

NYC Citizen Corps Council's Immigrant Task Force Speaker Series

Is your organization ready to help meet your community's needs after a disaster? Experience has shown that immigrants and those with limited English can be at greater risk during emergencies. Social and cultural isolation and reduced access to information on public safety and forms of assistance can lead to unnecessary distress.

The NYC Citizen Corps Council's Immigrant Task Force Speaker Series is a new educational opportunity for organizations who work with immigrants. Come learn valuable lessons from past emergencies and build resiliency for your clients and their communities. The series is especially for nonprofits whose mission is not focused on disasters, but are interested in preparing for the unexpected role they may play in disaster preparedness, response, and recovery.

The NYC Citizen Corps Council's Immigrant Task Force Speaker Series will provide valuable, interesting, and engaging information for organizations that work with immigrants. This forum will enable organizations to stay connected, get involved, and contribute their expertise to expand New York City's immigrant disaster human services network.

March 9, 2011 (3:30 PM) – Working with the Mayor's Office of Immigrant Affairs after a Disaster

The second Speaker Series event, Working with the Mayor's Office of Immigrant Affairs (MOIA) After a Disaster, will feature Matilde Roman, Deputy Commissioner/General Counsel of the New York City Mayor's Office of Immigrant Affairs. Ms. Roman will speak about MOIA's role in supporting community organizations and immigrant groups during disaster response and recovery and how organizations can work with the City to support their clients.

The event will be held on Wednesday, March 9 from 3:30 – 5 PM at the NYC Office of Emergency Management (165 Cadman Plaza East, Brooklyn).

For additional information or to register, contact Kristina Corvin at kcorvin@oem.nyc.gov or (718) 422-8941 or visit the NYC Citizen Corps Council website at www.NYC.gov/citizencorps.

Look forward to upcoming Speaker Series events, including:

- Exploring joint post-disaster outreach strategies
- How to prepare your organization to be able to continue essentials services to your clients if regular operations become disrupted as a result of an emergency
- Working together to advocate for better government policies
- Faith organizations, disasters, and immigrant affairs
- Legal services, immigration, and disaster
- Message from 9/11—what immigrant organizations can tell us to be ready for next time
