BUSINESS NOTICES.

C. W. Hanks, Agent and Broker in Real Estate, No. 245 Broadway, New York.

Has been permanently established in business for the last twenty years as a real estate broker and agent, and has developed a trade of extended proportions, including among his customers many of our leading capitalists and investors. He is a recognized authority as to present and prospective values, and those who have been guided by his conservative judgment and intimate practical knowledge in making investment purchases have secured steady incomes and properties. He has long made a specialty of the care and management of estates, and gives them the closest attention, securing prompt and responsible tenants, effecting repairs in the most judicious manner, and generally maintaining all properties placed in his hands at the highest standard of productive efficiency. Mr. Hanks has been appointed agent of the Hamilton Park property, consisting of a plot of about 32 acres, bounded by Richmond terrace, York avenue, Franklin avenue and Prospect street, in New Brighton, and commanding a magnificent view of New York Bay. It has been divided up into building sites suitable for the erection of villa residences and private houses, and intersected by broad thoroughfares, and affords one of the most desirable opportunities for the acquisition of a healthful home. Sites will be sold at a reasonable figure, and every effort will be made to improve the already attractive surroundings. The property is within a few rods of the depot of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railroad; is salubrious, well drained, and will be disposed of on very reasonable terms. A loan will be made to those purchasers who wish to build.

W. A. Collins, Real Estate, No. 26 Pine Street, New York.

The real estate interests of the cities and towns in the neighborhood of New York are nowhere brighter nor prices firmer than in the delightful and salubrious suburb of Staten Island. Investments in real estate in that direction when judiciously made, under the guidance of the sound judgment and intimate practical knowledge of an expert, are sure to prove remunerative, and thousands of city people who have become possessed of realty on Staten Island have had no cause to regret the purchases. One of the leading representative men making a specialty of real estate on the Island and especially in the villages of New Brighton and Edgewater, is W. A. Collins, whose city office is No. 26 Pine street. Mr. Collins is continuing the business which his father established many years ago, and brings vast practical experience to bear, coupled with an intimate knowledge of the respective values and outlook for improved and unimproved property. At his office, No. 26 Pine street, he is prepared at all times to give the fullest information in regard to Staten Island property, and is a recognized authority on the subject in the metropolis. He gives most careful attention to the filling of all orders, both as regards the purchase or sale, and renting of real estate, and has carried many important transactions to a successful issue. His connections are of the most superior character, and he numbers among his permanent customers many of the leading capitalists of Staten Island and this city.

J. B. King & Co., Windsor Plaster Mills, New Brighton, S. I.; New York Office, 18 Coenties Slip.

The mills, wharf and other property owned by the above-named firm are located in Bank, near Jersey street, New Brighton. They were established in 1876, but owing to a fire last year have been rebuilt on an enlarged scale and with a far greater capacity than they formerly had, so that they are now, beyond question, the most extensive and complete plaster mills on the continent. The pure white plaster stone is supplied from the proprietors' own quarries at Windsor, Nova Scotia. The products of the mills are calcined plaster, land plaster and ground marble. Special attention is given to the manufacture of land plaster for fertilizing purposes, as plaster has come to be regarded by agriculturists as the cheapest and most permanent dressing that can be applied to the soil. J. B. King & Co.'s land plaster is all "double ground," warranted pure, and of the best quality, and contains $96\frac{9}{10}$ per cent. of fertilizing properties. Vessels come directly to the company's docks for loading and discharging, and rail connection is had with the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railroad.

George Ross, Awning Maker, Port Richmond.

Many of the beautiful residences in New Brighton are made more comfortable and tasteful by handsome awnings, and on the well-kept lawns are pitched many fascinating tents and marquees which are invariably found to be from the manufactory of Mr. George Ross, of Shore Road, Port Richmond, who is the leading man in his line on the Island, and whose superior facilities for doing the best work are well understood.

Ms NORMAN,

By reference to the "AIA Guide to NYC" by white + Willensky (Collier Books, N.Y. 1976) and by personal observation I would request further information on how the following may be nominated for Landmark status:

1. Joseph H. Lyons Pool (p. 540), it may also be a scenic landmark
2. Borough Hall and County Court House (p 538) could be historic district or scenic landmark as well.
3. Geo. W. Curtis Residence (p 556)

Purely on personal observation, I would recommend consideration of the Tompkinsville Park at Bay and Victory Blvd. It contains "the Hill" statue, memorial plaque to "the abolitionist Race" and a commemorative stone to Governor + Mrs Tompkins.

Sincerely,
Dick

Dear Mr. Robins:

On behalf of the Barrett Park Civic Assn. and at the suggestion of Mitchell Grubler, SI Preservation League, I am forwarding you information of what we feel is a historic residence at 27 Colonial Ct. Staten Island, N.Y. 10310.

Because of its age and historical importance, we are hoping it will be "landmarked" and saved from demolition should the property on which it stands become sold.

We have been told that this property is " on the market" and request your prompt action in helping us preserve this interesting home and a piece of Staten Island's past.

Don't hesitate to contact us if you require any additional information. Your prompt attention to this matter will be greatly appreciated.

Dear Mr. Robins:

I am writing to request some consideration for possible landmarking of a lovely home in the West Brighton section of Staten Island. The house is at 27 Colonial Ct. Residents of the area have approached the Board about the possibility of landmarking status and in an attempt to help them, I am appealing to you.

Would you be good enough to let me know how this can be accomplished. What do we need to do?

I will be happy to send you anything you need to start this process.

Very truly yours,

Joseph Marotta

Dear Mr. Dickenson:

Thank you for your note listing several Staten Island sites which you feel might qualify for designation as New York City Landmarks.

Staten Island is presently being surveyed by the Community Development staff of the LPC and a volunteer team from the Staten Island Preservation League. Your suggestions have been given to them for consideration. We anticipate that many Staten Island sites will be considered as potential New York City landmarks as the result of this ongoing survey.

Sincerely,

Dear Janet Rooney:
Dear Chris Rooney:

In response to your recent request, the property cited above has been reviewed for consideration as a potential Landmark. The professional staff and the Chairman of the Commission have decided not to recommend to the full Commission that the property be considered for Landmark designation.

The decision not to recommend consideration is based on our current assessment of the property's architectural and historical qualities. Should additional information become available, the Commission may reconsider the property at a later date.

Please understand that in a city the size of New York, the Landmarks Commission must exercise a high degree of selectivity in regard to the properties which it considers for designation as Landmarks.

We appreciate your interest in preservation and in the work of the Commission.

Sincerely yours,

Anthony W. Robins
