

NEW YORK CITY DEPARTMENT OF CULTURAL AFFAIRS AND NYC & COMPANY HIGHLIGHT CULTURE ACROSS THE FIVE BOROUGHES DURING BROADWAY STRIKE

–More Information Available at nyc.gov, nycvisit.com, through 311, and at Visitor’s Center and Kiosks Around the City–

New York, NY (November 20, 2007)— Cultural Affairs Commissioner Kate D. Levin and NYC & Company CEO George Fertitta today updated highlights of the cultural options available to visitors and residents during the Broadway strike.

New highlights – in midtown Manhattan and beyond – include:

- Alvin Ailey at New York City Center (www.citycenter.org)
Featuring the iconic Revelations and the world premiere of the exuberant western Saddle Up!, with music by Yo-Yo Ma.
- American Folk Art Museum (www.folkartmuseum.org)
Gilded Lions and Jeweled Horses: The Synagogue to the Carousel traces the contribution of Jewish woodcarvers contribution to American folk art.
- Ballet Hispanico at The Joyce Theater (www.joyce.org)
See Palladium Nights, accompanied by the Afro Latin Jazz Orchestra with Arturo O’Farrill, and works in repertory.
- Danspace Project (danspaceproject.org)
Movement Research Fall Festival offers three nights of improvisation by acclaimed dance experimentalists.
- Lehman Center for the Performing Arts (www.lehmancenter.org)
A new production of Moscow Classical Ballet’s Great Russian Nutcracker.
- New York Botanical Garden (www.nybg.org)
See the Holiday Train Show, a family-friendly holiday season tradition.
- Snug Harbor Cultural Center (www.snug-harbor.org)
Featuring My Fair Lady, the classic musical adaptation of George Bernard Shaw’s 1912 play Pygmalion.
- Streb Lab for Action Mechanics (www.strebusa.org)
Slam Show X, an action event for the whole family, features flying trapeze for the stout of heart and imagination.

- Thalia Spanish Theatre (www.thaliatheatre.org)
A new program of flamenco dance and music featuring Andrea Del Conte Danza España, dancer Miguel Lucena and the return of Jose Junco.

Ongoing highlights include:

- Apollo Theater (www.apollotheater.org)
Iconic Harlem landmark featuring live music almost every night of the week.
- Asia Society (www.asiasociety.org)
Films, concerts, talks and lectures.
- Bronx Museum of the Arts (www.bronxmuseum.org)
Engaging family programs and cutting-edge art.
- Brooklyn Academy of Music (www.bam.org)
Film, dance, readings and the 25th Annual Next Wave Festival.
- Brooklyn Museum (www.brooklynmuseum.org)
Featuring world-renowned Egyptian and American art and Judy Chicago's The Dinner Party.
- Cirque du Soleil (www.cirquedusoleil.com)
Wintuk, a kid-friendly holiday show, at Madison Square Garden.
- Lincoln Center Theater (www.lct.org)
Featuring Shakespeare's Cymbeline, and a new musical, The Glorious Ones.
- Miller Theatre (www.millertheatre.com)
Classical and early music in Morningside Heights.
- El Museo del Barrio (www.elmuseo.org)
New art from Latin America, featuring special exhibition Bienal: The (S) Files 007.
- The Metropolitan Museum of Art (www.metmuseum.org)
World-class collections spanning the entire history of art, featuring programs for visitors of all ages.
- The Museum of Modern Art (www.moma.org)
World-class modern art collection, featuring special exhibition Georges Seurat: Drawings.
- The Museum of the Moving Image (www.movingimage.us)
Classic films, new media and family-friendly exhibits fifteen minutes from midtown Manhattan.
- New Victory Theater (www.newvictory.org)
Punk rock collides with centuries of Irish dance as Tapeire takes stage, followed by The New Shanghai Circus holiday show.
- Playwrights Horizons (www.playwrightshorizons.org)
Doris to Darlene brings the music of three decades together in this time-jumping pop fairy tale.

