Public Session
Vanessa Puzio	Ms. Puzio is a Supervising Attorney for the Sex Crimes Unit at the Manhattan District Attorney’s Office. She is also the head of the Work-Related Sex Crimes Initiative whose main goal is to encourage victims of sex crimes in the workplace to come forward and begin the criminal justice process. The task force visits community boards, schools, and businesses to make its services known to the public. This outreach has resulted in an uptick in calls to its hotline from about 20 to over 120 per month. The program streamlines the complaint process by giving victims the ability to bypass a visit to a police precinct and speak directly to a prosecutor. Ms. Puzio brought flyers to the meeting.
Tina DiFelicantonio	Tina is a board member who spoke on her own behalf as a member of the community. She requested the Transportation Committee to re-evaluate the street layout of West 26th Street between 6th and 7th Avenues because of construction on two sites in the middle of the block that will probably continue for years. The issue has to do with bikes in the bike lane being rerouted around the Jersey barriers in front of the sites. It creates a dangerous path where one must navigate around dumpsters, rubbish and other debris on the street. Tina complained about traffic enforcement agents who have made it a practice to unfairly target motorcycles and scooters. Because the NYPD has designated the blocks between 24th and 28th Streets as being prone to theft and tampering, the agents have seen it fit to target these vehicles with tickets and towing.
Miranda Massie	Ms. Masse is the Director of the Climate Museum. It is the first initiative in the nation and the second in the world to create a museum dedicated to climate change, climate solutions and climate progress. The museum currently has ten exhibitions around the City, one of which is in Hudson River Park at Pier 84. On Saturday the 6th of October, NASA climate scientists will be at Pier 84 to answer questions about climate science. The site is open every day from 7 am to Midnight. Ms. Masse made flyers available.
Susan Lahn	Ms. Lahn shared her concerns regarding ambulance access to Mt. Sinai West Hospital. The problem has arisen since 60th Street has become a one-way westbound street. Now, ambulances coming up 10th Avenue must travel all the way up to 62nd Street to get over to Columbus Avenue in order to come back down to the hospital on 59th Street. It also causes a problem for ambulances leaving the hospital on 59th Street when making a call downtown. Ms. Lahn asked for the board’s help in having 59th Street turned into a two-way street. She believes that the hospital administration may be reluctant to ask for this change because doctors and staff park their cars on 59th Street.

Chris Mills	Mr. Mills is a pastor at Gallery Church in Chelsea. He introduced his wife Sarah who works for the Fellowship for Performing Arts, a theatre production company located in Hell’s Kitchen. FPA produces theater from a Christian worldview to engage a diverse audience. Mr. Mills stated that he was attending the meeting to listen to the needs of the community and to pray and show his love for the community.
Lisa Wager	Ms. Wager is the Director of Government and Community Relations at the Fashion Institute of Technology. She mentioned a couple of public programming events: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • FIT is in the middle of its Sustainability Awareness Week. The program includes several workshops, lectures and tours. There is a tour of the green roof on Thursday October 4th at 6 pm. • On October 29th the Lawrence Israel Lecture will be held with the renowned architect Annabelle Selldorf being honored. The event will take place in the Katie Murphy Amphitheater from 6 to 8 pm.
Joe Restuccia	Joe is a board member who spoke on behalf of Clinton Housing Development Company of which he is the executive director. He announced that applications had just become available for the Site Seven project on West 53rd Street between 10th and 11th Avenues. There are 102 affordable apartments available to people in single households making $39,000 up to a family of four making $172,000 with no gaps in between. Applications must be submitted by December 7th through Housing Connect. There is a 50% preference for residents living in MCD4.

