St. Vincent, tUnE-yArDs and Basia Bulat

St. Vincent is the nom-du-microphone of multi-instrumentalist/chanteuse Annie Clark. This Dallas-raised, doe-eyed songbird, began her musical career performing with Sufjan Stevens and The Polyphonic Spree. St. Vincent is an artist capable of crafting believable, complicated characters with compassion, insight, and exacting skill. tUnE-yArDs is the singular musical project of New England native Merrill Garbus. Possessing an expansive sound that marries a coarse folk ingenuity with the bold pop sensibility of an R&B siren, her debut release BiRD-BrAiNs was assembled with a staunch DIY aesthetic. She is aptly described by Stereogum as “a self-contained Sublime Frequencies compilation, jumping between blues, African tunes, shiny reggae-esque sprawls and lo-fi folk. From the age of three, singer-songwriter Basia Bulat has been perched on piano playing, in time she picked up guitar, autoharp, banjo, ukulele, sax, upright bass and flute.

Bulat's songs reflect the stillness of experience on the road, hand-in-hand with a freshly blossoming career.

George Lamond, Judy Torres, and DJ Lucho

George Lamond became an instant star for his first freestyle album, “Bad of the Heart,” which yielded the hit single with the same name and as well as —Without You” and “Look Into My Eyes.” This paved the way for other popular albums in both the freestyle genre as well as modern approaches to traditional Latin music, including —Where Does That Leave Love and —Oye Mi Canto. Judy Torres’ debut album Love Story, is considered by many to be a freestyle collection essential. With numerous major club hits like “Please Stay Tonight”, “Come Into My Arms”, “Love Story”, “I Love You, Will You Love Me” and “No Reason To Cry,” her name became synonymous with freestyle music. Currently, Torres hosts a Sunday-night Freestyle show on New York’s popular radio station, WKTU 103.5. DJ Lucho’s early exposure to the harmonious rhythms of Latin music in his Harlem neighborhood nurtured an innate talent that propelled him to become one of the most gifted DJs and producers in the music industry.

Gil Scott-Heron

Gil Scott-Heron's poetry and music is widely acknowledged as the matrix from which hip-hop and neo-soul emerged. His transgressive, politicized, spoken-word-meets-jazz recordings, including, —The Revolution Will Not Be Televised”, —Whitey on the Moon,” —The Bottle” and —Small Talk at 125th and Lennox,” have been covered, sampled, referenced, deified and parodied by generations of artists. 2010 saw the release of I'm New Here, Scott-Heron's first release in thirteen years. SPIN called the album, “not so much a comeback as a testament to spiritual resilience.” Presented in association with Jill Newman productions. Part of the NYC Revolutions series.
