NEW YORK CITY ELECTED OFFICIALS

Mayor: The Mayor is the chief executive officer of the City of New York. The Mayor appoints most heads of City agencies, boards and commissions, at times pursuant to the advice and consent of the City Council. The Mayor is responsible for the effectiveness and integrity of City government operations, proposes the City budget, and has the power to approve or veto all bills proposed by the City Council. The Mayor is elected every four years.

City Council Member: The City Council is the legislative branch of New York City. Generally, the Council has the power to propose and adopt local laws, investigate matters related to the property, affairs, and government of the City, and approve the City budget. There are 51 members of the City Council. City Council members are elected every four years.

Borough President: The Borough Presidents have the power to work with the Mayor and other City officials in the interest of people of the boroughs. Generally, the Borough Presidents appoint member of the community boards and work to promote the long-term welfare of the boroughs. To be eligible to serve as Borough President, an individual must be a resident of the borough for which he or she is elected. The Borough President is elected every four year in the same election as the Mayor.

City Comptroller: The City Comptroller is the chief fiscal officer of the City of New York. The City Comptroller audits City agencies, advises the Mayor and the City Council of the financial condition of the City, and may make recommendations, comments, and criticisms concerning the operations, fiscal policies and financial transactions of the City. The City Comptroller is elected every four years in the same election as the Mayor.

Public Advocate: The Public Advocate monitors the operation of the public information and service complaint programs of City agencies. The Public Advocate receives and responds to complaints of a recurring and multi-borough or City-wide nature. The Public Advocate may also hold public hearings on any of the matters within his or her jurisdiction and duties. The Public Advocate participates in the discussions of the City Council but is not a voting member. The Public Advocate is elected every four years in the same election as the Mayor.

District Attorney: The five District Attorneys in the City of New York protect the public by investigating and prosecuting criminal conduct in the counties in which they hold office.

State Elected Officials:

Governor: The Governor is the chief executive of the State of New York. The Governor may approve or veto laws, convene the legislature on extraordinary occasions, and grant reprieves, commutations and pardons after conviction. The Governor is elected every four years.

Lieutenant Governor: The Lieutenant Governor is elected in the same election as the Governor. The Lieutenant Governor is first in line of succession to the Governor. The Lieutenant Governor is also the President of the Senate, but has a casting vote only.

Attorney General: The Attorney General is the chief legal officer of the State of New York. The Attorney General prosecutes and defends all legal actions and proceedings in which the state is interested. The Attorney General is elected every four years in the same election as the Governor.

State Comptroller: The State Comptroller is the head of the department of audit and control of the State of New York. The State Comptroller is required to audit payments made by the State and all official accounts of the State. The State Comptroller is elected at the same time as the governor and holds office for four years.

State Senate: The State Senate is one-half of the legislative branch of the State of New York. The State Senate creates and passes bills, which, if also passed by the State Assembly, are presented to the Governor for approval. At this time there are 62 State Senators. State Senators must be residents of the senate districts which they are chosen to represent for at least twelve months at the time of election, and are elected every two years.

State Assembly Member: The State Assembly is one-half of the legislative branch of the State of New York. The State Assembly creates and passes bills, which, if also passed by the State Senate, are presented to the Governor for approval. At this time there are 150 Assembly Members. Assembly Members must be residents of the assembly districts which they are chosen to represent for at least twelve months at the time of election, and are elected every two years.

Federal Elected Officials:

President: The President is the chief executive of the United States and the Commander in Chief of the Armed Forces. With the approval of the Senate, the President appoints federal judges, cabinet members, and other public officials, except as otherwise provided by law. The President is elected once every four years, and may serve no more than two terms.

Vice President: The Vice President is elected together with the President. The Vice President is first in line of succession to the President. The Vice President is also the President of the Senate, but may only cast a vote to break a tie.

U.S. Representative: The House of Representatives is one-half of the legislative branch of the federal government, with the power to create laws, impeach officials, and determine budget priorities. The number of representatives for each state is apportioned according to the population of that state. Representatives must be an inhabitant of the state in which they are elected at the time of election, and are elected every two years.

U.S. Senator: The Senate is one-half of the legislative branch of the federal government. The Senate creates laws, approves Presidential appointments, and also has the sole authority to try all impeachments. The Senate is composed of the two Senators from each state, each of whom must be an inhabitant of the state at the time of election. Senators serve for a term of six years. Terms of office for Senators are staggered such that one-third of the Senate seats are up for election every two years.

◆ COMMUNITY BOARDS ◆

New York City Community Boards plays an important advisory role in representing and improving the quality of life for all New Yorkers in land use, zoning, the city budget, municipal delivery, and many other matters relating to their communities welfare.

There are 59 Community Boards in the City of New York. There are 12 Boards in Bronx; 18 in Brooklyn; 12 in Manhattan; 14 in Queens; and 3 in Staten Island. Each Community Board membership consists of up to 50 unsalaried members appointed by the Borough President with half being nominated by the City Council Members who represent that District. Board members serve a term of two years. Each Community Board has a District Manager and staff that play a pivotal role in the day to day activities in the community.

Boards meet once each month and its meeting are open to the public. At these meetings members address issues of concern to the community and regularly conduct public hearings on the City's budget, land use and other major issues. A portion of each meeting is reserved for the Board to hear from members of the public to express their opinion.
