

NYC CIVILIAN COMPLAINT REVIEW BOARD

The NYC Civilian Complaint Review Board is the nation's largest independent oversight entity of the largest police force in the country.

The CCRB investigates, mediates, and prosecutes complaints of misconduct against members of the NYPD.

The Agency is governed by a 15-member board with five seats appointed by the Mayor, five appointed by the NYC City Council, three designated by the Police Commissioner, one appointed by the Public Advocate, and the Chair appointed jointly by the Mayor and City Council.

You may always ask an officer for a business card that explains how you can comment or complain about an encounter. Officers should offer a business card:

- During Level 2 and 3 stops
- During frisks
- During searches of your person, property, vehicle, or home
- At sobriety checkpoints

If an officer refuses to provide you with a business card in the situations above, or when you ask, file a complaint with the NYC Civilian Complaint Review Board:

The Right to Know Act is Now LAW

4 Facts About the Right to Know Act

Changes in local law may affect your interactions with New York City Police Department (NYPD) officers. As of October 19, 2018, during certain frisks, searches, at sobriety checkpoints, and other encounters, officers should:

- ✓ Identify themselves by providing their name and other information such as their rank, command, and shield number.
- ✓ With some exceptions, explain the purpose of the interaction.
- ✓ Inform you of your right to say "no" when asking for your consent to search your person, property, vehicle, or home.
- ✓ Offer a business card with the officer's information that explains how to comment or complain about an interaction with the NYPD. Civilians may request this business card in all interactions.

If you feel your encounter with an NYPD officer did not follow these guidelines, file a complaint with the NYC Civilian Complaint Review Board:
