Mayor Bill de Blasio and Human Resources Administration (HRA) Commissioner Steven Banks announced a new citywide outreach campaign to spread the word about the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP, formerly Food Stamps) to New Yorkers who qualify for SNAP benefits but aren't receiving them. The campaign includes specific outreach to the two largest unenrolled but eligible groups – seniors and immigrants – with the goal of reaching all New Yorkers who can benefit from SNAP. The centerpiece of the campaign is a state-of-the-art website, FoodHelp.nyc, which includes videos featuring real SNAP clients sharing stories of how the program helped them, links to the newly-redesigned ACCESS NYC site where people can apply, and an interactive map with the locations of food pantries, community kitchens and SNAP application locations.

The campaign also includes targeted ads on subways, buses, and bus shelters, and in neighborhood locations such as check cashing stores, bodegas, hair and nail salons, barber shops and laundromats. HRA is partnering with dozens of community organizations, food pantries and advocates to generate a strong social media outreach effort and gain support for the campaign by leveraging the digital presence of community partners and with specially designed posters and brochures. Outreach materials will be available in English and the six Local Law languages (Spanish, Russian, Chinese, Korean, Arabic, and Haitian Creole.).

ACCESS NYC was re-launched (at www.nyc.gov/accessnyc) with a streamlined SNAP application and a new online SNAP recertification. Visitors must now create a new account in order to use website, the change in user accounts will not affect current benefits. Both the SNAP application and the new SNAP recertification provide users with a confirmation number once documents are successfully submitted.

Medicaid Renewal is no longer available online: With the ACCESS NYC upgrade, Medicaid renewals can no longer be submitted online. To renew coverage, Medicaid clients must complete and return their renewal form in the postage-paid envelope enclosed in the package
