

HEAR THE BALL

The Mayor's Office for People with Disabilities

In collaboration with the Department of Parks and Recreation,
The Long Island Bombers and the New Jersey Lightning cordially invite you to New York City Hear the Ball.

New York City Hear the Ball will provide components of education and awareness about a sport that benefits those with vision disabilities. At this event the Long Island Bombers will compete against the New Jersey Lightning in an exhibition game of beep baseball.

Beep baseball is a sport that allows individuals with vision disabilities the opportunity to interact socially while providing an excellent opportunity for physical activity. Beep Baseball is an adapted version of our national pastime, and with the beep of a ball and buzz of a Base it enables athletes with vision disabilities to enjoy team competition.

At this event spectators will witness athletic individuals who conquer their challenges and rely on the abilities that lie within. All are welcome and following the game there will be the opportunity to try out the sport of beep baseball.
