

June, 2015 District Manager's Report

Highlights from the Borough Service Cabinet (BSC) Meeting (5/15)

Presentation: NYC Environmental and Health Data Portal (DOHMH)

Presenter: Nancy Loder Jeffery, Project Manager, NYC Tracking Program; Grant Pezeshki, Director, Public Portals

Formerly known as Environmental and Public Health Tracking Portal, the NYC Environmental and Health Data Portal is a one-stop location for neighborhood-level data on health effects associated with environmental and behavioral factors. The portal provides information through data indicators, both in percentages and numbers of incidences, as well as general information of local neighborhoods.

This portal also gathers information from other Federal, State and City surveys and studies, such as housing quality, overall air quality, pesticide use and density of liquor licenses. In the spirit of OneNYC, formerly PlaNYC, the portal also contains vital information on sustainability and resiliency, all at neighborhood level. Data from all sources are combined with Dept. of Health and Mental Hygiene statistics, such as diet and exercise patterns, lead exposure, infestation, ozone level and incidence of asthma, to demonstrate correlations and causal relationships amongst various health and non-health factors.

The Portal is currently hosting data at ZIP code level; data sorting and assemblage at the Community Board level is underway. This portal also provides a "neighborhood report" that summarizes each indicator in a one-page profile. Portal also contains borough-level and citywide data to facilitate comparison of neighborhood-specific information with figures based on larger jurisdictions. Neighborhood report contains maps, time trends and color-coded visual aids, all broken down into specific topics and by ZIP codes. Data are also available in other formats, such as scatter plots, disparities and extremes; all are available for data export.

The Data currently available includes metrics on food and drink, housing, environment, health indicators and disease statistics. All data categories are further broken down into topics, with numbers, percentages, scatter plots and trend lines. Information on methodology, calculation formulae and data parameters are also included. Data sharing via social media and mobile devices is also available.

Senior Technology Advisor Colegrove: Does the portal support user-created data mapping and correlations? Is it only limited to Dept. of Health and Mental Hygiene data only, or are data from other agencies or surveys integrated as well?

Pezeshki (DOHMH): Correlations available on the portal are the most commonly used ones, presented in a way that facilitates interpretation. All data is available for download and export if users wish to explore on their own. Range of historical data sets varies; some goes back five years while others may go back for ten.

DOB reported: COMMISSIONER CHANDLER ANNOUNCES CREATION OF 'KNOW YOUR CONSTRUCTION PROFESSIONAL' DIRECTORY

This New Comprehensive Catalogue Gives New Yorkers Easy Access to Discipline Records of Construction Professionals

Safe construction begins by ensuring homeowners, property managers and development companies hire qualified and experienced professionals. Knowing a professional's disciplinary and voluntary license surrender record can help determine if they can safely perform construction work.

The Department of Buildings investigates and takes disciplinary action against construction professionals when their conduct violates standards set forth in the New York City Construction Codes. The Department has created a searchable comprehensive directory of all construction professionals that it monitors. The catalogue provides records back to 1998, and includes details of discipline action that were enforced.

“The Department’s highest priority is safe development, and we work every day to find innovative ways to provide New Yorkers with the tools they need to ensure they are hiring qualified construction professionals,” said Commissioner Rick Chandler. “The ‘Know Your Professional’ directory allows anyone, from homeowners to large development firms, easy access to a single comprehensive catalogue that provides the disciplinary and voluntary license records of construction professionals. This initiative is about safety, accountability and transparency in the construction process.”

The ‘Know Your Construction Professional’ Directory provides disciplinary and voluntary surrender records for:

- Licensed Architects and Engineers
- Construction Superintendents;
- Contractors;
- Electricians;
- Elevator Agency Directors and Inspectors;
- Filing Representatives;
- Boiler Operating Engineers;
- Hoist Machine Operators;
- Oil Burn Equipment Installers;
- Plumbers;
- Riggers;
- Sign Hangers
- Site Safety Professionals;
- Welders;
- Concrete Safety Managers;
- and individuals that performed work without proper licensing

The Department encourages anyone hiring a construction professional to check both their disciplinary and voluntary surrender records, as well as current license status. Property owners are responsible for any work performed on their buildings and should ensure they hire qualified and experienced professionals that will comply with all requirements of the NYC Building Code and Zoning Resolution.

