Jimmy Cliff, Trevor Hall and Victor Démé

Jimmy Cliff is possibly the best-known living Jamaican reggae musician and songwriter. He is generally credited for helping popularize reggae internationally with his soundtrack to the movie The Harder They Come, which starred Cliff. He is a member of The Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and holds The Order of Merit, the highest honor that can be granted by the Jamaican government for achievements in the arts. Trevor Hall has been writing and performing since he was fourteen and back in South Carolina. Trevor's unconventional mix of acoustic rock and reggae serves as a vibrant landscape for his thought provoking, inspiring lyrics, which he delivers with a surprisingly soulful voice. Victor Démé was born in Ouagadougou, the capital of Burkina Faso, a landlocked region in West Africa. In 2009, his self-titled debut of rootsy blues was finally released internationally.

EPMD and Funkmaster Flex

Once described as “the rap equivalent of a rock & roll garage band,” EPMD (“Erick and Parrish Making Dollars”) are famed as one of the breakthrough bands of 1980’s hip hop. Erick Sermon and Parrish Smith grew up together on Long Island, home to rappers Eric B. and Rakim, De La Soul, and Public Enemy’s Flavor Flav. In 1987, while on a college break, Smith recorded with Sermon the duos raps, which they had first performed together the previous year. EPMD immediately released the songs as a 12-inch single which sold 500,000 copies. Within six weeks of its release, their first full length LP, Strictly Business, had topped the R&B album chart and gone gold. Later hits included ‘You Gots to Chill’, ‘Crossover’ and ‘Strictly Business’. DJ Funkmaster Flex sets trends. His name is known around the world and for more than a decade Funkmaster Flex has reigned as America’s number one music radio personality, reaching more than two million listeners a week from his show on Hot 97. Flex was recently named America’s best DJ for 2009 by The Urban Music Awards. Presented in association with Globe Star Media. Part of the NYC Revolutions series.

Seewe African Dance Company is dedicated to performing and teaching traditional African dance forms. Artistic Director/Choreographer Mouminatou Camara founded the company in 2005. Seewe aims to bridge the gaps in African music, song, dance and folklore existing in African American culture. Using traditional instruments such as the Bote, the Krin, the Balaphone and the Djembe orchestra, Seewe's high-energy performance, its use of the traditional rhythms, instruments and dance forms educates and enlightens its audiences. The BalAfroHop Project

2010, conceived and choreographed by Tracy Jack combines traditional Ballet, African and hip-hop dance to tell a story in a new, seamless, fast and physical form. Complete with live drummers, a DJ, and music that spans era & genre, The BalAfroHop Project 2010 focuses on the universal theme of love to tell a tale inspired by dance styles from all over the globe.

The Dance of Light Project

The Dance of Light project was created to rejuvenate the Artist and the Dance. We believe dance is not just steps but a way of being. We want to inspire passion through form and technique allowing the Dancer and the Choreographer to grow continuously. By creating with the artists we are able to push pass all boundaries allowing everyone to be an important entity. The Approach, in return allows the world to see its Light. We truly believe that the beauty of simplicity is the complexity it attracts.
