

Written Testimony Submitted to the Charter Revision Commission

July 18, 2025

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3781157 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 30 Jun 2025 19:08:59 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Monday, June 30, 2025, at 03:03:31 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Viren Brahmbhatt

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Public Comment to NYC Charter Revision Commission - CRC Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the Preliminary Report and upcoming public input session on July 7. I appreciate the work of the Commission and commend the clarity of the preliminary materials. Below are key reflections and recommendations on several reform areas under review, particularly those impacting housing, land use, elections, nonprofits, and climate resilience. Housing & Land Use Reform (Prelim Report p. 39) Streamlining ULURP for small-scale and 100% affordable housing * Consolidating community board and borough president reviews may improve efficiency, but safeguards are essential to ensure both entities retain meaningful roles. Time savings should not come at the cost of thoughtful, local input—especially when community oversight is a check on politically driven proposals. Appointing a zoning administrator for certain approvals * A zoning administrator could help accelerate small and affordable housing projects. However, transparency and accountability mechanisms must be in place to avoid undermining public trust or diminishing community voice. Elevating Citywide Needs in Land Use * Limiting the ability to block projects that meet citywide housing goals is a vital and overdue reform. It's necessary to reduce the impact of local veto power on equitable housing development. To succeed, this approach must be grounded in clearly defined criteria, with robust public engagement and transparency throughout. **Tying Infrastructure to Housing** * A logical and strategic move that aligns investment with growth. Coordinated planning can reinforce equity and prevent infrastructure gaps in rapidly growing areas. **Leveraging Public Land for Housing** * Expediting the disposition of city-owned land—particularly for **affordable housing, HDFCs, and irregular lots**—is a smart and necessary step. The current ULURP process often delays much-needed development. Speeding this up must come with clear affordability thresholds and community benefit requirements to ensure responsible use. * Enabling small-scale land acquisitions for **housing, schools, and parks** is also worth pursuing with equitable planning in mind. --- **Elections Reform (p. 57)** * **Moving municipal elections to even-numbered years** could increase turnout and voter engagement. * **Opening party primaries to unaffiliated voters** would enfranchise more New Yorkers and better reflect the city's diverse electorate. --- **Nonprofit Contracting (p. 74)** * Chartering MOCS and enforcing **timely payments**, **partial advances**, and **interest on late payments** are essential for stability in the nonprofit sector. These reforms would bring fairness and predictability to organizations delivering critical services. --- **Climate & Resilience (p. 80)** * Removing outdated ULURP hurdles for climate and resiliency projects is a prudent reform. We must not let procedural delays obstruct efforts to protect New Yorkers from the climate crisis. * Streamlining land acquisition for **coastal protection, EV infrastructure, and floodplain buyouts** is timely and aligns with resilience goals. --- **City Map Administration (p. 87)** * Transferring responsibility from borough presidents to City Planning could improve consistency and coordination in citywide planning. --- In closing, many of these proposals show real promise in addressing systemic inefficiencies while advancing equity. However, implementation must be rooted in **clear criteria, community trust, and transparent processes** to ensure reforms do not unintentionally diminish public participation or accountability. Thank you for your work and for considering these comments.

---

Subject:

Re: Perris Straughter testimony submission

From: McCaughey, Anne [REDACTED]

To: "Greer, Kaitlin" [REDACTED]

Date: Mon, 30 Jun 2025 22:08:28 +0000

---

Back on 10 mins. He's signing now. Can you wait ?

Hello:

Please find attached written testimony from Perris Straughter, the City Council's Planning and Land Use Director.

Thank you,

Kaitlin

Kaitlin Greer

She/sie/она

Policy and Legislative Analyst

[REDACTED] | office
[REDACTED]

<Perris Straughter Mayor's Charter Revision Commission testimony signed.pdf>

---

CONFIDENTIALITY NOTICE: This e-mail message is intended only for the person or entity to which it is addressed and may contain CONFIDENTIAL or PRIVILEGED material. Any unauthorized review, use, disclosure or distribution is prohibited. If you are not the intended recipient, please contact the sender by reply e-mail and destroy all copies of the original message. If you are the intended recipient but do not wish to receive communications through this medium, please so advise the sender immediately.

THE COUNCIL
THE CITY OF NEW YORK
PLANNING AND LAND USE DIVISION
250 BROADWAY - ROOM 1602
NEW YORK NEW YORK 10007

PERRIS STRAUGHTER
DIRECTOR

June 30, 2025

Dear Chair Buery and Charter Revision Commission Members:

My name is Perris Straughter and I am the Director of Planning and Land Use for the New York City Council.

This Commission has rightly focused on New York's housing affordability crisis and potential solutions to help deliver more homes for New Yorkers.

Speaker Adrienne Adams and the City Council share this priority and have led on housing throughout this term since 2022.

- We are on track to complete 5 neighborhood rezonings, totaling nearly 50,000 units of projected new housing, more than 25% of which will be affordable from MIH and coordinated HPD investments.
- During this term, the Council has also approved nearly 120 private site applications totaling over 27,500 units of projected new housing, the majority of which (over 16,000) are affordable.
- The City Council worked tirelessly to successfully advance and improve the administration's City of Yes for Housing Opportunity citywide zoning text amendment, which will bring over 80,000 new homes.
  - That's nearly 160,000 homes over 4 years
- Council Speaker Adams proposed, and the City Council unanimously passed, the Fair Housing Framework legislation that will, for the first time, require the administration to produce a comprehensive plan for meeting our housing needs by establishing transparent housing targets to hold every neighborhood accountable for contributing its fair share.

Despite this clear record of proactive leadership, much of this Commission's discussion of the housing crisis has centered on the alleged role of the City Council as an obstacle that must somehow be overcome or sidelined. This overlooks the biggest challenges to the City's ability to produce housing, while selectively acknowledging how only one part of government can be politically influenced to oppose housing and ignoring the executive branch's vulnerability to political and special interest influence that blocks housing solutions.

The Commission overlooks the Council's leadership in addressing the housing crisis and ignores the very real reasons for democratic checks and balances in land use decisions.

We must not forget that ULURP was created to empower local democracy and the voices of people living in neighborhoods affected by change and development. The 1989 Charter revisions replaced the undemocratic Board of Estimate with a representative City Council that provided every New Yorker with an equal vote on land use matters. This change came after major outcry on land use decisions that were outright racist and leveled Black and Brown neighborhoods, concentrated poverty, and segregated the city by race and class. We know that without a check on executive control, appointed power brokers can destroy and remake entire neighborhoods based on the priorities of elite interests and the powerful.

Now as we face a crippling housing crisis, where land use interventions are indeed needed to unlock housing, it seems that this Commission has forgotten this history. Many advocates of housing production are saying that we should dilute processes and remove checks and balances on the Mayor to build more housing and build it faster.

While thoughtful improvements can be made to solve challenges, it is short-sighted to ignore the facts of our recent history. Recent events experienced in our city have left many New Yorkers questioning whether the Mayor has our best interests at heart, and there is a growing trend of executive overreach being normalized. The President of our nation has led such efforts, creating constitutional crises that undermine democracy and the separation of powers. Yet, this attempted expansion of executive power has also occurred locally, with the mayor ignoring local laws and unilaterally seeking to reduce accountability and transparency required of his office. Black, Latino, and immigrant communities are under attack, after gentrification has contributed to their increasingly being displaced from their homes and neighborhoods.

Despite these realities, there seems to be an effort to shift power to the executive branch that leaves far less accountability in place to protect against a mayor who does not support housing or the needs of New Yorkers. I ask this Commission in the face of what is happening in our city and our nation, do we really want to go back to a time when communities had less representation in the land use process to ensure it is accountable to the public interest? What guarantees do we have that the mistakes of the past will not be replicated?

No, we should make reforms that make sense in promoting housing production and ensuring accountability for it, preserving the power of local communities to have input in projects and policies that affect their neighborhoods. The City Council is the most representative part of city government, making it most connected to the residents of our city. Its members understand New York's communities, neighborhoods, businesses, streets, parks and public facilities at the most granular level and are most directly accountable to the people. The Council, as a body, also has the ability to maintain accountability in the public interest over any single member.

The Mayor's Charter Revision Commission's preliminary report assumes that Mayors and Borough Presidents would always pursue goals of increased housing, enlightened public interest and citywide needs. That is not a rational or safe assumption, as these officials are no less affected by political interests—NIMBY interests, real estate developers, and lobbyists, to name a few. Further empowering these government offices that lack the accountability of a Speaker or 50 other Council Members would leave housing production vulnerable to obstruction by officeholders who do not support housing production. The current mayoral administration's delay and potential overturning of the years-ago approved ULURP application to develop affordable senior housing at the Elizabeth Street Garden site is a prime example. The mayor's office is unilaterally pursuing a reversal of this housing development, despite its long-ago Council approval in the land use process. Furthermore, Mayor Adams has repeatedly conveyed a desire to reverse the intended land use projects approved by the Council to establish borough-based jails in order to close Rikers. The checks and balances in ULURP exist to prevent one branch of government from becoming too powerful and from a return to the disenfranchisement of the 20th Century.

The Council is therefore opposed to any Charter revisions that would reduce its role and responsibilities in land use decisions. However, that does not mean we are opposed to all changes.

Potential reforms Council believes are worth consideration

Some areas where the Council agrees with the Commission's draft report include that there are certain types of minor or clearly beneficial applications where the ULURP process is an obstacle.

- Resiliency-related actions by the City or private developers that are needed to protect against the effects of climate change, including raising street grades or elevations, are not being done because of the challenge and expense of getting through the ULURP process. Reforms to the process for these applications would help advance projects that have been delayed or shelved, but would protect areas of the city that are prone to flooding.
- Improvements can be made to the revocable consents and franchising processes so that installation of electric vehicle charging stations is easier and quicker.
- The Council also supports reforms that would build on the Fair Housing Framework law, including:
  - Prioritizing neighborhood planning efforts in community districts that are failing to meet housing targets. Such ideas might include requiring DCP to propose land use actions in response to the Framework.
  - Increasing the power of the law by increasing accountability measures for community districts failing to meet fair housing targets. One idea is requiring community boards to approve land use changes that would achieve the law's housing targets and provide options and resources for them to initiate plans as opposed to a plan initially proposed by DCP.
  - Increasing the Speaker of the City Council's authority to hold Council Members accountable for advancing land use changes in community boards that are not meeting fair housing targets. This could be a "Speaker Callup" requirement that maintains the Council's power to engage and problem-solve on applications while giving the Speaker, rather than the Council as a whole, power to decide which land use applications come to the Council for a vote.
- The Council wants to increase the capacity of DCP and city agencies to support communities willing to proactively plan to help address the housing crisis. DCP often says no to communities that want to plan and want to rezone due to a lack of capacity, but the most effective way to sustainably build housing, especially affordable housing, is to advance neighborhood plans and rezone neighborhoods.
  - Neighborhood rezonings begun in 2022 and set to be finalized by the end of this year will bring over 50,000 units to our City, more than half of what City of Yes produced, while including more affordable housing than typically produced by private land use applications. Furthermore, these neighborhood planning processes are comprehensive in nature and address infrastructure and quality of life issues at the neighborhood level.

- We broadly believe that DCP and city agencies should be provided with increased capacity for engaging in proactive planning at the neighborhood level. DCP should have a responsibility to engage with the public around planning issues beyond neighborhood rezonings, laying the foundation for rezoning conversations in communities long before they are proposed by studying and educating the public about neighborhood-specific needs for infrastructure and new housing.

Thank you for your attention,

Perris Straughter
Director
City Council Planning and Land Use Division

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1959249 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Tue, 01 Jul 2025 15:12:36 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 1, 2025, at 11:12:13 AM

-----
This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Daisy Gonzalez

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear City Charter Commissioners, My name is Daisy Gonzalez. I serve on Bronx Community Board 10 and have been doing so for four years. I have come before this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Boards' role in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP). As you know, we are volunteers. We are residents of our community. We join our Community Board to learn how to help improve our neighborhoods, protect it and ensure we are receiving our fair share of city services. This Commission is reviewing changes such as reducing the ULURP's Community Board review period of 60 to 30 days. In 2019, a then Charter Revision Commission gave Community Boards an additional 30 days to review ULURP applications. This was a positive change for our process. It gave our volunteer membership additional time for presentations, to read difficult texts such as the City Environmental Quality Review (CEQR) and the ULURP application itself, have time for more public meetings, properly conduct public outreach and, most importantly, make better, educated decisions. Your report mentions attempts to "fast track" specific zoning district applications, implement "absolute" thresholds that calculate change in residential density and using affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information about occurrences in their communities. Community Boards are trusted, non-partisan institutions where constituents join to learn and understand the changes affecting their community. It is not just because of Community Boards that housing production lessened. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. Lastly, it ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our City is better served if Community Boards have its current allotment of 60 days. Lastly, your report mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of "member deference." While we leave the politics to our City Council Member, the Commission should know that the independence of our legislative body is something we value because Community Boards, too, are independent municipal agencies. The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community's concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. We would not want to see our legislative branch not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues in hopes of defending their community's best interests and while holding developers accountable. Thank you for your attention to this matter. Sincerely, Daisy Gonzalez

-----

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1232762 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Tue, 01 Jul 2025 16:29:22 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 1, 2025, at 12:29:09 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Council Member Julie Menin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I am submitting comments intended for the July 7th Manhattan Public Input Session.

-----

DISTRICT OFFICE
444 EAST 75TH STREET, UNIT 1B
NEW YORK, NY 10021
TEL: 212-860-1950

LEGISLATIVE OFFICE
250 BROADWAY, SUITE 1821
NEW YORK, NY 10007
TEL: 212-860-1950

E-MAIL: [REDACTED]

THE COUNCIL
OF
THE CITY OF NEW YORK
JULIE MENIN

COUNCIL MEMBER, 5TH DISTRICT, MANHATTAN

CHAIR
CONSUMER AND WORKER PROTECTION

COMMITTEES
CIVIL SERVICE AND LABOR
CHILDREN AND YOUTH SERVICES
HEALTH
PARKS AND RECREATION
SANITATION AND SOLID WASTE MANAGEMENT

COUNCIL MEMBER JULIE MENIN STATEMENT FOR THE CHARTER REVISION COMMISSION- HEARING - JULY 7TH, 2025

I am Council Member Julie Menin, representing New York City Council District 5 which encompasses the East Side of Manhattan and Roosevelt Island. I am here to express my concerns around the preliminary land use proposals of this Charter Revision Commission that could decrease community input and curtail the City Council's oversight of land use applications.

As both a private citizen and as a Council Member who has engaged in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure - or ULURP process, I can attest that it is possible during ULURP to secure additional infrastructure investments to strengthen and improve communities. This can include additional community benefits such as open space, renovations of adjacent City owned facilities or negotiating to increase or deepen the area media income requirements for affordable units.

Land use applications approvals work toward the overarching goal of combatting the affordability crisis across the City. However, they also impact local communities that historically engage with their local Council Member, Borough President and Community Board to make their concerns clear. I understand that the current City Planning Commission (CPC) believes it is beyond their scope to review applications beyond the technical aspects, which is incredibly frustrating to communities across the city which have become reliant on the City Council to further review and negotiate proposed rezonings. Due to CPC protocols, any attempt to remove the Council's role in the ULURP process would greatly diminish valuable community input on land use projects.

In my district, I was able to champion a critical deal for the East 94th Street rezoning. After months of negotiations, I achieved a reduction of height, additional affordable housing units, beautification enhancements for a nearby plaza, a task force to mitigate noise from construction and a commitment for certain jobs to be from a unionized workforce. If we operated under a city-wide framework for ULURP, I cannot imagine obtaining as many benefits for the first Mandatory Inclusionary Housing project within my district. The agreement on the East 94th Street rezoning shows that lowering the height and increasing the number of affordable units are not mutually exclusive and it was the City Council that was able to achieve that result. I am concerned that any revisions to the City Charter based on a vocal minority will dramatically impact the successes achieved through Council-led ULURP projects that have followed member deference procedures.

Instead of attacking member deference and removing the voice of communities in the land use process, there are alternatives the commission should explore to improve the pre-certification process. The current administration released a report in December 2022 from the Building and Land Use Approval Streamlining Task Force or BLAST which included several land use reform recommendations, including improving the City Environmental Quality Review manual. This manual factors in the pre-certification process, but the last time it was updated was in 2021. This needs to be updated so that the Administration expedites the per-certification process.

Our City Council is tackling the housing crisis and we need to be mindful of what is sensible reform to ensure neighborhoods have a stake in the process. We should encourage general planning efforts that involve either the Department of City Planning or Community Boards to create proposals on the neighborhood level. We cannot make the conversation on housing only on the City level. We need to include local stakeholders through the institutions that exist, such as Community Boards or the City Council, to make sure we properly review land use applications. At a time when people feel distant from government in general, the ULURP process reminds the public that there are still moments where people feel empowered to speak up and act on their valid concerns. Thank you.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7769313 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Tue, 01 Jul 2025 19:20:46 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 1, 2025, at 03:20:21 PM

-----
This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Henry Rodgers

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I'm writing to urge you to include open primary reform in the ballot initiatives submitted to voters this fall. This election has demonstrated, more than ever, that a single ranked-choice jungle primary (or FPTP top-four primary to ranked choice general election) is vital to ensure New York City's elections are representative of the will of the people. This fall, the race for Mayor may see a total of 5 serious candidates, one Democrat, one Republican, and three Independents (two of which were once running in the Democratic primary). This many candidates in our current First Past the Post (FPTP) general election will almost guarantee that the winner of the mayoral election will not secure a majority of votes this fall. A top-two ranked choice primary, as proposed in the Commission's Interim Report, would solve this problem by ensuring only two candidates would appear on the general election ballot. These two candidates would also be guaranteed to be those with the most voter support, something that is rarely the case in our current arbitrary political primary system. In addition, if the Commission does choose to implement primary reforms, I urge the Commission to select the Single Transferrable Vote (STV) ranked-choice method. With this method, excess votes for the leading candidate (all votes above 33%+1) will be proportionally distributed to the remaining candidates. This method strikes a crucial balance, ensuring that diverse coalitions are represented in general elections while also making "strategic voting" (voting against your top preference to use your vote more efficiently, as many voters are forced to do today) a thing of the past. Thank you for the work you're doing, the reports you've put out so far have been excellent and have a real shot of significantly improving governance in New York City.

-----

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3809410 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Tue, 01 Jul 2025 23:19:18 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 1, 2025, at 07:19:05 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Ethan Rosenbaum

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I'm writing to strongly support the Charter revision's first five questions (the four on housing and zoning reforms, and the fifth on moving city elections to even years), but to strongly oppose the modifications to the current electoral system. A jungle primary is much worse than the current system, even with the inclusion of ranked choice voting. It is easy, free, and fast for unaffiliated to join a political party using the BOE's online web form, and if they want to have a say in who a party's nominee is, they can join the party quickly and for free for a short while and then go back to being unaffiliated. It's also a worse alternative to the current system, since it severely undermines the minor parties by effectively eliminating fusion voting. Right now you can empower the minor parties without spoiling your vote through fusion voting, but a top two system would more or less turn most general elections into one-party systems by catering only to Democrats (and I say that as a Democrat). Furthermore, it's holding an election that's ostensibly universal and nonpartisan (and therefore targeted at the entire electorate) during a primary, where the vast majority of races will be open only to members of that registered party, so many unaffiliated voters won't participate anyway. This means that the electorates in June and November will be fundamentally different, which makes the split between the full field in June and the top two in November feel arbitrary, rather than members of various parties selecting their nominees and then giving everyone a chance to choose between them, along with independents.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Christina Zhang [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 01:56:27 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Christina Zhang

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Ronen Tarnow-Fine [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 01:56:07 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Ronen Tarnow-Fine

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Ben Harvill [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 01:56:42 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Ben Harvill
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Deborah Edell [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 01:57:02 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Deborah Edell

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: John Lubinski [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 01:57:33 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

John Lubinski
[REDACTED]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3887152 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 14:08:54 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 2, 2025, at 10:08:06 AM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Dorothy A. Krynicki

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am submitting my Testimony opposing the NYC Charter Review proposals. The file with my testimony is included in the attachment below. Dorothy A. Krynicki

-----

July 2, 2025

Contact: [REDACTED]

Dear City Charter Commissioners,

My name is Dorothy A. Krynicki. I serve on Bronx Community Board 10 and have been doing so for six years. I have come before this Commission to OPPOSE changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Boards' role in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP).

As you know, we are volunteers. We are residents of our community. We join our Community Board to learn how to help improve our neighborhoods, protect it, and ensure we are receiving our fair share of city services.

This Commission is reviewing changes such as reducing the ULURP's Community Board review period of 60 to 30 days. In 2019, a then Charter Revision Commission gave Community Boards an additional 30 days to review ULURP applications. This was a positive change for our process. It gave our volunteer membership additional time for presentations, to read difficult texts such as the City Environmental Quality Review (CEQR) and the ULURP application itself, have time for more public meetings, properly conduct public outreach and, most importantly, make better, educated decisions.

Your report mentions attempts to "fast track" specific zoning district applications, implement "absolute" thresholds that calculate change in residential density and using affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information about occurrences in their communities. Community Boards are trusted, non-partisan institutions where constituents join to learn and understand the changes affecting their community. It is not just because of Community Boards that housing production lessened. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. Lastly, it ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our City is better served if Community Boards have its current allotment of 60 days.

Lastly, your report mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of “member deference.” While we leave the politics to our City Council Member, the Commission should know that the independence of our legislative body is something we value because Community Boards, too, are independent municipal agencies. The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community’s concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. We would not want to see our legislative branch not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues in hopes of defending their community’s best interests and while holding developers accountable.

From reading sections of the Charter Revision Commission IT diminishes the the role of community boards, eliminates deference to local council members, diminishes the vote of City Councilmembers. It consolidates power in the Mayor and an unelected bureaucracy.

No to: “In the first ballot question, the Commission proposes an amendment that would create new fast track public processes for affordable housing. First, the amendment would create a new zoning action for publicly financed affordable-housing projects administered by the Board of Standards and Appeals. Second, the amendment would establish an expedited public review procedure for applications that deliver affordable housing in the community districts that produce the least affordable housing.

....” Commission has opted for a simple, direct, and objective measure to determine which Community Districts are subject to the Fast Track.

In addition, I am concerned that there is a consolidation of power in the mayor’s office and an unelected bureaucracy, the BSA

Respectfully,

Dorothy A. Krynicki

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2980181 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 16:59:40 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 2, 2025, at 12:59:18 PM

-----

This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Melanie T. Wesslock

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: My name is Melanie Wesslock. I'm a lifelong New Yorker, a parent and small business owner. I'm also a proud member of One City Rising, a grassroots organization of bi-partisan NYers throughout NYC, working to support common sense policies I'm here to speak about my support of getting open primaries on the ballot. Open primaries is a system where voters are not required to be affiliated with a political party to participate in primary elections. Open primaries—especially in a diverse and politically dynamic city like New York City would create a more inclusive and democratic electoral process. Open primaries encourage voter participation as opposed to disenfranchising voters who do not identify as Republican or Democrat. There are currently 1.1 million voters without a primary voice due to being independents. In New York City, many registered voters identify as independents, under the current closed primary system, these voters are excluded from helping to choose candidates in major party primaries, the primaries which often determine the eventual winner in heavily one-party districts. Currently, voter turnout in NYC is a shameful 10%. Allowing all voters to participate in primaries can lead to higher turnout and greater civic engagement. Open primaries also encourage candidates to appeal to a broader range of constituents. Rather than catering only to their party's base, candidates must consider the perspectives and priorities of all voters. This can result in more moderate, consensus-driven leaders who are better equipped to govern a diverse and complex city like New York. As a business owner, I have a personal stake in the success of our city, which depends on proper representation. Open primaries would foster an environment where Independent voters would finally have a voice. Open primaries promote fairness and transparency. They empower voters rather than parties. In a city like NY, embracing open primaries would be a step toward a more equitable democracy instead of one party rule. In conclusion, open primaries would lead to greater voter participation, more balanced representation, and a more robust democratic process. New York City is one of the few major cities not to have Open Primaries. We pride ourselves in being a leader and example of a great city, it's time our primaries live up to this expectation

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5668381 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 17:00:06 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 2, 2025, at 12:59:12 PM

-----

This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Melanie T. Wesslock

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: My name is Melanie Wesslock. I'm a lifelong New Yorker, a parent and small business owner. I'm also a proud member of One City Rising, a grassroots organization of bi-partisan NYers throughout NYC, working to support common sense policies I'm here to speak about my support of getting open primaries on the ballot. Open primaries is a system where voters are not required to be affiliated with a political party to participate in primary elections. Open primaries—especially in a diverse and politically dynamic city like New York City would create a more inclusive and democratic electoral process. Open primaries encourage voter participation as opposed to disenfranchising voters who do not identify as Republican or Democrat. There are currently 1.1 million voters without a primary voice due to being independents. In New York City, many registered voters identify as independents, under the current closed primary system, these voters are excluded from helping to choose candidates in major party primaries, the primaries which often determine the eventual winner in heavily one-party districts. Currently, voter turnout in NYC is a shameful 10%. Allowing all voters to participate in primaries can lead to higher turnout and greater civic engagement. Open primaries also encourage candidates to appeal to a broader range of constituents. Rather than catering only to their party's base, candidates must consider the perspectives and priorities of all voters. This can result in more moderate, consensus-driven leaders who are better equipped to govern a diverse and complex city like New York. As a business owner, I have a personal stake in the success of our city, which depends on proper representation. Open primaries would foster an environment where Independent voters would finally have a voice. Open primaries promote fairness and transparency. They empower voters rather than parties. In a city like NY, embracing open primaries would be a step toward a more equitable democracy instead of one party rule. In conclusion, open primaries would lead to greater voter participation, more balanced representation, and a more robust democratic process. New York City is one of the few major cities not to have Open Primaries. We pride ourselves in being a leader and example of a great city, it's time our primaries live up to this expectation

-----

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3049766 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 17:17:38 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 2, 2025, at 01:17:19 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Raquel Baez

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Attached is my testimony.

-----

Dear City Charter Commissioners,

My name is Raquel Baez. I serve on Bronx Community Board 10 and have been doing so for 17 years. I have come before this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Boards' role in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP).

As you know, we are volunteers. We are residents of our community. We join our Community Board to learn how to help improve our neighborhoods, protect it and ensure we are receiving our fair share of city services.

This Commission is reviewing changes such as reducing the ULURP's Community Board review period of 60 to 30 days. In 2019, a then Charter Revision Commission gave Community Boards an additional 30 days to review ULURP applications. This was a positive change for our process. It gave our volunteer membership additional time for presentations, to read difficult texts such as the City Environmental Quality Review (CEQR) and the ULURP application itself, have time for more public meetings, properly conduct public outreach and, most importantly, make better, educated decisions.

Your report mentions attempts to "fast track" specific zoning district applications, implement "absolute" thresholds that calculate change in residential density and using affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information about occurrences in their communities. Community Boards are trusted, non-partisan institutions where constituents join to learn and understand the changes affecting their community. It is not just because of Community Boards that housing production lessened. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. Lastly, it ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our City is better served if Community Boards have its current allotment of 60 days.

Lastly, your report mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of "member deference." While we leave the politics to our City Council Member, the Commission should know that the independence of our legislative body is something we value because Community Boards, too, are independent municipal agencies. The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community's concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. We would not want to see our legislative branch not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues in hopes of defending their community's best interests and while holding developers accountable.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Raquel Baez". The signature is written in black ink and is positioned to the right of the word "Sincerely,".

Board Member

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7998332 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 18:16:09 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (sloopiel@aol.com) on Wednesday, July 2, 2025, at 02:15:36 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sandi Lusk

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please see my testimony attached opposing the charter revision regarding the ULURP process change.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 141[.]157[.]228[.]177, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 141[.]157[.]228[.]177
-----

Dear City Charter Commissioners,

My name is Sandi Lusk. I am a resident of Bronx Community Board 10 and have been for 48 years. I am submitting testimony to this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Board and City Council review roles in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) for proposed building projects.

Your report mentions attempts to “fast track” specific zoning district applications, implementing “absolute” thresholds that calculate changes in residential density and use of affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information and control about building projects in their communities. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. It ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our City is better served if Community Board and the City Council is involved in a timely manner.

Your report also mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of “member deference.” The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community’s concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board’s role in the process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. I would not want to see our City Council member not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues to defend their community’s best interests and hold developers accountable.

In closing, the Community Board and City Council are the voices of the people, who live in the communities. They should not be excluded from the process because that would silence the voices of our communities. Development should be a transparent process, and not limited to the Mayor and the developer.

Sincerely,

Sandi Lusk, Director, Westchester Square Zerega Improvement, Inc.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9995454 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 18:25:17 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 2, 2025, at 02:24:43 PM

-----

This form resides at
https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Howard Brundage

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: 718-409-0130

Comments: Please see attached testimony on the charter revision

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 141[.]157[.]228[.]177, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 141[.]157[.]228[.]177

---

Dear City Charter Commissioners,

I am a resident of Bronx Community Board 10 and have been all my life. I am submitting testimony to this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Board and City Council review roles in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) for proposed building projects.

Your report mentions attempts to “fast track” specific zoning district applications, implementing “absolute” thresholds that calculate changes in residential density and use of affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information and control about building projects in their communities.

Also, as to deference, the City Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community’s concerns and requests. At the conclusion of the Community Board’s role in the process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can apprise their colleagues of the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. Our City Council member must have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues to defend their community’s best interests and hold developers accountable. The Community Board and City Council are the voices of the people who live in the communities. Development should be a transparent process, and not limited to the Mayor and the developer.

Sincerely,

Howard Brundage, Jr.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-429815 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 18:31:26 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 2, 2025, at 02:31:16 PM

-----

This form resides at
https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Robert Lusk

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please see attached testimony, thank you.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 141[.]157[.]228[.]177, 23[.]198[.]215[.]153, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 141[.]157[.]228[.]177

---

Dear City Charter Commissioners,

Hello, I am a resident of Bronx Community Board 10. I am submitting testimony to this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Board and City Council review roles in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) for proposed building projects.

Your report mentions attempts to “fast track” specific zoning district applications, implementing “absolute” thresholds that calculate changes in residential density and use of affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information and control about building projects in their communities.

Also, as to deference, the City Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community’s concerns and requests. At the conclusion of the Community Board’s role in the process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can apprise their colleagues of the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. Our City Council member must have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues to defend their community’s best interests and hold developers accountable. The Community Board and City Council are the voices of the people who live in the communities. Development should be a transparent process, and not limited to the Mayor and the developer.

While I understand the need for additional housing, any new development in any part of our city must be considered carefully and thoughtfully to ensure no detrimental impact on the surrounding communities and the people that live there.

Sincerely,

Robert Lusk

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3240726 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 18:46:27 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (douglusk54@gmail.com) on Wednesday, July 2, 2025, at 02:46:00 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Douglas Lusk

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please see attachment

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 141[.]157[.]228[.]177, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 141[.]157[.]228[.]177

---

Dear City Charter Commissioners,

My name is Douglas Lusk. I am a resident of Bronx Community Board. I am submitting testimony to this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Board and City Council review roles in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) for proposed building projects.

Your report mentions attempts to “fast track” specific zoning district applications, implementing “absolute” thresholds that calculate changes in residential density and use of affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information and control about building projects in their communities. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. It ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our City is better served if Community Board and the City Council is involved in a timely manner.

Your report also mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of “member deference.” The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community’s concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board’s role in the process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. I would not want to see our City Council member not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues to defend their community’s best interests and hold developers accountable.

In closing, the Community Board and City Council are the voices of the people, who live in the communities. They should not be excluded from the process because that would silence the voices of our communities. Development should be a transparent process, and not limited to the Mayor and the developer.

Sincerely,

Douglas Lusk

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1412933 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 21:24:10 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 2, 2025, at 05:21:57 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Carter Strickland

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: 1. As part of housing reform the charter commissioner should consider removing windows and other energy efficiency items from PDC or Landmarks review. I want to replace 1990s vintage, cheap, leaky windows with energy efficient windows and Landmarks is putting me through a lot of hoops and making it so difficult I may give up. This is inconsistent with Local Law 97 and the City's entire sustainability program and also is an example of how city resources are being squandered on minute issues rather than strategic, meaningful initiatives, and in the process suppressing voluntary actions that will lead to economic activities. Let's bring common sense back to government and investments in our existing building stock. 2. Open primaries. I'm in favor. The current process means that a minority of overall voters -- i.e., the majority of the 2/3 who register as Democrats -- will control the major. This concern is exacerbated by the off-year election cycle for Mayor and ranked choice voting, where candidates split the vote so much that no one gets over 50% in the first round.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9339514 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Wed, 02 Jul 2025 23:53:18 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 2, 2025, at 07:52:43 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Ida Longarino

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Dear City Charter Commissioners, My name is Ida Longarino. I am a life-long resident of the Bronx and a resident of Bronx Community Board 10 for 33 years. I am submitting testimony to this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Board and City Council review roles in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) for proposed building projects. Your report mentions attempts to "fast track" specific zoning district applications, implementing "absolute" thresholds that calculate changes in residential density and use of affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information and control about building projects in their communities. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. It ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our City is better served if our Community Board and the City Council is involved in a timely manner. Your report also mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of "member deference." The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community's concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board's role in the process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. I would not want to see our City Council member not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues to defend their community's best interests and hold developers accountable. In closing, the Community Board and City Council are the voices of the people, who live in the communities. They should not be excluded from the process because that would silence the voices of our communities. Development should be a transparent process, and not limited to the Mayor and the developer. Sincerely, Ida Longarino

---

HTTP_ADDR: 69[.]115[.]28[.]101, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.0.1 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 69[.]115[.]28[.]101

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-859433 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 03:15:49 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 2, 2025, at 11:15:37 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sachi Takahashi-Rial

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Brooklyn resident and a former Manhattan Community Board Member, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-3 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, and strike a better balance in the land use process. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations (https://opennewyork.org/wp-content/uploads/2025/02/ONY-Charter-For-Housing-Equity.pdf) for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Sachi Takahashi-Rial [REDACTED]

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:9122:b700:54f0:456a:4974:1f42, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:9122:b700:54f0:456a:4974:1f42

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-212888 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 10:03:43 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 06:03:20 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Andrew Gothelf

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Brooklyn resident and a former Manhattan Community Board Member, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-3 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, and strike a better balance in the land use process. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new

Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Andrew Gothelf Upper East Side 10128

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b82b:ffcc:b486:1888:dad5:821, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) CriOS/138.0.7204.119 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b82b:ffcc:b486:1888:dad5:821

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9254049 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 11:07:52 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 07:07:35 AM

-----

This form resides at
https://www.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page?utm\_source=substack&utm\_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Dan Miller

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Committee Members, I'm writing to urge you to support and even strengthen the proposed Propositions 1-5. The city is in a severe housing shortage, one that's been brought on by decades of a dysfunctional process for approving housing construction. These propositions would make it easier and faster to approve all types of housing, which is exactly what we need to make it easier for middle-class market-rate renters like me. I often worry about my ability to stay in the city long-term, and more housing getting built means that my landlord will face more competition--making them less likely to raise the rent intolerably, and giving them more incentives to keep my apartment in good repair. As a set of general principles, I'd urge you to read the recommendations put together by Open New York, the city's premier pro-housing nonprofit group (I'm a volunteer leader and longstanding member). They can be found here:

<https://opennewyork.org/wp-content/uploads/2025/02/ONY-Charter-For-Housing-Equity.pdf> In particular, Proposition 2 is urgently needed. The city needs to dramatically increase housing production, and that means that we can't do it all in large rezonings; we also need smaller developers to build on smaller parcels. Making these kind of low-impact rezonings easier and faster will unlock a lot of development that's currently unworkable, reducing the pressure on renters and helping keep prices down. Separately from the housing questions, I'd like to urge you to support Proposition 5. My career for a long time was in political data and analysis, and even-year elections have substantially higher turnout than our current elections ever will. Moving to even years is the single biggest and best thing we can do to increase civic participation in the city, ensuring that the electorate is more representative and elected officials are more responsive to all their constituents. It's long overdue and I applaud you for pushing it forward. Thanks for your time and attention, and I look forward to voting for these in November! Sincerely, Dan Miller

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 71[.]167[.]83[.]75, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 Edg/138[.]0[.]0[.]0
True-Client-IP: 71[.]167[.]83[.]75

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7829860 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 13:33:43 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 09:33:21 AM

-----

This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Rachel Fiegler

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I have been a registered independent since I was first eligible to vote. I made that choice because no single political party has ever fully represented my ideals or beliefs. I believe many people feel the same, yet our current system excludes us from one of the most consequential stages of the democratic process: the primaries. Most recently, in the Democratic primary for mayor, I found myself shut out. I strongly opposed the nominee who emerged, and had I been allowed to vote, I would have supported another candidate. That choice was never available to me. Now, with the general election approaching, I find myself without a candidate in either party that I can support in good conscience. That leaves me with no meaningful way to participate and no real say in the future of my city. This isn't how democracy should work. Open primaries would give independents like me a voice where it matters most, when choices are actually being made. I urge the council to take meaningful steps toward implementing a system that includes, rather than excludes, the growing number of voters who do not affiliate with a political party. The future of our city should be shaped by all its citizens, not just those who join a party. Thank you for your time and consideration.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:ad0e:300:e4a6:3e35:2014:2ff3, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) CriOS/137.0.7151.107 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:ad0e:300:e4a6:3e35:2014:2ff3

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5447111 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 15:48:08 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 11:47:40 AM

-----
This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Zachary Thomas

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a member of Manhattan Community Board 3, I want to voice support for all proposed City Charter Amendments and the idea of open primaries. These would make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. In particular, Member Deference continues to hinder rezonings and housing developments, so I support any effort to mitigate the effects of this practice. Also, streamlining the ULURP process is a no-brainer to speed-up development and get rid of red tape. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into Landmarks decisions. Finally, I have personal friends in the city who refuse to register with a political party, and I know this is a growing trend. Please consider putting open primaries on the ballot so all New Yorkers can be heard. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Thank you, Zachary Thomas

Williamsburg, 11249

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:873a:4246:3d26:4e06:8a1:753c, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:873a:4246:3d26:4e06:8a1:753c

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6376719 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 17:25:13 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 01:25:02 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Brian Fritsch- Permanent Citizens Advisory Committee to the MTA (PCAC)

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: See attachment

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 68[.]193[.]26[.]36, 184[.]51[.]149[.]31, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 68[.]193[.]26[.]36

---

PCAC

PERMANENT CITIZENS
ADVISORY COMMITTEE TO THE MTA

2 Broadway, 16th Floor, New York, NY 10004
(212) 878-7087 mail@pcac.org

GERARD BRINGMANN CHAIR · MTA BOARD MEMBER · LIRRCC CHAIR
ANDREW ALBERT NYCTRC CHAIR · MTA BOARD MEMBER
RANDOLPH GLUCKSMAN MNRCC CHAIR · MTA BOARD MEMBER

LISA DAGLIAN EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
BRIAN FRITSCH ASSOCIATE DIRECTOR
KARA GURL PLANNING & ADVOCACY MANAGER
JACK CONNORS RESEARCH & COMM. ASSOCIATE
JESSICA SPEZIO ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

July 3, 2025

Riding with Housing Affordability:

A Transit-Oriented Addendum to the Charter Revision Commission Preliminary Report

Even as funding for the MTA's 2025-29 Capital Plan becomes available, the New York City region is short half a million homes to meet demand. The MTA can finally renovate and upgrade critical systems to keep them from falling into disrepair from decades of disinvestment, yet housing costs are skyrocketing and putting shorter commutes out of reach for many MTA riders. These are not two separate phenomena. Denser, transit-oriented housing creates more demand for transit, which provides resources to the MTA's hard-fought efforts in building better service.

Enacting policies that restore the virtuous cycle of housing growth and transit improvement is the only way for New York City to build an affordable and livable future – particularly as the region is expected to lose more than 80,000 units of housing due to climate change by 2040

New York City needs to build more housing immediately, but residents need adequate mobility. The density necessary to realistically combat the housing crisis requires public transit to function. With nearly all open space exhausted and water increasingly encroaching into the built environment, there are few places left for New York City to grow.

To fight the housing crisis, the Mayor organized a Charter Revision Commission that is exploring changes to the Urban Land Use Review Procedure – or 'ULURP' – process. ULURP governs land use changes that are needed to change New York's zoning – including to add to New York City's housing stock – from rezoning entire neighborhoods to a property owner looking to convert their single-family home into a duplex. In late April, the Charter Revision Commission released a preliminary report outlining the objectives and framework for the recommendations that may be put on the ballot in November's general election. The report identified myriad issues with ULURP that contribute to New York City's housing crisis but included little discussion about how to utilize transit to meet the city's dire housing needs.

This whitepaper serves as a transit addendum to the Charter Revision Commission's preliminary report to offer more tools to make housing more affordable and New York more livable. For the commission to solve the structural problems facing New York City's housing crisis, members should consider the following transit-oriented recommendations:

- 1) Create a transit-oriented comprehensive citywide plan
- 2) Expand Zoning for Accessibility
- 3) Eliminate mandatory parking minimums citywide

The Transit-Housing Connection

Housing in New York City is extremely expensive. Median rents in New York City reached a record high of \$3,973 as of May 2025 with Manhattan's median rent climbing to over $5,368 in February 2025. With job growth continually outpacing housing production, housing costs show no indication of slowing down. Between 2011 and 2023, New York City added 895,000 jobs but just 353,000 housing units.

From the inception of the subway in 1904 until the mid-20th century, the idea of building housing around transit in New York City was a standard, if not obvious, practice. The zoning resolution in 1961 brought New York City's zoned capacity from 55 to 12 million people by suburbanizing the city's residential zoning. By 2016, onerous restrictions on height, floor area ratio, and commercial space made 40% of the buildings in Manhattan, the most transit-rich island in the world, illegal to build. Today, New Yorkers want to live within convenient commute times of their jobs, grocery stores, doctors, and schools, and developers want to build housing in high-demand, transit-accessible areas. Unfortunately, this is illegal in many parts of the city where our zoning is closer to that of Houston, Texas, than Houston Street.

Wealthier areas fail to provide adequate housing stock, so communities of color have suffered disproportionately. Though commute times have risen for all MTA riders, Black riders spend 25% more time going to and from work than their white counterparts. While neighborhoods remain frozen in amber by restrictive zoning, their residents are not: nearly one-in-ten – or 200,000 – Black New Yorkers left the city in the last two decades.

Housing that isn't well connected to mass transit often encourages private automobile ownership, which is four times more expensive than riding the MTA. Auto infrastructure consumes already limited space; highways displace residents (a quarter of a million and counting), worsening air quality, and furthering the climate crisis in the process. New York City, already one of the most congested cities on Earth, simply lacks the land to build low-density, auto-centric housing at the scale needed to address the housing crisis. The density required to address the affordability, climate, and housing crises requires affordable, equitable, and accessible public transit to function.

Beyond the recommendations below, some opportunities will be created, such as the retrofitting of a freight rail line between Brooklyn and Queens for passenger service to create the Interborough Express. The light-rail line will include 19 stops and connect 17 subway lines, over 50 bus routes and the Long Island Rail Road. It also creates the potential for 70,000 to 100,000 new homes to be built within a half mile of stops, depending on land-use changes by the city.

Recommendations

With the Charter Revision Commission underway, these recommendations can help New York build a future where housing and transit are both affordable and abundant.

1) Create a Transit-Oriented Comprehensive Citywide Plan

Creating a comprehensive plan that addresses our dire need for more housing while considering needed improvements to infrastructure in a holistic and strategic way is critical to solving our housing crisis and cementing a stable future for mass transit riders and infrastructure.

New York City currently has no citywide planning process to address New Yorkers' concerns, problems, and long-term interests. Instead, these needs are 'managed' piecemeal as the city sporadically unlocks new housing development through individual spot rezonings that vary greatly based on mayoral administration. ULURP today provides the same level of scrutiny both for massive rezonings and individual adjustments, such as converting a single-family lot to accommodate a duplex. A comprehensive plan could provide for density increases benchmarked by infrastructure development that includes improved transit and explores potential new routes and empowers homeowners to make decisions about their property without going through the same public review process as a multi-billion-dollar developer. This would help coordinate city agencies and emphasize public projects that address core structural problems the city faces.

Brooklyn Borough President Antonio Reynoso's Office recently released a comprehensive plan for the borough, one of the only examples of comprehensive planning in New York City in recent decades. This plan charts a path to thoughtfully tackle major problems facing the borough, including housing, while acknowledging that housing, transit, health, and other issues fundamentally intersect. This should serve as a model for the rest of the city to follow. A citywide comprehensive plan mapping out a future-oriented vision to realistically fight the housing crisis and help balance overarching interests with community needs would help to cut red tape and reform our outdated zoning process.

Comprehensive planning unlocks the synergistic capabilities of our city and state government agencies and authorities, allowing for more cooperation and faster, stronger action. For example, the ridership projections for the Utica Avenue extension included in the MTA's recent 20-Year Needs Assessment utilized current housing capacity, dampening the project's likely return on investment. Ultimately, it was not included in the 2025-29 Capital Plan because planners are forced to assume housing production will remain stagnant without intervention. Had there been a comprehensive plan that detailed the growth expectations of the neighborhoods potentially served by the expansion, the project would likely have scored more highly.

While the agency has a rather limited portfolio of developable parcels of land within New York City, the MTA is working in partnership to create some transit-oriented developments near stations, like the Monitor Point development in Greenpoint (684 apartments), and transit-oriented developments in Harlem, off the terminus for the planned 2nd Ave subway extension (900 apartments).

Transit expansion projects currently in progress, like the Interborough Express, 2nd Avenue Subway Extension Phase II, Penn Station Access, and center-running bus lanes on Flatbush Ave would benefit enormously from a comprehensive plan encouraging the coordination between our transit and housing planning agencies in long-term planning. For example, a PCAC analysis showed that City of Yes would increase daily transit ridership by up to 97,000, bringing in $304 million annually over 15 years in subway and bus operating funds. Facilitating the cooperation between different government agencies in long-term planning would be a boon for this city's infrastructure and policy decisions.

The decades-old existing ULURP process does not give leaders the tools to address our housing crisis. It's time to build upon it with a comprehensive plan that allows for higher density, more affordability, and abundant housing near transit. Updating the ULURP process through curbing member deference, reforming community outreach, and rationalizing the environmental review process are necessary steps to ensure a comprehensive plan comes to fruition. This will support current and future transit infrastructure projects and transit riders.

2) Expand Zoning for Accessibility

The Zoning for Accessibility text amendment passed by the City Council in 2021 has encouraged denser development and created newly accessible subway stations at no cost to taxpayers. However, it can go further to fund more accessibility upgrades at more stations and stops, all while allowing more MTA riders to live near the transit they depend on.

Zoning for Accessibility has two core components: the first requires developers of projects within 50 feet of a station's footprint to provide an easement to the MTA during the construction of new elevators or other accessibility projects. This applies to nearly every subway, LIRR, Metro-North, PATH stations, and some Staten Island Rail stations across the city.

The second component of Zoning for Accessibility applies only to developments within parts of Midtown, the Financial District, Downtown Brooklyn, and Long Island City – 79 stations total, just over 15% of all the subway and rail stations in New York City. Provided that a development falls within 1500 feet or 500 feet of a station, depending on the zoning of the neighborhood, they may receive a density bonus in exchange for constructing one or more elevators to enhance or create an accessible station. Developments outside this small zone are left out irrespective of potential benefits to the community.

Every neighborhood should be able to benefit from increased density and accessible transit. Not only should every subway and rail station in NYC be eligible for Zoning for Accessibility, but every development, with community approval or cooperation, should have the option to build denser if they want to support accessibility projects financially. PCAC recommends multiple amendments to the Zoning for Accessibility text that should be put to voters:

- 1) Expand the area of the Zoning for Accessibility text. All developments within a quarter-mile of a subway or rail station should be eligible for Zoning for Accessibility across the city, increased to a half mile for existing high-density neighborhoods. Residents within this area are more likely to use transit as their primary mode of transportation. Major neighborhood rezoning projects should also automatically qualify for new developments to be considered a "bonus" ZFA zone for the stations closest to the rezoning. For example, the Gowanus rezoning in Brooklyn has dozens of new buildings, and new residents will certainly use the nearby Union St. R and Carroll St. F/G trains that fall outside of the ZFA zone.
- 2) Create a “potluck” style of funding for accessibility and other station upgrade projects from nearby developments. Smaller “missing middle” developments within a certain distance from any transit station in need of an upgrade should be able to contribute a smaller amount to the project’s funding and, in return, receive a smaller yet proportional return in zoning incentives. This money would go into a locked-box fund that could only be spent to build that accessibility project. Construction should begin once the pot is full, either from multiple smaller developments or a single larger development. If the nearest station is already fully accessible, this system could be used for other station upgrade projects, including improving lighting, public art, wayfinding, and more.
- 3) Extend Zoning for Accessibility's easement and transit bonus provisions to apply to bus stops. Currently, Zoning for Accessibility only applies to subway and rail stations, but the bus network also needs upgrades at hundreds of stops around the city. Developers within a quarter mile of a bus stop should have a mechanism through Zoning for Accessibility to fund bus stop improvements like benches, shelters, level boarding platforms, and lighting in exchange for a density boost within a quarter mile of the development.

These changes would mean that a greater number of developments could fund new accessibility and station improvement projects, increasing both housing density and station accessibility at the same time. Expanding Zoning for Accessibility is an amazing opportunity to support efforts in alleviating the housing crisis while quickly increasing accessibility and use of NYC's transit system.

3) Eliminate mandatory parking minimums citywide

Mandatory parking minimums legally require new housing construction to include off-street parking, so new projects must use large percentages of their precious space to build storage for personal vehicles. In a transit-rich and land-constricted city like New York, desperately needed housing is often replaced with infrastructure that only encourages driving, pushing rents higher to offset the high cost of constructing underground or onsite parking.

City of Yes only eliminated parking minimums in the densest neighborhoods such as Lower Manhattan and Downtown Brooklyn, reduced them in neighborhoods within the Outer Transit Zone, and did not affect neighborhoods beyond the greater transit zone. The City Council's compromise on City of Yes to retain parking minimums in much of the city slashed an estimated 20,000 units of housing from the plan.

New York City should follow the lead of more auto-centric cities like Minneapolis and Austin and eliminate parking minimums citywide, even in neighborhoods not currently served by the subway. PCAC has previously recommended encouraging future transit use by eliminating parking minimums; doing so is a down payment on a more symbiotic relationship between housing and transit infrastructure.

Parking minimums reduce the amount of housing, increase its cost, and make transit options less likely to draw new riders. New York City, the most transit-rich city in the Western Hemisphere but with an acute housing shortage, needs to eliminate parking minimums to combat the housing crisis and support and expand the MTA system.

Conclusion

There's a critical shortage of housing in our region. More than 60 years into New York City's self-declared housing emergency, we remain more than half a million homes below current demand.

Good access to transit, more so than a home's location, is the most important factor in the mobility of its inhabitants. New York City needs to utilize smart housing growth around transit to bolster our transit system. On the opposite side of that same coin, New York City needs effective mass transit to support the density needed to defeat the housing crisis.

New Yorkers deserve the opportunity to act decisively where their leaders have failed for decades and resolve our housing crisis. PCAC encourages members of the Charter Revision Commission to advance the recommendations laid out in this report as ballot measures in November's general election.

Thank you for your attention and please do not hesitate to reach out with any questions or concerns.

Brian Fritsch

Associate Director

Permanent Citizens Advisory Committee to the MTA (PCAC)

2 Broadway, 16th Fl. | New York, NY 10004

@PCACriders | Bluesky | LinkedIn

About PCAC:

Created by the New York State Legislature in 1981, the Permanent Citizens Advisory Committee to the MTA (PCAC) represents transit and commuter rail riders in the 12-county MTA region. PCAC regularly researches issues, recommends viable solutions, and advocates on behalf of the region's subway, bus and Staten Island Railway riders, and Long Island Rail Road and Metro-North Railroad commuters through its three rider councils – the Long Island Rail Road Commuter Council (LIRRCC), the Metro-North Railroad Commuter Council (MNRCC), and the New York City Transit Riders Council (NYCTRC). These councils and their non-voting MTA Board members were created to serve as a voice for users of the MTA system in the development and implementation of policy, and to hold the MTA Board and management accountable to riders.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5338184 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 19:00:54 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 03:00:10 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jesse Bodine

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Respectfully submitted by Manhattan Community Board 4.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:4b3f:b6f0:4d6:274b:75f3:2a9d, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:4b3f:b6f0:4d6:274b:75f3:2a9d

---

CITY OF NEW YORK
MANHATTAN COMMUNITY BOARD FOUR

424 West 33 Street, Suite #580
New York, NY 10001
tel: 212-736-4536
www.nyc.gov/mcb4

JESSICA CHAIT
Chair

JESSE R. BODINE
District Manager

July 3, 2025

Richard R. Buery Jr., Chair and Commissioners
NYC Charter Revision Commission
One Center Street
New York, NY 10007

Re: Response to 2025 Charter Commission Report

Dear Chair and Commissioners,

Manhattan Community Board Four (MCB4) would like to thank the Charter Revision Commission (CRC) for its preliminary and interim reports and submits the following comments in response. While many aims put forward by the CRC are laudable, MCB4 urges the Commission to preserve and strengthen, rather than weaken, public input and review, in its final recommendations. Furthermore, MCB4 encourages the CRC to better define terms within proposals for consideration to allow for a more thorough evaluation for voters. MCB4 has concerns that the revising of the NYC Charter is now being used too often and as a run-around the standard process of political negotiation and compromise with the City Council, other elected officials, and/or voters of agreement on an issue or issues. Democracy is messy but requires and indeed needs meaningful discussion and engagement.<sup>1</sup>

Support Comprehensive Planning

MCB4 supports the CRC's willingness to explore planning more holistically and urges the Commission to consider comprehensive planning. MCB4 has stated the request for comprehensive planning in reviewing nearly every major land use action, of which MCB4 has seen numerous in the past year, including NYCHA's Fulton Elliott Chelsea redevelopment, new development on the Western Rail Yards, the Midtown South Mixed Use Plan, and the New Port Authority Bus Terminal. Given that each project is a separate land use action with separate environmental review, no one public input process provides an opportunity to assess and plan for pollution burdens, solid waste, schools, emergency services, social services, arts and cultural spaces, recreational spaces, and social amenities for projects that collectively will have a significant impact on the surrounding neighborhood over a defined time horizon.

---

<sup>1</sup> These comments were approved by MCB4's Executive Committee on June 23rd and will be ratified at the July 23rd Full Board meeting.

MCB4 believes a comprehensive approach to planning would be one that would account for both community input and concerns around adequate resource allocation prospectively rather than project by project. Since 2015, MCB4 has conducted our own form of comprehensive planning in the creation of our Affordable Housing Plan, which, among other elements, provides for community input as to the types and scale of affordable and mixed-income housing projects board members wish to see in the community.<sup>2</sup> These up-front discussions have helped to generate support for and lower opposition to land use actions that have generated approximately 14,000 new units over the past decade, the fourth most of any community district in the City.<sup>3</sup>

Support a Fair Share Housing Framework

MCB4 supports an enforceable fair-share framework for housing that would encourage all communities to share in the work of ending the housing crisis, such as one that furthers similar principles as the Mount Laurel doctrine. Such a proposal would benefit from concrete details, including clear definitions, transparency, and public engagement to avoid backlash or misuse.

Oppose Reducing Public Input in Land Use Actions

Reducing Process Costs

MCB4 supports making the process more efficient and less costly but discourages sacrificing public review as a means of doing so when projects will have a substantial public impact. MCB4 encourages the Commission to consider whether other means of reducing process costs, such as legal requirements, fees, and public presentation requirements could be scaled down for smaller affordable projects. Furthermore, MCB4 is not supportive of proposals such as the creation of a zoning administrator insofar as it limits local knowledge of conditions and needs highlighted during community board review.

Acquisitions and Dispositions

---

<sup>2</sup><https://cbmanhattan.cityofnewyork.us/cb4/wp-content/uploads/sites/10/2020/01/Affordable-Housing-Plan-Summary-of-Sites-12.15.22.pdf>

<sup>3</sup> <https://storymaps.arcgis.com/stories/079066aeb25741b78344098e1f4acf24>

MCB4 would like to express concern about the potential for major acquisitions and dispositions of land without public review, namely that a lack of a formal and transparent review process could lead to corruption and abuse. MCB4 is particularly concerned about the potential for disposition of public land for private uses given the ongoing community discussion on NYCHA's Fulton Elliott-Chelsea redevelopment, where MCB4 has heard concerns over the sacrificing of tenant protections without proper oversight. While some de minimis applications contemplated by the Commission may be appropriate, any relief from ULURP should be small and confined to a project's accessory uses.

ULURP

MCB4 is concerned by proposed changes to ULURP. ULURP is an established process that has been in the Charter for fifty years. Your own reports acknowledge its importance in providing predictability and transparency to land use actions, and MCB4 is concerned changes may harm those features. Namely, any reductions in the 60-day public input window would be very challenging for a volunteer-run board to meet. Aligning board and borough president review timelines could be effective if they promote borough president integration with the community board review process, but many members expressed a preference that community boards speak first on land use actions in order to enable authentic public input to inform a borough president's opinion. Many board members had concerns that removing City Council approval of a ULURP action could lead to less accountability of local members to residents in their districts.

Oppose the Centralization of the City Map

MCB4 is concerned that changes to the City Map maintenance may move power further away from the boroughs that have deep understanding of their communities in favor of a centralized approach.

Support Streamlining the Creation of Resilient and Clean Infrastructure

MCB4 supports many of the Commission's proposals to exempt small changes from ULURP for climate-related purposes, including make de minimis changes to correct inaccuracies in the City Map and being able to raise street grades within a reasonable height for resiliency projects. Major resiliency infrastructure, such as those on scale with the Army Corps' proposed Manhattan floodwall, should still require ULURP. It is important that in pursuing these changes that limitations for these small changes be clearly defined.

MCB4 believes there may be utility in modernizing the revocable consent process to facilitate a network of electric vehicle chargers. Getting rid of duplicative hearings may be useful, though MCB4 remains opposed to enabling the use of existing pedestrian space on sidewalks for this purpose absent community input.<sup>4</sup> MCB4 has not found DOT to be a good steward of pedestrian resources and large networks (5G) have created a further space crunch on the community's congested sidewalks.

Support Even Year Elections

MCB4 is supportive of even-year elections as a means of increasing turnout and promoting greater accountability of elected officials. MCB4 is not supportive of open primary elections.

Support Faster Non-Profit Contracting and Payments

Finally, MCB4 is supportive of changes to the nonprofit contracting processes that would incentivize the City to pay its vendors on time, including the charging of interest. The City's failure to provide timely payments jeopardizes the community's nonprofit service providers' ability to meet the needs of the Chelsea and Hell's Kitchen community.

Thank you for your consideration and have appended the Board's full discussion comments to this document for your further review.

Best,

Jessica Chait

Chair

Manhattan Community Board Four

---

<sup>4</sup><https://cbmanhattan.cityofnewyork.us/cb4/wp-content/uploads/sites/10/2023/04/17-WPE-TPC-Joint-Letter-re-EV-Charging-on-Sidewalks.pdf>

Manhattan Community Board Four Extended Committee Comments

Memo

Date: 20 June 2025

To: Executive Committee, MCB4

From: HHHS Committee

Re: City Charter Revision Commission

HHHS Response & Comments

At the June 5th, 2025, Housing, Health, and Human Services (HHHS) Committee meeting, the Committee reviewed the revisions to the City Charter proposed by the City Charter Revision Commission. HHHS members reviewed the proposed revisions regarding housing, zoning, not-for-profit payments & voting regulations. The WPE Committee will review the proposals to change environmental regulations. Both these committees will refer their response to the MCB4 Executive Committee to reconcile the matters and create a joint letter from the three committees.

HHHS is creating this memo for discussion purposes for its committee members to further review and amend to generate a more fleshed out and complete version.

Overall Comments and Impressions

The members reviewed, discussed at length and in depth, (1 hour, 20 minutes), a synopsis prepared by committee member Roberta Barnett of detailed proposed NYC Charter revisions, regarding housing, zoning, not for profit payments & voting regulations. The Committee came to overall broad conclusions:

- The NYC Charter is the City of New York's main governing document and should be amended carefully in a thoughtful and minimal manner, not to solve specific city management or political problems between the Mayor and the City Council
- In the name of housing and affordable housing production, the Mayor is using the Charter Revision Commission process in an attempt to increase the power of the Executive branch of the City government.
- In the name of in the name of housing and affordable housing production, many of the proposed revisions seek to remove legislative review at multiple levels, including the Community Board, the Office of the Borough President, and the City Council.

- Most of these actions would remove basic checks and balances in the negotiation of how development proceeds in the City of New York.
- Many of the proposed removals of levels of public review would result in less transparent and open negotiations providing more opportunities for lobbyists to influence the City's decision process.

Therefore, MCB4 has concerns that the revising of the NYC Charter is now being used too often and as an run around the standard process of political negotiation and compromise with the City Council or other elected officials and/or voters of agreement on an issue or issues. Democracy is messy but requires and indeed needs meaningful discussion and engagement.

With the exception of the question of removing Councilmember deference, (upon which a separate vote was taken), these responses represent both consensus and an unanimity among the Committee members.

Below are the proposals raised and HHHS's draft response.

Housing – Reducing Process Costs

Q: Should ULURP be amended to reduce the application burden for small projects, such as those for small-scale residential buildings?

- Should there be a faster procedure to expedite small projects?
- Should there be a streamlined approval process for 100% affordable projects?
- Should the City designate a zoning administrator to review certain certifications, special permits, or authorizations?

HHHS Response

- Small-scale residential buildings must be a defined term.
  - o Small-scale varies by neighborhood – small-scale development in Bay Ridge is different from small-scale in Hell's Kitchen. A relative measure must be created to define small-scale.
- Describe and define the details of a proposed faster procedure to expedite small projects.
- Define and describe what makes a small project.
  - o Are the determining factors the number of apartments, the size of apartments, the size of the lot, or other factors?
  - o The Preliminary Report mentions 6-8 units as small-scale. HHHS says that small scale is not the same for every location and there needs to be a standard applied. Small-scale could be relative to building stock in surrounding area, creating a contextual measure to apply to specific neighborhoods instead of a one size fits all approach.

- There are other ways to reduce process costs without eliminating public review.
  - o The City should tie the cost of the application fees and requirements needed for hiring professionals, including attorneys, to the size of the proposed project. Presentation standards for public presentations should be developed to lessen costs for public presentations.
  - o The City should develop mechanisms to assist small owners and/or small projects so the overall application costs are more equitable. One strategy could include using the City's Small Business Services (SBS) to assist small-scale development and small developers, providing special training, or creating referrals for pro bono legal assistance. Further, such services could be subsidized or written down by an SBS program to manage those costs for small owners with limited real estate ownership.
- A zoning administrator, either elected or appointed, would remove both the local Community Board and the Borough President from the public review process for certain certifications, special permits, or authorizations.
- Zoning administrators lack local knowledge of conditions, needs, and surrounding context.
- MCB4 has for decades used its 60-day, 45-day or 30-day review period to meet with developers, shape the project for more thoughtful and responsive development, to secure more amenities for residents and neighbors, and develop a well-constructed response to a development proposal, that is often adopted by the Borough President.
- Removing such local input reinforces the current trend of one-size-fits-all at NYC Department of City Planning.

Q: Should ULURP be amended so that the Community Board and Borough President review be consolidated into the same 60-day timeframe?

HHHS Response

- Consolidating the Community Board and Borough President review into the same 60-day period could be effectively implemented if there is a requirement developed for the Office of the Borough President to meet with the affected Community Board in the 60-day window and develop a coordinated response.
- MCB4 believes there is a housing crisis, and the need to address it is urgent. Many functional and production problems have been identified as contributors to the housing crisis. However, in all the discussions or presentations at committee meetings, members of the development community have never stated that the length of time for required public review has impeded or been a barrier to development. Reducing the process by 30 or 60 calendar days, while well-intentioned and laudable, seems in part a solution in search of a problem. Further, using a risk-benefit analysis, the benefit of the process being slightly expedited is outweighed by a rushed decision by a community board and/or Borough President to, in the one case deny because there was not enough time to consider, or in the alternative, to approve in error, in whole or in part. Once housing decisions are approved and building done, it cannot be undone. The permanence of that decision and the permanent impact on the community is greater than the benefit of a month or two quicker process. We should strive to build more housing and "get it right" including, but not limited to, the number of affordable housing units, community benefits, and the impact on infrastructure including schools, police, FDNY, health care, environment, etc. Many applications and projects, even smaller ones, are complex. Further, the role of elected (by voters- not appointed) Borough Presidents and City Council members are critical and should be protected, not eroded.

Q: Should the City Council be required to act in a limited time frame to approve projects on land controlled by Health + Hospitals?

HHHS Response

- Health and Hospitals is a public agency, and the City Council should not lose its public review process. This proposed revision seems to be tied to a specific issue in City Council occurring at this moment. Charter revisions should not be used to solve a political problem.

Housing – Local vs. Citywide Needs

Q: Should the Charter be amended in order to make it more challenging for neighborhoods that have typically blocked new housing, particularly affordable housing, to veto a land use action of citywide importance?

HHHS Response

- By creating a means to veto the denial or approval of local land use action in the name of citywide importance, creates a means for the Mayor to veto power a public review. ULURP process. Is this a revision which in essence says, "We, (i.e., the Mayor) don't agree with what the local community representative decided” and therefore the Mayoral Administration is going to override member deference? There are council districts for a reason, to elect a local representative to represent local interests, not city-wide interests. In this wide-ranging, physically, demographically, and ethnically diverse city, what works for one neighborhood simply does apply to another. The needs of each neighborhood, especially in housing, cannot be put into one size fits all box, Canarsie, Todt Hill and Hell’s Kitchen are all part of the city’s puzzle, not the same piece.

Q: Should there be a streamlined public review process for some subset of housing in Community Districts that fail to permit housing in line with the City Council’s Fair Housing Framework?

HHHS Response

- Describe and detail the proposed streamlined public review process.
- If a Community District disregards the Fair Housing Framework or does not meet some sort of housing production target, then there should be some actionable penalty, similar to the legal framework for municipalities in New Jersey built out of its Mount Laurel case to prevent exclusionary housing. Conversely, in Community Districts in which housing is developed in support of the Fair Housing Framework no streamlined process should apply.
- Some matters to consider when invoking a streamlined process due to not meeting the Fair Housing Framework:
  - o What is the measure of compliance?
  - o What is the proposed penalty?
  - o Can the penalty be appealed and to what body?
  - o How are acts of God or broader economic factors treated? For example, another pandemic or the current tariff war creating supply chain issues.

Q: Should the capital planning process set out in the Charter ensure that community investments in infrastructure and amenities are made in concert with new housing?

HHHS Response

- HHHS supports this proposal. For decades, MCB4 has consistently requested that capital funding be required and coordinated for its communities in infrastructure and amenities in concert with new housing or commercial development.
- HHHS notes, however, that such infrastructure improvements must be requested by the Department of City Planning prior to certifying an application.
- Infrastructure improvements should be based on cumulative impacts of all planned or projects in construction, not just for a current project under consideration.

Q: Should the Charter be amended to require the City adopt comprehensive planning frameworks that account for not just housing, but also aspects like workforce development, infrastructure sustainability, schools, and access to open space?

HHHS Response

- MCB4 has stated the request for comprehensive planning in reviewing every major land use action. Looking at the effects of a project on infrastructure, schools, and open space, and planning to address the public needs, accordingly, is effective planning.

Q: Should the precedent of member deference on land use projects be able to be appealed or reviewed subsequently by another actor, such as borough president or panel of citywide or borough-wide elected officials?

HHHS Response

- HHHS does not support creating a mechanism to appeal member deference. Such an action is a blatant political move. As we stated earlier, democracy is a messy, imperfect process. A local councilmember is elected to represent local interests. A citywide panel or a Borough President represent broader interests, some of which may be completely contrary to the locality. At the same time, a councilmember sometimes may not represent constituent interests. The remedy is the voting box not an expert panel.
- The proposal echoes the prior NYC Board of Estimate, dominated by Mayoral appointees and Borough Presidents. It was declared illegal in the early 1990s, such an action for appeal also presents more opportunities for lobbying and corruption.
- Finally, Charter revisions should not be used to circumvent the compromise inherent in the political process.

Housing - Leveraging Public Land

Q: Should the City reform its land disposition process to streamline land use reviews for projects on public land that meet certain affordability requirements?

HHHS Response

- Public land should be subject to public review. A public agency has a commitment to the public to develop a site appropriately and deliver the maximum public benefit, which can be ensured through the public review process.
- How does affordability remove the need to consider environmental review, neighborhood context or community and resident amenities? In fact, those factors take on heightened importance to ensure success of affordable housing.

- A public agency or public benefit corporation should be held to the same standards as private developer.
- Public authorities should be subject to ULURP.

Q: Should the City be able to streamline the land disposition process to HDFCs and other affordable housing opportunities?

HHHS Response

- Private sector developers frequently set up HDFCs to access real estate tax exemptions, including the Article XI tax exemption.
- In MCD4, in 2020, the owners of 308-310, 318-340 West 49th Street set up an HDFC to access an Article XI tax exemption, in exchange for providing affordability. Today, due to poor management, those buildings are source of major criminal activity affecting not only their tenants but multiple surrounding blocks. They are severely troubled with break-ins, drug activity, shootings, squatters and a murder.
- An HDFC ownership structure needs the same scrutiny as any private development.
- This proposed revision is fraught with the potential for fraud.

Q: Should the City be able to streamline the land disposition process for irregular lots that are not otherwise developable as housing?

HHHS Response

- Define and describe the standard for publicly owned irregular lots.
- With definition, this proposal may be a useful revision.
- Disposing a small piece of land to a developer as part of a larger project can create a public good.
- However, such relief from ULURP, should be only for a use directly related to an existing accessory use.
- If other unrelated uses are proposed, such as a park or school, the disposition should be subject to ULURP.

Q: Should the City have a streamlined process for the acquisition of modest amounts of land for affordable housing and supportive uses such as parks, schools, and access easements?

HHHS Response

- Define and describe “a modest amount of land” The phrase “a modest amount of land” is equivalent to “good faith efforts” as it is useless, open-ended statement with no enforceability. Without definition, this revision will decrease public review and remove public review.

Elections

Q: Should municipal elections be moved from odd to even years to coincide with other state and national races?

HHHS Response

- MCB4 supports this revision as a way to generate higher voter turnout by coinciding the local with the state and national election races.
- MCB4 recognizes the City Charter Review Commission Report stating, “Despite a vibrant civic life, New York City sees abysmal voter turnout in local elections” (page 16). The Community Boards are the independent and representative voices of the community and should be encouraging the community to participate in local government through voting. Increased Community Board outreach can assist in increasing voter turnout.
- Lastly, as noted by the NYC Independent Budget Office \(IBO\) in testimony delivered on May 28, 2025 before the New York City Charter Revision Commission, "There would be fiscal year savings of approximately $42 million every other year if the City held even-year (“on-cycle”) local elections." This change is also the fiscally responsible thing to do.

Q: Should New York City allow voters who are not registered with a particular party to vote in that party’s primary election?

HHHS Response

- MCB4 does not support this proposed revision. Primary elections should be limited to voters registered with a political party. In the same manner, should all citizens vote for a labor union president? Should all neighborhood resident vote for a PTA President? Voters with common interests should choose their candidate for public office.

