5/26/2018	Manhattan	217	WEST 57 STREET	1	0	A DOB Professional Engineer (PE) reported that at a sixty-seven story new building that was under construction, a security guard was walking from the front to the rear on the first floor of the building when an approximate 16' X 8', 2,300 pound glass curtain wall panel with a supporting steel "A"-Frame toppled and pinned the security guard underneath it. Several workers lifted the "A"-Frame and removed the pinned security guard. The security guard was taken to Mount Sinai Hospital, where he was later pronounced dead. A DOB inspector that was also at the site reported that the glass panel fell because it was accidentally hit by another worker that was trying to lift a piece of HVAC metal duct that was in close proximity. A contributing factor to the glass panel's fall was that the vertical side of the "A"-Frame that was supporting the panel was facing towards the walking area instead of towards the concrete wall. No additional panels or "A"-Frames were found to have been stored in an unsafe position. The on duty Site Safety Manager stated that he performed a daily safety inspection at the site at the start of the work day that morning. However, he did not fill out his safety log.
