

MediaBytes 09.26.2007

By Shelly Palmer

NYC TV has embraced online video, with a stylish new player backed by Brightcove technology. The city's Emmy-winning official station has made much of its content available for free, and more will be added weekly. The shows are well-produced and provide interesting perspectives of our city. Next time you're video-snacking, stop by NYC TV's new player. "Secrets of New York" is especially intriguing.