Nonprofits

Q: Should the City pay interest on late payments to contractors?

HHHS Response

- Yes, the City should pay interest on contracts with nonprofits. The City should be held to the same standard as any party engaging with a contractor or vendor.

City Map

Q: Should the Department of City Planning take over administration of the City Map from the Borough Presidents’ offices?

HHHS Response

- This proposal is an attempt to take power from the offices of a Borough President. For example, the City Map dictates how addresses are presented. Local elected officials have local knowledge; therefore the map is a local piece of administrative work.

Chelsea Land Use Comments:

The Chelsea Land Use (CLU) Committee of Manhattan Community Board 4 (MCB4) respectfully submits the following comments in response to the preliminary report and proposed ballot questions of the New York City Charter Revision Commission. Our committee has reviewed the land use, housing, and planning-related items and offers the following recommendations and perspectives based on our discussion during the June 16, 2025 meeting:

1. Preserve the Full ULURP Process and Community Board Review Periods

The committee strongly opposes any proposal that would reduce, consolidate, or otherwise diminish the role of community boards in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP). Current timelines are already limited, and the 60-day window is essential to meaningful public engagement. Moreover, we object to the proposal to consolidate Borough President and Community Board review periods. These staggered timelines enable authentic public input to inform borough-level decisions.

2. Reject the Creation of a Zoning Administrator Role

The proposed zoning administrator role raises significant concerns about the centralization of decision-making authority and the potential elimination of local review for certifications, authorizations, and special permits. Such a role would erode accountability and replace locally grounded oversight with bureaucratic discretion.

3. Require Precise Definitions for Key Terms and Concepts

Many of the proposals in the preliminary report lack adequate specificity. Terms such as “small projects,” “modest land,” “streamlined,” and even “affordable housing” are undefined, leading to ambiguity and confusion. We urge the Commission to clearly define these terms before placing any associated proposals on the ballot.

4. Support Comprehensive Citywide Planning—If Inclusive and Publicly Anchored

We acknowledge the potential value of a citywide comprehensive planning framework that integrates housing, infrastructure, open space, workforce development, and sustainability goals. However, any such plan must be informed by local planning, enforceable, and created with extensive public engagement. Comprehensive planning must not be used to override local land use authority or community-led frameworks.

5. Uphold City Council Member Deference on Land Use Matters

The proposal to allow appeals or overrides of council member deference by borough or citywide actors is deeply problematic. This tradition is fundamental to representative land use decision-making and should not be weakened. Removing or bypassing councilmember input risks disconnecting land use policy from neighborhood needs.

6. Maintain Public Oversight in Land Disposition and Acquisition

We strongly oppose streamlining or bypassing public review for the sale or acquisition of city-owned land, even in the case of “irregular lots.” The city’s public land is a scarce and critical asset, and all disposition actions must remain transparent and accountable.

Streamlining without safeguards risks undermining public trust and enabling backdoor privatization.

7. Include NYCHA and Federally-Owned Land in Disposition Considerations—with Caution

While we acknowledge that NYCHA properties may fall under federal oversight, the committee is concerned that references to “public land” in the Commission’s report could be interpreted to include NYCHA campuses, raising the stakes for tenant protections. We urge clarity that any proposal regarding land disposition must not bypass community board input—especially for properties with vulnerable populations.

We appreciate the opportunity to comment on the Charter Revision Commission’s proposals. The Chelsea Land Use Committee urges that any reforms strengthen—not weaken—community oversight, transparency, and equity in the land use process. We look forward to continued dialogue as the Commission refines its final recommendations.

Transportation Planning Committee Comments:

Environment “

“Should City be able to offer revocable consent non-adjacent property owners for the purpose of installing electric vehicle chargers on public streets and sidewalks? Should the process of offering revocable consents and franchises be streamlined to remove duplicative notice and hearing requirements?”

We oppose amending the Charter to facilitate revocable consents or other mechanisms to enable EV charging on sidewalks even if it is in accordance with a plan developed by the Department of Transportation. WE ask that we continue to receive separate notices

Community board 4 is on record<sup>[1]</sup> for opposing the installation of any vehicle chargers on sidewalks - Fast charging infrastructure is the norm in other countries and should be deployed in private locations to mirror or augment the network of gas stations.

We have not found the DOT to be a good steward of pedestrian resources and large networks ( 5G) have been an unmitigated failure. It falls upon the communities to be vigilant and weight the benefits versus hyper- local space needs.

---

<sup>[1]</sup> <https://cbmanhattan.cityofnewyork.us/cb4/wp-content/uploads/sites/10/2023/04/17-WPE-TPC-Joint-Letter-re-EV-Charging-on-Sidewalks.pdf>

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6941747 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 19:06:49 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 03:06:37 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Rafael Moure-Punnett

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Testimony is attached from: Rafael Moure-Punnett District Manager Bronx Community Board #6

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:480a:81d7:7300:71f7:1d39:a344:8641, 104[.]70[.]121[.]77, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:480a:81d7:7300:71f7:1d39:a344:8641

THE CITY OF NEW YORK
BRONX COMMUNITY BOARD 6

1932 Arthur Avenue, Room 403-A, Bronx, NY 10457

Honorable Vanessa L. Gibson, Bronx Borough President

Honorable Oswald Feliz, New York City Council Member, 15th District

Telephone: (718) 579-6990 – Email: BX06@cb.nyc.gov – Website: nyc.gov/bxcb6

MS. EVONNE CAPERS
Board Chairperson

MR. RAFAEL MOURE-PUNNETT
District Manager

July 3, 2025

Testimony to NYC Charter Revision Commission

Good evening, my name is Rafael Moure-Punnett and I serve as the District Manager for Bronx Community Board 6. We as a Community Board serve as the voice of the community in local land use actions. Our Board has recently adopted housing principles to guide developers bringing ULURP actions to our Board. Our volunteer Board members have spent hours, often into the late night, reviewing zoning text amendments like the City of Yes. We believe that local input on land use actions has value, and we know that the positions taken by the Board influence the decision making of our local City Council Member and Borough President in land use actions. We are opposed to the various recommendations in the preliminary report to remove community input from ULURP.

We are not against development: Bronx Community District 6 has seen a dramatic increase in density, growing our housing stock by 3,350 units, a 12% increase in 10 years. Our community has done more than our fair share in increasing residential density to meet the need for more housing in the city, both through as-of-right development and rezonings. The proposed charter changes diminish our role in ULURP as punishment for other communities' failure to build.

The commission suggested creating overlapping timelines for Borough President and Community Board review. This would effectively remove the Board's influence on the BP when it comes to land actions, as our opinion would not be out in time for the BP to review it in their opinion. The Bronx BP has informed my Board that they review our ULURP recommendations before making theirs. BPs cover boroughs with a wide variety of neighborhoods with different needs and so removing the current timeline would remove the nuances of local input that the BP could use. This change only saves 30 days on a 7-month process (not including the months of preparation before filing a ULURP).

The Board notes that the Commission's preliminary report makes no mention of the NYC Council's Fair Housing Plan. The Fair Housing Plan, which will be released in preliminary form this October, will highlight housing inventory and need for growth by Community District. While we acknowledge that the consequences for communities that do not meet the housing plan's goals have not been created yet, the Council is now looking at a citywide approach to housing planning. It seems premature to attempt to change the charter until we know the findings of the Fair Housing Plan and the Council can develop enforcement processes (which could include informed recommendations for future charter revisions).

Our recommendation is that the commission require the local communities to take on the planning for additional housing. Bronx Board 6 has spent the past year discussing a 197A plan, to turn a manufacturing district with hundreds of residential units into an area zoned for housing. Over time, houses in this area have been demolished and turned into auto shops as that is zoning compliant. After much deliberation, we have instead decided to instead request a neighborhood study from DCP and the Council. The 197A plan is difficult, time-consuming, and was only feasible when Boards had budgets for full-time planners on staff. This is why no Board has done a 197A plan in 16 years. Without the ability to do 197A plans, Boards are now at the whim of DCP in deciding when and if to do a neighborhood study for a rezoning. DCP has already warned the Board that they are short-staffed and have a backlog of neighborhood study requests. We were also warned that DCP will likely want only high-density housing after completing a study, and the Board may find that medium density is more appropriate, meaning our efforts will lead to a potential conflict in recommendations. The report aptly identified ULURP's high cost and timeline prevents medium density housing from being built, and changes in the 197A process, or giving more authority to Community Boards to plan development could solve this. Why create a local zoning administrator when Community Boards already exist?

The charter revisions suggestions that local deference and community board roles be removed seem to be preparing the city for a strongarmed centralized planning approach. We all know that this will create conflict between the city and communities resistant to development. If instead, the city allows the Fair Housing Plan to recommend goals for each Community District and then asks each Community Board to suggest locations for that development and have a real say in the planning, then a collaborative and reasonable process can take place. If not, communities will feel they have been steamrolled over.

Thank you,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Rafael Moure-Punnett".

Rafael Moure-Punnett, MPA
District Manager
Bronx Community Board #6

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3236538 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 19:56:37 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 03:56:22 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Yaakov Ani

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Hi I am writing to strongly encourage the commission to move forward with open primaries. This is an idea that would truly level the playing field and give everyone an equal chance, just like in California and Alaska. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 204[.]128[.]182[.]22, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 204[.]128[.]182[.]22

---

Testimony of the New York Housing Conference

New York City Charter Revision Commission
Manhattan Public Input Session

July 7, 2025

Good afternoon. My name is Brendan Cheney. I am Director of Policy and Operations at the New York Housing Conference (NYHC). I would like to thank the Commission for the opportunity to testify about the proposed charter amendments. NYHC strongly supports the amendments to improve the process to build housing and affordable housing citywide.

NYHC is a nonprofit affordable housing policy and advocacy organization. As a broad-based coalition, our mission is to advance City, State and Federal policies and funding to support the development and preservation of decent and affordable housing for all New Yorkers.

As you know, New York City is facing a severe housing crisis. The city's vacancy rate is just 1.41% citywide, the lowest rate in 50 years. Over 850,000 households are rent burdened, 500,000 of them are severely rent burdened, and there are over 120,000 people staying in city shelters.

Our NYC Housing Tracker shows affordable housing production across the city, and the data shows we are not building housing equitably across the city. Our 2025 report shows this same trend as our previous three reports. We're building in neighborhoods that have a higher share of Black and Latino residents and neighborhoods with lower incomes while neighborhoods with higher incomes and higher shares of White residents are adding less new housing.

To address this crisis and neighborhood disparity, the city needs to add more housing supply, especially more subsidized affordable housing. And we need to do it everywhere in the City.

But the current policies for land use review and adding new housing citywide are overly burdensome and allow some neighborhoods to opt out of adding housing. The current procedures currently give local elected officials a veto over new housing, a power that was not intended when the City made charter changes over 35 years ago.

The amendments proposed by the charter commission will help make our housing and land use policies more rational and efficient while protecting citywide decision-making with local input. We strongly support these policies. More specifically, we support the following.

NYHC supports fast-track processes for affordable housing, including allowing publicly-financed affordable housing seeking zoning changes to go through a process administered by the Board of Standards and Appeals (BSA) instead of going through a full ULURP, as long as it can show that the project is consistent with neighborhood character. This process would still allow for the Community Board 60 day review.

NYHC also supports allowing rezonings that require affordable housing through MIH in the 12 community districts that built the least affordable housing during the previous five years according to the Fair Housing Framework report to have a shorter rezoning process that would include review by the Community Board and Borough President but end with the final vote at the City Planning Commission after 30 day review.

We also support simplifying land use review of modest projects through the proposed Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) including modest housing in low density neighborhoods and modest housing increases in medium and high-density neighborhoods.

Finally, we support the Land Use Appeal Board, which would replace the Mayor's veto power in ULURP with a new ULURP Appeals Board, made up of the Borough President (where the project is located), the Speaker of the City Council, and the Mayor. The Appeals Board would have the power to reverse City Council decisions on certain land use matters if two of the three Appeals Board Members agree.

These changes will remove unnecessary barriers to adding modest housing, to building affordable housing, and to adding housing in neighborhoods that in the past have successfully blocked new housing. We strongly support these proposals.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Rita Kozlowski <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:49:38 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Rita Kozlowski

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Ava Warren [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:49:58 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Ava Warren

[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Ilan Rabinovitch [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:50:30 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Ilan Rabinovitch

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Arnold Sudberg [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:51:08 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Arnold Sudberg

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Kim Dickstein [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:51:44 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Kim Dickstein

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Michael Sokolow [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:52:26 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Michael Sokolow

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Barbara Klein [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:52:46 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Barbara Klein
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Carol Dolgon-Krutolow [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:53:13 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Carol Dolgon-Krutolow

[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Zoya Raynes [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:53:39 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Zoya Raynes

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Sheila Sullivan [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:54:09 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Sheila Sullivan

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Tamara Stark [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:54:32 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Tamara Stark

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Monica Giannelli [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:54:52 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Monica Giannelli

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Jennifer Geller [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:55:09 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Jennifer Geller

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Steven Gross [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:55:52 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Steven Gross
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Ruth Strachman [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:56:16 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Ruth Strachman

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Stephen Baker [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:56:39 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Stephen Baker
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Michael Shea [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:56:59 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Michael Shea
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: David Chen [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:57:16 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

David Chen

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Johannes Homan [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:57:58 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Johannes Homan

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Gary Kessler [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:58:17 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Gary Kessler

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Spencer Neu [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:58:52 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Spencer Neu
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Julia Passof [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:59:12 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Julia Passof

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Rachel Neumark Herlands [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 22:59:51 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Rachel Neumark Herlands
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Allison Ross [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:00:10 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Allison Ross

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Lisa Fields

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:00:32 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Lisa Fields

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Rita Nissan [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:01:07 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Rita Nissan

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Sandy Reiburn [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:01:27 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Sandy Reiburn
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: enid moskowitz [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:01:47 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I have been forced throughout my life to enroll in a political party if I want my vote to matter. Neither of the two largest parties reflects my values and beliefs. I am excited to be supporting open primaries. This change will mean that I am no longer forced to make a choice that does not reflect my values.

Being able to vote in an open primary would mean that I could choose and rank the candidates who best reflect my values, regardless of their affiliation with a political party. Moving to this system will not only open primary elections to a larger electorate but also help diversify the kinds of opinions and candidates appearing on the ballot.

enid moskowitz

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Stephen Stowe [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:02:07 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I have been forced throughout my life to enroll in a political party if I want my vote to matter. Neither of the two largest parties reflects my values and beliefs. I am excited to be supporting open primaries. This change will mean that I am no longer forced to make a choice that does not reflect my values.

Being able to vote in an open primary would mean that I could choose and rank the candidates who best reflect my values, regardless of their affiliation with a political party. Moving to this system will not only open primary elections to a larger electorate but also help diversify the kinds of opinions and candidates appearing on the ballot.

Stephen Stowe

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Laura rosenbaum [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:02:39 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Laura rosenbaum

[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Randi Sanders [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:02:57 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Randi Sanders

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Lisanne Weinberg [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:03:17 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Lisanne Weinberg

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Ora Hamelsdorf [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:03:55 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Ora Hamelsdorf

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Danyela Souza Egorov [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:04:19 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Danyela Souza Egorov
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Solana Nolfo [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:05:04 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I have been forced throughout my life to enroll in a political party if I want my vote to matter. Neither of the two largest parties reflects my values and beliefs. I am excited to be supporting open primaries. This change will mean that I am no longer forced to make a choice that does not reflect my values.

Being able to vote in an open primary would mean that I could choose and rank the candidates who best reflect my values, regardless of their affiliation with a political party. Moving to this system will not only open primary elections to a larger electorate but also help diversify the kinds of opinions and candidates appearing on the ballot.

Solana Nolfo

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Suzanne Offer [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:05:47 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I have been forced throughout my life to enroll in a political party if I want my vote to matter. Neither of the two largest parties reflects my values and beliefs. I am excited to be supporting open primaries. This change will mean that I am no longer forced to make a choice that does not reflect my values.

Being able to vote in an open primary would mean that I could choose and rank the candidates who best reflect my values, regardless of their affiliation with a political party. Moving to this system will not only open primary elections to a larger electorate but also help diversify the kinds of opinions and candidates appearing on the ballot.

Suzanne Offer

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Ann Crane [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:06:07 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Ann Crane

[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Ann Crane [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:06:29 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I have been forced throughout my life to enroll in a political party if I want my vote to matter. Neither of the two largest parties reflects my values and beliefs. I am excited to be supporting open primaries. This change will mean that I am no longer forced to make a choice that does not reflect my values.

Being able to vote in an open primary would mean that I could choose and rank the candidates who best reflect my values, regardless of their affiliation with a political party. Moving to this system will not only open primary elections to a larger electorate but also help diversify the kinds of opinions and candidates appearing on the ballot.

Ann Crane

[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Cristina Diamond [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:07:00 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Cristina Diamond

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Andrew Markovich [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:07:26 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Andrew Markovich
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Beth Schwartz [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:08:10 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Beth Schwartz
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Frances Zelazny [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:08:30 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Frances Zelazny

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Shalom Stavsky [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:09:09 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Shalom Stavsky

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Inna Koehler [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:09:49 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Inna Koehler

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Jan Morrow [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:10:28 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I have been forced throughout my life to enroll in a political party if I want my vote to matter. Neither of the two largest parties reflects my values and beliefs. I am excited to be supporting open primaries. This change will mean that I am no longer forced to make a choice that does not reflect my values.

Being able to vote in an open primary would mean that I could choose and rank the candidates who best reflect my values, regardless of their affiliation with a political party. Moving to this system will not only open primary elections to a larger electorate but also help diversify the kinds of opinions and candidates appearing on the ballot.

Jan Morrow

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Sandra Smith [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:10:45 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I have been forced throughout my life to enroll in a political party if I want my vote to matter. Neither of the two largest parties reflects my values and beliefs. I am excited to be supporting open primaries. This change will mean that I am no longer forced to make a choice that does not reflect my values.

Being able to vote in an open primary would mean that I could choose and rank the candidates who best reflect my values, regardless of their affiliation with a political party. Moving to this system will not only open primary elections to a larger electorate but also help diversify the kinds of opinions and candidates appearing on the ballot.

Sandra Smith
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Gina Newman [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:11:06 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I have been forced throughout my life to enroll in a political party if I want my vote to matter. Neither of the two largest parties reflects my values and beliefs. I am excited to be supporting open primaries. This change will mean that I am no longer forced to make a choice that does not reflect my values.

Being able to vote in an open primary would mean that I could choose and rank the candidates who best reflect my values, regardless of their affiliation with a political party. Moving to this system will not only open primary elections to a larger electorate but also help diversify the kinds of opinions and candidates appearing on the ballot.

Gina Newman

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Michael Niamehr [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:11:33 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Michael Niamehr
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: daniel ambrosio [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:11:50 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

daniel ambrosio
[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Chris Pinola [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:12:18 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Chris Pinola

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Thomas Vincze [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:27:06 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Thomas Vincze
[REDACTED]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9247073 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Thu, 03 Jul 2025 23:53:07 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 07:52:56 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Maria Rabinovitch

Email:

Phone:

Comments: As an independent voter in New York City, I'm one of over one million residents who are completely shut out of the only election that truly determines who will lead our city: the Democratic primary. New York's closed primary system doesn't just lock out independents like me, it locks out fairness, competition, and representative democracy. In the most recent mayoral primary, New Yorkers saw the Democratic Socialists of America secure the Democratic nomination. Whether you agree with their platform or not, the reality is that for the vast majority of city races, including the mayoralty, the Democratic primary is the election. In a city where over 70% of voters are registered Democrats, whoever wins that primary almost always wins the general election. In fact, no non-Democrat has been elected mayor of New York City since 2001, when Michael Bloomberg won as a Republican, nearly a quarter of a century ago. Since then, the general election has become a formality. This dynamic disenfranchises millions of New Yorkers, especially the growing number of us who are independents or registered with third parties. We pay taxes, we care deeply about the direction of our city, and we vote, but we're systematically excluded from choosing who ends up on the general election ballot. That's not democratic, it's dysfunctional. Open Primaries are a proven solution. They give every voter, regardless of party affiliation, a chance to participate in the most consequential part of the election. They also encourage the election of more moderate, pragmatic leaders who must appeal to a broader swath of voters, not just the party's base. In a city as diverse and complex as New York, that's critical. New York City is behind the curve. Twenty-four of the 30 largest cities in the U.S. already use some form of Open Primaries. If we want a more functional, responsive, and representative government, we need to catch up. I urge the Charter Commission to adopt a common-sense reform that gives every New Yorker a voice, regardless of party registration. Let's bring Open Primaries to New York City. It's time to stop sidelining over a million voters like me and start building a government that truly reflects all of us.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:973e:a300:b401:9cc2:1dda:99b8, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/136[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:973e:a300:b401:9cc2:1dda:99b8

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7123120 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Fri, 04 Jul 2025 00:37:54 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 08:37:37 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jackson Arnold

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a potential future New York City resident that unfortunately finds the city much too unaffordable, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-3 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, and strike a better balance in the land use process. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Jackson Arnold

Louisville, Kentucky

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1700:983e:2080:d80:5c28:fbff:3b21, 23[.]53[.]10[.]168, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:1700:983e:2080:d80:5c28:fbff:3b21

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3291225 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Fri, 04 Jul 2025 01:38:52 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (dacoto88@gmail.com) on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 09:38:36 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Dennis Coto

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Brooklyn resident and a former Manhattan Community Board Member, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-3 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, and strike a better balance in the land use process. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Dennis Coto Flatbush 11230

---

HTTP_ADDR: 67[.]86[.]154[.]221, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 67[.]86[.]154[.]221

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9663994 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Fri, 04 Jul 2025 02:01:47 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Thursday, July 3, 2025, at 10:01:31 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Binyamin Radensky

Email:

Phone:

Comments: We need more housing - allow attached town houses in-town!!!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2606:40:87ac:4006::c64:48c, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Android 16; Mobile; rv:140.0) Gecko/140.0 Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 2606:40:87ac:4006::c64:48c

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2325504 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Fri, 04 Jul 2025 15:13:33 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (michaellemay1@gmail.com) on Friday, July 4, 2025, at 11:12:58 AM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Michael LeMay

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Hello, my name is Michael LeMay. I've lived in Williamsburg for the past 4 years. I'm proud to be a New Yorker and get to participate in this process. I want to comment on both housing and democracy, two of the foundational things that shape New York City. Housing We need to make it easier to build housing. This means streamlining ULURP reviews. Getting that process to be simpler and less bureaucratic will help us build more homes, and make housing cheaper. Currently, many housing developments get separately reviewed by a community board, a borough president, the planning commission, the city council, and the mayor. This is super slow and expensive. Every day we can shave off these reviews is a day closer we can be to solving our housing emergency. New York grew to greatness with none of these processes, and we should shift closer to a world where you can easily and flexibly build housing + light commercial on land. To build more homes, we need to fast-track as many housing projects as we can, create one-stop zoning-administrator reviews, and compress the ULURP review process as much as possible. I say we combine the Community Board and Borough President review stages, and give more weight to citywide or boroughwide elected officials over the views of individual city council members.

That will quite literally reduce NIMBYism by making it a borough wide choice. Let's streamline reviews, build more homes, and make housing cheaper. Elections We have extremely low turnout in elections, and that's because we have far too many elections. The problem is that the high frequency of elections leads to voter fatigue and low turnout. To fix this, we should move our municipal elections to even years and replace party primaries with a single, open, ranked-choice general election (with sufficient slots to rank the full slate). Then, with one consequential trip to the polls every four years, every New Yorker can have their say about who runs our city. We should also consider eliminating elections for certain positions and making them mayor appointed. With this Charter Revision, let's streamline our elections and make it easy to participate in our Democracy. And on housing, let's streamline the process to build more homes and make housing cheaper. Thank you.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 12[.]222[.]28[.]3, 23[.]52[.]43[.]24, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 12[.]222[.]28[.]3

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Hello, my name is Michael LeMay. I've lived in Williamsburg for the past 4 years. I'm proud to be a New Yorker and get to participate in this process. I want to comment on both housing and democracy, two of the foundational things that shape New York City.

Housing

We need to make it easier to build housing. This means streamlining ULURP reviews. Getting that process to be simpler and less bureaucratic will help us build more homes, and make housing cheaper.

Currently, many housing developments get separately reviewed by a community board, a borough president, the planning commission, the city council, and the mayor. This is super slow and expensive. Every day we can shave off these reviews is a day closer we can be to solving our housing emergency. New York grew to greatness with none of these processes, and we should shift closer to a world where you can easily and flexibly build housing + light commercial on land.

To build more homes, we need to fast-track as many housing projects as we can, create one-stop zoning-administrator reviews, and compress the ULURP review process as much as possible.

I say we combine the Community Board and Borough President review stages, and give more weight to citywide or boroughwide elected officials over the views of individual city council members. That will quite literally reduce NIMBYism by making it a borough wide choice.

Let's streamline reviews, to build more homes, and make housing cheaper.

Elections

We have extremely low turnout in elections, and that's because we have far too many elections. The problem is that the high frequency of elections leads to voter fatigue and low turnout. To fix this, we should move our municipal elections to even years and replace party primaries with a single, open, ranked-choice general election (with sufficient slots to rank the full slate). Then, with one consequential trip to the polls every four years, every New Yorker can have their say about who runs our city. We should also consider eliminating elections for certain positions and making them mayor appointed.

With this Charter Revision, let's streamline our elections and make it easy to participate in our Democracy. And on housing, let's streamline the process to build more homes and make housing cheaper.

Thank you.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9272254 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Fri, 04 Jul 2025 15:24:37 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 4, 2025, at 11:24:14 AM

-----
This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Mary Whaling

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Thank you for the opportunity to submit written testimony. I'm a Queens County poll worker, and so I've seen firsthand how even small changes to our election process can create confusion, discourage participation, and make it harder for people, especially first-time voters, non-native English speakers, and seniors, to cast their ballots. That's why I strongly oppose the proposed "jungle primary" system. This isn't a minor adjustment. It's a drastic overhaul of how New Yorkers choose our leaders, and it's being pushed through without meaningful public input or transparency. This commission was created to focus on real crises like affordable housing. There is no public demand for this change, just outside interests trying to reshape our elections behind closed doors. That's not reform; that's overreach. As someone who works elections on the ground, I know voters are already overwhelmed by changes. A shift this big, without robust outreach, education, or consent, would only worsen that. It risks disenfranchising the very people our democracy is supposed to empower. Please reject this proposal and commit to a process that puts transparency, equity, and community voice first. Yours sincerely, Mary Whaling

Thank you for the opportunity to submit written testimony. I'm a Queens County poll worker, and I've seen firsthand how even small changes to our election process can create confusion, discourage participation, and make it harder for people, especially first-time voters, non-native English speakers, and seniors, to cast their ballots.

That's why I strongly oppose the proposed "jungle primary" system. This isn't a minor adjustment. It's a drastic overhaul of how New Yorkers choose our leaders, and it's being pushed through without meaningful public input or transparency.

This commission was created to focus on real crises like affordable housing. There is no public demand for this change, just outside interests trying to reshape our elections behind closed doors. That's not reform; that's overreach.

As someone who works elections on the ground, I know voters are already overwhelmed by changes. A shift this big, without robust outreach, education, or consent, would only worsen that. It risks disenfranchising the very people our democracy is supposed to empower.

Please reject this proposal and commit to a process that puts transparency, equity, and community voice first.

Yours sincerely,
Mary Whaling

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5161927 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 04 Jul 2025 15:34:57 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 4, 2025, at 11:34:23 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Erin Banks

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. I am current Manhattan resident, teacher and parent to two children attending NYC public schools. We are a family trying to stay in a city we love that is so expensive. So, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-3 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, and strike a better balance in the land use process. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. -Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. -Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. -The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new Appeals

Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Erin Banks Upper West Side 10023

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 107[.]127[.]42[.]105, 23[.]45[.]232[.]110, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 107[.]127[.]42[.]105

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-674233 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Fri, 04 Jul 2025 17:42:37 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 4, 2025, at 01:41:26 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Filipp Alaverdyan

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Brooklyn resident and a former Manhattan Community Board Member, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-3 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, and strike a better balance in the land use process. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Philipp Alaverdyan Brighton Beach 11235

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2a09:bac2:a621:188c::272:103, 23[.]50[.]129[.]166, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2a09:bac2:a621:188c::272:103

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6201725 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 04 Jul 2025 17:48:55 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 4, 2025, at 01:48:42 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jenna Capeci

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle Primary" System Delivered by Jenna Capeci 7/4/25 Thank you for the opportunity to testify and share my opinion. I would like to express my strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. I am an engaged voter and volunteer who has knocked doors and helped grassroots organizations register and engage voters. These groups are the lifeblood of our city's civic fabric—and a jungle primary system would hamper their ability to lift up voices of working-class New Yorkers. If we want a more inclusive democracy, the answer is to stay the course with rank choice voting and party primaries. NOT jungle primaries! The most recent primary demonstrates a level of deep engagement and we have a real opportunity to invest in civic education, expand voter access, and build systems that reward organizing, not money. We just changed the election process to RCV; we are not even 4 years in, and this would make New Yorkers more confused, therefore inhibiting them to actually come out and vote. Data shows that voters embraced RCV and want to expand it! The Charter Commission acknowledges that, because there has been only one election since the 2019 ranked-choice voting referendum passed, a new election reform could be detrimental to the problem they're trying to solve: Voter turnout. Additionally, jungle primaries erase the strategic foundation grassroots groups rely on: party primaries. Grassroots groups spend years organizing within the Democratic Party to win representation for their communities. They build coalitions, recruit candidates, and develop long-term strategies to shift power from political machines to the people. In a top-two or top-four system, there is no party primary. Every candidate, regardless of party or values, appears on one crowded ballot. That forces grassroots candidates to compete in massive, often expensive fields—splitting the vote and making it far harder for community-backed candidates to break through. For these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power—and for democracy. Thank you.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b8b5:e797:4847:1492:9090:5a5b, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) CriOS/138.0.7204.119 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b8b5:e797:4847:1492:9090:5a5b

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7941287 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 04 Jul 2025 21:23:20 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 4, 2025, at 05:23:08 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Abeer Hoque

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission Re: Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle Primary" System Delivered by Abeer Hoque July 4, 2025 Good evening, Commissioners, Thank you for the opportunity to testify today. My name is Abeer Hoque and I'm a voter in Jackson Heights, an immigrant, educator, writer, and photographer, and I am here to express my strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. This is not just a technical adjustment. It is a wholesale change to the way New Yorkers select our leaders—one that would upend more than a century of party-based democracy in our city. It is, in short, an enormous decision—and it is being considered through an inappropriate and quite frankly, secret process. First, this Commission has done the limited work to engage impacted communities in this consequential electoral reform process. The Charter Revision Commission was convened to focus on improving one of the most serious questions New Yorkers have to deal with - the availability of affordable housing. There has been no serious public demand for a jungle primary system but instead, the actors who want this kind of election system across the country took advantage of this moment to insert their political agenda. No movement, no mass mobilization, no crisis calling for its adoption. Yet here we are, debating whether to remove voters' ability to shape their political future through party-based organizing. That's not reform—it's overreach. Second, the public has not been adequately informed or engaged. A change of this magnitude should come only after a robust, charter revision process—one that includes multilingual education campaigns, community listening sessions, expert testimony from across the political spectrum, and an extended deliberation period. What we have instead is a rushed proposal, with little explanation, little data, and little outreach—especially to voters in the communities most likely to be harmed. We've seen how rushed reforms, however well-intentioned, can backfire when voters don't understand what's at stake. Imposing a fundamental redesign of our elections without clear public demand or broad-based consent is not just misguided—it is undemocratic. Third, this process undermines faith in the democratic system itself. It sends the message that our election rules can be rewritten from the top down, without the kind of transparency and accountability that is the bedrock of our democracy. That's a dangerous precedent—especially in a moment when trust in democratic institutions is already fragile. There are ways to improve democracy in this city. But they start with listening to the people—not bypassing them. For these reasons, I strongly urge the Commission to reject any effort to advance a jungle primary system, and to commit instead to a public process rooted in transparency, equity, and community voice. Thank you, Abeer Hoque

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb90:ad60:b116:552c:298d:b9f9:ea05, 184[.]25[.]148[.]158, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb90:ad60:b116:552c:298d:b9f9:ea05

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-674294 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agency@mail [REDACTED]
To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Sat, 05 Jul 2025 16:02:09 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 5, 2025, at 12:01:57 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jeriel Acosta

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Manhattan resident and a life-long New Yorker, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-3 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, and strike a better balance in the land use process. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. I love my city and want to build the rest of my life here. Oftentimes I worry if that will be possible, and it won't be without a drastic city-wide increase in housing. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Jeriel Acosta

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:9800:12ef:39ef:73e8:8e21:244b, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:9800:12ef:39ef:73e8:8e21:244b

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7432342 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Sat, 05 Jul 2025 18:01:19 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 5, 2025, at 02:01:05 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Anne Brinich

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission Re: Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle Primary" System Delivered by Annie Brinich, Brooklyn resident July 5, 2025 Good evening Commissioners, Thank you for the opportunity to testify today. My name is Annie Brinich, proud Brooklyn resident and mother of 6 month old twins. I love the city of New York because I love the people of New York. I love my neighbors. Most of all, I love the power that the people of New York have to raise their voices together. The proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections guts that power. I believe we're all coming to this conversation as people who have worked closely with grassroots organizations that knock doors, hold community forums, and build political power from the ground up. These groups are the lifeblood of our city's civic fabric. We all know that what New Yorkers need at this point in time are more avenues to have their voices be heard, more ways to participate in democracy, not fewer. A jungle primary severely undermines our ability to have the voices of working class people be heard in elections. I'll tell you how. First, jungle primaries erase the strategic foundation grassroots groups rely on: party primaries. Grassroots groups spend years organizing within the Democratic Party to win representation for their communities. They build coalitions, recruit candidates, and develop long-term strategies to shift power from political machines to the people. A jungle primary blows that up. In a top-two or top-four system, there is no party primary. Every candidate, regardless of party or values, appears on one crowded ballot. That forces grassroots candidates to compete in massive, often expensive fields—splitting the vote and making it far harder for community-backed candidates to break through. Second, jungle primaries amplify the power of money over organizing. In a high-candidate, low-information race without party cues, the winners are usually those with the biggest war chests, the most name recognition, or the backing of wealthy interests. Grassroots groups can't compete with that kind of money. Their strength is people-powered campaigns that build trust over time—not six-figure media buys and insider endorsements/ Jungle primaries put movement candidates at a severe disadvantage and tilt the playing field back toward the very institutions grassroots organizing seeks to challenge. Third, this system would discourage long-term community organizing. One of the most powerful aspects of our current system is that it gives communities clear political targets: party primaries where their votes and their organizing can make a real difference. That's how working-class tenants have elected champions. It's how immigrant neighborhoods have shifted city policy. Jungle primaries scramble those lines, make electoral pathways murky, and take power away from communities that have only recently begun to claim it. Let's be clear: this proposal is not about empowering voters. It's about disempowering the people who have learned how to organize within the existing system to demand more for their neighborhoods. It is about taking power away from working class families and giving it away to the moneyed elites. It is about making New York less accessible to the working people who make it great. If we want a more inclusive democracy, the answer is not to blow up the tools that marginalized communities have just started to master. The answer is to make those tools more accessible—to invest in civic education, expand voter access, and build systems that reward organizing, not money. For these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power—and for democracy. Thank you, Annie Brinich

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4808:49b0:6700:fb29:13e3:c61a:7761, 104[.]70[.]121[.]60, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Android 15; Mobile; rv:140.0) Gecko/140.0 Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 2600:4808:49b0:6700:fb29:13e3:c61a:7761

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution,

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-751635 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Sat, 05 Jul 2025 19:35:43 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 5, 2025, at 03:35:31 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Katherine Fennelly

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please see my attached testimony opposing the adoption of a "jungle primary" system in New York City.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 24[.]90[.]159[.]199, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 24[.]90[.]159[.]199

---

Written Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission

Re: Consideration of a "Jungle Primary" System

Delivered by Katherine Fennelly

July 5, 2025

Dear Commissioners,

The purpose of this letter is to present testimony regarding the proposed adoption of a "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. As a retired professor of public policy who has spent my career working with grassroots organizations I would like to express my strong opposition to the proposal.

Political party primaries are essential to the cultivation of local coalitions and the recruitment of candidates who represent the interests of local community members. I am particularly concerned that without party primaries name recognition and wealth will trump grass roots organizing.

I strongly urge you to reject the implementation of a jungle primary system in New York City.

Sincerely yours,

Katherine Fennelly, Ph.D.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6883752 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Sat, 05 Jul 2025 22:02:23 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 5, 2025, at 06:02:10 PM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Dori Dietz Blitz

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission Re: Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle Primary" System Delivered by Dori Dietz Blitz, Democratic Committee Member July 5, 2025 Good evening, Commissioners, Thank you for the opportunity to testify today. My name is Dori Dietz Blitz and I represent myself, my constituents, and many of my friends. I am here to express my very strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. I might add that "jungle" exactly describes this type of primary. This is not just a technical adjustment as it is being promoted. No, It is a wholesale change to the way we New Yorkers would select our leaders—one that would upend more than a century of party-based democracy in our city. It is, in short, an enormous decision—and it is being considered through an inappropriate and secret process - secret because there has been very little public information given to us, the citizens of New York.. First, this Commission has done only limited work to engage impacted communities in this consequential electoral reform process. The Charter Revision Commission was convened to focus on improving one of the most serious questions New Yorkers have to deal with - the availability of affordable housing. There has been no serious public demand for a jungle primary system. Instead, the actors who want this kind of election system across the country took advantage of this moment to insert their political agenda. There has been no movement, no mass mobilization, no crisis calling for its adoption. Yet here we are, debating whether to remove voters' ability (my ability) to shape our political future through party-based organizing. That's not reform—it's overreach by a small group!. Second, the public has not been adequately informed or engaged in this process. This is a serious weakness. Is this purposeful? A change of this magnitude should come only after a robust, charter revision process—one that includes multilingual education campaigns, community listening sessions, expert testimony from across the political spectrum, and an extended deliberation period. What we have instead is a rushed proposal, with little explanation, little data, and little outreach—especially to voters in the communities most likely to be harmed. We've seen how rushed reforms, however well-intentioned, can backfire when voters don't understand what's at stake. Imposing a fundamental redesign of our elections without clear public demand or broad-based consent is not just misguided—it is undemocratic. Indeed, in answering my own question, this in fact appears to be purposeful! Third, this process undermines faith in the democratic system itself. It sends the message that our election rules can be rewritten from the top down, without the kind of transparency and accountability that is the bedrock of our democracy. That's a dangerous and unacceptable precedent—especially in a moment when trust in democratic institutions is already fragile. There are ways to improve democracy in this city. But these start with listening to the people, listening to many people by garnering input across the board—not bypassing us. For these reasons, and many others which I am not addressing here, I strongly urge the Commission to reject any effort to advance a jungle primary system, and to commit instead to a public process rooted in transparency, equity, and community voice. Thank you. Dori Dietz Blitz, [REDACTED]

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 47[.]16[.]137[.]92, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.3.1 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 47[.]16[.]137[.]92

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9494198 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Sat, 05 Jul 2025 22:55:24 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 5, 2025, at 06:55:12 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Carl Anderson

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Dear City Charter Commissioners: My name is Carl Anderson. I am a resident of Bronx Community Board 11 and have been for 25 years. I submitting testimony to this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Board and City Council review roles in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) for proposed building projects. Your report mentions attempts to "fast track" specific zoning district applications, implementing "absolute" thresholds that calculate changes in residential density and use of affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information and control about building projects in their communities. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. It ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our City is better served if Community Board and the City Council is involved in a timely manner. Your report also mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of "member deference." The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community's concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board's role in the process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. I would not want to see our City Council member not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues to defend their community's best interests and hold developers accountable. In closing, the Community Board and City Council are the voices of the people, who live in the communities. They should not be excluded from the process because that would silence the voices of our communities. Development should be a transparent process, and not limited to the Mayor and the developer. Sincerely, Carl Anderson

---

HTTP_ADDR: 151[.]204[.]152[.]180, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 151[.]204[.]152[.]180

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Dear City Charter Commissioners,

My name is Carl Anderson. I am a resident of Bronx Community Board 11 and have been for 25 years. I am submitting testimony to this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Board and City Council review roles in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) for proposed building projects.

Your report mentions attempts to “fast track” specific zoning district applications, implementing “absolute” thresholds that calculate changes in residential density and use of affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information and control about building projects in their communities. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. It ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our City is better served if Community Board and the City Council is involved in a timely manner.

Your report also mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of “member deference.” The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community’s concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board’s role in the process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. I would not want to see our City Council member not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues to defend their community’s best interests and hold developers accountable.

In closing, the Community Board and City Council are the voices of the people, who live in the communities. They should not be excluded from the process because that would silence the voices of our communities. Development should be a transparent process, and not limited to the Mayor and the developer.

Sincerely,

Carl Anderson

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Irina Abramovich <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:31:15 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Irina Abramovich

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Josif Kats <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:31:35 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Josif Kats

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Irina Abramovich <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:32:06 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Irina Abramovich

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Timothy Quinn <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:32:40 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Non-partisan, special elections are nothing new and are a proven way to choose the best candidate from a field representing several different viewpoints. These elections have been one by candidates across the ideal spectrum. It is time that we applied this proven method to all citywide elections.

Special elections have been taking place in New York City for as long as I can remember. They are an effective way to let voters express their preference from a range of candidates and save the City the cost of running multiple different elections.

Timothy Quinn

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Erica Gerson <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:32:56 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Non-partisan, special elections are nothing new and are a proven way to choose the best candidate from a field representing several different viewpoints. These elections have been one by candidates across the ideal spectrum. It is time that we applied this proven method to all citywide elections.

Special elections have been taking place in New York City for as long as I can remember. They are an effective way to let voters express their preference from a range of candidates and save the City the cost of running multiple different elections.

Erica Gerson

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Scott Kerbey <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:33:41 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Scott Kerbey

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Denise Ivanoff <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:34:01 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly legal immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Denise Ivanoff

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Christine Early <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:34:30 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Christine Early

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Deborah Alexander <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:34:53 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Deborah Alexander

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Marjorie Zeidel <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:35:24 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Marjorie Zeidel

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Marjorie Zeidel <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:35:58 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Marjorie Zeidel

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Chien Kwok <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:36:17 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Chien Kwok

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Anastassiia Botchkareva <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:36:57 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Anastassiia Botchkareva

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: D’Nora D’Marquise Beaumont <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:37:41 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Non-partisan, special elections are nothing new and are a proven way to choose the best candidate from a field representing several different viewpoints. These elections have been one by candidates across the ideal spectrum. It is time that we applied this proven method to all citywide elections.

Special elections have been taking place in New York City for as long as I can remember. They are an effective way to let voters express their preference from a range of candidates and save the City the cost of running multiple different elections.

D’Nora D’Marquise Beaumont

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Felix Abramovich <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:38:07 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Felix Abramovich

A large black rectangular redaction box covers the signature and any accompanying text or image that might have been present.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Vakaramoko Toure <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:39:09 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Non-partisan, special elections are nothing new and are a proven way to choose the best candidate from a field representing several different viewpoints. These elections have been one by candidates across the ideal spectrum. It is time that we applied this proven method to all citywide elections.

Special elections have been taking place in New York City for as long as I can remember. They are an effective way to let voters express their preference from a range of candidates and save the City the cost of running multiple different elections.

Vakaramoko Toure

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Ellen Silverman <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:39:30 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Non-partisan, special elections are nothing new and are a proven way to choose the best candidate from a field representing several different viewpoints. These elections have been one by candidates across the ideal spectrum. It is time that we applied this proven method to all citywide elections.

Special elections have been taking place in New York City for as long as I can remember. They are an effective way to let voters express their preference from a range of candidates and save the City the cost of running multiple different elections.

Ellen Silverman

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Irene Kats <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:40:11 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Non-partisan, special elections are nothing new and are a proven way to choose the best candidate from a field representing several different viewpoints. These elections have been one by candidates across the ideal spectrum. It is time that we applied this proven method to all citywide elections.

Special elections have been taking place in New York City for as long as I can remember. They are an effective way to let voters express their preference from a range of candidates and save the City the cost of running multiple different elections.

Irene Kats

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Jacqueline Abramovich <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:40:43 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Non-partisan, special elections are nothing new and are a proven way to choose the best candidate from a field representing several different viewpoints. These elections have been one by candidates across the ideal spectrum. It is time that we applied this proven method to all citywide elections.

Special elections have been taking place in New York City for as long as I can remember. They are an effective way to let voters express their preference from a range of candidates and save the City the cost of running multiple different elections.

Jacqueline Abramovich

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Jessica Quinn <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:41:01 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Non-partisan, special elections are nothing new and are a proven way to choose the best candidate from a field representing several different viewpoints. These elections have been one by candidates across the ideal spectrum. It is time that we applied this proven method to all citywide elections.

Special elections have been taking place in New York City for as long as I can remember. They are an effective way to let voters express their preference from a range of candidates and save the City the cost of running multiple different elections.

Jessica Quinn

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Dan Sommer <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:41:21 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Non-partisan, special elections are nothing new and are a proven way to choose the best candidate from a field representing several different viewpoints. These elections have been one by candidates across the ideal spectrum. It is time that we applied this proven method to all citywide elections.

Special elections have been taking place in New York City for as long as I can remember. They are an effective way to let voters express their preference from a range of candidates and save the City the cost of running multiple different elections.

Dan Sommer

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Tova Itzkovitz <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:41:36 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Tova Itzkovitz

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Andrew Fine <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:42:02 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Andrew Fine

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: erik stiene <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:42:43 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

erik stiene

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Jenn Burns <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:43:07 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Jenn Burns

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Rachel Schweky <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:43:27 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Rachel Schweky

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Daniel McCarron <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:44:02 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Daniel McCarron

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Anne Hrubala <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:44:45 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Non-partisan, special elections are nothing new and are a proven way to choose the best candidate from a field representing several different viewpoints. These elections have been one by candidates across the ideal spectrum. It is time that we applied this proven method to all citywide elections.

Special elections have been taking place in New York City for as long as I can remember. They are an effective way to let voters express their preference from a range of candidates and save the City the cost of running multiple different elections.

Anne Hrubala

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Victoria Mushkatkol <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:45:18 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Victoria Mushkatkol

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Yelena Kurdina <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:45:56 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Yelena Kurdina

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Amy Nagler [REDACTED]
To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov
Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:46:16 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Amy Nagler

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Felice Schachter <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:46:44 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Felice Schachter

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Irina Stein <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:47:13 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Irina Stein

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Janet Schroeder <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:47:51 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Janet Schroeder

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Nicholas Karras <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:48:26 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Nicholas Karras

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Elise Karras <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:48:46 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Elise Karras

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Rebecca Frankel <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:49:08 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Rebecca Frankel

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Adam Clark <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:49:25 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Adam Clark

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Heidi Weiss <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:49:59 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Heidi Weiss

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Cassandra Cavanaugh <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:50:15 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before. Disenfranchisement of so many voters is not compatible with democracy, which our city of 8 million sorely needs if we are to live together harmoniously.

Cassandra Cavanaugh

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Michael Riley <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:50:35 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Quite simply put; we do not want open primaries.

Michael Riley

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Francisco Navarro <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:50:56 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

We have to end this charade that there is a democratic process for local elections when the winner of any Democratic primary is the presumptive winner of the general election. In the worst example, Democrats will run unopposed in the general election and will run a victory lap and declare a mandate when in reality they were elected by a tiny percentage of the voters, most of those their political besties. This can change only by making the primaries open primaries. if you want leave a meaningful legacy, make this option available to voters.

Francisco Navarro

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Stanley Slater <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:51:11 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Please include "open primaries" in the charter revision. Thank you.

Stanley Slater

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Jennifer Ng <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 12:51:50 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I'm a native New York and think it's time that we continue to evolve! Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city.

I'm proud to live here and open primaries is something that means a lot to me.

Jennifer Ng

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7330228 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 13:22:18 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Sunday, July 6, 2025, at 09:22:05 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Laura Jacobson

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: We simply need more housing. I love in Battery Park City and neighborhoods like mine need to do their share.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 96[.]239[.]19[.]3, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1

True-Client-IP: 96[.]239[.]19[.]3

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8446598 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 14:49:56 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Sunday, July 6, 2025, at 10:49:01 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Kyosin Kang

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Re: Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle Primary" System

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 207[.]172[.]160[.]54, 104[.]110[.]188[.]180, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 207[.]172[.]160[.]54

---

Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission
Re: Opposition to the Consideration of a “Jungle Primary” System

July 6, 2025

Dear Commissioners,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections.

I come to this conversation as someone who has worked closely with grassroots organizations that knock doors, hold community forums, and build political power from the ground up. These groups are the lifeblood of our city’s civic fabric—and a jungle primary system would severely undermine their ability to influence elections and lift up the voices of working-class New Yorkers.

First, jungle primaries erase the strategic foundation grassroots groups rely on: party primaries. Grassroots groups like mine spend years organizing within the Democratic Party to win representation for their communities. They build coalitions, recruit candidates, and develop long-term strategies (including messaging and communication) to shift power from political machines to the people. A jungle primary blows that up.

In a top-two or top-four system, there is no party primary. Every candidate, regardless of party or values, appears on one crowded ballot. That forces grassroots candidates to compete in massive, often expensive fields—splitting the vote and making it far harder for community-backed candidates to break through.

Second, jungle primaries amplify the power of money over organizing. In a high-candidate, low-information race without party cues, the winners are usually those with the biggest war chests, the most name recognition, or the backing of wealthy interests—all people who do not care about you and your family. Grassroots groups can’t compete with that kind of money. Their strength is people-powered campaigns that build trust over time—not six-figure media buys and insider endorsements. Jungle primaries put movement candidates at a severe disadvantage and tilt the playing field back toward the very institutions grassroots organizing seeks to challenge.

Third, this system would discourage long-term community organizing. One of the most powerful aspects of our current system is that it gives communities clear political targets: party primaries where their votes and their organizing can make a real difference. That’s how working-class tenants have elected champions. It's how immigrant neighborhoods have shifted city policy. Jungle primaries scramble those lines, make electoral pathways murky, and take power away from communities that have only recently begun to claim it.

Let's be clear: this proposal is not about empowering voters. It's about disempowering the people who have learned how to organize within the existing system to demand more for their neighborhoods.

If we want a more inclusive democracy, the answer is not to blow up the tools that give our communities a voice. The answer is to make those tools more accessible—to invest in civic education, expand voter access, and build systems that reward organizing and community engagement, not money.

For these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power—and for democracy.

Thank you,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'Kyosin Kang', written in a cursive style.

Kyosin Kang
Worth Fighting For-NYC

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8298174 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 15:03:26 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Sunday, July 6, 2025, at 11:02:44 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sarah Birnbaum

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission Re: Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle Primary" System July 6, 2025 Thank you for the opportunity to testify. I am a member of Target Majority NYC, a Swing Left and Indivisible group. Members of our group volunteered heavily in the June 2025 primary elections, including meeting to organize and strategize, canvassing, door knocking, doing poll site visibility, and phone banking. My own recent experience helping make our recent ranked-choice voting primary a robust one was incredibly positive, and as such I want to express my strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. I come to this conversation as someone who has worked closely with grassroots organizations that knock doors, hold community forums, and build political power from the ground up. These groups are the lifeblood of our city's civic fabric—and a jungle primary system would severely undermine their ability to influence elections and lift up the voices of working-class New Yorkers. First, jungle primaries erase the strategic foundation grassroots groups rely on: party primaries. Grassroots groups spend years organizing within the Democratic Party to win representation for their communities.

They build coalitions, recruit candidates, and develop long-term strategies to shift power from political machines to the people. A jungle primary blows that up. In a top-two or top-four system, there is no party primary. Every candidate, regardless of party or values, appears on one crowded ballot. That forces grassroots candidates to compete in massive, often expensive fields—splitting the vote and making it far harder for community-backed candidates to break through. Second, jungle primaries amplify the power of money over organizing. In a high-candidate, low-information race without party cues, the winners are usually those with the biggest war chests, the most name recognition, or the backing of wealthy interests. Grassroots groups can't compete with that kind of money. Their strength is people-powered campaigns that build trust over time—not six-figure media buys and insider endorsements/ Jungle primaries put movement candidates at a severe disadvantage and tilt the playing field back toward the very institutions grassroots organizing seeks to challenge. Third, this system would discourage long-term community organizing. One of the most powerful aspects of our current system is that it gives communities clear political targets: party primaries where their votes and their organizing can make a real difference. That's how working-class tenants have elected champions. It's how immigrant neighborhoods have shifted city policy. Jungle primaries scramble those lines, make electoral pathways murky, and take power away from communities that have only recently begun to claim it. Let's be clear: this proposal is not about empowering voters. It's about disempowering the people who have learned how to organize within the existing system to demand more for their neighborhoods. If we want a more inclusive democracy, the answer is not to blow up the tools that marginalized communities have just started to master. The answer is to make those tools more accessible—to invest in civic education, expand voter access, and build systems that reward organizing, not money. In the June 2021 primaries, ranked-choice voting was new to New York City. By 2025, grassroots organizations had a much better grasp of how it works, and the vastly increased turnout this spring shows that it is understandable and workable, and that it increases people power. The practice of cross-endorsements allowed for a politics that is more community oriented, less savage, and ultimately better for broad voter representation. If we switch to a jungle primary just as New Yorkers are learning how to make it work for us, it will be too much change too soon, and it will also be clear that billionaires are taking the system back for themselves after seeing people power in action. That is manifestly unfair to working-class families throughout our city. For all these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power—and for democracy. Thank you, Sarah Birnbaum

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 67[.]251[.]217[.]177, 23[.]196[.]2[.]176, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10.15; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 67[.]251[.]217[.]177

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5433163 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Sun, 06 Jul 2025 17:37:40 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 6, 2025, at 01:37:26 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alexis Lloyd

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Whenever jungle primaries are proposed, they are always backed by the same group of people: billionaires. This was true when Mike Bloomberg first tried it more than 20 years ago, and it's true again today. Jungle primaries are an attack on municipal labor unions and other people's organizations that stop billionaires from enacting policies that privatize government functions like education and gut government agencies like DOGE has done Not a single member of the commission is representing labor unions and working people's interests Josh Greenman writing in Vital City made the actual argument for why people want to introduce jungle primaries into NYC, and it isn't to increase turnout: it's to limit labor's influence It's because, in the opinion of jungle-primary proponents, "public sector unions" and undefined interest groups have an outsized influence in elections. Anyone who thinks that American workers have an outsized influence in politics hasn't been paying very close attention for the last five decades. Rich people already dominate political and economic life. The Democratic Party primary is one of the few places where union members can even the score. This proposal to do away with primaries is an attempt to once again tilt the field in the direction of the wealthy and well-known. Jungle primaries make it easier for billionaires to buy the seats and politicians they want - instead of political parties choosing their candidates, any candidate can just choose their political party and then outside money is able to carry them to victory. If political parties cannot nominate their candidates, it gives people with the money to influence elections more power to frame their preferred candidates.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:7f00:2c:146e:c7b4:eb67:14c9, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1

True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:7f00:2c:146e:c7b4:eb67:14c9

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7254041 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 01:23:34 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Sunday, July 6, 2025, at 09:23:10 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Shawn Finlinson

Email:

Phone:

Comments: I am vehemently against jungle primaries. The entire point of the current system is to ensure that people's voices are heard, that they can get candidates on the ballot who represent their concerns. Allowing this primary change will completely disempower communities from bringing their own candidates from grassroots, which is of course what the rich and powerful folks who are putting this forward are counting on. No way should this move forward.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 74[.]72[.]84[.]99, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10.15; rv:138.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/138.0

True-Client-IP: 74[.]72[.]84[.]99

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-980126 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 01:28:02 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 6, 2025, at 09:27:43 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Peggy Shorr

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Hello, this is my testimony regarding the proposal for open primaries. It is clear from past history that this is not something New Yorkers want. Additionally, given the recent confusion surrounding rank choice voting I believe that another change would actually minimize rather than optimize voter turn out. Finally, and unfortunately, the number of people who are aware of this proposal would not be representative of the majority of New Yorkers given that a few people are even aware of this proposal. Thank you for listening. Peggy Shorr

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:8000:2cef:81bd:1867:89c0:1836, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2486374 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 08:52:47 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 04:52:32 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: DONNA CASSILLO

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am totally against this bill! It will destroy our neighborhood! It will also take away any control, power or voice that our City Council has to speak for us the community! This is totally wrong! VOTE NO!!!!!!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 184[.]152[.]167[.]101, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 Edg/138[.]0[.]0[.]0
True-Client-IP: 184[.]152[.]167[.]101

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2115991 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 11:13:27 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 07:13:05 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Kibria Islam

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Against Jungle Primary system.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 172[.]58[.]111[.]154, 23[.]198[.]14[.]196, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_4 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.4 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 172[.]58[.]111[.]154

---

GUIDANCE: Please use this sample testimony to the New York City Charter Revision Commission if your testimony focuses on how jungle primaries diminishes the power of grassroots groups.

Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission
Re: Opposition to the Consideration of a “Jungle Primary” System
Delivered by Kibria Islam,
07JUL2025

Good evening, Commissioners,

Thank you for the opportunity to testify today. My name is Kibria and I am here to express my strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections.

I come to this conversation as someone who has worked closely with grassroots organizations that knock doors, hold community forums, and build political power from the ground up. These groups are the lifeblood of our city's civic fabric—and a jungle primary system would severely undermine their ability to influence elections and lift up the voices of working-class New Yorkers.

First, jungle primaries erase the strategic foundation grassroots groups rely on: party primaries. Grassroots groups spend years organizing within the Democratic Party to win representation for their communities. They build coalitions, recruit candidates, and develop long-term strategies to shift power from political machines to the people. A jungle primary blows that up.

In a top-two or top-four system, there is no party primary. Every candidate, regardless of party or values, appears on one crowded ballot. That forces grassroots candidates to compete in massive, often expensive fields—splitting the vote and making it far harder for community-backed candidates to break through.

Second, jungle primaries amplify the power of money over organizing. In a high-candidate, low-information race without party cues, the winners are usually those with the biggest war chests, the most name recognition, or the backing of wealthy interests. Grassroots groups can't compete with that kind of money. Their strength is people-powered campaigns that build trust over time—not six-figure media buys and insider endorsements/ Jungle primaries put movement candidates at a severe disadvantage and tilt the playing field back toward the very institutions grassroots organizing seeks to challenge.

Third, this system would discourage long-term community organizing. One of the most powerful aspects of our current system is that it gives communities clear political targets: party primaries where their votes and their organizing can make a real difference. That's how working-class tenants have elected champions. It's how immigrant neighborhoods have shifted city policy. Jungle primaries scramble those lines, make electoral pathways murky, and take power away from communities that have only recently begun to claim it.

Let's be clear: this proposal is not about empowering voters. It's about disempowering the people who have learned how to organize within the existing system to demand more for their neighborhoods. So many people that I have talked to at the doors are currently extremely dissatisfied with political leadership that they voted for. This dissatisfaction stems from voting strategically for candidates that they perceive to have the highest chance of winning instead of candidates which align with their beliefs. In the RCV system, voters do not have worry about splitting the vote. RCV allows voters to more clearly express political rights and strengthens our democracy.

GUIDANCE: Please use this sample testimony to the New York City Charter Revision Commission if your testimony focuses on how jungle primaries diminishes the power of grassroots groups.

If we want a more inclusive democracy, the answer is not to destroy the tools that marginalized communities have just started to master. The answer is to make those tools more accessible—to invest in civic education, expand voter access, and build systems that reward organizing, not money.

For these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power—and for democracy.

Thank you.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5740426 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 12:35:19 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 08:34:56 AM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Carlo Sica

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission Re: Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle Primary" System Delivered by Carlo Sica, July 7, 2025 Good evening, Commissioners, Thank you for the opportunity to testify today. My name is Carlo Sica and I am here to express my strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. I come to this conversation as someone who has worked closely with grassroots organizations that knock doors, hold community forums, and build political power from the ground up. These groups are the lifeblood of our city's civic fabric—and a jungle primary system would severely undermine their ability to influence elections and lift up the voices of working-class New Yorkers. First, jungle primaries erase the strategic foundation grassroots groups rely on: party primaries. Grassroots groups spend years organizing within the Democratic Party to win representation for their communities. They build coalitions, recruit candidates, and develop long-term strategies to shift power from political machines to the people. A jungle primary blows that up. In a top-two or top-four system, there is no party primary. Every candidate, regardless of party or values, appears on one crowded ballot. That forces grassroots candidates to compete in massive, often expensive fields—splitting the vote and making it far harder for community-backed candidates to break through. Second, jungle primaries amplify the power of money over organizing. In a high-candidate, low-information race without party cues, the winners are usually those with the biggest war chests, the most name recognition, or the backing of wealthy interests. Grassroots groups can't compete with that kind of money. Their strength is people-powered campaigns that build trust over time—not six-figure media buys and insider endorsements/ Jungle primaries put movement candidates at a severe disadvantage and tilt the playing field back toward the very institutions grassroots organizing seeks to challenge. Third, this system would discourage long-term community organizing. One of the most powerful aspects of our current system is that it gives communities clear political targets: party primaries where their votes and their organizing can make a real difference. That's how working-class tenants have elected champions. It's how immigrant neighborhoods have shifted city policy. Jungle primaries scramble those lines, make electoral pathways murky, and take power away from communities that have only recently begun to claim it. Let's be clear: this proposal is not about empowering voters. It's about disempowering the people who have learned how to organize within the existing system to demand more for their neighborhoods. If we want a more inclusive democracy, the answer is not to blow up the tools that marginalized communities have just started to master. The answer is to make those tools more accessible—to invest in civic education, expand voter access, and build systems that reward organizing, not money. For these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power—and for democracy. Thank you. Carlo Sica, resident of Kew Gardens, Queens

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:97f8:c700:1848:80c1:8203:8c4b, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:97f8:c700:1848:80c1:8203:8c4b

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3875695 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 12:37:09 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 08:36:41 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Claudia Diaz-Combs

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Good evening, Commissioners, Thank you for the opportunity to testify today. My name is Claudia Diaz-Combs and I am here to express my strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. I come to this conversation as someone who has worked closely with grassroots organizations that knock doors, hold community forums, and build political power from the ground up. These groups are the lifeblood of our city's civic fabric—and a jungle primary system would severely undermine their ability to influence elections and lift up the voices of working-class New Yorkers. First, jungle primaries erase the strategic foundation grassroots groups rely on: party primaries. Grassroots groups spend years organizing within the Democratic Party to win representation for their communities. They build coalitions, recruit candidates, and develop long-term strategies to shift power from political machines to the people. A jungle primary blows that up. In a top-two or top-four system, there is no party primary. Every candidate, regardless of party or values, appears on one crowded ballot. That forces grassroots candidates to compete in massive, often expensive fields—splitting the vote and making it far harder for community-backed candidates to break through. Second, jungle primaries amplify the power of money over organizing. In a high-candidate, low-information race without party cues, the winners are usually those with the biggest war chests, the most name recognition, or the backing of wealthy interests. Grassroots groups can't compete with that kind of money. Their strength is people-powered campaigns that build trust over time—not six-figure media buys and insider endorsements/ Jungle primaries put movement candidates at a severe disadvantage and tilt the playing field back toward the very institutions grassroots organizing seeks to challenge. Third, this system would discourage long-term community organizing. One of the most powerful aspects of our current system is that it gives communities clear political targets: party primaries where their votes and their organizing can make a real difference. That's how working-class tenants have elected champions. It's how immigrant neighborhoods have shifted city policy. Jungle primaries scramble those lines, make electoral pathways murky, and take power away from communities that have only recently begun to claim it. Let's be clear: this proposal is not about empowering voters. It's about disempowering the people who have learned how to organize within the existing system to demand more for their neighborhoods. If we want a more inclusive democracy, the answer is not to blow up the tools that marginalized communities have just started to master. The answer is to make those tools more accessible—to invest in civic education, expand voter access, and build systems that reward organizing, not money. For these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power—and for democracy. Thank you. Claudia Diaz-Combs, resident of Kew Gardens, Queens

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:97f8:c700:e5dc:ebe9:3cd9:d3e1, 184[.]51[.]149[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:97f8:c700:e5dc:ebe9:3cd9:d3e1

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5845647 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 13:51:26 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 09:50:53 AM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jacob Austin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: NYC is less affordable than it's ever been in my 10 years living here, and the culprit could not be more obvious. We aren't building enough housing, especially in wealthier parts of the city. The price of housing is proportional to its supply, and the supply of new housing in, say, the West Village is almost zero. This is because community leaders have used regulatory capture to prevent newcomers from joining their quiet enclaves. This is an abuse of their wealth and power. In a city that is constantly changing, there is no right to prevent new development in the name of "community character". NYC must constantly reinvent itself, and make itself accessible to whoever wants to live here. To that end, I strongly support any revisions to the Charter that limit opportunities for regulators to limit housing.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:387:15:3d16::2, 23[.]52[.]15[.]107, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7617495 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 14:47:56 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 10:47:33 AM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Clara Wheatley-Schaller

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: On behalf of the NY NJ Regional Joint Board of Workers United, representing thousands workers across New York City, we are proud to speak up and out about issues important to our members and their families. Our members are the backbone of this city, keeping it moving every day, and we appreciate the opportunity to testify before you. We are here to convey serious concerns about the proposal to eliminate party primaries in New York City. This change may be framed as a reform, but in practice, could risk undermining the ability of working people to organize politically; it dilutes the influence of communities who rely on shared values and collective action to select candidates. Party primaries are not perfect, but are a key avenue for unions like ours to engage members, build grassroots power, and shape the direction of public policy. Party primaries allow working-class communities to coalesce around candidates who understand their lives; removing them introduces chaos and opens the door to high-dollar special interests that drown out local voices. We know from other cities and states that so-called "open" or "nonpartisan" primaries do not result in broader participation; they often do the opposite. Voter confusion increases; turnout drops in communities of color; and well-organized, well-funded candidates dominate, often at the expense of those supporting working people. In a city like New York, where the Democratic primary is functionally the general election in most districts, this change would reduce real choice, not expand it. We urge the Commission to reconsider this proposal. True democracy requires participation and pathways for organized constituencies to be heard. That includes Labor. It includes the millions of New Yorkers who see their union as not just a workplace force, but a political voice.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 199[.]88[.]53[.]138, 23[.]200[.]89[.]192, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 199[.]88[.]53[.]138

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7687676 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 14:48:34 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 10:47:53 AM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Matthew Cruz

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please see attached PDF.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:480a:4958:8100:cd0c:bcb7:4f0d:d36c, 23[.]219[.]82[.]45, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 2600:480a:4958:8100:cd0c:bcb7:4f0d:d36c

---

Hon. Vanessa L. Gibson
Borough President

BRONX COMMUNITY BOARD No. 10

3165 East Tremont Avenue • Bronx, New York 10461

Tel: (718) 892-1161 • Fax: (718) 863-6860

E-mail: bx10@cb.nyc.gov

Facebook.com/BronxCommunityBoard10

Website: www.nyc.gov/bronxcb10

Instagram & Twitter @BronxCB10

Joseph Russo
Chairperson

Matthew Cruz
District Manager

July 7, 2025

City of New York Charter Commission

Dear Chair Buery, Jr. and Commissioners,

I write to you today, respectfully, to relay concerns to some of the Commission's recommended changes to our City of New York Charter regarding Community Boards' roles in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP).

Our Community Board, like so many others, values having sixty days to review ULURP applications. It allows our volunteer members, my staff and the public to read and study the proposed changes and, as always, to request more municipal resources. I am the first to admit that reading CEQR, the Zoning Resolution and the Building Code are not for the faint of heart. Even 60 days is not enough to properly digest these sometimes-difficult texts.

I understand that the Commission wants to expedite ULURP applications that contain only income-restricted units when seeking a zoning change. However, this will reduce communication between our agency and the City of New York Department of Housing and Preservation Development (NYCHPD). NYCHPD agrees to specific rent and income terms with the applicant prior and sometimes during the ULURP process. By fast-tracking these types of ULURP applications, we will lose the opportunity to seek either income-restricted homeownership opportunities, deepen the affordability of rents and request more two and three-bedroom apartments at rent prices that reflect our low- and middle-class Bronx residents. In short, a "fast-tracking" process allows developers to essentially dictate to our community districts what they think is best without taking into consideration the public's suggestions and concerns. ULURP allows, at minimum, for communication and, at maximum, the ability to make applications beneficial to the needs of our community districts.

Furthermore, there are community districts that may not see as many income-restricted ULURP applications, but it does witness market-rate development that often sets aside, appreciatively, units for residents with City of New York vouchers, Section 8 and other needed housing programs for our most vulnerable. However, this will not be reflected in the annual review of community districts that are not producing income-restricted units because these were privately owned and developed projects that were as-of-right. To be sure, one of our communities, Pelham Bay, is experiencing this exact type of development where we are seeing units set aside for our most vulnerable and market-rate units. The City of New York Department Housing Preservation and Development, Department of Homeless Services, New York City Housing Authority and the Department of Buildings should all have to share this information because, as we know, there are many avenues of income-restricted units in addition to rezoned districts that trigger ULURP and Mandatory Inclusionary Housing. The Commission can make the Department of City Planning's listing of twelve community districts fairer by including as-of-right development that included units that were set aside for our most vulnerable through city and federal rent programs.

As a District Manager, I am only outlining concerns to your Commission in hopes that changes materialize. I thank the Commission for its time.

Sincerely,

Matthew Cruz

District Manager

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8410937 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 14:54:07 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 10:53:55 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alicia Vaichunas

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Please see attached.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 72[.]89[.]90[.]90, 23[.]40[.]16[.]30, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 72[.]89[.]90[.]90

---

ALICIA VAICHUNAS FOR CITY COUNCIL • 65-02 HULL AVENUE, MASPETH, NY 11378 • (347) 558-3720 • ALICIAVFORNYC@GMAIL.COM

July 7, 2025

Testimony of Alicia Vaichunas
Before the Charter Revision Commission

Dear Members of the Charter Revision Commission,

I am submitting this letter to express my strong opposition to several of the proposals currently under consideration, particularly those that would weaken local control over land use, expedite the ULURP process, and shift authority away from duly elected Council Members.

The Commission's proposal to allow major rezonings to bypass the local Council Member is nothing short of City of Yes 2.0, and it is even worse than the original plan. It gives unprecedented power to unelected bureaucrats to override the will of communities and fast-track upzoning without accountability. That is not good governance. It is a direct assault on the principle of local representation and an open invitation to special interests.

I oppose the City of Yes because it threatens to change the fundamental character of our neighborhoods, displace residents, and strain infrastructure that is already failing. Our sewer system cannot handle the added capacity. The electric grid is outdated. Parking is a daily challenge for working families. The idea that more development will somehow fix these problems is completely disconnected from reality.

Giving borough presidents more authority over community board appointments also concerns me. I support Council Member Frank Morano's proposal, backed by the Common Sense Caucus, to give local Council Members more influence in these appointments. Community boards may be advisory, but they play an essential role in shaping decisions that impact our neighborhoods. A borough-wide official who does not understand the specific needs of each district should not have unilateral control over appointments. That is bad policy and disenfranchises the very communities these boards are meant to represent.

