REAL PROPERTY TAX AUDIT REPORT FORM INSTRUCTIONS

These instructions were written to help answer questions you might have concerning completion of the Tax and Bankruptcy Litigation Division Real Property Audit Report Form (often referred to as the “Certification”). The New York City Law Department uses the income, expense and other information provided on the form to value properties in connection with Real Property Tax Law assessment challenges.

Non-income producing properties are exempt from filing an Income and Expense Statement but the owners of same must file a certified statement that the property is non-income producing. This can and should be done using the Certification. Non-income producing property owners should still provide information about their property using the form. By doing so you are providing relevant information about your property which will help the Law Department to more accurately value your property. In addition, please note the following:

- Completion of this form does not preclude the city from making an independent audit of the petitioner’s books and records. Nor shall the filing of this certification be raised as a defense to a request, if any, made to the court for further documentation or information.
- All items on the form should be completed. Indicate “n/a” if a question or section does not apply.
- The original Real Property Tax Audit Report Form and one copy must be served upon the Law Department.
- All income and expenses must be reported in gross amounts. Net figures are not acceptable. All figures in this report should be rounded off to the nearest dollar.
- Where this form provides that information may be attached in a summary format, full copies of said documentation may still be required to be provided at a later date and should be maintained and preserved until disposition of the proceedings under review.

Any inquiries regarding the Real Property Tax Audit Report Form should be directed in writing to the Tax and Bankruptcy Litigation Division, Room 5-236, 100 Church Street, New York, New York 10007. Telephone No. (212) 788-0439. Please allow 7-10 business days for a response. Please note that a pending inquiry will not serve to extend the statutory deadline, if any, for the filing of the Certification.
