Voting 2008

Tuesday, October 7, 6:30 p.m.

This year's Presidential election is likely to be one of the most exciting and critical elections in American history. This special free program will explore close Presidential elections of the past and present, what it means to vote, why voting is so crucial, and becoming a new voter. Audience questions are welcomed. Onida Coward Mayers, the Executive Director of the NYC Voter Assistance Commission, will make opening remarks, and Jeffrey R. Kraus, the Chairman of the New York City Voter Assistance Commission, will close.

LUCY YANG (MODERATOR) is a General Assignment Reporter for WABC-Eyewitness News. LISA EVERS is a reporter and hosts a public affairs show "Good Day Street Talk," for Fox 5 News in New York City. In addition she hosts a public affairs talk show on New York's Hot 97 FM radio. GUILLERMO LINARES is Commissioner of the Mayor's Office of Immigrant Affairs.