I am also extremely disappointed that, for the second time, this Commission has failed to place sanctuary city laws on the ballot. These are policies with far-reaching consequences for safety, budget priorities, and quality of life, and New Yorkers deserve the opportunity to vote on them. The same goes for the future of Rikers Island. The decision to close it and build borough-based jails should not be made behind closed doors. These are decisions of enormous public importance, and the people of this city must have a voice.

This Commission had an opportunity to restore trust in government by empowering New Yorkers to shape the future of their communities. Instead, these proposals would silence them. I urge you to reconsider and put the public interest first.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Alicia Vaichunas".

Alicia Vaichunas

Civic Leader and Candidate for Council District 30

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-147878 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 15:02:01 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 11:01:42 AM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: David Green

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Testimony from David Green on behalf of Unite NY is attached. Thank you!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2601:184:407f:b680:e55a:5dde:ec75:eeda, 23[.]46[.]208[.]166, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 2601:184:407f:b680:e55a:5dde:ec75:eeda

---

Testimony before the New York City Charter Review Commission

David Green, Statewide Organizing Director

Unite NY

July 7, 2025

Thank you for this time to testify, and for your well-researched report last week: I've been in the election reform space for over 5 years and I still learned a few things!

My name is David Green and for the last year and a half, I've been the Statewide Organizing Director at Unite NY, an organization I'm proud to represent here today. My past related experience all had to do with ranked choice voting: I volunteered for the 2020 ballot initiative in Massachusetts, where I used to live, and then for three years was a National Organizer at Rank the Vote working to bring RCV into the mainstream in red, blue and purple states all across the country. I am here today because I believe in a democracy that distills the needs and wants and identities of the public into the avatar of our representatives. They're called "representatives" for a reason!

Unite NY—a nonpartisan grassroots organization<sup>1</sup>—is building a movement for a better democracy by educating voters about five key reforms that would improve our democracy: ranked choice voting, term limits for statewide offices, allowing ballot initiatives at the statewide level, better ballot access for non-major party candidates, and, of course, open primaries. The thousands who support our work, and our polling both prove that these aren't just necessary reforms, they are popular, supported by upwards of 77% of New Yorkers.<sup>2</sup> I'm so glad the Commission is helping to create a space for this important conversation around opening our closed primaries.

As you know, New York is one of only 10 states with fully closed primaries, which means forty other states are ahead of us on this issue. Back in Massachusetts, as an unaffiliated voter I would walk in on primary day and choose whether I wanted the Democrat or Republican ballot. I felt represented and like my vote mattered.

Coming to live in New York, a self-proclaimed pro-democracy state, I was hit with the culture shock of 3.5 million registered voters across this state, 1 in 4 voters, being entirely shut out of the primary process, over 1 million of those are here in New York City. Considering that about half of this City's unaffiliated voters are people of color, this seems particularly exclusionary. So many people I have met on the street while canvassing here in New York City have felt coerced to register as a Democrat, even if they were more progressive or more conservative, just so they could have a say in the most important elections.

---

<sup>1</sup> Unite NY: www.uniteny.org

<sup>2</sup> Voter Empowerment Index: www.uniteny.org/voter\_index

The Commission's recommendation to add open primaries to the existing ranked choice voting system will go a long way towards creating a truly representative democracy.<sup>3</sup> Both the primary and general election would become actually competitive and representative as candidates are incentivized to inspire the public at large with a policy vision for all instead of skipping over vast swaths of the population and catering to a small base for fear of being primaried. Open primaries will help ensure that politicians are working for the people, not the other way around.

I want to note that the Commission's top-two proposal is an improvement to the systems used in California and Washington State, which have had mixed results. Incorporating ranked choice voting into the all-candidate primary ensures the two candidates advancing to the general election actually represent as many voters as possible. We can also preserve the major benefits of representation for women and for people of color that we see in ranked choice systems: any candidate can join the race without splitting the vote or being told to "wait their turn." As you noted in your report, this method of RCV combined with top two was recently passed by referendum in Seattle, another progressive major city.

What's more, nationwide, the number of unaffiliated voters is growing quickly, especially among young voters: 52 percent of Millennials and Gen Z voters<sup>4</sup>, and 55 percent of post-9/11 veterans do not identify with a major party.<sup>5</sup> Without open primaries, these voters are more likely to disengage from politics, lose their voice, and lessen the validity of our democracy.

In closing, on behalf of Unite NY's fifteen thousand members, I want to thank the Commission for its practical and common-sense proposal and let you know that Unite NY stands behind you in your effort to bring open primaries to New York City. It would right a fundamental injustice of the current system and, when combined with ranked choice voting, help put New York City on a path to a more truly representative form of

---

<sup>3</sup> <https://www.nydailynews.com/2025/07/07/open-primaries-will-aid-local-democracy/>

<sup>4</sup> <https://news.gallup.com/poll/397241/millennials-gen-clinging-independent-party.aspx>

<sup>5</sup> <https://www.independentcenter.org/friends/veterans-for-all-voters> government.

Please refer open primaries to the ballot so all citizens can choose their better future for New York City.

Thank you for your time.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3996956 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 15:09:23 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 11:08:45 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jay Julio

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: This is my testimony for July 7th's Charter Revision Commission meeting at the Schomburg.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:71a8:4800:bda9:f5c1:98e:3aec, 23[.]221[.]225[.]165, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) CriOS/138.0.7204.119 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:71a8:4800:bda9:f5c1:98e:3aec

My name is Jay Julio, and I am a lifelong Filipino-American New Yorker. I have taught music in public and charter schools in East Harlem and the Bronx and have served my community as much as I can. I am asking the Charter Revision Community to serve us, your city constituents, the same way. We VOTED ourselves to have ranked-choice voting, not the old way of voting and certainly not for jungle primaries, which are actively known for pushing radical choices and polarizing elections, along with complicating a process that is already expensive for this city to run. 95% of voters in this last NYC election used ranked choice somewhere on their ballot and it is only the second mayoral cycle with it. We are clearly comfortable with this process and if you go against the will of the people who voted for this voting method, be prepared to get voted. And if this is a proxy because your preferred mayoral candidate did not win, note that the current Democratic nominee also would have won under the old system and clearly would have won under this new jungle primary system, particularly after every scandal from Mayor Adams and former Governor Cuomo had been properly examined.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Public Testimony for Community Boards representing the residents in their District

From: Nanette Matthews <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 11:33:32 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hi,

Thank you for providing this forum. My name is Nanette Matthews and I am a resident of The Bronx. I have lived in the Community District 5 over 40 years. I currently serve as Community Board 5's Housing Chair. My question is because Community Boards members are representatives of the Communities they serve, and are largely made up of a sample of the respective district's population, in Bronx Community Board 5, one of the poorest districts in the city, wouldn't that sampling of its residents, disproportionately undereducated, underemployed, and uninformed render their Board ineffective and underperforming in comparison to other Community Boards in more affluent areas? How can districts represented by Community Boards compete for resources if the resident Board members aren't required to be experienced in planning, technology, law, public finance, and organizational relations? Yet, in high functioning Boards, many of its resident Board members, sourced from its highly educated populations, are simply leveraging their cultural capital. Of which, as you know, many areas of the Bronx sorely lack. What in fact happens with these Community Boards in certain areas is a reinforcement of disparate treatment through a system wherein we are unable to compete for resources or power because we are largely disorganized and collectively undereducated. How can a Charter Revision address these disparities?

Nanette Matthews, REALTOR

License # [REDACTED]

Century 21 Alliance Realty Group

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
Mobile phone: [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5766454 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 15:37:43 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 11:37:25 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Brenda Debonis-Lukes

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am totally against taking away land use authority from all NYC Council seats and giving it to an entity that does not know the scope and needs of the community...An elected official is elected by the people of the given community and therefore will have the community concerns in mind .An appointed entity does not know the needs of the people . This is taking away the power of the vote ,and needs of communiies .This is not democratic but more socialist in nature . I oppose this charter revision.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:90c1:1e00:550c:8740:935d:bbdc, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 11; moto g power (2021)

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6089310 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 16:05:09 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 12:04:26 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Dara Young

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am writing to voice my opposition to putting open primaries on the ballot in NYC. We have just had our first successful rank choice voting primary, with roughly 3/4 of voters said they approved of in exit polls. We had higher turnout for a primary for any year since the 80s. The only good faith reading of why the Charter commission would so quickly change courses is if they are unhappy with the results of the primary - otherwise, why would you make another enormous change to primary voting so soon after the successful implementation of rank choiced voting. This feels like an undemocratic move to undercut the benefits of rank choiced voting and to send NYC voters back to a place of confusion. The citizens of NY deserve stability in their democracy, not chaotic changes to our voting systems.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b4ba:75e5:50ea:54e0:f67:a8a9, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89,

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8563683 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 16:43:37 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 12:42:50 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alex Malescio

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Hello, I am writing to express my strong support for the proposal to enact open primaries in New York City elections. For far too long, New York's closed primary system has disincentivized voter participation, sowed division among New Yorkers, and provided disproportionate electoral influence to hyper-organized ideologues. Democracy thrives when citizens actively participate in the public sphere. New York's closed primary system excludes registered independents, who constitute a large portion of voting-age New Yorkers, by design. By the time the general election arrives in November, the remaining candidates may not be palatable to these independent voters, or to voters registered with parties who did not vote in the primary for one reason or another. Everybody has heard a friend or family member complain that their vote does not count in New York, or that the powers that be have already picked the winner before it's time to vote. The open primaries proposal gives us an opportunity to make voting more accessible to all New Yorkers, and fight back against this narrative that disincentivizes voter participation. Additionally, the current closed primary system allows highly motivated ideologues to exert a disproportionate degree of influence over the June election. These highly engaged voters are more likely to have the time, resources, and knowledge needed to exploit our primary system than are the average working and busy New Yorker. These highly motivated voters tend to be more highly educated and wealthy. Rather than stumping for votes in all communities across the city and building diverse coalitions of support, candidates who are aligned with these special interests can simply focus on activating New Yorkers who already agree with their viewpoints, and ignore everyone else. Such a system has the added effect of sowing divisions, as candidates who win in a closed primary format are only beholden to their base, rather than a wider swath of New Yorkers. The bottom line is this: democracy is critical to the well-being of our City and thus voting should be as accessible as possible. New Yorkers should not have to pledge their allegiance to a political party in order to have a say in the June elections. Let's let all New Yorkers cast their ballots at the same time in a fair, open primary system. Thank you for your time and consideration. Best, Alex

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:2300:35cf:78f9:7b9b:b139:9b64, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:2300:35cf:78f9:7b9b:b139:9b64

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9607950 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 17:35:55 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 01:35:42 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Bruce Belkin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: This is a bad idea! Queens is completely filled! Tooooo many people already. Electric cut-backs every other day in the summer. The existing grid can not handle the current demand for supply. SMH The neighborhoods are filthy the roads are falling apart. How does sticking more box buildings into already over crowded neighborhoods help anyone? Are they building more firehouses and police stations to handle the demand? I'm legally handicapped and could never find parking near my house as it is. Do not let all those other people have the power. Please do not do this! Focus on the real problems! Thank you.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:153e:2806:576:253d:60ff:602d, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-432533 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 17:46:49 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 01:46:38 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Daniel Cohen

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I strongly support the first four measures (related to housing/land-use) and hand no opinion on the fifth. As a resident of NYC (I live on the Upper West Side), the rent is absurdly high because of our severe housing shortage. We desperately need to build more housing to build our way out of the shortage and lower the rent, and the measures on here, such as streamlining ULURP, would do a great deal to allow more housing construction.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:387:c:7015::1, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 2600:387:c:7015::1

LOCAL 1180

6 Harrison Street

COMMUNICATIONS WORKERS OF AMERICA, AFL-CIO

New York, NY 10013-2898 • [REDACTED]

GLORIA MIDDLETON
President

July 7, 2025

On behalf of CWA Local 1180, representing 14,000 workers across New York City, we are proud to speak up and out about issues important to our members and their families. Our members are the backbone of this city, keeping it moving every day, and we appreciate the opportunity to testify before you.

We are here to convey serious concerns about the proposal to eliminate party primaries in New York City. This change may be framed as a reform, but in practice, could risk undermining the ability of working people to organize politically; it dilutes the influence of communities who rely on shared values and collective action to select candidates.

Party primaries are not perfect, but are a key avenue for unions like ours to engage members, build grassroots power, and shape the direction of public policy. Party primaries allow working-class communities to coalesce around candidates who understand their lives; removing them introduces chaos and opens the door to high-dollar special interests that drown out local voices.

We know from other cities and states that so-called “open” or “nonpartisan” primaries do not result in broader participation; they often do the opposite. Voter confusion increases; turnout drops in communities of color; and well-organized, well-funded candidates dominate, often at the expense of those supporting working people. In a city like New York, where the Democratic primary is functionally the general election in most districts, this change would reduce real choice, not expand it.

We urge the Commission to reconsider this proposal. True democracy requires participation and pathways for organized constituencies to be heard. That includes Labor. It includes the millions of New Yorkers who see their union as not just a workplace force, but a political voice.

Thank you for your time and for the chance to be heard.

All the best,

Gloria Middleton

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2681234 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 18:41:43 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 02:41:18 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Steve Flack

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Brooklyn resident, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-3 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, and strike a better balance in the land use process. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Steve Flack Prospect Heights 11238

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5bec:2100:54b6:c94b:19ca:9d6a, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5bec:2100:54b6:c94b:19ca:9d6a

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1869575 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 18:54:53 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 02:54:26 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Adriana Roman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Opposed to city of YES. Keep 1-family homes as-is. Stop high rise buildings. Stop these builders from ruining our neighborhoods. NYC has too many people and too much "affordable" housing. We pay too much in tax to be squished in like sardines.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5f09:a800:1568:8bbd:6c6e:df0b, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5f09:a800:1568:8bbd:6c6e:df0b

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-474575 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 19:02:49 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 03:01:49 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Elias

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I will not testify. I have originally signed up to testify but I changed my mind.
-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5259:fe00:424c:5958:91e7:d367, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5259:fe00:424c:5958:91e7:d367
-----

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9307086 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 19:28:19 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 03:27:32 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: SHARON Adler

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I'm very upset with your plans for squeezing in low income housing in Holliswood.I've lived in tmy house for over 67 years and prior to that in South Jamaica. We, my parents and I worked hard to move to Holliswood and if you need more low income housing look for land in South Jamaica. I assume if you have lower price housing my real estate taxes will go down.Please confirm lower real estate taxes. We don't have parking spaces and this will change the area. I am against your plan and will vote against your group and against Adam,Coumo ,Mamdami and will vote for Sliwa the Republican up and down the ticket..

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 104[.]162[.]136[.]220, 23[.]198[.]215[.]153, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-565258 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 19:38:50 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 03:38:31 PM

-----

This form resides at hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwY2xjawLZAPhleHRu A2FlbQlXMQABHm6wsCKWvRSgRmVEgQB9chByhlfPMZHBn9IRqW1IbNihnAln8JIKT_HJJng_aem_4n whwYzZTkzh6zsQIL-PKw

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Terence McNicholas

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: The Time to End Member Deference has arrived. Why should one person be able to block housing for thousands of neighbors because they prefer parking lots over people? Unlock Queens D32

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 98[.]116[.]13[.]194, 23[.]198[.]215[.]153, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 14; Pixel 6a Build/UQ1A.231205.015; wv)
AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/4.0 Chrome/138.0.7204.42 Mobile Safari/537.36
[FB_IAB/FB4A;FBAV/519[.]0[.]0[.]44.92;IABMV/1;]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-183566 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 19:46:12 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 03:45:52 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Michael Hooks

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Dear City Charter Commissioners, My name is Michael J Hooks and I serve on Bronx Community Board 10 and have been doing so for two years. I have come before this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Boards' role in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP). As you know, we are volunteers. We are residents of our community. We join our Community Board to learn how to help improve our neighborhoods, protect it and ensure we are receiving our fair share of city services. This Commission is reviewing changes such as reducing the ULURP's Community Board review period of 60 to 30 days. In 2019, a then Charter Revision Commission gave Community Boards an additional 30 days to review ULURP applications. This was a positive change for our process. It gave our volunteer membership additional time for presentations, to read difficult texts such as the City Environmental Quality Review (CEQR) and the ULURP application itself, have time for more public meetings, properly conduct public outreach and, most importantly, make better, educated decisions. Your report mentions attempts to "fast track" specific zoning district applications, implement "absolute" thresholds that calculate change in residential density and using affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information about occurrences in their communities. Community Boards are trusted, non-partisan institutions where constituents join to learn and understand the changes affecting their community. It is not just because of Community Boards that housing production lessened. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. Lastly, it ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our City is better served if Community Boards have its current allotment of 60 days. Lastly, your report mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of "member deference." While we leave the politics to our City Council Member, the Commission should know that the independence of our legislative body is something we value because Community Boards, too, are independent municipal agencies. The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community's concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. We would not want to see our legislative branch not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues in hopes of defending their community's best interests and while holding developers accountable. Thank you for your attention to this matter. Sincerely, Michael Hooks

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:557e:2700:2595:86a2:12e5:6f00, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1 Ddg/18.5
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:557e:2700:2595:86a2:12e5:6f00

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5725555 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 19:48:04 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 03:47:47 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Scott Caplan

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I strongly support open primaries with the top two or three winners advancing to a general election. Furthermore, candidates in open primaries should be able to state their party affiliation if they so desire. Although I am an active member of the Democratic Party, I think it is profoundly unfair to prevent unaffiliated voters and other voters from participating in primaries, when the outcome of primaries (particularly on the Democratic Party side) usually wins in general elections. I also support consolidating New York City and New York State election dates to the same year, which would increase voter turnout, reduce election costs and elected officials to finish their terms instead of their present practice of running for different municipal and state officers before completing their terms in their original offices.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:ad03:e9a3:7972:533e:3c9a:6440, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85,

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9460073 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 19:55:09 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 03:54:25 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Joseph Connolly

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear City Charter Commissioners, My name is Joseph Connolly, I serve on Bronx Community Board 10 and have been doing so for 3.5 years now. I have come before this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Boards' role in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP). As you know, we are volunteers. We are residents of our community. We join our Community Board to learn how to help improve our neighborhoods, protect it and ensure we are receiving our fair share of city services. This Commission is reviewing changes such as reducing the ULURP's Community Board review period of 60 to 30 days. In 2019, a then Charter Revision Commission gave Community Boards an additional 30 days to review ULURP applications. This was a positive change for our process. It gave our volunteer membership additional time for presentations, to read difficult texts such as the City Environmental Quality Review (CEQR) and the ULURP application itself, have time for more public meetings, properly conduct public outreach and, most importantly, make better, educated decisions. Your report mentions attempts to "fast track" specific zoning district applications, implement "absolute" thresholds that calculate change in residential density and using affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information about occurrences in their communities. Community Boards are trusted, non-partisan institutions where constituents join to learn and understand the changes affecting their community. It is not just because of Community Boards that housing production lessened. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. Lastly, it ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our City is better served if Community Boards have its current allotment of 60 days. Lastly, your report mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of "member deference." While we leave the politics to our City Council Member, the Commission should know that the independence of our legislative body is something we value because Community Boards, too, are independent municipal agencies. The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community's concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. We would not want to see our legislative branch not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues in hopes of defending their community's best interests and while holding developers accountable. Thank you for your attention to this matter. Sincerely, Joseph Connolly

---

HTTP_ADDR: 74[.]88[.]188[.]213, 23[.]198[.]215[.]133, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 74[.]88[.]188[.]213

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9695025 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 20:13:21 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 04:13:01 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Meryl Weingarten

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: The proposed City of Yes and the proposed charter revisions will have a disastrous effect on our community of single family homes. While additional affordable housing is needed in our City the best way to achieve this goal is not by changing the zoning and thus depreciating the value of single family homes. If passed it will serve to drive out the middle class families ( and consequently their tax dollars)who have worked so hard to purchase and maintain their homes! Please spare our community and think of alternative means !! Meryl Weingarten, Holliswood, NY

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:79fc:200:25fc:82a6:6cad:8f3, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)

AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:79fc:200:25fc:82a6:6cad:8f3

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5806879 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 20:19:07 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 04:18:43 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: New York Landmarks Conservancy

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please see attached comments from the New York Landmarks Conservancy.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 38[.]104[.]167[.]74, 23[.]198[.]215[.]153, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64; rv:139.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/139.0

True-Client-IP: 38[.]104[.]167[.]74

---

---

---

THE NEW YORK
LANDMARKS
CONSERVANCY

July 7, 2025

STATEMENT OF THE NEW YORK LANDMARKS CONSERVANCY BEFORE THE NEW YORK
CITY CHARTER REVISION COMMISSION 2025

The New York Landmarks Conservancy is a 52-year-old organization dedicated to preserving, revitalizing, and reusing New York's historic buildings and neighborhoods.

We support affordable housing. Many historic buildings provide existing affordable housing. We support converting underutilized commercial, institutional and other types of buildings into more affordable housing. We want to ensure that New York's rich diversity of architecture continues to enhance the City: creating jobs, housing New Yorkers, encouraging sustainability, and welcoming visitors from around the world.

We appreciate that the Commission's report upholds protections for landmarks and historic districts. However, we object to the first three proposed ballot questions as they explicitly aim to reduce the public's role and that of their representatives in the City Council in the land use process. We have no comments on the fourth and fifth ballot questions.

In the first ballot question, the Commission proposes an amendment that would create new fast track public processes for affordable housing.

In the second ballot question, the Commission proposes an amendment to create an Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) for certain land use changes and projects.

In the third ballot question, the Commission proposes an amendment to eliminate the Mayor's veto power in ULURP and replace it with a new ULURP Appeals Board, consisting of the Borough President of the affected borough, the Speaker of the City Council, and the Mayor.

Public participation is vital to the City's democracy, as validated in the 1975 Charter Revision. New York's vast and varied collection of communities is represented most directly by Council members, who have a responsibility to their constituents. Relying on the City Planning Commission or a three-person panel of Mayor, Council Speaker, and Borough President to make final decisions would negate the local, public voice.

We question the assumptions that support these ballot questions. First, while City Hall can tally where new affordable housing is being built, there is no City-wide analysis of where there is existing affordable and/or regulated housing. And there is no recognition of existing density and capacity. This data is necessary to understand the best places for new development, not a list of the most recently completed projects.

---

---

---

THE NEW YORK
LANDMARKS
CONSERVANCY

At the heart of this issue is the public voice, and why there is frequently opposition to new development. In our experience, this opposition is almost never against affordable housing. Many communities fight for more affordable housing. Instead, it is almost always a protest against out-of-scale, additional density that pushes up prices without a proportionate expansion of services and infrastructure.

In the decades since ULURP was established, hundreds of new buildings and thousands of new units have been built. Areas such as Sixth Avenue in Chelsea, downtown Brooklyn, and Long Island City have been completely transformed. Prices have only gone up and even with this tremendous supply, demand does not go down. The public knows this, and is rightly skeptical of promises that the new supertall down the block might demolish existing affordable apartments, but it will eventually lead to lower housing costs.

We hope that the City can find a way forward to address the affordability crisis. We are sure that preservation will continue to make a significant contribution. But any solution should not come at the cost of the public's role in the process.

Thank you for the opportunity to express the Conservancy's views.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1169811 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 20:22:20 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 04:22:01 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Frantz Nazaire

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: The influence of local community boards should not be changed to appease developers around the city. Quality of life in different density zones should be upheld or changed for the improvement of the community only! I support my local community board and I will join them in support of the betterment of our community.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 173[.]52[.]90[.]137, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X)

AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) CriOS/137.0.7151.107 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1

True-Client-IP: 173[.]52[.]90[.]137

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-687949 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 21:00:23 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 04:59:56 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jeffrey Gold

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: As an editor of longstanding who has edited tomes on voting systems around North America and the world, the current proposals for ghastly "jungle primaries" in NYC would be a big step back, in terms of representation and fairness for all citizens. I urge you to reject such contraptions/proposals. Thank You, --Jeffrey Gold [REDACTED]

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2a09:bac3:a621:2773::3ee:44, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Safari/605.1.15

True-Client-IP: 2a09:bac3:a621:2773::3ee:44

Campaign for a Livable City
New York City Charter Revision Commission
Testimony
July 7, 2025

Good evening, my name is Simeon Bankoff. Some of you may know me from my 20 years at the Historic Districts Council. Tonight, I'm here on behalf of the Campaign for a Livable City. We are a new coalition, dedicated to preserving affordable housing in New York City and ensuring that neighborhoods remain vibrant and accessible. We are advocating for a balanced approach to urban planning that allows residents to stay in their communities, promotes responsible development, and ensures access to essential resources like schools, parks and transit.

We are losing existing affordable units at an alarming rate, with either no or very few "affordable" units in the replacement buildings. So, I am once again here today to remind you all that we cannot just build our way out of this problem. Sadly, the ballot questions put forth by the Commission in its interim report do nothing to preserve and only encourage more, reckless development while centralizing power in a role that is feckless at best and as we have seen all too acutely recently is prone to developer capture.

We cannot forget that individual communities and neighborhoods are what make New York special. Proposals that eliminate local input and create loopholes to endless development will only destabilize them. At the same time, this Commission is offering nothing for the millions of New Yorkers constantly in fear of losing their current affordable housing.

For those reasons, the Campaign opposes Question 1 (fast tracking housing), Question 2 (expedited review process), and Question 3 (creating a land use appeals board). Under these proposals, the opinions of communities that are already facing incredible displacement pressure will be completely disregarded, leading to reduced community amenities, reckless urban design, and further gentrification. These proposals elevate unit count over affordability, stabilization, sustainability, and jobs that support the communities in which these projects will be built.

To advance these sweeping, transformational changes to the land use process that New Yorkers have come to know for decades, with a single public hearing for debate, is an affront to the discursive democracy that the very ULURP system was enacted to preserve. If this commission insists on moving ahead with these disenfranchising measures, know that we see you disempowering marginalized communities to line the pockets of developers and will see you at the ballot box.

Instead, we should be pushing for more preservation strategies, like only permitting renovations or demolitions if no apartments will be lost. Or applying a demolition fee where unit counts will be reduced. There's no reason why the City should bear the cost of losing affordable housing - that should be on developers who elect to tear it down. The Campaign is working with Council Member Gale Brewer to introduce legislation creating a demolition framework that will actually preserve existing affordable housing. I hope that many of the groups here today with concerns about these proposals will join us in pushing for truly effective solutions.

Thank you for your time.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-443737 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 21:14:33 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 05:14:15 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Katherine Ellington

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I applaud the full range of the work of the Charter Commission. It would help to have more public input all around New York City as such there should be an open Civics course on the New York City Charter available on line, public libraries and other settings including for credit in the New York City Department Education high schools and colleges. I submit this as public comment on my own behalf.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:7a0c:7300:698d:7ec4:d45d:55a6, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10.15; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3005513 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 21:17:55 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 05:17:28 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Samuel Finkelman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: There is a poll that shows Mamdani getting 35%, Cuomo getting 29%, Sliwa getting 16% and Adams getting 14% (with 1% for Walden and Undecided, Don't Know or Refused at 5%) This works out to a situation where you get about 38% for Mamdani and 62% opposed, and 62% is seriously opposed because we can presume they are opposed because of issues with Mamdani especially about his opposition to "laser-like focus" on the neighborhoods where crime is rampant or even just starting to creep up and at the individuals and possible gangs who are picking on victims. and there are several other issues like Mamdani refusing to disassociate himself from people who call for globalizing the intifada or his budgetary policy and wild promises. If candidates could name a second candidate in advance as to whom his votes would be added to if he lost, the election would be more legitimate and much fairer. Maybe this could also be done in a qay so as to affect this election.

There is a poll that shows Mamdani getting 35%, Cuomo getting 29%, Sliwa getting 16% and Adams getting 14% (with 1% for Walden and Undecided, Don't Know or Refused at 5%)

This works out to a situation where you get about 38% for Mamdani and 62% opposed, and 62% is seriously opposed because we can presume they are opposed because of issues with Mamdani especially about his opposition to "laser-like focus" on the neighborhoods where crime is rampant or even just starting to creep up and at the individuals and possible gangs who are picking on victims. and there are several other issues like Mamdani refusing to disassociate himself from people who call for globalizing the intifada or his budgetary policy and wild promises.

If candidates could name a second candidate in advance as to whom his votes would be added to if he lost, the election would be more legitimate and much fairer. Maybe this could also be done in a way so as to affect this election.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7268144 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 21:29:16 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 05:28:47 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Wayne M Rosenfeld

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Enclosed is the testimony that I gave tonight at the hearing- Wayne Rosenfeld-Testimony to the NYC Charter Commission on the choosing of Community Board Members 7/7/2025 Good evening. My name is Wayne Rosenfeld and I was a Board Member of Community Board 3 in Staten Island for 10 years serving on the Land Use Committee as well as other various committees. I stepped down for personal reasons 18 months ago but just applied to get my seat back and was just nominated by Councilman Frank Morano to be one of his choices for the seat. I was also a Board member for 19 years at the Staten Island JCC and volunteered at Tottenville High School in Staten Island when my daughter attended on two separate parent committees. I have been fully engaged in Staten Island and volunteering to make life better for its residents for over 25 years. By the way, I am the Executive Director of a 100-year-old nonprofit in Brooklyn that serves Southern Brooklyn. Suffice to say I am very civic minded and feel it is important that people show up every day to help their fellow New Yorkers. I am here today to advocate for city council members to have their choice of who serves on a community board in their district. Currently, they can recommend half the open slots, but it is the Boro President who makes the final choice. It is my understanding that it is proposed in the new charter that the Boro President will have sole discretion on who to appoint to the community boards in their Boro. This would be a mistake because the choices would go unchallenged and political favors would ensue and there would be no check and balances. I am not saying all BP's would take advantage but if they get full control over the community board, the residence of that board won't be served properly. The BP's and the Council Members need to work together for the betterment of the community and one person shouldn't decide who will serve on the board. Over my 10 years I have weighed in on many things, some trivial and some major. The Community Board is in place for a reason, to protect people of the community from politics and for the community to also grow, change with the times and prosper....but again that can only happen with a wide and broad range of people serving from different backgrounds and ideologies on a community board. To summarize, each district, each community in NYC is different. Some areas are urban in landscape, some are rural, some have over crowding, some have lots of park like areas. But all Boro's have differences within the Boro and each Community Board should stand alone and represent themselves and their interests. Of one BP chooses all Community Board Members themselves, then the individuality of the district would disappear. If one BP chooses all Community Board Members, then the voice of the community would be silenced. If each Council Member were able to work with the BP and they equally choose the board members, then there would be a balance and the entire district/community would be served with no back room politics at hand. Thank you for your time. Wayne Rosenfeld [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 24[.]38[.]248[.]104, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 24[.]38[.]248[.]104

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Wayne Rosenfeld-Testimony to the NYC Charter Commission on the choosing of Community Board Members

7/7/2025

Good evening. My name is Wayne Rosenfeld and I was a Board Member of Community Board 3 in Staten Island for 10 years serving on the Land Use Committee as well as other various committees. I stepped down for personal reasons 18 months ago but just applied to get my seat back and was just nominated by Councilman Frank Morano to be one of his choices for the seat.

I was also a Board member for 19 years at the Staten Island JCC and volunteered at Tottenville High School in Staten Island when my daughter attended on two separate parent committees. I have been fully engaged in Staten Island and volunteering to make life better for its residents for over 25 years. By the way, I am the Executive Director of a 100-year-old nonprofit in Brooklyn that serves Southern Brooklyn. Suffice to say I am very civic minded and feel it is important that people show up every day to help their fellow New Yorkers. I am here today to advocate for city council members to have their choice of who serves on a community board in their district. Currently, they can recommend half the open slots, but it is the Boro President who makes the final choice. It is my understanding that it is proposed in the new charter that the Boro President will have sole discretion on who to appoint to the community boards in their Boro. This would be a mistake because the choices would go unchallenged and political favors would ensue and there would be no check and balances. I am not saying all BP's would take advantage but if they get full control over the community board, the residence of that board won't be served properly. The BP's and the Council Members need to work together for the betterment of the community and one person shouldn't decide who will serve on the board. Over my 10 years I have weighed in on many things, some trivial and some major. The Community Board is in place for a reason, to protect people of the community from politics and for the community to also grow, change with the times and prosper....but again that can only happen with a wide and broad range of people serving from different backgrounds and ideologies on a community board.

To summarize, each district, each community in NYC is different. Some areas are urban in landscape, some are rural, some have over crowding, some have lots of park like areas. But all Boro's have differences within the Boro and each Community Board should stand alone and represent themselves and their interests. Of one BP chooses all Community Board Members themselves, then the individuality of the district would disappear. If one BP chooses all Community Board Members, then the voice of the community would be silenced. If each Council Member were able to work with the BP and they equally choose the board members, then there would be a balance and the entire district/community would be served with no back room politics at hand.

Thank you for your time.

Wayne Rosenfeld

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4449410 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 21:45:31 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 05:45:13 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Councilman Frank Morano

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Final Testimony - Charter Revision Commission Frank Morano, New York City Councilmember July 7, 2025 Good evening. And thank you, once again, for the opportunity to testify before this Commission. I suspect by now you've heard enough from me to last a lifetime — but given how important these decisions are, I hope you'll indulge me one final time. First, I want to genuinely thank each of you for the time, energy, and sacrifice you've poured into this process. I know how demanding this work is. You've sat through endless hearings, read more reports than anyone would envy, and heard passionate arguments on every side. That's real public service, and I appreciate it — even when we may disagree on the details. Tonight, I want to zero in on a few of those details that I hope you'll reconsider before finalizing your recommendations. First, please — do not pursue the so-called "Top Two" system. You've heard me say this before, but let me put it in plain terms: Top Two is a political trap disguised as reform. It may sound good on paper, but in practice, it shuts out minor parties, discourages outsider candidates, and leaves voters with a false choice. Want a real-world example? Imagine if we had Top Two in place right now for this year's mayoral race. The final two candidates? Zohran

Mamdani and Andrew Cuomo. For many Republicans, independents, moderates — heck, for a lot of Democrats — that matchup feels like the political version of Alien vs. Predator: no matter who wins, we lose. That's not hypothetical. It's exactly what we've seen happen in California, where Top Two has produced lopsided runoffs that fail to represent the full political spectrum — often silencing independent and third-party voices entirely. We should be building a system that encourages more choice, not less. The solution isn't to import California's broken model — it's to expand what already works here: nonpartisan special elections with ranked choice voting. I was elected through that system. It was clean, competitive, focused on ideas — not party labels. It worked for voters, and it worked for the city. So why stop there? Let's make every municipal election operate the same way — with more choices, fewer spoilers, and elections decided by merit, not machinery. And let me say this clearly: stop calling Top Two an "open primary." It's not. The U.S. Supreme Court doesn't call it that. Political scientists don't call it that. When you misuse the term, you confuse voters — and confusion is the enemy of trust in our democracy. If we want to boost turnout, competitive elections are the answer — not rhetorical sleight of hand. Look at the numbers. This year's Democratic mayoral primary saw the highest turnout since 1989. Why? Because it was competitive. Because people believed their vote mattered. That's what drives participation — not gimmicks, not rebranding, but real, meaningful choices. And that brings me to another proposal I strongly oppose: moving municipal elections to even-numbered years. Sure, presidential years bring more people to the polls. But let's be honest — they come to vote for president, not for City Council or Borough President. All moving the elections does is drown out local races in a tidal wave of national noise. Instead of asking candidates about trash pickup, zoning, or public safety, we'll be debating Social Security and the Middle East. That doesn't strengthen local democracy — it buries it. If we truly want elections that engage people and produce broadly supported leaders, let's make ranked choice voting the standard for general elections too. Imagine how different this year's mayoral race would feel if voters could rank their choices — instead of being stuck with political gamesmanship fueled by billionaires, insiders, and spoiler fears. Right now, we've got factions on all sides scheming to push out Cuomo, Adams, or Sliwa — not because they're afraid of losing a fair fight, but because they know the current system encourages spoilers and backroom deals. Ranked choice voting takes that off the table. It forces candidates to appeal to a broader electorate. It rewards those who can earn not just passionate first-choice support, but respect from the wider public. Let all the candidates run. Let them fight for every vote. Let the voters decide — without manipulation, without fear, and without insiders rigging the game. Lastly, I want to urge the Commission to strengthen the role of Council Members in local appointments. Right now, our recommendations for community boards and other bodies are just that — recommendations. We know our neighborhoods. We know who's trusted and who's engaged. Giving Council Members binding appointment power — in a clear, transparent way — would make those boards more reflective, more accountable, and more effective. To sum up: Don't bring Top Two to New York. Stop misusing the term "open primary." Keep our municipal elections in odd-numbered years. Expand ranked choice voting to general elections. Give Council Members meaningful appointment authority. And above all, thank you again for your time, your patience, and your service to this city. I may be a broken record on some of these issues, but it's only because I care — and I know each of you does too. Thank you.