DOB ANNOUNCES SMALL BUSINESS OWNERS’ NIGHT

As part of Small Business First, Experts from NYC Department of Buildings in association with NYC Small Business Services Provide One-on-One Guidance to Small Business Owners

Building on the success of the agency’s Homeowners and Residents night, and honoring their commitment to providing superior service, the Department of Buildings’ borough offices will offer weekly after hour services to small business owners.

Small Business Owners Night is a product of Small Business First, a comprehensive plan to streamline the City's requirements for small business owners, and make resources and materials more accessible in order to reduce the regulatory burden and increase compliance in all five boroughs. This interagency initiative is designed to make information more accessible to small business owners so they can save time, money, and frustration when dealing with government. For more information on Small Business First, visit www.nyc.gov/SmallBizFirst.

Beginning April 14, 2015, from 4:00pm to 7:00pm small business owners can visit their local borough office to get one-on-one advice from Department experts on issues related to their new or existing building applications.

During the weekly Small Business Owners' Night, services include:

- Recommendations on steps to take when planning to create new space or renovate existing space;
- Advice on business construction plans, including the permitting process;
- Direction on how to secure or amend a property's Certificate of Occupancy;
- Information about the status of their existing Buildings' application;
- Instructions on how to resolve Department-issued violations;
- Guidelines on what to expect during an inspection;
- Guidance on using the Buildings Information System (BIS) to search property history and permit information.

No advance appointment is required to receive this support. Small business owners are invited to simply visit their local Department of Buildings' borough office and meet with a plan examiner or other Department professional to answer questions. Representatives from Small Business Services will also be available for assistance.

Small Business Owners are encouraged to take advantage of these cost-free opportunities to consult with Department professionals. The Department of Buildings understands the challenges local businesses face and these sessions intend to support the small business community through education. For licensing requirements, inspection protocol, or review processes associated with other agencies, business owners must contact each agency directly.

Small Business Owners Nights will be scheduled from 4:00pm to 7:00pm every Tuesday at the Department of Buildings' Borough Office in all five boroughs:

HRA Reported: Mayor Bill de Blasio and Human Resources Administration (HRA) Commissioner Steven Banks announced a new citywide outreach campaign to spread the word about the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP, formerly Food Stamps) to New Yorkers who qualify for SNAP benefits but aren't receiving them. The campaign includes specific outreach to the two largest unenrolled but eligible groups – seniors and immigrants – with the goal of reaching all New Yorkers who can benefit from SNAP. The centerpiece of the campaign is a state-of-the-art website, FoodHelp.nyc, which includes videos featuring real SNAP clients sharing stories of how the program helped them, links to the newly-redesigned ACCESS

NYC site where people can apply, and an interactive map with the locations of food pantries, community kitchens and SNAP application locations.

The campaign also includes targeted ads on subways, buses, and bus shelters, and in neighborhood locations such as check cashing stores, bodegas, hair and nail salons, barber shops and laundromats. HRA is partnering with dozens of community organizations, food pantries and advocates to generate a strong social media outreach effort and gain support for the campaign by leveraging the digital presence of community partners and with specially designed posters and brochures. Outreach materials will be available in English and the six Local Law languages (Spanish, Russian, Chinese, Korean, Arabic, and Haitian Creole.).

ACCESS NYC was re-launched (at www.nyc.gov/accessnyc) with a streamlined SNAP application and a new online SNAP recertification. Visitors must now create a new account in order to use website, the change in user accounts will not affect current benefits. Both the SNAP application and the new SNAP recertification provide users with a confirmation number once documents are successfully submitted.

Medicaid Renewal is no longer available online: With the ACCESS NYC upgrade, Medicaid renewals can no longer be submitted online. To renew coverage, Medicaid clients must complete and return their renewal form in the postage-paid envelope enclosed in the package mailed to client. For further info. contact Medicaid Helpline at 1-888-692-6116, or email Help Desk at ACCESSNYChelp@doitt.nyc.gov.

