

NYC-TV Does the Internets with Brightcove

By: Jamison Tilsner

Looking for some fun in the Big Apple? Look no further. NYC TV, the four-year-old shake-up of New York City's municipal television station -- which formerly consisted of only council hearings and press conferences -- produces edgy, informative and Emmy Award-winning programming, and it's now streaming its content online with Brightcove.

The website offers a sleek, intuitive design with all the cool content from the traditional TV channel...but on demand. From Nightlife to Food to Gigs to Green, this guide's as diverse and exciting as the city it serves...well, almost.

Looks like a great resource done well. Nice job Mr. Bloomberg.