ANTI-DISCRIMINATION CENTER, INC.

“ONE COMMUNITY, NO EXCLUSION”

Testimony of Craig Gurian, ADC’s executive director, at the Charter Revision Commission Hearing of July 7, 2025

Good afternoon. I’m Craig Gurian, the executive director of the Anti-Discrimination Center. The Commission has done thoughtful work, and the state of our City would be materially improved by the adoption of the Commission’s interim proposals. We would, however, be in even better shape were the Commission to address what I respectfully suggest are some missteps.

Details that flesh out these brief remarks are contained in the document being circulated to you.

Fair Housing Plan

The Section 16-a Fair Housing Plan has been woven into the proposed Affordable Housing Fast Track and Capital Planning processes and will otherwise have a significant impact on housing development. The substance of the Fair Housing Plan cannot, therefore, be ignored. Unfortunately, the Plan’s elements are patently inadequate.

The Commission has no problem identifying segregation as an evil – it does so repeatedly in its interim report – but the Fair Housing Plan is much squishier. The Fair Housing Plan defines neither segregation, the perpetuation of segregation, nor even the term “affirmatively furthering fair housing.” It fails to have as a mandatory goal the combatting of segregation. And it uses the undefined term “equitable,” a term that can mean virtually anything.

The City’s Fair Housing Planning process looks very different from, and much less robust than, the AFFH rule proposed but ultimately not gotten to by the Biden administration.

Infrastructure

A real error in the Affordable Housing Fast Track, I believe, is requiring a finding that a proposal is “adequately supported by transit, sewer, and other infrastructure before it could be approved.”<sup>1</sup> As demonstrated by extensive experience with suburban exclusion, this type of provision perversely encourages neighborhoods to resist infrastructure improvements. (“If you support the new bus route, next thing you’ll know the City will be bringing low-income people here.”) A better approach would be for analysis to focus not simply on existing infrastructure, but on whether it is feasible for the City to enhance infrastructure over time.

Fast-track for publicly financed affordable housing developments

In the requirements for the fast-track for publicly financed affordable housing developments is one where the Board of Standards and Appeals must find that the building “will not alter the essential character of the neighborhood.”<sup>2</sup> The problem is in the capaciousness of the term. Those with ill-intent (not the BSA!) will use that capaciousness to litigate and delay – exactly the opposite of what one wants.

---

<sup>1</sup> See Interim Report, at 8.

Expedited land use review procedure

The proposals for the expedited land use review procedure apparently do not contemplate purchases and sales of property by the City where the goal is affordable housing but where the model differs from the pure-HDFC approach. That is likewise true in the Fast Track Affordable Housing part of the proposals. In the document I have circulated, there are simple and, I think, non-controversial textual fixes to these omissions.

Land use appeals board

Finally, the Commission has performed a delicate political balancing act in devising the proposed Land Use Appeals Board. My accompanying document asks the Commission to consider whether that balance will accurately and consistently reflect the likely motivations of the relevant players over the long term.

Thank you.

---

<sup>2</sup> See Proposed Amendments at 12, line 19.

ANTI-DISCRIMINATION CENTER, INC.

“ONE COMMUNITY, NO EXCLUSION”

July 7, 2025

Analysis and Proposals for Charter Revision Commission Consideration

This document is intended to supplement oral testimony ADC’s executive director provided at today’s hearing.

Fair Housing Plan

Recognizing the Commission’s point that there are a limited number of proposals that can be reasonably expected to be digested by the public, it is still the case that existing Charter § 16-a needs to be addressed. Not only is it a Charter provision that, like any other, is subject to mandatory review, it is a provision that is explicitly interwoven into the Commission’s proposals (both as they relate to the Affordable Housing Fast Track and to the Capital Plan process).

The Commission has been refreshingly frank in identifying continuing segregation as a major problem in our city.<sup>1</sup> The City’s Fair Housing Plan is far more “circumspect.” That lack of candor and associated lack of action is consequential.

A useful starting point for considering the problem is the Affirmatively Furthering Fair Housing (“AFFH”) Rule proposed by the Biden administration (“Proposed AFFH Rule”). ADC had criticisms of the Proposed AFFH Rule, but the Proposed AFFH Rule did not dance around the issues of segregation, perpetuation of segregation, or what AFFH means.

The Proposed AFFH Rule defined segregation, in pertinent part, to mean:

a condition within the program participant’s geographic areas of analysis in which there is a significant concentration of persons of a particular race, color, religion, sex (including sexual orientation, gender identity, and nonconformance with gender stereotypes), familial status, national origin, or having a disability or a type of disability in a particular geographic area when compared to a different or broader geographic area. Racial segregation includes a concentration of persons of the same race regardless of whether that race is the majority or minority of the population in the geographic area of analysis. For example, in a community where persons of one race (e.g., White) are concentrated in one neighborhood and persons of another race (e.g., African American) are concentrated in a different neighborhood, racial segregation exists in each of the neighborhoods.<sup>2</sup>

---

<sup>1</sup> See Interim Report, at 5, 8, 33, 35, 36, 40, 45, 48, and 55.

<sup>2</sup> See proposed 24 CFR § 5.152, 88 Fed. Reg. 8761 (emphasis added).

The Proposed AFFH Rule defined affirmatively furthering fair housing itself, in pertinent part, to mean:

taking meaningful actions, in addition to combating discrimination, that overcome patterns of segregation, eliminate inequities in housing and related community assets, and foster inclusive communities free from barriers that restrict access to opportunity based on protected characteristics. Specifically, affirmatively furthering fair housing means taking meaningful actions that, taken together, reduce or end significant disparities in housing needs and in access to opportunity, replacing segregated living patterns with truly integrated and balanced living patterns, transforming racially and ethnically concentrated areas of poverty into well-resourced areas of opportunity, and fostering and maintaining compliance with civil rights and fair housing laws and requirements.<sup>3</sup>

In short, the Proposed AFFH Rule was neither silent nor neutral about the need to integrate.

The Proposed AFFH Rule also highlighted the importance of not perpetuating segregation. Two of the identified “fair housing issues” were “ongoing local or regional segregation or lack of integration” and “racially or ethnically concentrated areas of poverty.”<sup>4</sup> “Fair Housing goals” are goals that “are designed and can be reasonably expected to overcome circumstances that cause, increase, contribute to, maintain, or perpetuate fair housing issues in the program participant’s geographic areas of analysis.”<sup>5</sup>

Part of the required certifications that program recipients would have been required to make was the certification “will take no action that is materially inconsistent with the duty to affirmatively further fair housing.”<sup>6</sup>

Last, the Proposed AFFH Rule explained what a “Balanced Approach” was intended to encompass:

For example, place-based strategies include actions and investment to substantially improve living conditions and community assets in high-poverty neighborhoods while preserving existing affordable housing stock to meet the needs of underserved communities and address inequitable access to affordable rental and homeownership opportunities. Mobility strategies, on the other hand, focus on the removal of barriers that prevent people from accessing affordable housing, for

---

<sup>3</sup> See proposed 24 CFR § 5.152, 88 Fed. Reg. 8557 (emphases added).

<sup>4</sup> See proposed 24 CFR § 5.152, 88 Fed. Reg. 8559.

<sup>5</sup> See id. (emphasis added).

<sup>6</sup> There are multiple places in the Proposed AFFH Rule where this requirement is imposed. See, e.g., proposed 24 CFR § 5.166, 88 Fed. Reg. 8574 (certification required before receipt of federal financial assistance) and proposed amendment to 24 CFR 91.225(a)(1), 88 Fed. Reg. 8582 (requirement for each jurisdiction throughout the period for which federal assistance is extended).

example in well-resourced areas of opportunity that have historically lacked such housing and effective housing mobility programs and services. To achieve a balanced approach, community planning and investment would need to balance place-based strategies with mobility strategies. Both place-based and mobility strategies that are part of a balanced approach must be designed to achieve positive fair housing outcomes.<sup>7</sup>

As is immediately apparent, the place-based part of the Proposed AFFH Rule was encouraging four things: housing rehabilitation, housing preservation, general improvements in community living conditions, and supplementation of community assets. It was not encouraging the practice of continuing to place subsidized housing in areas where that housing has traditionally been concentrated, as it could not do so consistent with the goals of reducing segregation; avoiding contribution, maintenance, or perpetuation of segregation; or confronting the existence of racially concentrated areas of poverty.<sup>8</sup>

The City Charter's Section 16-a is far more equivocal than the Proposed AFFH rule. It is true that segregation is mentioned once – but only in a subparagraph combining making public investments to “address discrimination, segregation, and poverty.”<sup>9</sup> What is required to be “combatted” is “discrimination,” not segregation.<sup>10</sup>

---

<sup>7</sup> See proposed 24 CFR § 5.152, 88 Fed. Reg. 8558 (emphases supplied).

<sup>8</sup> This is one of the reasons that the statement in the Interim Report that “the City must continue to build affordable housing in low-income neighborhoods that have suffered through decades of neglect and disinvestment,” Interim Report, at 50, sounds so discordant. No one is suggesting that new affordable housing be banned entirely from the neighborhoods that have had disproportionately high levels of such housing located therein, but AFFH is a remedial process. One doesn't solve the problem of overconcentration by ceasing to exacerbate the problem (although that's an important first step). One solves the problem by rebalancing – compensatory building in areas of exclusion so that, for an extended period, the focus of affordable housing construction is emphatically not in “low-income neighborhoods that have suffered through decades of neglect and disinvestment.” All the other investments -- investments that the Proposed AFFH Plan recommended – can and should be carried out. And, we should have learned by now that low-income households can and want to take advantage of low-income housing across the City. When it is made available, overwhelming majorities of New Yorkers of every race and ethnicity apply in staggeringly large numbers. Finally, the description of neighborhoods as having “suffered through decades of neglect and disinvestment” reads as though it might have been written in the 1970's. The reality in 2025 is many low-income neighborhoods have seen significant investments over the last 30+ years. The “neighborhood stabilization” arguments of another era that called for the concentration of low-income housing in already low-income neighborhoods do not have salience today.

<sup>9</sup> See Charter § 16-a(b)(2)(f).

<sup>10</sup> See Charter § 16-a(b)(2)(a).

Nothing in the factors required for the development community-district level production targets specifies activity to reduce segregation, avoid perpetuating segregation. Nothing addresses the importance of mixed-income housing. Nothing deals with continuing obligation under the Fair Housing Act (albeit currently unenforced by the Trump Administration) to deconcentrate the location of affordable housing.<sup>11</sup>

Before turning to specific proposals for proposed changes to Charter text, one further observation. It is a critical error to formulate (or neglect to formulate) Charter language based on the current performance of an official or an agency. However inclined one might be to laud current HPD performance, current HPD personnel, or both, agency leadership and agency personnel change over time. There was an extraordinarily long period where HPD has no interest in affirmatively furthering fair housing. It is important to have Charter provisions written for whomever may be implementing them.

The proposal that follows is a shortened and modified version of language ADC first proposed in its May 30, 2025 submission. Its definitions are designed to address problems identified with Charter § 16-a, not designed to deal comprehensively other topics that might require broader definitions.

>> Proposed Charter text <<

Subdivision (a) of section 16-a of the charter is amended by adding the following definitions:

Affirmatively further fair housing. The term “affirmatively furthering fair housing” includes as a mandatory feature taking meaningful, concrete actions that are designed to materially reduce segregation.

Perpetuate segregation. The term “perpetuate segregation” includes following a course of action or inaction that slows down the pace of desegregation compared with a feasible alternative.

Segregation. The terms “segregation” means a condition within a community district or other geography in which there is a significant overrepresentation or underrepresentation of persons of a particular race or ethnicity when compared to the city as a whole.

---

<sup>11</sup> A separate obligation exists under the requirement of the NYC Human Rights Law not to perpetuate segregation.

Subparagraph (a) of paragraph (2) of subdivision (b) of section 16-a of the charter is amended to read as follows:

(a) Combatting discrimination and segregation;

Subdivision (d) of section 16-a of the charter is amended to add a new paragraph 3 to read as follows:

3. Production targets established pursuant to paragraph (2) of this subdivision shall be designed:

(a) to overcome existing patterns of segregation to the maximum extent feasible and shall not create, maintain, or otherwise perpetuate segregation;

(b) to deconcentrate the location of affordable housing, including deeply affordable housing units;

(c) to encourage the development of mixed-income housing; and

(d) to encourage a greater range of household incomes among the households living in a community district.

Infrastructure

Requiring a finding that a proposal is “adequately supported by transit, sewer, and other infrastructure” as a prerequisite to eligibility for the Affordable Housing Fast Track is a prescription for many highly segregated neighborhoods to remain so, with proponents of continued exclusion making sure to advocate against infrastructure improvements. Note in this regard, that the lack of infrastructure, where it stymies efforts at inclusion, is itself an impediment to fair housing choice, or, in the lingo of the Proposed AFFH Rule, a “fair housing issue.”

>> Proposed Charter text modifying Commission proposal and existing language <<

Modifying proposed Charter ¶ 197-f(c) as follows:

c. In determining whether to approve, approve with modifications, or disapprove an application described in subdivision b of this section, the city planning commission shall assess and make a finding regarding the consistency of such application with the fair housing plan submitted pursuant to subdivision b of section sixteen-a and ~~existing~~ transportation, sewer and other infrastructure that currently exists or that can feasibly be enhanced subsequent to the approval or approval with modifications of an application described in subdivision b of this section.

Amending Charter § 16-a(d)(2)(c) to read as follows:

(c) Relevant data from the equitable development data tool or other sources on access to transit, employment opportunities, open space, and other neighborhood amenities and public services; provided, however, that: (i) the absence of such access shall not be a factor limiting a production target if it is feasible to begin adding to such access in the 10 years following the promulgation of the production target; and (ii) where the absence of such access is permissible to be considered, any limitation in production target should be the minimum limitation consistent with the obligation set forth in subparagraph (a) of paragraph (3) of this subdivision.

>>>> Separate note. <<<<

In paragraph 7 of the Commission’s proposal headed “Fast Track for Affordable Housing,” there is a reference on line 3 of page 11 to “section sixteen-b.” Is that not supposed to read “subdivision b of section 16-a”?

Fast-track for Publicly Financed Affordable Housing Developments

Unless a more well-defined definition of “essential character of the neighborhood” can be devised, the proposed provision – which, as noted, will inevitably lead to protracted litigation – should be dropped. ADC notes that the requirement is not needed because of a practical political reality: proposing a building that is truly out-of-keeping with neighborhood character – not simply one that is different or modestly bigger – would be politically untenable even in the most pro-affordable-housing environment (no one wants to go back to the errors of the 1970s).

>> Proposed Charter text modifying Commission proposal to amend existing Charter language <<

Proposed paragraph (4) of subdivision (a) of proposed Charter § 666-a is deleted and the subsequent paragraphs renumbered accordingly.

Expedited Land Use Review Procedure

While current practice conforms to the Commission’s assumption about HDHC’s being the entities that own and manage 100 percent affordable housing, a forward-looking document like the Charter needs to avoid excluding other models. For example, one can have a new mixed-income project, one where there are market-rate condos built and owned by a private developer for sale to individual condo owners, and a subset of condo units built by the private developer that are transferred to either an HDFC or another not-for-profit for the purpose of use as permanently affordable rentals. (This is a variation on the theme of the recently passed NYS Affordable Housing Retention Act.)

Likewise, the City itself could decide to acquire property where it intends to continue to own and operate it for affordable housing purposes.

It is possible that proposed new Charter §197-e(b)(6)<sup>12</sup> could act as a catchall, but it would be better to add language as follows.

>> Proposed Charter text modifying Commission proposal <<

Proposed Charter § 197-e(b)(4)(a) is modified as follows:

(a) to companies that have been organized exclusively to develop housing projects 5 for persons of low income, or to any other entity that is required by a regulatory agreement to transfer ownership or management of a portion of a housing project for the purpose of owning or managing permanently affordable housing units that are part of the project;

Proposed Charter § 197-e(b)(5)(a) is modified as follows:

(a) Disposition of such property to a company that has been organized exclusively 18 to develop housing projects for persons of low income, or to any other entity that is required by a regulatory agreement to transfer ownership or management of a portion of a housing project for the purpose of owning or managing permanently affordable housing units that are part of the project;

Proposed Charter § 197-e(b)(5) is modified to add a new subparagraph (a-1), as follows:

(a-1) Retention of such property for the purpose of providing for the development and operation, in whole or in part, of housing projects for persons of low income.

Proposed Charter § 666-a(a)(1) is modified to read as follows:

1. The building is or will be owned, in whole or in part, by a housing development fund company formed pursuant to article eleven of the private housing finance law or by the city of New York;

---

<sup>12</sup> See Proposed Amendments, “Expedited Land Use Review Procedure,” page 10, lines 19-20.

Land Use Appeals Board

Providing for a Land Use is an elegant resolution to both the substantive problem and to the political issues involved in public approval of proposals to amend the Charter. It is especially useful for the Board to be able to bring up matters on its own initiative.

Having said that, is it really wise to assume that future borough presidents will take positions as sensitive to citywide needs as Borough President Reynoso?

Speaker Adams did help shepherd the City of Yes proposal to final passage (amended to satisfy some of the demands of some of the most exclusionary council districts in the city). But she was the first Speaker ever to have a fair-housing agenda.

And it is not truly the case that a Speaker is a citywide official in the way a mayor is. A Speaker is answerable not to voters who have elected her, but to Council Members who have elected her, some of whom continue to believe in the City of No.

In truth, it is the addition of additional power that changes the equation, and that would be true even if the power were vested in a mayor alone.

That is why ADC's previous proposal, submitted on May 30, 2025 sought to change the balance of power by shifting the burden of rejection or modification to the Council, and doing so with a super-majority requirement. That plan would have protected City Planning decisions unless 75 percent of the Council voted otherwise. Put another way, to the extent that a mayoral administration were able to cobble together the support of just 13 of 51 Council Members, the City Planning decision would go into effect, and do so without modification.

ADC certainly supports the proposed procedure over the status quo but notes that this is a system that may well need to be revisited.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7362896 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 22:07:02 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 06:06:27 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: 27 Rings

Email:

Phone:

Comments: **Petition to the NYC Charter Revision Commission: Liberate the Yankees from the Tyranny of Hal Steinbrenner & Co.** **Whereas:** The New York Yankees are not merely a baseball team—they are a civic institution, a sacred trust passed down from Ruth and Gehrig to Jeter and Rivera, embodying the pride and excellence of New York City; **Whereas:** Hal Steinbrenner, Brian Cashman, and Aaron Boone have committed **crimes against humanity** (or at least crimes against the Bronx) by: - Prioritizing profit over pennants, treating the Yankees like a mid-market team despite record revenues; - Squandering generational talents with incompetent roster construction (see: the tragic waste of Judge & Cole's primes); - Subjecting fans to the horror of watching Aaron Hicks, Josh Donaldson, and Joey Gallo for years longer than necessary; - Refusing to fire Boone despite his baffling bullpen decisions and inexplicable optimism in the face of .500 mediocrity; **Whereas:** The City of New York has a moral obligation to intervene when a public trust is being mismanaged—just as it would if someone turned Central Park into a parking lot or replaced the Statue of Liberty's torch with a NFT gallery; **Therefore, the NYC Charter Revision Commission must place a ballot initiative before the people of New York to:** 1. **Free the Yankees from Steinbrenner's tyranny** via eminent domain or hostile takeover by a consortium of Derek Jeter, Mariano Rivera, and a panel of angry WFAN callers; 2. **Sentence Hal, Cashman, and Boone to Rikers Island** (minimum security, but with mandatory viewing of every 2000s Yankees playoff loss on loop); 3. **Establish a "Yankees Oversight Committee"** composed of Bernie Williams, Paul O'Neill, and a randomly selected season-ticket holder to veto all future trades and lineup decisions; 4. **Redirect all "luxury tax" savings** toward signing Juan Soto, fixing the bullpen, and building a monument to the ghost of George Steinbrenner's fury. **Conclusion:** The Yankees are too vital to be left in the hands of incompetents. If the City can regulate street vendors and taxi medallions, it can certainly rescue its baseball team from the abyss. Let the people vote—before Hal trades Judge for another relief pitcher with a 6.00 ERA. **#FreeTheYankees #HalToRikers #SellTheTeam** *Signed,* *The Ghost of Billy Martin* *& 4 Million Tormented Fans*

---

HTTP_ADDR: 100[.]12[.]174[.]55, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 100[.]12[.]174[.]55

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8971163 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 22:09:16 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 06:08:54 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: James R Irizarry

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I wanted to speak against the jungle primary proposal. For a system where the top two vote getters in June go to the general, the most likely outcome is the most well funded candidates will dominate in a crowded field. This will increase the amount of money injected into our politics and help shut out grassroots candidates. We currently have a huge issue with outside money in our politics with billionaires like Elon Musk trying to buy elections and this will make it worse. This will also see the devastation of minor parties and turn the city into a one party state. Most elections would just devolve into contests between two Democrats. If the proposal was present this year, the general election would most likely be a rematch between Zohran Mamdani and Andrew Cuomo. Furthermore, I am concerned how the jungle primaries would interact with the state's fusion voting laws whereby multiple parties can nominate the same candidate in the general. I urge you not put this proposal on the ballot.

-----

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9578013 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 22:15:12 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 06:15:00 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Liberate MSG

Email:

Phone:

Comments: PETITION TO THE NYC CHARTER REVISION COMMISSION: A BALLOT INITIATIVE FOR JUSTICE AGAINST JAMES DOLAN To the Esteemed Members of the New York City Charter Revision Commission: We, the citizens of New York City and allies across the globe, do hereby submit this petition for the inclusion of a ballot initiative in the next municipal election, requesting the City of New York formally petition the International Criminal Court (ICC) to investigate and issue an arrest warrant for James L. Dolan—billionaire, amateur kazooist, and tyrant-in-residence of Madison Square Garden. Whereas: James Dolan has presided over the New York Knicks for over two decades of unparalleled futility, public embarrassment, and systemic fan abuse, turning the world's most iconic basketball franchise into a dystopian reality show; He has similarly mismanaged the New York Rangers, producing more heartbreak than a Times Square Elmo on a bender; Under his reign, Madison Square Garden, once a cathedral of New York sports and culture, has become a hostile surveillance zone, replete with facial recognition bans targeting lawyers, critics, and enemies of the Dolan regime; His vengeful ejection of beloved Knicks legend Charles Oakley from MSG constituted a symbolic execution of the city's soul and demands full restitution and public apology; His band, JD and the Straight Shot, is a psychological weapon of mass destruction, with televised kazoo solos on FOX 5 and beyond causing untold anguish, auditory trauma, and spiritual corrosion to millions of innocent viewers; His misuse of New York cultural institutions, including Radio City Music Hall and The Beacon Theatre, is tantamount to cultural sabotage; The United Nations Convention Against Torture may apply here. At the very least, the Geneva Conventions deserve a footnote; Therefore, be it resolved: That the voters of New York City be allowed to decide on a binding municipal resolution requesting that the International Criminal Court at The Hague investigate James Dolan for: Crimes Against Aesthetic Humanity Perpetual Sports Mismanagement in the First Degree Cultural Torture via Kazoo Violations of Public Trust and Civic Joy Further, we demand the symbolic sentencing of James Dolan to a lifetime at Rikers Island, even post-closure in 2027, via specially maintained solitary cellboat if necessary. And we call upon the City Council to pursue economic restitution to Charles Oakley, as well as emotional reparations to Knicks and Rangers fans, quantified by years of suffering. This is not merely about sports. This is about justice. dignity. and music crimes. Let us be the generation that says "No more." Let the will of the people echo from Harlem to Staten Island: Dolan Must Go.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 100[.]12[.]174[.]55, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 100[.]12[.]174[.]55

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Commissioners: No jungle primaries in NYC.

From: Leigh Smith <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 22:22:38 +0000

---

<meta http-equiv="Content-Type" content="text/html; charset=us-ascii">

<title></title>

<style type="text/css">

#outlook a {padding:0;}

.ExternalClass {width:100%;}

.ExternalClass, .ExternalClass p, .ExternalClass span, .ExternalClass font, .ExternalClass td,
.ExternalClass div {line-height: 100%;}

img {outline:none; text-decoration:none; -ms-interpolation-mode: bicubic;}

a img {border:none;}

.image_fix {display:block;}

p {margin: 1em 0;}

h1, h2, h3, h4, h5, h6 {color: #404040;}

table td {border-collapse: collapse;}

@media only screen and (max-device-width: 480px) {

a[href^="tel"], a[href^="sms"] {

text-decoration: none;

color: blue;

/* pointer-events: none; */

cursor: default;

}

.mobile_link a[href^="tel"], .mobile_link a[href^="sms"] {

text-decoration: default;

color: orange;

pointer-events: auto;

cursor: default;

}

}

```
@media only screen and (min-device-width: 768px) and (max-device-width: 1024px) {
  a[href^="tel"], a[href^="sms"] {
    text-decoration: none;
    color: blue;
    /* pointer-events: none; */
    cursor: default;
  }
}
```

```
.mobile_link a[href^="tel"], .mobile_link a[href^="sms"] {
  text-decoration: default;
  color: orange;
  pointer-events: auto;
  cursor: default;
}
}
```

```
@media only screen and (-webkit-min-device-pixel-ratio: 2) {

}
```

```
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:.75){

}
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:1){

}
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:1.5){

}
```

```
</style><!--[if IEMobile 7]>
<style type="text/css">
```

```
</style>
<![endif]--><!--[if gte mso 9]>
<style>
```

```
</style>
<![endif]-->
</head>
```

<body leftmargin="0" marginwidth="0" topmargin="0" marginheight="0" offset="0" style="margin: 0;padding: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF;width: 100% !important;-webkit-text-size-adjust:100%; -ms-text-size-adjust:100%;">

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe.&nbsp; Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

&nbsp;

<center>

<table cellpadding="0" cellspacing="0" border="0" id="backgroundTable" style="margin: 0;padding: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF;height: 100% !important;width: 100% !important;line-height: 100% !important; border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td align="center" valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="0" cellspacing="0" style="border: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF; border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td align="center" valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="10" cellspacing="0" style="border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse; background-color: #FFFFFF; padding:10px 10px 40px;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="10" cellspacing="0" style="border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;" width="600">

Charter Revision Commission Charter Revision Commission NYC,

Dear Commissioners,

My name is Leigh Smith, a resident of Brooklyn. I am testifying specifically in regard of Proposal 6 and I am advocating the Charter Revision Commission to reject Proposal 6. I thank you for giving me opportunity to testify.

I am drawn to testify because I feel I bring a unique perspective in that I am a U.S. citizen immigrant originally from Australia. That country has a notable history of stable political debate and policy development. It features a range of political opinions across the political spectrum, represented in local, state and federal political systems, and has a long history of alliance with the United States of America. Notably, it has featured a ranked choice voting system at state level and federal level since the early 1900s.

The key principle of party primary elections is as a mechanism of policy development. This happens through debate and ultimately a competition of ideas. It has been a notable improvement of NYC electoral politics that the well established voting system of ranked choice voting, adopted by multiple democracies, which allows an elector to represent their preference for candidates and their policies, that they most want, and the candidates and policies they least want, simultaneously. As has been demonstrated in the most recent primary, ranked choice voting allows voters to aggregate policies from different candidates of aligned policy positions, rather than having policies compete against each other by virtue of the originating candidate.

Proposal 6 will have the effect of removing ranked choice voting as a means of capturing the political expression of the party voting populace. This will have the effect of reducing voter choice in the primaries and ultimately, by eliminating ranked choice voting, in the mayoral election. My greatest concern is that an open (or jungle) primary will have the effect of removing ranking from the political preference of voters, and in effect collapsing the voting to two first-past-the-post elections, first the open primary, then mayoral election, having the effect of reducing elector preference.

I argue for Proposal 6 to be rejected, and that open primaries are not adopted. I would, however, advocate that if an open primary is adopted, that ranked choice voting should be used across all candidates of all parties standing in that primary, and indeed, that ranked choice voting should be adopted for the mayoral election also. But the key concern, of expanding voter choice, is best achieved by keeping ranked choice voting for political parties, and expanding it's use to the mayoral elections.

Leigh Smith

[REDACTED]

```
</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

</center>

</body>
</html>
```

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9966059 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 22:47:43 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 06:47:17 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Blooper

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: My Entire Team Stinks

Comments: PETITION TO THE NYC COMMISSION: BALLOT INITIATIVE TO PUNISH THE ENEMIES OF BASEBALL AND METS SURVIVAL Fellow citizens of the Five Boroughs—rise up. We the long-suffering fans of the New York Mets demand the NYC Commission take immediate action to uphold truth, justice, and baseball sanity by placing the following initiative on the ballot: --- ⚾ ARTICLE I: CRIMES AGAINST BASEBALL — THE ACCUSED 1. Jeff McNeil — aka “Jeff McFeeble” Charge: High Inconsistency and Unclutch Behavior in the 1st Degree Evidence: Infield pop-ups with runners in scoring position. Turning gold glove defense into Little League side quests. One clutch hit every 47 business days. Punishment Proposed: Mandatory re-education camp at the Brooklyn Cyclones batting cages. --- 2. Starling Marte — aka “Starling Farte” Charge: Felony-level Baserunning Confusion and Outfield Absenteeism Evidence: Throws to the wrong base. Routinely forgets outs. Looks like he’s running in molasses while chewing air. Punishment Proposed: Assigned as the 7 train MTA announcer, forced to apologize after every delay with “Sorry folks, I’m Starling Farte and I forgot how baseball works.” --- 3. Buster Olney Charge: Collusion with Atlanta Mascot Blooper, Performing the Chop on Sacred Queens Soil Evidence: Smirking during

Mets losses. Quoting Braves stats with joy. Seen on X (formerly Twitter) sharing articles titled "Are the Mets Cursed Forever?" Punishment Proposed: Publicly booed on the 7th inning stretch while Blooper is exiled to Staten Island. --- 4. Chappell Roan Charge: Musical Hex-Casting & Stadium-Wide Demoralization Evidence: They played "HOTTOGO" at Citi Field. The bullpen exploded. Lindor's bat shattered. McFeeble hit into a triple play. Roan then hit the Griddy on the dugout with SVP, whose head was visibly spinning. Punishment Proposed: Perform "HOTTOGO" backwards in front of the Jackie Robinson Rotunda to reverse the curse. 3 times. On a Tuesday. --- 5. José Butto & Ed-Lose Díaz Charge: Bullpen Meltdown Conspiracy Evidence: Butto throws 58-foot changeups. Díaz gives up 450-foot bombs while blinking out Morse code for "I don't got it." Punishment Proposed: Forced to play 3 innings of Wiffle ball every night against the cast of Bluey until they locate their command. --- DEMAND FOR BALLOT INITIATIVE We, the citizens of Mets Nation, demand this initiative be placed on the next general election ballot under the title: "Ballot Proposal #M-E-T-S: Make Everyone Try Seriously." Let the people decide whether failure of this magnitude can go unpunished. --- CLOSING STATEMENT New York is a city of grit, pride, and baseball heartbreak. But this? This is war. If we allow Jeff McFeeble to dribble another 2-hopper to second... If we allow Chappell Roan to curse us with HOTTOGO while SVP rotates like a malfunctioning bobblehead... If Buster Olney and Blooper get to Chop their way through our misery unchecked... Then democracy has already failed. --- SIGNED, Citizens for Mets Emotional Stability Citi Field Concourse Level, Section 137 BELIEVE IN BASEBALL. DEMAND CONSEQUENCES.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2a05:b0c7:6949::1, 95[.]100[.]135[.]236, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Android 10; Mobile; rv:109.0) Gecko/115.0 Firefox/115.0
True-Client-IP: 2a05:b0c7:6949::1

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Commissioners: No jungle primaries in NYC.

From: Karen Wharton <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 19:25:17 +0000

---

<meta http-equiv="Content-Type" content="text/html; charset=utf-8">

<title></title>

<style type="text/css">

#outlook a {padding:0;}

.ExternalClass {width:100%;}

.ExternalClass, .ExternalClass p, .ExternalClass span, .ExternalClass font, .ExternalClass td,
.ExternalClass div {line-height: 100%;}

img {outline:none; text-decoration:none; -ms-interpolation-mode: bicubic;}

a img {border:none;}

.image_fix {display:block;}

p {margin: 1em 0;}

h1, h2, h3, h4, h5, h6 {color: #404040;}

table td {border-collapse: collapse;}

@media only screen and (max-device-width: 480px) {

a[href^="tel"], a[href^="sms"] {

text-decoration: none;

color: blue;

/* pointer-events: none; */

cursor: default;

}

.mobile_link a[href^="tel"], .mobile_link a[href^="sms"] {

text-decoration: default;

color: orange;

pointer-events: auto;

cursor: default;

}

}

```
@media only screen and (min-device-width: 768px) and (max-device-width: 1024px) {
  a[href^="tel"], a[href^="sms"] {
    text-decoration: none;
    color: blue;
    /* pointer-events: none; */
    cursor: default;
  }
}
```

```
.mobile_link a[href^="tel"], .mobile_link a[href^="sms"] {
  text-decoration: default;
  color: orange;
  pointer-events: auto;
  cursor: default;
}
}
```

```
@media only screen and (-webkit-min-device-pixel-ratio: 2) {

}
```

```
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:.75){

}
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:1){

}
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:1.5){

}
```

```
</style><!--[if IEMobile 7]>
<style type="text/css">
```

```
</style>
<![endif]--><!--[if gte mso 9]>
<style>
```

```
</style>
<![endif]-->
</head>
```

<body leftmargin="0" marginwidth="0" topmargin="0" marginheight="0" offset="0" style="margin: 0;padding: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF;width: 100% !important;-webkit-text-size-adjust:100%; -ms-text-size-adjust:100%;">

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe.&nbsp; Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

&nbsp;

<center>

<table cellpadding="0" cellspacing="0" border="0" id="backgroundTable" style="margin: 0;padding: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF;height: 100% !important;width: 100% !important;line-height: 100% !important; border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td align="center" valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="0" cellspacing="0" style="border: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF; border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td align="center" valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="10" cellspacing="0" style="border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse; background-color: #FFFFFF; padding:10px 10px 40px;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="10" cellspacing="0" style="border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;" width="600">

Charter Revision Commission Charter Revision Commission NYC,

Dear Commissioners,

I am writing to urge you to reject any proposal to implement a jungle primary system (top-two or top-four) in New York City.

Jungle primaries are not a path to greater democracy. In fact, they threaten to reverse the hard-won progress we've made with ranked-choice voting and small-donor public financing—reforms that have helped expand participation, especially in Black, brown, immigrant, and working-class communities.

Data from California shows that jungle primaries:

Lower voter turnout (2014 saw a historic low of 25.2%)

In both 2022 and 2024, turnout hovered at just 33%, even with universal vote-by-mail which is about average for a non-presidential year

Disadvantage candidates of color and grassroots challengers

Force general elections between two candidates of the same party, leaving many voters without a meaningful choice

Even more concerning, this proposal is being pushed without real community input. The Charter Revision Commission has not held broad-based discussions in the neighborhoods that this change would most impact. Most public testimony in favor has come from a few interconnected organizations, some of which are even based out of state.

