

GRUB STREET

Kelly Choi, host of Eat Out N.Y.
Photos: Patrick McMullan

What to Watch Instead of a 'Top Chef' Rerun

Seeing as how the powers that be at Bravo have decreed yet another off week on Top Chef, we can only offer our consolations to those of you waiting to see if Howie finally goes postal, or if Padma finally passes out in a cloud of Kush smoke. But, happily, there are a number of food options on NYC TV tonight. At 8 p.m., take a guided tour of Brooklyn with the elegant Kelly Choi on Eat Out N.Y. At 9:30, eerily handsome celebrity chef Todd English discourses on New York pizza. We're not terribly inclined to listen to Todd English instruct us on pizza, but in a world where Franny's can get two stars from the Times, anything is possible. At 10 p.m., right when you're jonesing for some Top Chef action, be sated by an episode of Chef's Story about Cat Cora. The Iron Chef appeared out of nowhere and has origins that remain, at least to us, a total mystery. Maybe we'll learn something.