IDNYC is the new, FREE identification card for all New York City residents, which gives individuals the opportunity to show who we are (New Yorkers). As a government-issued photo identification card, IDNYC secures access to City services to the most vulnerable communities—the homeless, youth, the elderly, undocumented immigrants, the formerly incarcerated and others who may have difficulty obtaining other government-issued ID.

IDNYC cardholders can access services and programs offered by the City as well as by businesses. IDNYC helps enhance public safety, by serving as a recognized ID for interacting with NYPD. It also helps New Yorkers gain access to all City buildings that provide services to the public and is accepted as a form of identification for accessing numerous City programs and services. IDNYC also provides a dynamic series of benefits to cardholders, including a free one-year membership at many of the City's leading museums, zoos, concert halls, and botanical gardens.

DEP Reported: NYC launched its “B.Y.O.” Campaign to promote the use of reusable mugs, bottles, and bags in an effort to be apart of the GreeNYC’s Mission to address sustainability with Consumer Behavior and support Mayor de Blasio’s recently announced OneNYCPlan, including goals to send Zero Waste to landfills and reduce waste disposal by 90% by 2030.

Sanitation Commissioner Kathryn Garcia, Environmental Protection Commissioner Emily Lloyd, Director of the Mayor’s Office of Sustainability Nilda Mesa and Director of GreeNYC Roya Kazemi announced the launch of the City’s newest campaign aimed at reducing consumer waste. The campaign, “B.Y.O.,” is part of the GreeNYC initiative to promote living a less disposable life by encouraging the use of reusable mugs, bottles and bags rather than their disposable counterparts.

Croton Water Filtration Plant Activated, Croton which is the largest underground Filtration Plant and has the capacity to filter up to 290 million gallons of drinking water each day; the Plant will protect the City against the possibility of drought and the effects of Climate Change

DEP manages New York City's water supply, providing more than one billion gallons of water each day to more than nine million residents, including eight million in New York City. The water is delivered from a watershed that extends more than 125 miles from the city, comprising 19 reservoirs and three controlled lakes. Approximately 7,000 miles of water mains, tunnels and aqueducts bring water to homes and businesses throughout the five boroughs, and 7,500 miles of sewer lines and 96 pump stations take wastewater to 14 in-city treatment plants. DEP has nearly 6,000 employees, including almost 1,000 in the upstate watershed. In addition, DEP has a robust capital program, with a planned $14 billion in investments over the next 10 years that will create up to 3,000 construction-related jobs per year. This capital program is responsible for critical projects like City Water Tunnel No. 3; the Staten Island Bluebelt program, an ecologically sound and cost-effective stormwater management system; the city's Watershed Protection Program, which protects sensitive lands upstate near the city's reservoirs in order to maintain their high water quality; and the installation of more than 820,000 Automated Meter Reading devices, which allow customers to track their daily water use, more easily manage their accounts and be alerted to potential leaks on their properties. NYC Comptroller Scott Stringer's Office reported –

New York City taxpayers and businesses contribute over $10.1 billion annually in taxes, fares, tolls and direct expenditures toward the operations of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA), a far higher total than generally recognized.

The Comptroller's analysis is a comprehensive examination of the full cost of the MTA to New York City, commuter counties within the MTA region, New York State, Connecticut and New Jersey, including operating expenditures, direct expenditures by the City on behalf of the MTA, and capital expenditures.

The report found that in addition to the $5.3 billion in fares and tolls paid by City residents across all MTA systems in FY 2014, New Yorkers paid an additional "invisible fare" of $4.8 billion dollars. This "fare" included taxes, fees and subsidies levied on City residents and businesses such as the Payroll Mobility Tax, a $0.50 per-ride taxi surcharge and a dedicated portion of the sales tax in New York City and the commuter counties. The "invisible fare" also includes $612.5 million in direct expenditures that pay for policing New York City Transit and debt service payments.