I urge the Commission to:

Reject jungle primaries in all forms

Respect the reforms New Yorkers have already chosen

Engage directly with communities before fundamentally altering our elections

Let's strengthen—not undermine—representation and equity in New York City.

Sincerely,

Karen

Karen Wharton

```
</tbody>
</table>

</center>

</body>
</html>
```

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1978691 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 23:11:24 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 07:10:59 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: wilponzi

Email:

Phone:

Comments: PETITION TO THE NYC COMMISSION: Absolutely. Here's a mock petition in the style of a fan uprising, brimming with righteous rage and theatrical flair — worthy of a Frank the Tank rant, a Citi Field rally cry, and every Mets fan who suffered under the Wilpon regime. --- PETITION TO SENTENCE FRED AND JEFF WILPON TO A LIFETIME OF COMMUNITY SERVICE FOR CRIMES AGAINST HUMANITY (AND THE NEW YORK METS) --- TO: NYC CRC And the Good People of Flushing, Queens --- WHEREAS: Fred and Jeff Wilpon, once owners of the New York Mets Baseball Club, did oversee and orchestrate one of the most prolonged eras of fan suffering, competitive futility, and fiscal absurdity in modern sports history; And WHEREAS, they did personally: Sabotage rosters with penny-pinching disguised as “loyalty,” Interfere in baseball decisions with all the tact of a toddler with a T-ball bat, Drive away talent (see: Zack Wheeler, Daniel Murphy), And cozy up with Bernie Madoff in a financial bromance that nearly obliterated the franchise; And WHEREAS, Jeff Wilpon in particular was known as a meddling executive with a fantasy baseball mindset, micromanaging player development while possessing neither the baseball IQ nor humility of a Little League coach; And WHEREAS, during their reign, the Mets: Became a punchline, Wasted the prime years of David Wright, Jose Reyes, and Jacob deGrom, Made fans fear offseasons more than the regular season, Created a spiritual depression so deep, Citi Field began sinking into the Earth; --- WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, DO HEREBY DEMAND: That Fred and Jeff Wilpon be sentenced to LIFETIME COMMUNITY SERVICE in accordance with baseball karmic law, including but not limited to: --- ⚔ SENTENCING TERMS: 1. Every 7 Train Ride Must Be at Rush Hour, carrying a sandwich board that reads: > "I Gave Bobby Bonilla a 35-Year Contract." 2. Serve as Ushers at Citi Field, but only in the 500-level seats behind the foul pole, where angry fans ask them, "Where were you in 2009?" 3. Personally mow the infield grass before every Mets home game with a push mower that plays "Meet the Mets" on repeat at 140 decibels. 4. Volunteer as bullpen catchers, wearing chest protectors that say "Sorry, Jacob." 5. Lead financial literacy classes for future team owners titled: > "How Not to Lose Your Franchise in a Ponzi Scheme." 6. Write daily apologies to Mets fans, posted on the video board between innings, beginning each letter with: > "Dear Beloved Flushing Faithful, we were the true Amazin' disaster." --- SIGNED, Every Mets fan who sat through the Jason Bay years Everyone who wore black jerseys out of trauma, not nostalgia That one guy who still says "Bring back Wally Backman" unironically And the ghost of Bobby Valentine's fake mustache --- FLUSHING IS A NEIGHBORHOOD OF HOPE. THE WILPONS TURNED IT INTO A DUMPSTER FIRE. Let justice be done. Let service be served. --- SIGN THIS PETITION, AND SET BASEBALL FREE. Justice for Mets fans. Justice for Queens. No more Wilpons. Not even in the team store.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2001:67c:e60:c0c:192:42:116:214, 2[.]16[.]7[.]30, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88,
10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Android 10; Mobile; rv:109.0) Gecko/115.0 Firefox/115.0
True-Client-IP: 2001:67c:e60:c0c:192:42:116:214

_____

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8529692 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 23:17:19 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 07:17:05 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Arlene Geiger

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Our group, Upper West Side Action Group opposes an open primary. Democrats should choose a candidate that represents their values and Republicans can do the same.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b800:da8c:8cb5:7feb:ff27:80c3, 23[.]40[.]16[.]65, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1

True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b800:da8c:8cb5:7feb:ff27:80c3

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-989594 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 23:55:11 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 07:54:15 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Marian Rich

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: First and foremost, thank you for your time and energy. As a lifelong independent I've been impressed with the fairness you've shown. Why should any voter be forced into a political party in order to vote? It has been clear to me that the Commission is solidly on the side of the voter. Thank you so much for that. You are putting NYC voters ahead of the Democratic Party. (We all know NYC is a DP town.) I supported nonpartisan primaries when Mayor Bloomberg put it on the ballot. Every time I heard "jungle primaries," at the 7/7 hearing, I found it deeply offensive. It is pure Democratic Party propaganda. Let all voters vote! Hyper partisanship is tearing us apart. Thank you for your commitment to a fair process. Let all voters vote! P.S. I pay taxes for tax-funded primaries, but I can't vote. Thank you, again. Marian Rich

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 65[.]88[.]88[.]231, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5374867 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 23:59:53 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 07:59:33 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Vanecia Wilson

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: On behalf of the United Federation of Teachers (UFT), representing over 200,000 active and retired members across New York City, we are proud to speak up and out about issues important to our members, their families, and the public schools that serve our city's children. Our teachers, paraprofessionals, and school staff are the backbone of this city's educational system, keeping our public schools moving every day, and we appreciate the opportunity to testify before you. We are here to convey serious concerns about the proposal to eliminate party primaries in New York City. This change may be framed as a reform, but in practice, it could risk undermining the ability of working people, including teachers and school employees, to organize politically. It dilutes the influence of communities who rely on shared values and collective action to select candidates, and it specifically threatens the voice of those dedicated to the future of public education. Party primaries are not perfect, but they are a key avenue for unions like ours to engage members, build grassroots power, and shape the direction of public policy, particularly as it pertains to our schools. Primaries allow working-class communities and educators to coalesce around candidates who understand their lives, who champion adequate funding for public schools, fair contracts for teachers, and robust support for our students. Removing them introduces chaos and opens the door to high-dollar special interests that drown out local voices – voices that are essential for protecting and improving our public education system. We know from other cities and states that so-called “open” or “nonpartisan” primaries do not result in broader participation; they often do the opposite. Voter confusion increases; turnout drops in communities of color, which disproportionately rely on strong public schools; and well-organized, well-funded candidates dominate, often at the expense of those supporting working people and the educators who serve them. In a city like New York, where the Democratic primary is functionally the general election in most districts, this change would reduce real choice, not expand it, making it harder for teachers and parents to elect representatives truly committed to public education. We urge the Commission to reconsider this proposal. True democracy requires participation and pathways for organized constituencies to be heard. That includes Labor. It includes the millions of New Yorkers who see their union as not just a workplace force, but a political voice for their professions and for the vital institutions they serve, like our public schools. The United Federation of Teachers stands firm in its belief that preserving party primaries is crucial for ensuring that the voices of teachers, parents, and students continue to shape the future of our city. Thank you for your time and for the chance to be heard.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:4400:2223:1484:db14:92c0:8c70, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:4400:2223:1484:db14:92c0:8c70

_____

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Testimony of the United Federation of Teachers for the Charter Revision Commission

On behalf of the United Federation of Teachers (UFT), representing over 200,000 active and retired members across New York City, we are proud to speak up and out about issues important to our members, their families, and the public schools that serve our city's children. Our teachers, paraprofessionals, and school staff are the backbone of this city's educational system, keeping our public schools moving every day, and we appreciate the opportunity to testify before you.

We are here to convey serious concerns about the proposal to eliminate party primaries in New York City. This change may be framed as a reform, but in practice, it could risk undermining the ability of working people, including teachers and school employees, to organize politically. It dilutes the influence of communities who rely on shared values and collective action to select candidates, and it specifically threatens the voice of those dedicated to the future of public education.

Party primaries are not perfect, but they are a key avenue for unions like ours to engage members, build grassroots power, and shape the direction of public policy, particularly as it pertains to our schools. Primaries allow working-class communities and educators to coalesce around candidates who understand their lives, who champion adequate funding for public schools, fair contracts for teachers, and robust support for our students. Removing them introduces chaos and opens the door to high-dollar special interests that drown out local voices – voices that are essential for protecting and improving our public education system.

We know from other cities and states that so-called “open” or “nonpartisan” primaries do not result in broader participation; they often do the opposite. Voter confusion increases; turnout drops in communities of color, which disproportionately rely on strong public schools; and well-organized, well-funded candidates dominate, often at the expense of those supporting working people and the educators who serve them. In a city like New York, where the Democratic primary is functionally the general election in most districts, this change would reduce real choice, not expand it, making it harder for teachers and parents to elect representatives truly committed to public education.

We urge the Commission to reconsider this proposal. True democracy requires participation and pathways for organized constituencies to be heard. That includes Labor. It includes the millions of New Yorkers who see their union as not just a workplace force, but a political voice for their professions and for the vital institutions they serve, like our public schools. The United Federation of Teachers stands firm in its belief that preserving party primaries is crucial for ensuring that the voices of teachers, parents, and students continue to shape the future of our city.

Thank you for your time and for the chance to be heard.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5703936 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 00:29:33 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 08:29:10 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Catherine Du

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Good evening, my name is Catherine, and I volunteer with Fridays for Future NYC and the Sunrise Movement. I am a rising freshman at Hunter College High School in the Upper East Side and I reside in Queens. I am grateful to have the opportunity to testify, and in opposition to the proposed Jungle Primaries. Jungle Primaries are a betrayal to the youth of New York, the future of New York. Youth no longer can vote for their candidate of choice if the rest of their district overwhelmingly supports one party. Independents are at risk of being flooded out of having a chance at office. Youth may have a lower rate of being registered with a party, and jungle primaries would eliminate choices of voters rather than giving all voters an opportunity to vote. If you want to vote in a primary, register with a party. There is no barrier to that. There is a clear importance balance between the final election and primary election. The final election is more important. Right now, youth voter turnout is already low, at 47% in 2024, per Tufts University. It cannot afford to go any lower. Lower voter turnout means that our elected officials do not truly represent the views of more and more people, especially young people. Jungle primaries seek to dismantle the party by party power built by grassroots power and through race and class. Jungle primaries are rejected across the country and New York City. Political Parties are important signifiers of values and stances, and limiting that or ELIMINATING that favors money over organization. Despite their opposition, a voter can already make significant decisions based on political parties to see who likely stands by their moral values and beliefs. In fact, do you know what drives voter turnout? People power. Unions, grassroots power, and communities. This is what jungle primaries seek to oppress when they dismantle all the historical power built up by people within political parties. Elections are the central tenet of democracy. Remind me again. What have I been taught in school in a curriculum funded and curated by you? What was America founded on? Why did our “founding fathers” decide to massacre the indigenous peoples of America? Why did they fight a war with Great Britain? Why did Hamilton exist? What is the American dream? Is authoritarianism bad? Is dictatorship bad? Is oligarchy bad? Is monarchy bad? America is meant to be committed to individual liberty and self-governance. Not to billionaires. Not oligarchy, not authoritarianism, not dictatorship, and not monarchy. Look in the constitution. In America, elected representatives represent and act on behalf of the people. New York has always been at the forefront of forward thinking and solution oriented revolution. This position is at stake. Whenever jungle primaries are proposed, they are always backed by the same group of people: billionaires. Why? Jungle primaries make it easier for billionaires to buy the seats and politicians they want – instead of political parties choosing their candidates, any candidate can just choose their political party and then outside money is able to carry them to victory despite the view of the public. Mamdani won fairly in the ranked choice voting system, with the backing of young people and grassroots organizing. Trying to manipulate the system is playing the cheating game while causing mass destabilization to voters by constantly changing the voting system. Manipulating elections to make it seem that a billionaire backed candidate represents the public opinion will not change the public opinion. That destroys democracy, our future, and sets us on the track to America's enemies: authoritarianism, dictatorships, oligarchy, and monarchy. Even a child knows better than cheating, especially when this is real policy, real lives, real people at stake. The world is much bigger than just the richest 1% Democracy is in danger. You don't need me to tell you that. Just read the headlines of what Trump and billionaires are doing and revisit the authoritarian handbook. Messing around with our primaries marks many steps back. Low to no voter turnout, billionaire buyouts, elected officials that do not represent the sentiment of most of the people, constitutional destruction, and racial injustice are what is on the line. These jungle primaries sound good in theory, but are not. Jungle primaries have failed in all six states where they have been tested, blue, red, or purple. Most of the public hates it and knows that it poses a danger to democracy and our future. Opposition to jungle primaries is the only step forward.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb90:fe24:4cd9:d486:63ff:fec8:8257, 23[.]217[.]116[.]140, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1075734 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 00:49:17 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 08:49:03 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR61vrQtqAms3HC8EyqwCjcNKhpDHArdHpTVhu9MBZkl6rmn4pfcXhup5cBD2Q_aem_odp2WW
1AD441IO6eWOytEw

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Maureen Walsh

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: City council members should determine community board members and control the ulurp process and zoning g in their communities

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:94ee:e000:1023:ff19:c976:81dc, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone14,8;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4388709 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 00:55:59 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 08:55:47 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Malcolm A Punter, Ed.D.

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Fast-tracking affordable housing I am testifying on behalf of a streamlined ELURP and Simplified Housing and Infrastructure project process Question #1 and #2 that promoted supply side affordable and moderate income housing. I am Malcolm A. Punter, a life long New Yorker as a third generation Harlem resident. For the past 23 years, I have spent most of my professional career in the real estate development industry. The overwhelming majority of my career has been in the development and operation of affordable housing. I am academically trained as a graduate degree holder Business Administrator, Tax Law, and Financial Services, and as a doctoral researcher in Executive leadership. Further, I have, conducted research, developed housing and advocated for affordable housing and business development in historically underserved communities such as Harlem, the South Bronx, and other communities like them throughout the United States and Africa. I started my career in the public sector, then worked in the private sector and have led HCCI's real estate development team in various positions over the past 16 years including as its president & CEO for the past 10-years. I am a licensed real estate broker and an investor. Establish a land use appeals board with council, borough and citywide voices NYC does not need more bureaucracy. The present system of ULURP needs fast tracking. The current system is too lengthy. I would support an expedite process such as a UDAP process for areas that need housing. NYC has a housing crises and the City of New York deserves a process that expedites the approval of affordable low to moderate income housing. Modernize the City Map I believe that a modernization of the City Map that preserves the historic maps while fully digitalizing and integrating into a combined City map under the NYC Planning department would make efficient the database. Elections I believe that the primary elections should remain party specific. However, to enhance voter engagement a change to even years voting cycles to correspond with Federal elections. Further, the local election boards would have more time between election cycles to train and prepare efficient operations of election administration.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2a09:bac3:6ad1:1791::259:53, 23[.]50[.]129[.]166, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2a09:bac3:6ad1:1791::259:53

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2733671 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 01:21:41 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 09:21:28 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Stefani L Hazell

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please accept the following as my testimony regarding Community Boards important involvement in ULURP. Thank you for time and careful consideration.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 24[.]46[.]33[.]32, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 24[.]46[.]33[.]32

---

Stefani Hazell

July 7, 2025

Dear City Charter Commissioners,

My name is Stefani Hazell. I serve on Bronx Community Board 10 and have been doing so for approximately four years. I have come before this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Boards' role in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP).

As you know, we are volunteers. We are residents of our community. We join our Community Board to learn how to help improve our neighborhoods, protect it and ensure we are receiving our fair share of city services. This Commission is reviewing changes such as reducing the ULURP's Community Board review period of 60 to 30 days. In 2019, a then Charter Revision Commission gave Community Boards an additional 30 days to review ULURP applications. This was a positive change for our process. It gave our volunteer membership additional time for presentations, to read difficult texts such as the City Environmental Quality Review (CEQR) and the ULURP application itself, have time for more public meetings, properly conduct public outreach and, most importantly, make better, educated decisions.

Your report mentions attempts to "fast track" specific zoning district applications, implement "absolute" thresholds that calculate change in residential density and using affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information about occurrences in their communities. Community Boards are trusted, non-partisan institutions where constituents join to learn and understand the changes affecting their community. It is not just because of Community Boards that housing production lessened. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. Lastly, it ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our City is better served if Community Boards have the current allotment of 60 days.

Lastly, your report mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of "member deference." While we leave the politics to our City Council Member, the Commission should know that the independence of our legislative body is something we value because Community Boards, too, are independent municipal agencies. The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community's concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. We would not want to see our legislative branch not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues in hopes of defending their community's best interests and while holding developers accountable.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Stefani Hazell

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Testimony of Professor Sam Wang, Electoral Innovation
Lab

From: Samuel S. Wang <[REDACTED EMAIL]>
To: "chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>
Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 01:20:50 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Testimony of Prof. Sam Wang to the Charter Revision Commission
July 7, 2025

My name is Sam Wang. I am President of the Electoral Innovation Lab. For purposes of identification, I am also a professor at Princeton University. I regret that because I am traveling, I cannot be with you tonight. I am in Switzerland, where there is a term for the patience you are showing. That term is Sitzfleisch, "sitting flesh."

The Electoral Innovation Lab is a nonpartisan, independent organization. We use scientific approaches to understand reforms and repairs to U.S. democracy. We take the position that evaluation of any change in election rules can and should be done based on rigorous, evidence-based analysis. Tonight I offer remarks on Proposal 6.

Here are examples of questions that could be answered with evidence, and on which we are actively working:

- Would a particular rule such as a Top-2, Top-3, or Top-4 open primary allow a particular group or party the opportunity to advance its candidate of choice to the general election?
- Would a particular rule be more or less likely to elect a candidate who reflects the views of a majority of voters?

We studied 11 cities with comparable Black population share to New York City. We compared the fraction of Black representation in city council and mayoral offices, as well as turnout, between cities with closed and open or non-partisan primaries in selected elections from 2010 to 2023.

In preliminary findings, we find no statistically significant relationship between primary type and Black representation. For city council elections, cities with closed primaries had similar Black representation (32%) to cities with open or nonpartisan primaries, in which 33% of seats were held by Black representatives. Similarly, for mayoral elections, we found no statistically significant relationship between primary type and Black representation.

Second, there is no reason to believe that open primaries have a negative consequence on relative Black turnout. In open primaries, Black turnout was 0.3 percentage points smaller than overall turnout, whereas in closed primaries, Black turnout was 0.3 percentage points larger than overall turnout. This is not a statistically significant difference, and it is much smaller than natural variations between years and neighborhoods.

This is just one example of what hard analysis can accomplish. Our research project is ongoing. We are well positioned to examine a variety of questions, including some of the claims made tonight.

Prof. Samuel S.-H. Wang
President, Electoral Innovation Lab

---

MEMORANDUM

To: NYC Charter Revision Commission

From: Sam Wang, Aqua Withers Carello, Drew Curran, Jane Heeckt
[REDACTED]

Date: June 27, 2025

Re: Impact of Primary Systems on Black Representation and Turnout in U.S. Cities

---

Executive Summary: In city elections, changes in the voting rules used to elect officials have the potential to affect representation for specific communities. We analyzed the relationship between municipal election systems, either partisan (producing nominees for the general election) and nonpartisan (candidates running without party label in a single primary), on Black representation and turnout. We made two comparisons: (1) the fraction of elected officials who were Black (“descriptive representation”) over the last four election cycles and (2) Black vs. non-Black turnout using de-identified data on individual voters. Based on our preliminary analysis of eleven cities with comparable Black population to New York City, we find with high confidence that descriptive Black representation in mayoral or city council elections shows no statistically significant difference by primary system type. In a preliminary analysis of five cities across ten elections, we also find with moderate confidence that turnout does not differ by primary system. Our preliminary findings suggest that concerns that if New York City were to adopt some form of open or nonpartisan system, Black voters and candidates would be negatively affected, are not supported by the available data. Further study is needed to understand the impacts of specific proposed reforms for various communities found in American cities, including New York.

Introduction: Electoral rules are a critical step in translating popular will into political representation. Past research has examined the effects of primary systems at the state and federal levels, but the city-level consequences of open versus closed primaries on representation have received limited analysis. This knowledge gap is particularly important, since local elections not only affect governance, but also often serve as entry points for political careers.

Recent research at the state level has found no negative impact of open primaries on descriptive representation (i.e. the identified race of the election winner), and has made primary electorate more racially and politically representative of voter population as a whole.<sup>1</sup> However, that work did not examine the impact of primary system type at the level of cities, despite the fact that cities can contain many ethnic groups whose representation or voting power may be affected if the primary system is changed.

---

<sup>1</sup> Joshua Ferrer, “The Effect of Partisan Primaries on Turnout and Representation,” September 2, 2024, https://www.joshuaerrer.com/publication/partisan\_primaries/partisan\_primaries.pdf.

We therefore analyzed election outcomes across comparable cities with different primary systems. Here we report preliminary findings on whether primary type affects Black political representation or turnout at the municipal level.

Definitions: We sorted primary systems across cities into two major categories:

Closed Primaries: A “closed” rule under which only voters with party affiliation can vote in their party's primary, unaffiliated voters or members of a different party cannot; or “semi-closed” primaries, where a voter has to be registered with a party, but unaffiliated voters can choose to affiliate with the party on, or prior to, the day of the election.

Open/Nonpartisan Primaries: Anyone can select any party primary to vote (“open”); or candidates from all parties run together on a single list of primary candidates (“nonpartisan”).

Impact of Primary Systems on Black Representation

To assess the relationship between primary systems and descriptive Black representation, we analyzed mayoral and city council elections in 11 cities over the four election cycles between 2010 and 2024 (39 elections in total) with a population of 300,000 or larger, and a similar Black population (range: 16% to 30%) to that of New York City (23%). We compared three cities with closed primaries to eight cities with open or nonpartisan primaries. The three cities with closed primaries were New York, NY, Miami, FL and Jersey City, NJ. The eight cities with open or nonpartisan primaries were Jacksonville, FL, Houston, TX, Indianapolis, IN, Columbus, OH, Oakland, CA, St. Paul, MN, Minneapolis, MN, and Chicago, IL. These cities offer comparable contexts for assessing the relationship between primary systems and Black representation outcomes and enable us to specifically measure the effects of primary system type while allowing other factors that might influence representation patterns to vary independently, and therefore be similar between the two comparison groups.

We collected election outcome data from Ballotpedia and publicly available city council meeting minutes from official city websites. We drew demographic data from the U.S. Census QuickFacts, with Black demographic makeup referring to percentage identifying as Black “alone” rather than in combination with other racial categories.

City Council Representation.

For descriptive (i.e. the identified race) representation, we found that from 2010 to 2024, the fraction of Black representatives on city councils was similar between open/nonpartisan primary elections (193 out of 585 seats, or 33.0%) and closed primary elections (60 out of 190 seats, or 31.6%). This difference was not statistically significant (Fisher 2x2 test, two-tailed,  $p=0.72$ ).

Figure 1: Descriptive Black and non-Black representation in city councils, 2010-2024.

Mayoral Representation. For descriptive representation among elected mayors, we found that in elections from 2010 to 2024, the fraction of Black mayoral winners was not statistically significant between open (or nonpartisan) primary elections (8 out of 30, or 26.7%) and closed primary elections (1 out of 9, or 11.1%). This difference is not statistically significant (Fisher 2x2 test, two-tailed,  $p=0.42$ ). Although the data set is too small to make final conclusions, it does not support the idea that open primaries prevent Black candidates from being elected to the office of Mayor. The limited number of mayoral elections reflects the infrequency of these contests (occurring every four years) and our rigorous selection criteria. We will need to look at a wider data set to make definitive conclusions.

Figure 2: Descriptive Black and non-Black representation in mayoral offices, 2010-2024.

In summary, we found no statistically significant evidence that cities with open or nonpartisan election systems disadvantage Black candidates.

Impact of Primary Systems on Black Turnout

Electoral reform may also affect voter turnout, either overall or in a subgroup-specific manner.

Recent studies of state-level elections have produced mixed results. In California, the 2012 shift from a partially closed to an open primary system was followed by a modest decline in voter turnout in primaries ranging from 0.3 to 1.3 percentage points.<sup>2</sup> However, this finding is restricted to a single state, whose primary turnout had already been declining over time and whose ethnic composition and candidate quality are particular to that state.<sup>3</sup> A broader study in 2024 examined multiple states, and found that a change to open primaries is associated with a 5-point increase in turnout, and that open primary systems were associated with a participation that was more politically and racially representative of voters.<sup>4</sup> But this study did not address turnout in cities, where increased diversity creates a unique environment in which turnout may have important group-specific impacts.

To investigate turnout at the city level, we analyzed overall and Black turnout between 2015 and 2023 in five cities: Chicago, Miami, Jacksonville, Philadelphia and Columbus. We used voter files provided by Aristotle, which listed race as well as voter participation in each election.

First, we tallied the number of voters on file (Black or overall) who voted in each election, and divided by the total number of all registered voters.<sup>5</sup> It should be noted that by definition, turnout is potentially higher in open primaries than in closed primaries simply because in open primaries, nonpartisan voters become eligible to vote. Consistent with this, turnout in our dataset tended to be higher in open-primary cities (Figure 3).

In order to analyze Black-specific changes independent of this inherent difference, and independent of election-by-election differences, we analyzed the percentage-point difference between Black turnout and overall turnout. If this difference is positive, it means that Black turnout was higher than overall turnout. If the difference is negative, it means that Black turnout was lower than overall turnout.

---

<sup>2</sup> Charter Revision Commission Letter from AFM Local 802, June 22, 2025, <https://www.politico.com/f/?id=00000197-9a8d-db52-a3b7-9b9df81a0000> (data from California Secretary of State, “Statewide Election Results,” <https://www.sos.ca.gov/elections/prior-elections/statewide-election-results/>).

<sup>3</sup> Eric McGhee, “Voter Turnout in Primary Elections,” May 2014, Public Policy Institute of California. <https://www.ppic.org/publication/voter-turnout-in-primary-elections/>.

<sup>4</sup> Joshua Ferrer, “The Effect of Partisan Primaries on Turnout and Representation.”

<sup>5</sup> To match the 2024 voter file to the year of each election we corrected VAP by 4.25% compounded annually. Electoral Innovation Lab

Figure 3: Black vs. overall turnout as a fraction of registered voters, 2015-2023. The diagonal line indicates no difference in turnout between Black voters and all voters.

We found that in open primaries (7 elections), Black turnout was  $0.3 \pm 5.4$  percentage points (average  $\pm$  SD) smaller than overall turnout, whereas in closed primaries (3 elections), Black turnout was  $0.3 \pm 3.6$  percentage points larger than overall turnout. The difference, 0.6 percentage points, is not statistically significant ( $p=0.88$ , two-sample t-test). Therefore, given the available data, a difference in primary system does not measurably affect relative Black turnout.

In future work we plan to expand this analysis to include more elections. This will allow us to examine a wider variety of cities and conditions, as well increase our ability to detect small differences statistically.

Conclusions

Based on the cities we have analyzed to date, we do not find a statistically significant difference in Black representation by primary system. We also do not find a significant impact of primary type on Black voter turnout. This preliminary study contributes to our understanding of how electoral institutions affect representation at the local level. We will conduct a more comprehensive analysis in the coming months.

In order to more deeply understand implications for representation, it will be important to investigate the impact on many major demographic groups. Likewise, in order to draw a more full conclusion regarding the impact of primary type on turnout, it will be essential to conduct a more comprehensive analysis with more complete data.

Cities represent a unique instance in which the representation of diverse groups can have critical effects on governance. Our analyses also provide a starting point for a deeper understanding of the various implications for open primary systems in cities. In coming months we plan to conduct a more thorough investigation into impacts on representation for other minority groups and turnout, to more deeply understand potential impacts of changing New York City's method of selecting elected officials.

Future Directions

Finally, we note that election rules can also affect a wider range of factors that influence good governance. A number of questions are relevant in New York City and in other cities across the nation. Is it desirable for a candidate who loses a primary election to subsequently seek another party's nomination, and therefore still appear on the November ballot? Do voters tire of ranking multiple candidates, not only for mayor but for lower offices? In an all-party primary with  $N$  top finishers, what would  $N$  have to be to guarantee that a community's preferred candidate appears on the November ballot? Does a list of many candidates allow voters to critically examine all candidates over the course of a campaign? In addition to ranked-choice voting, do other voting rules lead to benefits of governance such as coalition-building? These and other questions may become important in the event that New York City forms a Charter Commission to revisit the manner by which it conducts elections.

About the Electoral Innovation Lab

The Electoral Innovation Lab (EIL) is a national project to build a science of democracy repair using math, law, and practical strategies for change. Housed in Princeton, New Jersey, the Lab provides research to guide leaders, reformers, and government institutions in strengthening U.S. democracy. Its approach, anchored in research and data analytics, provides near real-time answers designed to impact quick-moving decisions by institutions and the public. Today, the Lab's projects focus on testing ways to make democracy more representative and responsive: ranked-choice voting, primary elections, and innovations in redistricting. The Lab operates under the leadership of its founder, Sam Wang (Princeton University). The Lab is a spinoff of the Princeton Gerrymandering Project, which still works at Princeton University. The Electoral Innovation Lab is a nonpartisan, fully independent 501(c)(3) tax-exempt organization.

References

- California Secretary of State. “Statewide Election Results.”
<https://www.sos.ca.gov/elections/prior-elections/statewide-election-results>.
- Drutman, Lee. “What We Know about Congressional Primaries and Congressional Primary Reform.” July 1, 2021. New America.
<https://www.newamerica.org/political-reform/reports/what-we-know-about-congressional-primaries-and-congressional-primary-reform/>.
- Ferrer, Joshua. “The Effect of Partisan Primaries on Turnout and Representation.”
September 2, 2024.
https://www.joshuaferrier.com/publication/partisan\_primaries/partisan\_primaries.pdf.
- McGhee, Eric. “Voter Turnout in Primary Elections.” May 2014. Public Policy Institute of California. <https://www.ppic.org/publication/voter-turnout-in-primary-elections/>.
- Sullivan, Caroline. “Are Primaries the Problem? Understanding Polarization and Election Reform.” February 1, 2022. Democracy Docket.
<https://www.democracydocket.com/analysis/are-primaries-the-problem-understanding-polarization-and-election-reform/>.

Appendices

These appendices represent preliminary data which will be extended substantially in a more comprehensive report. We emphasize that it would be appropriate to reserve judgment on any conclusion until more complete information is available.

Appendix A - PRELIMINARY

Race of Elected Mayor (2010 - 2024)

Closed Primary

Open Primary

Appendix B - PRELIMINARY

Election Type and Population Data for Analyzed Cities

City	Municipal Primaries Election Type	Municipal Primary Type	Population	% Black
New York, NY	ranked choice	closed	8,478,072	22.7
Miami, FL	plurality	closed	2,838,461	16.9
Jersey City, NJ	plurality	partially closed	302,824	21.5
Jacksonville, FL	plurality	open	1,009,833	30.1
Houston, TX	Over 50 or top 2 runoff	open	2,390,125	22.9
Indianapolis, IN	plurality	open	891,484	28.1
Columbus, OH	plurality	open	933,263	29
Oakland, CA	ranked choice	open (top two)	443,554	21.1
St. Paul, MN	ranked choice	nonpartisan	307,465	16.2
Minneapolis, MN	ranked choice	nonpartisan	428,579	18.3
Chicago, IL	Over 50 or top 2 runoff	no primaries (nonpartisan election)	2,721,308	28.4

Appendix C - PRELIMINARY

Race/Ethnicity of Elected Mayor (2010 - 2024)

City	Year of Election	Race of Elected Mayor	Year of Election	Race of Elected Mayor	Year of Election	Race of Elected Mayor	Year of Election	Race of Elected Mayor	Total Black Mayors	Total Mayors Elected
New York, NY	2013	white	2017	white	2021	Black	2025		1	3
Miami, FL	2013	white-Hispanic	2017	white-Hispanic	2021	white	2025		0	3
Jersey City, NJ	2013	white	2017	white	2021	white	2025		0	3
Jacksonville, FL	2011	Black	2015	white	2019	white	2023	white	1	4
Houston, TX	2011	white	2015	Black	2019	Black	2023	white	2	4
Indianapolis, IN	2011	white	2015	white	2019	white	2023	white	0	4
Columbus, OH	2011	Black	2015	white	2019	white	2023	white	1	4
Oakland, CA	2010	Asian	2014	white	2018	white	2022	Asian	0	4
St. Paul, MN	2013	white	2017	Black	2021	Black	2025		2	3
Minneapolis, MN	2013	white	2017	white	2021	white	2025		0	3
Chicago, IL	2011	white	2015	white	2019	Black	2022	Black	2	4

Appendix D - PRELIMINARY

Black Representation in City Council Elections 2010 - 2024

City	Year of Election	Black City Council Members	Number of City Council Seats	Year of Election	Black City Council Member	Number of City Council Seats	Year of Election	Black City Council Members	Number of City Council Seats	Year of Election	Black City Council Members	Number of City Council Seats	Year of Election	Black City Council Members	Number of City Council Seats	Total Black City Council Representatives	Total City Council Seats
New York, NY	2014	16	51	2017	17	51	2021	17	51	2025			2025			50	153
Miami, FL	2013			2017	1	5	2021	1	5	2025			2025			2	10
Jersey City, NJ	2013	2	9	2017	3	9	2021	3	9	2025			2025			8	27
Jacksonville, FL	2011	5	19	2015	6	19	2019	7	19	2023	6	19	2023			24	76
Houston, TX	2011	5	16	2015	4	16	2019	6	16	2023	7	16	2023			22	64
Indianapolis, IN	2011	9	29	2015	7	29	2019	6	29	2023	7	29	2023			29	116
Columbus, OH	2011	4	7	2015	4	7	2019	4	7	2023	4	9	2023			16	30
Oakland, CA	2010	2	8	2014	3	8	2018	3	8	2022	4	8	2022			12	32
St. Paul, MN	2011	1	7	2015	0	7	2019	0	7	2023	2	7	2023			3	28
Minneapolis, MN	2013	1	13	2017	4	13	2021	6	13	2025			2025			11	39
Chicago, IL	2011	19	50	2015	17	50	2019	20	50	2022	20	50	2022			76	200

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5746806 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 01:27:11 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 09:27:00 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jorge Romero

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: My name is Jorge Romero, and I strongly support the proposed charter reforms, especially those that will help address our housing crisis. The Charter is meant to serve all New Yorkers, not just the loudest or wealthiest few. We cannot allow neighborhood-level opposition to block housing that benefits the broader city. When we allow local vetoes to dominate, we de-optimize the entire city for the benefit of a small group. That is why the proposal to create a land use appeals board is so critical. We must have a way to reverse politically motivated decisions that delay or deny urgently needed housing. Housing delayed is housing denied. I also support simplifying reviews for modest housing and infrastructure projects, and fast-tracking affordable housing in low-growth districts. I support open primaries as well. All voters should have a voice in who represents them, regardless of party affiliation. These reforms are not only necessary, they are overdue. Let's build a city where opportunity, safety, and housing are available to all.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support for all of it - but it does not go far enough

From: Jorge Romero [REDACTED]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 21:30:57 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

My name is Jorge Romero, and I strongly support the proposed charter reforms, especially those that will help address our housing crisis. The Charter is meant to serve all New Yorkers, not just the loudest or wealthiest few. We cannot allow neighborhood-level opposition to block housing that benefits the broader city. When we allow local vetoes to dominate, we de-optimize the entire city for the benefit of a small group.

That is why the proposal to create a land use appeals board is so critical. We must have a way to reverse politically motivated decisions that delay or deny urgently needed housing. Housing delayed is housing denied. I also support simplifying reviews for modest housing and infrastructure projects, and fast-tracking affordable housing in low-growth districts.

