

Presents Arm-of-the-Sea Theater's

City that Drinks the Mountain Sky

Trace the path of life's quintessential liquid from mountain-top to New York City tap.

Learn about the New York City water supply system as told through mask and puppet theater.

Two School Performances

Thursday, April 6, 2017

10:00 am to 11:00 am
&
11:30 am to 12:30 pm

Tickets are $5.00 each (one free seat given with every ten seats purchased).

LaGuardia Performing Arts Center
31-10 Thomson Avenue
Long Island City, NY 11101

For reservations, please call
(718) 482-5150

Through a shimmering tapestry of poetry, puppetry, and music, City that Drinks the Mountain Sky brings alive the landscape of the Catskill Mountains – from the Ice Ages to today – to portray the on-going partnership to protect this flowing treasure.

This 55-minute dazzling show, suitable for students in grade 4 through college, will take you into the heart of a watershed. You will see how forests act like kidneys, filtering water as it moves towards streams and reservoirs. You will meet some of the engineers and laborers who built the reservoirs and aqueducts. And, you will discover how this enormous water project brought profound changes to the Catskill Mountain communities and New York City.

The New York City water supply is one of the engineering wonders of the world. From the Catskill Mountain watersheds, gravity helps to deliver over 1 billion gallons of drinking water to the faucets of 9 million people who live, work and visit New York City and upstate communities in a journey that spans more than one hundred miles.

Click HERE for a City That Drinks The Mountain Sky Study Guide for Educators

This performance has been made possible by the
New York City Department of Environmental Protection and LaGuardia Performing Arts Center