Remarks from Elected Officials and Representatives
Congressman Jerrold Nadler	Mr. Nadler began by noting that it is a very divisive time in Washington and in the country. He believes there is a crisis in the country now because the Trump Administration is not following the norms of democratic procedure. For example, the President is not supposed to step in and tell the F.B.I. who to prosecute or not prosecute. He thinks the President, out of ignorance, is subverting democracy by undermining the press; by attacking the independence of the judiciary; and, by attacking the judges, the Justice Department and the F.B.I. Another aspect of the current crisis has to do with the constitutionally imposed system of checks and balances where Congress is supposed to be a check on the administration and the administration is supposed to be a check on Congress. All three branches should be a check on the actions of each other. So, in the case of children being separated from their parents at the border, there should be hearings in Congress on that. But that has not happened. The current Administration has also chosen to join in lawsuits against democratically enacted laws such as provisions of the Affordable Care Act that deal with the cost of health care insurance charged to those with pre-existing conditions. The Administration should be defending the constitutionality of this statute, rather than seek to disable it. A similar course of action has been taken in cases where various states have enacted laws that enable voter suppression. Congress has not exercised its oversight responsibilities in holding the Administration responsible for any of these actions. Nor has it chosen to investigate over one hundred topics that have been identified by the press as needing scrutiny by the legislative branch. Mr. Nadler brought up the Brett Kavanaugh nomination to the Supreme Court. He pointed to Judge Kavanaugh’s Judiciary Committee testimony wherein he attacked the process as a Democratic plot against his confirmation. The judges’ words, he said, were not what one would expect from a dispassionate, neutral jurist sitting on a U.S. circuit

	court. His impartiality is now cause for concern. Mr. Nadler went on to give an enlightening review of the history of the Supreme Court since the period before the Civil War. He made the point that presidents have always primarily picked judges based on their qualifications as judges rather than based on a list provided by a single source that is influenced by a particular ideology.
Taysha Clark for State Senator Brad Hoylman	The Senator’s office organized a Know Your Rights meeting for tenants facing landlord harassment. He sent a letter to the Department of Education regarding the delay in releasing the results of public school test scores noting the hardship that it has caused to families and requesting that it be addressed as soon as possible. There will be free flu shots available in the office on November 30th from 10 am to 2 pm.
Carl Wilson for Council Speaker Corey Johnson	The Speaker was proud to announce on September 22nd that Hartley House will be able to remain at its current century-old location on West 46th Street. He thanked the Hudson Guild, Clinton Housing, CB4 and elected officials for their efforts. Free flu shots will be given at the district office on Thursday, October 11th from 10 am to 5 pm. Call or email the office to RSVP. The latest Participatory Budgeting cycle began on September 23rd. There are three upcoming Neighborhood Assemblies scheduled where residents can share ideas, learn about project eligibility, and sign-up to be a Budget Delegate. The meetings will run from 6:30 to 8:30 pm at each of these locations: City and County School on October 10th, New York City Lab School on the 17th and Midtown West on the 18th. The Council has calendared a meeting on October 22nd covering the Small Business Jobs Survival Act, a piece of legislation that has been lingering in the Council for years. The Speaker has promised to finally hold a hearing on this. The Speaker reacted to the proposed plan by the MTA to install an electrical substation on West 28th Street between 8th and 9th Avenues. It would lie within the residential Penn South complex where noise from the machinery is an issue. The MTA did not seek any input from residents before its announcement, nor did it consider noise when choosing the site. After meeting with the Speaker, the MTA president agreed to evaluate alternative sites.
Mike Stinson for Comptroller Scott Stringer	Mr. Stinson stated that last week the Comptroller’s Office released a report on housing affordability that showed that since 2005, due to rising rents the City lost over 425,000 affordable apartments renting for $1,000 or less. They were replaced by 120,000 units renting for over $2,700 per month. In 2005, 78% of those apartments were renting for $1,200 or less. In 2016, only 60% were renting at that same amount. The Comptroller is looking to form a coalition with the state Senate after the election to update the rent laws – measures that were put on hold in the previous Senate. Mr. Stinson provided copies of sixty of his charter amendment proposals. They deal with such matter as land use, government transparency, wealth creation in communities of color, and, procurement reforms. One of the main things he’s calling for is a chief diversity officer in City Hall and each City agency to create more opportunities for Minority and Women-Owned Businesses.
Councilmember Helen Rosenthal	Ms. Rosenthal passed around summaries of bills that were signed into law by the Mayor having to do with sexual harassment in the workplace. As Chair of the Committee on Women, she was able to advance the bills through the Council successfully. She said she believes that the NYPD’s Special Victims Unit does not treat survivors of sexual abuse well. When a survivor walks into a police precinct to make a complaint, they often feel humiliated. The Council is working on a package of bills aimed at changing police behavior in such situations.

