NOTES:

The eligibility criteria and dollar amounts shown for the benefits listed here are accurate as of Winter-Spring 2013.

Most of the agencies listed have automated answering systems needing touch tone responses from the caller. There may be a waiting time of up to several minutes, depending on the agency. The time may be longer to reach an operator, if using a rotary telephone.

ACCESSNYC can help improve your access to benefits. ACCESSNYC is a free electronic information and screening tool that allows people of all ages to identify and screen their eligibility for over 30 City, State and Federal human service benefit programs.

Seniors can visit www.nyc.gov and search for "Access NYC" to screen their eligibility for several of the programs listed in this booklet. These include Food Stamps, Medicaid, HEAP, and the Senior Citizen's Rent Increase Exemption and Veterans' Exemptions.

Based on information you enter into the system, ACCESS NYC will help fill out some of the applications to make the process easier. It will also provide information on agency office locations that are near you. The tool is available in seven languages: English, Spanish, Chinese, Russian, Korean, Haitian Creole, and Arabic.
