

Started in Australia, Earth Hour is now a global, annual event. People everywhere will connect our energy use to climate change by shutting off lights and all non-essential electronics for one hour.

Lights Out!

EARTH HOUR

*8:30pm, Saturday

March 23rd

Sane Energy Project and friends invite you and your friends to a candlelight gathering near the site of the Spectra pipeline. Meet at the Hudson River playground at Horatio Street by 8:15 and let's watch the lights go out together (make sure your friends in New Jersey know about Earth Hour!) Bring candles, food, musical instruments, songs! (*Foul weather cancels.)

It's especially important for residents along either side of the Hudson to turn out their lights!
