative is a public-private partnership between Mayor Michael R. Bloomberg's PlaNYC, the New York City Department of Parks & Recreation and New York Restoration Project (NYRP), as well as many community, nonprofit, government and corporate partners throughout NYC.

Program Overview and Objective

Presented through the generous support of The Home Depot Foundation, and managed by NYRP, the MillionTreesNYC Community Grant Program is designed to advance the two main goals of MillionTreesNYC: (1) to plant a million trees across the five boroughs of New York City; and (2) to provide for the long-term care and maintenance of New York City trees.
