

Dear Friends and Families of the 9/11 Community,

As we approach the anniversary of 9/11, our nonprofit organization MyGoodDeed is again helping to mobilize millions of people this year to engage in charitable service and good deeds in remembrance of the victims, heroes and volunteers of 9/11. The annually-observed “9/11 National Day of Service and Remembrance” (9/11 Day), which we founded in 2002 with the help of many within the 9/11 community, is now the nation's largest annual day of charitable engagement, and officially recognized under federal law. More than 47 million Americans now take part each year, helping keep the promise to “Never Forget.”

To learn more, share with friends, and participate yourself, please visit our new website at <http://911day.org>. There you'll be able to post a personal message for 9/11 in honor of your loved ones and friends, download helpful lesson plans for parents and teachers, and find toolkits for companies and nonprofits, along with videos, logos and other resources. All are free. Please also follow us on Facebook/911day and Twitter/911day. Our social media hashtag is #911day.

If you have questions or ideas, just drop either of us a note at info@911day.org. Our thoughts and prayers are with you this 9/11.

Best wishes,

David Paine and Jay Winuk

Co-founders, 9/11 National Day of Service and Remembrance

PS: We fund our activities and our nonprofit, MyGoodDeed, through private donations.

We welcome and appreciate contributions of any size to help us continue to run the 9/11 Day of Service and Remembrance. You can make a donation online through Network for Good at <http://bit.ly/support911day> or purchase one of our charity t-shirts at: teespring.com/support911day.