	The Council is also working on bills to address the disparity between black and white morbidity during childbirth. Black women are twelve times more likely to die during childbirth than white women. With respect to the NYCHA complex Harborview Terrace, the Council has asked the Mayor to explain in person to tenants his revised plan for the development of the long-ago promised affordable building on the parking lot of the complex. Specifically, the Mayor should explain the justification for wanting to replace the proposed 16-story, 100% affordable building with a 60-story building containing market rate units along with the promised affordable units.
Borough President Gale Brewer	Ms. Brewer reminded everyone that the national census was getting closer and that there are issues that must be addressed to ensure an accurate count in the City. She noted that Providence was experimenting with an online census, and it was not going well. She asked the board to consider steps that the City might pursue. She is in favor of closing Riker’s Island, but admits that the process is not easy. The Mayor’s suggestion to convert 80 Centre Street into a local jail has been met with serious objections from the residents of Chinatown. Planning for the L Train shutdown appears to be going well, but the big issue is one that was raised by Brad Hoylman: the busses coming over the bridge are not clean. There are many small issues that still must be addressed as well. Applications for the Borough President’s Youth Council are due October 29th. Ms. Brewer has a new program called Borough Presidents on Your Block that will initially work with four or five NYCHA developments. She continues to work with Speaker Johnson on the food bank for seniors program. She invited the board to meet with her to discuss capital funding requests. She thanked the board for its work on keeping the Garment Center a viable manufacturing district. Ms. Brewer, speaking as a private citizen, gave her thoughts on the Mayor’s three proposed City Charter revisions that will be voted on this November 6th. The first one on the ballot has to do with campaign finance. She is very much against the second proposal which deals with the establishment of a Civic Engagement Commission because it is a mayoral commission that does not allow for enough community involvement and because its duties are not well-defined. She is also opposed to the third proposal which establishes term limits for community board members. This would result in the removal of many members who have accumulated the necessary knowledge and experience required to deal with complex issues such as land use and zoning.
State Senator Brad Hoylman	Senator Hoylman arrived at the end of the meeting due to his schedule in Albany. He expressed his hope that everyone votes in November, reminding everyone that the next Friday was the last day to register. He also thanked Speaker Johnson, board member Restuccia and the Hudson Guild for their work in saving Hartley House. He concluded with the status of the L Train shutdown and his recent op-ed column criticizing the MTA for buying 200 new diesel busses when they should have invested in renewable natural gas and electric busses. He said that he would continue to monitor the project to ensure that air quality monitors would be installed along the entire length of the route.

Board Reports & Business
Adoption of Agenda and Minutes	The Agenda was amended to table Item 2 and withdraw Items 3 and 14; it was then approved unanimously. The September minutes were also approved unanimously.
Nominating Committee Report	Frank Holozubiec, Chair of the Nominating Committee, announced that, after soliciting the members for those who desired to run for board offices, only the existing members expressed an interest to continue in office. Interviews of nominees will be held at the end of October and the Committee will present a slate of recommended nominees at the November general meeting.
Budget Task Force Report	Jeffrey LeFrancois, Chair of the Budget Committee, stated that over the past week the Committee reviewed the board’s Statement of District Needs to see if it needed any updating. As it turned out, many of the things that the board had been asking for over the years were granted last year. This was probably the result of streamlining the Statement and highlighting the items that were of the greatest importance, thus drawing the attention of the relevant agencies. Jeffrey then pointed to the sheets at the back of the room where attendees could write their ideas and specific requests for inclusion in the new Statement of District Needs. He also reminded the chairs of each committee to prepare their input. The District Manager noted that each committee chair would be receiving a form in their monthly information packet that would make the submission process easier.
District Manager Report	Highlights of events the District Manager or Staff attended on behalf of the board and upcoming events: Upcoming News: CB4 will partner with NYC Business Solutions and the Greenwich Village Chelsea Chamber of Commerce as well as the Hudson Yards/Hell’s Kitchen Alliance to host two small business trainings.