I support open primaries as well. All voters should have a voice in who represents them, regardless of party affiliation.

These reforms are not only necessary, they are overdue. Let's build a city where opportunity, safety, and housing are available to all.

thank you,

Jorge

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3874660 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 01:41:02 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 09:40:01 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Adam Ring

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission re: Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle" Primary System Delivered by Adam Ring, Coordinator, Indivisible Brooklyn July 7, 2025 My name is Adam Ring and I'm an organizer with Indivisible Brooklyn. Indivisible Brooklyn is an all-volunteer, grassroots organization formed in 2016 in response to the crisis facing our democracy. Our members come from all over Brooklyn and get together to promote civic engagement around democracy and civil rights, climate justice, and an inclusive economy. We don't limit ourselves to just one issue, and we don't limit ourselves to just one way of organizing: we show up to hearings and public input sessions like this one, we meet with elected officials and write letters and make calls to them, we organize public events and electoral actions, and we do public outreach to empower people with the means to deliver the changes that they're seeking. Thank you for considering the public's input before proposing any changes to the New York City Charter. The Charter Revision Commission is authorized to propose revisions to the structure, procedures, and policies of our City government. But it is imperative that the Commission approach its work with the recognition that its decisions do not have the procedural legitimacy that elected representatives serving on a permanent deliberative body bring to their decisions. Instead, the Commission's proposals gain their legitimacy by responding to the expressed needs of the public. New Yorkers have been very clear in expressing our need for more affordable housing, so we welcome proposals that would enable New York City to better protect and promote the human right to housing. By contrast, the radical proposal to replace our current primary elections with a "jungle" primary system is not a matter of public consensus or even active public discussion in our communities. The idea of establishing open primaries for local elections is only on the agenda today because this Commission has stated that you are considering forwarding it to voters in November. Doing so would be an illegitimate use of the Commission's authority, undermining faith in our political system at an already precarious moment for our democracy. We saw this happen in 2003, when New Yorkers voted down then-Mayor Bloomberg's attempt to use the Charter Revision Commission process for this same purpose. Bloomberg spent over $2 million of his own money flooding New Yorkers' mailboxes and phone lines in support of his proposal to ban party primaries, but New Yorkers rejected the proposal by more than a 2-to-1 margin. That's because we can see through this cynical attempt to weaken the organized political communities of New York City – the parties, unions, clubs, and community organizations that provide people with ways to stay informed about the conditions shaping our lives and take political action together to change those conditions for the better. "Jungle" primaries don't boost political participation; they leave voters more at the mercy of those who already have money, fame, and power on their side. That might sound good to billionaires like Bloomberg, but it'd be bad for the overwhelming majority of New Yorkers. The best way to build a more inclusive participatory democracy is to listen to people who have been marginalized from our political system, provide them with the resources they deserve, and empower them to organize and continue taking effective action together with their communities. Local party primaries are among the most politically effective opportunities available for grassroots organizing. Ending them would be a huge step backwards for democracy and for the marginalized communities of New York who deserve a representative and responsive city government that meets their needs. So I urge this Commission to reject further consideration of a "jungle" primary system. Instead, the Commission should focus on ways to address the current affordability crisis that is driving working families out of their homes. By responding to the real public needs of today, the Commission can legitimately fulfill the mission it was charged with and build the social trust that makes inclusive participatory democracy possible. Thank you. Adam Ring Coordinator, Indivisible Brooklyn

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 69[.]202[.]187[.]122, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission
re: Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle" Primary System
Delivered by Adam Ring, Coordinator, Indivisible Brooklyn
July 7, 2025

My name is Adam Ring and I'm an organizer with Indivisible Brooklyn. Indivisible Brooklyn is an all-volunteer, grassroots organization formed in 2016 in response to the crisis facing our democracy. Our members come from all over Brooklyn and get together to promote civic engagement around democracy and civil rights, climate justice, and an inclusive economy. We don't limit ourselves to just one issue, and we don't limit ourselves to just one way of organizing: we show up to hearings and public input sessions like this one, we meet with elected officials and write letters and make calls to them, we organize public events and electoral actions, and we do public outreach to empower people with the means to deliver the changes that they're seeking.

Thank you for considering the public's input before proposing any changes to the New York City Charter. The Charter Revision Commission is authorized to propose revisions to the structure, procedures, and policies of our City government. But it is imperative that the Commission approach its work with the recognition that its decisions do not have the procedural legitimacy that elected representatives serving on a permanent deliberative body bring to their decisions. Instead, the Commission's proposals gain their legitimacy by responding to the expressed needs of the public.

New Yorkers have been very clear in expressing our need for more affordable housing, so we welcome proposals that would enable New York City to better protect and promote the human right to housing. By contrast, the radical proposal to replace our current primary elections with a "jungle" primary system is not a matter of public consensus or even active public discussion in our communities. The idea of establishing open primaries for local elections is only on the agenda today because this Commission has stated that you are considering forwarding it to voters in November. Doing so would be an illegitimate use of the Commission's authority, undermining faith in our political system at an already precarious moment for our democracy.

We saw this happen in 2003, when New Yorkers voted down then-Mayor Bloomberg's attempt to use the Charter Revision Commission process for this same purpose. Bloomberg spent over $2 million of his own money flooding New Yorkers' mailboxes and phone lines in support of his proposal to ban party primaries, but New Yorkers rejected the proposal by more than a 2-to-1 margin. That's because we can see through this cynical attempt to weaken the organized political communities of New York City – the parties, unions, clubs, and community organizations that provide people with ways to stay informed about the conditions shaping our lives and take political action together to change those conditions for the better. "Jungle" primaries don't boost political participation; they leave voters more at the mercy of those who already have money, fame, and power on their side. That might sound good to billionaires like Bloomberg, but it'd be bad for the overwhelming majority of New Yorkers.

The best way to build a more inclusive participatory democracy is to listen to people who have been marginalized from our political system, provide them with the resources they deserve, and empower them to organize and continue taking effective action together with their communities. Local party primaries are among the most politically effective opportunities available for grassroots organizing. Ending them would be a huge step backwards for democracy and for the marginalized communities of New York who deserve a representative and responsive city government that meets their needs.

So I urge this Commission to reject further consideration of a "jungle" primary system. Instead, the Commission should focus on ways to address the current affordability crisis that is driving working families out of their homes. By responding to the real public needs of today, the Commission can legitimately fulfill the mission it was charged with and build the social trust that makes inclusive participatory democracy possible.

Thank you.

Adam Ring
Coordinator, Indivisible Brooklyn

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7240166 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 02:14:56 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 10:14:35 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Leo Guttman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I'm writing to express my support for all 5 measures proposed by the Charter Review Commission report, as well as the additional election reform under consideration. I see overly restrictive land use policies and weak democratic participation as two of the biggest problems holding back the city, and each of these measures will make much-needed progress on one of these dimensions. On democracy, even year elections have been shown to improve voter turnout. While the change to RCV is a great reform, splitting the electorate by party first and then doing a plurality-winner election after that is a waste. A single nonpartisan primary is the only sensible way to do RCV. On land use, prioritizing housing production, especially affordable housing production, and balancing citywide interests more alongside neighborhood interests are important goals to pursue. The measures are important for what they will do and for enshrining in our charter that we're recognizing and starting to address the urgent crisis making New York unaffordable to so many.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2517379 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 02:52:37 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 10:51:21 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: #FireBoone

Email:

Phone:

Comments: To the New York City Charter Revision Commission: Subject: Formal Demand for a Ballot Initiative to Terminate Aaron Boone's Employment as Yankees Manager, with Oppressive Penalties Against Hal Steinbrenner for Non-Compliance* The undersigned, representing the collective rage of betrayed and suffering New Yorkers, hereby demands that the NYC Charter Revision Commission immediately propose a ballot initiative allowing voters to formally call for the firing of Aaron Boone on Election Day, with severe legal consequences imposed upon Hal Steinbrenner under the NYC Charter and Administrative Code should he refuse to comply. Legal Authority & Proposed Penalties 1. NYC Charter § 38 - Powers of the People - The Commission has the authority to propose ballot measures for "the public welfare," and nothing is more critical to the public welfare than freeing the Yankees from Boone's incompetence. 2. NYC Administrative Code § 7-201 - Enforcement of Public Nuisances - Boone's managerial decisions constitute a public nuisance under § 7-201(2)(a), as they have caused "annoyance, endangerment, and distress" to millions. 3. NYC Administrative Code § 10-157 - Penalties for Corporate Malfeasance - Should Hal Steinbrenner refuse to fire Boone within **24 hours** of the ballot measure's passage, he shall be subject to: - A **$1 million per day fine** payable to NYC Parks (since Steinbrenner clearly won't spend on the bullpen). - **Revocation of all NYC-based Yankees business licenses** until compliance. - **Forced sale of the team** under NYC's "abuse of civic trust" doctrine (see **City of New York v. Trump Org**, 2023). --- ### Evidence of Boone's Incompetence & Steinbrenner's Negligence

#### **1. Mike Francesa's Most Scathing Rants** - **On Boone's Tactical Insanity:** "Boone has no feel for the game! He's a puppet! A complete and utter fraud! He burns pitchers like he's playing Strat-O-Matic, and then he stands there with that blank stare like he's waiting for an Uber!" (WFAN, July 2023) - **On Steinbrenner's Cowardice:** "Hal doesn't care! He's hiding in Tampa counting his revenue sharing checks while Boone buries this team with his incompetence! The Yankees are a laughingstock, and it's on HAL!" (Francesca, **The Mike Francesa Podcast**, August 2023) #### **2. Other WFAN Personalities & Callers** - **Evan Roberts:** "Boone's postgame pressers are a masterclass in gaslighting. 'We'll turn the page'? NO! You're the problem!" - **Caller 'Mike from Yonkers':** "Fire Boone into the sun! And take Cashman with him!" (July 15, 2023) #### **3. Social Media & News Outcry** - **@YankeeWoes (Twitter, 50K followers): "Aaron Boone's bullpen management is a WAR crime." - **NJ[.]com (2023): "Yankees' Aaron Boone Has Lost the Clubhouse—And the Plot." - **NY Post Back Page (July 2024): "BOONE MUST GO: Yankees' Collapse Reaches Critical Mass." --- ### Conclusion: The People Demand Action The NYC Charter Revision Commission must act **immediately** to place this measure on the ballot. The Yankees are a **public trust**, and their mismanagement is a **civic emergency**. Should Hal Steinbrenner defy the will of the people, let him face the **full wrath of NYC's legal and financial penalties**. **We await your urgent response.** **Signed,** **The Enraged Citizens of New York** *P.S. – This is not a joke. We are dead serious. Fix the Yankees.*

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2001:67c:e60:c0c:192:42:116:198, 23[.]221[.]40[.]32, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Android 10; Mobile; rv:109.0) Gecko/115.0 Firefox/115.0
True-Client-IP: 2001:67c:e60:c0c:192:42:116:198

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7575227 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 03:11:19 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 11:11:06 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: #FireCashman

Email:

Phone:

Comments: **To the New York City Charter Revision Commission:** **Subject:** *Emergency Ballot Initiative to Terminate Brian Cashman's Employment as Yankees GM, Authorize Eminent Domain Seizure of Yankee Stadium, and Impose Oppressive Penalties on Hal Steinbrenner for Non-Compliance* The undersigned, on behalf of a tormented and humiliated citizenry, **demand** that the NYC Charter Revision Commission immediately propose a ballot measure allowing voters to **formally call for the firing of Brian Cashman**, with **catastrophic legal consequences** for Hal Steinbrenner and the Yankees organization should they defy the will of the people. ### **Legal Authority & Proposed Punitive Measures** 1. **NYC Charter § 38 - Direct Democracy for Public Welfare** - The Commission has the power to place measures on the ballot to "protect the interests of New Yorkers." There is no greater civic emergency than Brian Cashman's continued employment. 2. **NYC Administrative Code § 7-201 - Public Nuisance Abatement** - Cashman's roster construction, failure to retain Juan Soto, and refusal to spend like a major-market team constitute a **public nuisance**, warranting immediate corrective action. 3. **NY State Eminent Domain Procedure Law (EDPL) § 204 - Seizure for Public Use**** -

Should Steinbrenner refuse to fire Cashman within **24 hours** of election certification, the City shall **seize Yankee Stadium** via eminent domain, converting it into a **publicly managed facility** until competent ownership is installed. 4. **NYC Administrative Code § 10-157 - Corporate Accountability Penalties** - Additional sanctions shall include: - **$5 million daily fines** (one for every million Cashman lowballed Juan Soto by). - **Revocation of all NYC-based Yankees business licenses** (they don't deserve them). - **Forced sale of the team** under NYC's "abuse of civic trust" doctrine (*City of New York v. Trump Org*, 2023). --- ### **Justification for Cashman's Immediate Removal** #### **1. Mike Francesa's Most Devastating Rants** - **On Cashman's Incompetence:** "Cashman has been asleep at the wheel for a DECADE! He's a glorified accountant who thinks he's smarter than everyone else while the Yankees rot! The Soto deal was an embarrassment—he lowballed him by a year and $5 million like he was haggling for a used car!" - **On Hal Steinbrenner's Cowardice:** "George would've FIRED Cashman after 2017! Hal just counts his revenue-sharing checks while the Mets outspend and outsmart him!" (Francesa, *The Mike Francesa Podcast*, November 2023) #### **2. WFAN Callers & Hosts** - **Evan Roberts:** "Cashman's arrogance is unmatched. He thinks he's Theo Epstein, but he's just a guy who lucked into the Core Four and has been failing upward ever since." - **Caller 'Vinny from Queens':** "If Hal won't fire Cashman, the city should take the Stadium and give it to a Little League team. They'd make better decisions!" (July 2024) #### **3. Newspaper Headlines & Social Media Outrage** - **NY Post (2024):** "CASHMAN MUST GO: Yankees' Decade of Decline Reaches Rock Bottom." - **Brian Cashman's Offseason Was a Masterclass in Failure.** - **@FireCashmanNow (Twitter, 75K followers):** "Hal Steinbrenner is the Jeffrey Loria of the 21st century. SEIZE THE TEAM." --- ### **Additional Justifications for Municipal Intervention** 1. **The Soto Debacle - A Crime Against Pinstripes** - Cashman's insulting offer to Juan Soto—$5 million and a year short—proves he **does not care about winning**. George Steinbrenner would've **personally delivered a blank check**. 2. **The Yankees Are Now Little Brother to the Mets** - Under Hal's reign, the Mets have: - **Outspent** the Yankees. - **Outmaneuvered** them in trades. - George would've **burned the Bronx down** before letting this happen. 3. **Eric Adams' Bipartisan Hat Embarrassment** - The Mayor's **pathetic "both teams" hat** symbolizes the Yankees' decline. New York deserves **one dominant team**, not a neutered franchise run by spreadsheet nerds. 4. **The Curse of Red Sox Fans in City Hall** - **Mike Bloomberg** (Red Sox fan) and **Bill de Blasio** (Red Sox fan who **murdered a groundhog**) oversaw **years of Yankee mediocrity**. We cannot let another Boston sympathizer—literal or spiritual—destroy this team. --- ### **Conclusion: The City Must Act** The NYC Charter Revision Commission **must** place this measure on the ballot. The Yankees are a **public institution**, and their mismanagement is an **affront to the city's dignity**. Should Hal Steinbrenner defy the voters, let him **lose his stadium, his licenses, and his team**. **We await your immediate action.** **Signed,** **The Enraged Citizens of New York** *P.S. - This is not a negotiation. Fix the Yankees, or we will fix them for you.*

-----

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6263922 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 03:26:18 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 11:26:03 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: sell the team(s)

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Request to the NYC Charter Revision Commission: Proposal for Ballot Initiative to Address the Misrepresentation and Reputational Harm Caused by the New York Giants and New York Jets --- To the Esteemed Members of the NYC Charter Revision Commission, As a concerned and long-suffering resident of New York City, and as a representative voice for millions of disillusioned football fans across the five boroughs, I respectfully request that the Commission consider placing a ballot initiative before New York City voters with the following provision: > The New York Giants and New York Jets shall no longer be permitted to use "New York" in their team names, nor claim association with the City of New York in any official capacity unless: 1. Both teams undergo a complete ownership change within 18 months of the initiative's certification; 2. Both teams demonstrate a consistent upward trajectory of on-field competence or sustained winning performance, defined by at least .500 records for two consecutive seasons or playoff qualification within three years of the initiative taking effect. Should the teams refuse to comply, the City of New York may, pursuant to its right to protect its name, identity, and brand under New York General Business Law § 130, seek legal recourse to compel the removal of the "New York"

name from both franchises. --- I. LEGAL BASIS AND PRECEDENT While the teams are physically located in East Rutherford, New Jersey, both the Giants and Jets use the "New York" name commercially, reaping benefits from the city's global brand while simultaneously tarnishing its reputation through years of incompetence. This misleading branding has real consequences: General Business Law § 130 protects the commercial use of geographic identifiers in business names within the state. Though typically applied to corporations and LLCs, its principles support a city's right to safeguard its identity from deceptive or injurious use. The Lanham Act (15 U.S.C. § 1051 et seq.) prohibits false or misleading geographic designations in trademarks, especially when they damage the goodwill or public perception of the place involved. The City of New York is, under both state and federal frameworks, well within its rights to pursue remedies that protect its name from brand dilution and reputational injury caused by organizational dysfunction in high-profile national franchises. --- II. HISTORICAL PERFORMANCE FAILURES Let us examine the facts: New York Giants Record since 2012: 60-118-1 (.337 winning percentage) One playoff appearance in over a decade (2016), resulting in an immediate Wild Card loss. Repeated coaching turnover (6 head coaches since 2015) and abysmal offensive line mismanagement. The Saquon Barkley debacle: drafting a running back second overall in 2018—a move panned by experts including Mike Francesa, who said, "They drafted a luxury car when their house was burning down." Barkley's talents were squandered behind a broken line, with no franchise QB or supporting cast. New York Jets Record since 2012: 56-124 (.311 winning percentage) No playoff appearances since 2010—the longest drought in the NFL. Known for persistent mismanagement: Adam Gase hire, repeated failed QB picks (Sam Darnold, Zach Wilson), and coaching disarray. The Aaron Rodgers disaster: GM Joe Douglas and owner Woody Johnson bet the farm on a 39-year-old quarterback, who tore his Achilles 4 plays into his debut. The team failed to have a competent backup plan, despite glaring preseason concerns. Francesa noted: "This is the same old Jets. They built a paper house and acted surprised when it burned." --- III. COMPARISON TO SMALLER MARKETS Smaller market teams have shown what competent, stable management can achieve:

Team	Market Size (2023 Rank)	Record Since 2012	Playoff Appearances	Notable Achievement
Buffalo Bills	#52	98-82	6	AFC Championship Game (2020)
Cincinnati Bengals	#36	86-94-2	5	Super Bowl Appearance (2021)
Jacksonville Jaguars	#42	70-112	3	AFC Championship Game (2017)

Despite far fewer financial resources and less media exposure, these teams have fielded competitive rosters, hired competent staff, and delivered hope to their fans. Meanwhile, New York—the largest market in the country—is home to two of the worst-run franchises in the league. --- IV. REPUTATIONAL DAMAGE TO NYC New York City is not just a physical place—it's an idea, a symbol of excellence, resilience, and pride. The Giants and Jets dilute this brand with each losing season and front-office circus. Their performances are antithetical to the competitive spirit of New York. John Mara, despite inheriting a legacy franchise, has made disastrous decisions—including allowing nepotism to dictate front office dynamics, keeping Dave Gettleman long past his sell-by date, and showing no strategic vision. Woody Johnson, whose football acumen rivals that of a folding chair, has turned the Jets into a rotating PR disaster, better known for butt fumbles, quarterback controversies, and ownership distractions than any meaningful win. As Francesa has stated repeatedly over the past decade: > "These teams are an embarrassment. If you're a real football fan, you look at this and say: This isn't New York. This is a clown show." ---

V. PROPOSED BALLOT LANGUAGE > “Shall the City of New York require that any professional football team using the name ‘New York’ and/or claiming association with New York City demonstrate competitive competence and change ownership if necessary, or otherwise cease such use and association, with the City authorized to pursue legal action in the event of non-compliance?” --- Conclusion This is not about fandom. This is about dignity, accountability, and civic pride. It is unconscionable for franchises that do not represent the values or excellence of this City to continue profiting from its name while dragging it through decades of gridiron disgrace. Let the people of New York City have their say. Place this initiative on the ballot. Sincerely, A Fed-Up New Yorker and Voter On Behalf of Millions of Taxpayers, Fans, and Citizens Who Deserve Better Football

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 5[.]2[.]79[.]190, 2[.]21[.]7[.]156, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]1138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Android 10; Mobile; rv:109.0) Gecko/115.0 Firefox/115.0
True-Client-IP: 5[.]2[.]79[.]190

_____

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5087064 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 03:34:21 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 11:33:52 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Felix Stetsenko

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Members of the Commission, My name is Felix Stetsenko, and I'm a resident of Manhattan Community District 7. I'm here to express my strong support for the land-use related reforms outlined in the commission's interim report, and to urge the commission to place on this November's ballot a proposal for fully democratic elections for local public offices—from Mayor to City Council—through an open, nonpartisan primary system. On land use: I support all four proposed measures, but I'd like to focus my testimony on Question 3: Establishing a land use appeals board that incorporates council, borough, and citywide perspectives. This reform is about striking a balance—ensuring that local voices are heard while also recognizing the broader needs of our boroughs and the city as a whole. Housing is a citywide crisis. This measure would ensure that decisions reflect the interests of all New Yorkers, not just those in a single neighborhood. Yes, new housing can bring local impacts—more traffic, fuller classrooms—and community boards should weigh in on those effects. But the cost of not building is borne by everyone. When a new apartment building is blocked in my neighborhood, housing prices rise across the city. And fewer homes mean lower tax revenues, fewer housing options for local workers, and more pressure on housing affordability. We all pay the price when housing is denied. That's why it's essential to have a fair and transparent appeals process that includes borough and citywide input. On moving to open primaries: Over 1.1 million New Yorkers are registered as independents—yet they're excluded from the primary elections that often determine who appears on the general election ballot. Open primaries would give every voter an equal voice in choosing their representatives, ensuring candidates must appeal to the full electorate—not just a narrow slice of it. Voters would be free to choose the candidate who best reflects their values and concerns, regardless of party affiliation. This reform would make our democracy more inclusive, more representative, and more responsive to the needs of all New Yorkers. In closing: I want to thank the Commission for its thoughtful and ambitious interim report. Your hard work is helping to build a city government that is more accountable to the people and a city that is more capable of delivering the homes our neighbors urgently need. Thank you for your time and consideration. Felix Stetsenko Manhattan, CD7

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:34f0:11e0:d5f5:a979:c7e5:625, 23[.]33[.]43[.]217, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 Edg/138[.]0[.]0[.]0
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:34f0:11e0:d5f5:a979:c7e5:625

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1776567 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 03:34:29 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 11:34:05 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Felix Stetsenko

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Members of the Commission, My name is Felix Stetsenko, and I'm a resident of Manhattan Community District 7. I'm here to express my strong support for the land-use related reforms outlined in the commission's interim report, and to urge the commission to place on this November's ballot a proposal for fully democratic elections for local public offices—from Mayor to City Council—through an open, nonpartisan primary system. On land use: I support all four proposed measures, but I'd like to focus my testimony on Question 3: Establishing a land use appeals board that incorporates council, borough, and citywide perspectives. This reform is about striking a balance—ensuring that local voices are heard while also recognizing the broader needs of our boroughs and the city as a whole. Housing is a citywide crisis. This measure would ensure that decisions reflect the interests of all New Yorkers, not just those in a single neighborhood. Yes, new housing can bring local impacts—more traffic, fuller classrooms—and community boards should weigh in on those effects. But the cost of not building is borne by everyone. When a new apartment building is blocked in my neighborhood, housing prices rise across the city. And fewer homes mean lower tax revenues, fewer housing options for local workers, and more pressure on housing affordability. We all pay the price when housing is denied. That's why it's essential to have a fair and transparent appeals process that includes borough and citywide input. On moving to open primaries: Over 1.1 million New Yorkers are registered as independents—yet they're excluded from the primary elections that often determine who appears on the general election ballot. Open primaries would give every voter an equal voice in choosing their representatives, ensuring candidates must appeal to the full electorate—not just a narrow slice of it. Voters would be free to choose the candidate who best reflects their values and concerns, regardless of party affiliation. This reform would make our democracy more inclusive, more representative, and more responsive to the needs of all New Yorkers. In closing: I want to thank the Commission for its thoughtful and ambitious interim report. Your hard work is helping to build a city government that is more accountable to the people and a city that is more capable of delivering the homes our neighbors urgently need. Thank you for your time and consideration. Felix Stetsenko Manhattan, CD7

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:34f0:11e0:d5f5:a979:c7e5:625, 23[.]33[.]43[.]217, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 Edg/138[.]0[.]0[.]0
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:34f0:11e0:d5f5:a979:c7e5:625

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Testimony to the Charter Revision Commission

From: Felix Stetsenko <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 07 Jul 2025 23:35:48 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Members of the Commission,

My name is Felix Stetsenko, and I'm a resident of Manhattan Community District 7.

I'm here to express my strong support for the land-use related reforms outlined in the commission's interim report, and to urge the commission to place on this November's ballot a proposal for fully democratic elections for local public offices—from Mayor to City Council—through an open, nonpartisan primary system.

On land use:

I support all four proposed measures, but I'd like to focus my testimony on Question 3: Establishing a land use appeals board that incorporates council, borough, and citywide perspectives.

This reform is about striking a balance—ensuring that local voices are heard while also recognizing the broader needs of our boroughs and the city as a whole.

Housing is a citywide crisis. This measure would ensure that decisions reflect the interests of all New Yorkers, not just those in a single neighborhood.

Yes, new housing can bring local impacts—more traffic, fuller classrooms—and community boards should weigh in on those effects.

But the cost of not building is borne by everyone. When a new apartment building is blocked in my neighborhood, housing prices rise across the city. And fewer homes mean lower tax revenues, fewer housing options for local workers, and more pressure on housing affordability.

We all pay the price when housing is denied. That's why it's essential to have a fair and transparent appeals process that includes borough and citywide input.

On moving to open primaries:

Over 1.1 million New Yorkers are registered as independents—yet they're excluded from the primary elections that often determine who appears on the general election ballot.

Open primaries would give every voter an equal voice in choosing their representatives, ensuring candidates must appeal to the full electorate—not just a narrow slice of it.

Voters would be free to choose the candidate who best reflects their values and concerns, regardless of party affiliation.

This reform would make our democracy more inclusive, more representative, and more responsive to the needs of all New Yorkers.

In closing:

I want to thank the Commission for its thoughtful and ambitious interim report. Your hard work is helping to build a city government that is more accountable to the people and a city that is more capable of delivering the homes our neighbors urgently need.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Felix Stetsenko

Manhattan, CD7

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9176660 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 04:08:21 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 12:08:05 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sage Mason

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Members of the New York City Charter Revision Commission, I write in opposition to the proposal to shift New York City's elections to even-numbered years to align with federal elections. Earlier this evening, I attended the entirety of the Commission's Manhattan Public Input Session and listened intently as dozens of New Yorkers testified about how to improve turnout in our local elections. With regard to the proposal to change election years, several speakers raised valid concerns about local elections being drowned out by the noise of national races. I agree. But I want to raise an additional concern—one that I did not hear mentioned this evening: New York's elections must remain independent not only to preserve attention on local issues, but also to preserve our freedom to innovate. Our city is uniquely positioned to be a laboratory for democracy. We've demonstrated this before through bold reforms like ranked choice voting and our public matching funds campaign finance program. Due to federal law, if we tether ourselves to the federal election calendar, we risk ceding this freedom to experiment with solutions that Washington hasn't had the vision or courage to try. One such idea: paying people to vote. On July 7, I heard countless testimony on whether open primaries would improve voter turnout, and watched members of the commission bemoan the negligible impact past reforms have had on electoral participation. Instead of funneling millions of taxpayer dollars into candidates and campaigns fueling a financial arms race to inundate voters with competing materials that ultimately cancel each other out, what if we gave that money directly to voters? Academic research and real-world examples have demonstrated the potential of financial incentives to boost voter turnout. A 2022 study by political scientists Brian Schaffner and Ray La Raja found that voter turnout increased by 20-25% when voters received an email informing them that voting would automatically enter them into a small cash lottery. In a 2010 experiment with local elections in California, Dr. Costas Panagopoulos, a leading expert on voting behavior and political psychology, found a direct correlation between the size of a direct cash payment and the probability of casting a ballot. And in Australia, where voting is compulsory and non-voters are fined, turnout consistently hovers around 90%. And with an awareness of my audience, I won't belabor the potential implications of Elon Musk's voter sweepstakes in the 2024 presidential election—but the precedent speaks volumes. What if New York offered a small financial incentive—say, $20—for participating in local elections? We already pay people for performing the civic duty of jury service. Paying New Yorkers to vote would similarly compensate people for contributing to the systems that allow our city to function. Plus, the cost would be lower than what many campaigns already spend per vote on field efforts and communications. Most importantly, payments to voters could meaningfully increase participation, especially in communities where turnout is especially low and where $20 makes a bigger difference. Voters would get to decide how to spend the money, rather than dumping the funds into campaigns (which would spend the money in turn on mobilizing voters). Putting cash directly into people's pockets gives non-voters a new reason to show up on election day and learn about the candidates before casting their votes. Candidates would have to compete for the votes of the newly activated electorate, and once in office, would have to be responsive to a greater number of voters to win reelection. Here's the problem: under federal law, paying someone to vote in an election that includes federal candidates is illegal. But under city law—and potentially state law—that federal prohibition would not apply. Of course, it should be illegal to pay someone to vote a certain way, but as long as the incentive was intended to boost turnout generally, New York could implement such a program if the ballot was limited to local races. Whether you take such a proposal seriously or not, it reveals that the current structure of New York City's off-cycle elections is not just a calendar quirk; it is a source of legal rights and political freedom. It enables us to test innovative ideas that could transform civic participation nationwide. If we align city elections with federal ones, we will forfeit our ability to pilot programs—not because New Yorkers object, but because federal law preempts our autonomy. The very act of sharing a ballot with a congressional or presidential candidate would make it unlawful to offer something as simple and promising as $20 to compensate voters for the labor of exercising their civic duty. This is bigger than just one idea. If we give up our flexibility to govern local elections on our own terms, we close the door on other reforms too. The current political climate has demonstrated the importance of New York City's political independence. With our democracy under threat and voter participation desperately low, New York should be looking for ways to set the standard, not subordinate ourselves to the whims of the federal government. Let's keep our elections local. Let's preserve our capacity to try new things. Let's trust that New Yorkers deserve a democracy that doesn't just function, but evolves to meet the unique needs of the people who call this city home. Thank you for your consideration, Sage A. Mason

---

HTTP_ADDR: 67[.]254[.]212[.]46, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 67[.]254[.]212[.]46

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

July 7, 2025

Dear Members of the New York City Charter Revision Commission,

I write in opposition to the proposal to shift New York City's elections to even-numbered years to align with federal elections. Earlier this evening, I attended the entirety of the Commission's Manhattan Public Input Session and listened intently as dozens of New Yorkers testified about how to improve turnout in our local elections.

With regard to the proposal to change election years, several speakers raised valid concerns about local elections being drowned out by the noise of national races. I agree. But I want to raise an additional concern—one that I did not hear mentioned this evening: New York's elections must remain independent not only to preserve attention on local issues, but also to preserve our freedom to innovate.

Our city is uniquely positioned to be a laboratory for democracy. We've demonstrated this before through bold reforms like ranked choice voting and our public matching funds campaign finance program. Due to federal law, if we tether ourselves to the federal election calendar, we risk ceding this freedom to experiment with solutions that Washington hasn't had the vision or courage to try.

One such idea: paying people to vote.

On July 7, I heard countless testimony on whether open primaries would improve voter turnout, and watched members of the commission bemoan the negligible impact past reforms have had on electoral participation. Instead of funneling millions of taxpayer dollars into candidates and campaigns fueling a financial arms race to inundate voters with competing materials that ultimately cancel each other out, what if we gave that money directly to voters?

Academic research and real-world examples have demonstrated the potential of financial incentives to boost voter turnout. A 2022 study by political scientists Brian Schaffner and Ray La Raja found that voter turnout increased by 20-25% when voters received an email informing them that voting would automatically enter them into a small cash lottery. In a 2010 experiment with local elections in California, Dr. Costas Panagopoulos, a leading expert on voting behavior and political psychology, found a direct correlation between the size of a direct cash payment and the probability of casting a ballot. And in Australia, where voting is compulsory and non-voters are fined, turnout consistently hovers around 90%. And with an awareness of my audience, I won't belabor the potential implications of Elon Musk's voter sweepstakes in the 2024 presidential election—but the precedent speaks volumes.

What if New York offered a small financial incentive—say, $20—for participating in local elections? We already pay people for performing the civic duty of jury service. Paying New Yorkers to vote would similarly compensate people for contributing to the systems that allow our city to function. Plus, the cost would be lower than what many campaigns already spend per vote on field efforts and communications.

Most importantly, payments to voters could meaningfully increase participation, especially in communities where turnout is especially low and where $20 makes a bigger difference. Voters would get to decide how to spend the money, rather than dumping the funds into campaigns (which would spend the money in turn on mobilizing voters). Putting cash directly into people's pockets gives non-voters a new reason to show up on election day and learn about the candidates before casting their votes. Candidates would have to compete for the votes of the newly activated electorate, and once in office, would have to be responsive to a greater number of voters to win reelection.

July 7, 2025

Here's the problem: under federal law, paying someone to vote in an election that includes federal candidates is illegal. But under city law—and potentially state law—that federal prohibition would not apply. Of course, it should be illegal to pay someone to vote a certain way, but as long as the incentive was intended to boost turnout generally, New York could implement such a program if the ballot was limited to local races.

Whether you take such a proposal seriously or not, it reveals that the current structure of New York City's off-cycle elections is not just a calendar quirk; it is a source of legal rights and political freedom. It enables us to test innovative ideas that could transform civic participation nationwide. If we align city elections with federal ones, we will forfeit our ability to pilot programs—not because New Yorkers object, but because federal law preempts our autonomy. The very act of sharing a ballot with a congressional or presidential candidate would make it unlawful to offer something as simple and promising as $20 to compensate voters for the labor of exercising their civic duty.

This is bigger than just one idea. If we give up our flexibility to govern local elections on our own terms, we close the door on other reforms too. The current political climate has demonstrated the importance of New York City's political independence. With our democracy under threat and voter participation desperately low, New York should be looking for ways to set the standard, not subjugate ourselves to the whims of the federal government. Let's keep our elections local. Let's preserve our capacity to try new things. Let's trust that New Yorkers deserve a democracy that doesn't just function, but evolves to meet the unique needs of the people who call this city home.

Thank you for your consideration,

Sage A. Mason

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3154278 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 11:45:42 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 07:45:30 AM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Judith Lacari

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: The proposed zone changes for Staten Island would be disastrous especially in the Castleton Corners and Westerleigh neighborhoods. These are single family homes that folks have worked hard for and to have the neighborhood become an over populated area would be disastrous! It is bad enough that development has expanded and the Island is so over crowded and to add additional folks and vehicles would cause the island to bust from the seams. Why can't development for these affordable housing take place on open lands or reconstruction of abandoned buildings. You are planing to destroy a beautiful quiet neighborhood. Crime will increase and our children will not be safe to walk to school nor play outside. The value of our homes will decrease so you might as well just stick us in the back. It seems that it's always the hard working folks that get shafted! Well maybe do something for us for a change.

-----

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3580210 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 12:05:55 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 08:05:27 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sandy Reiburn

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Testimony in Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Revision Ballot Questions 1, 2, and 3 To the Members of the New York City Charter Revision Commission: I submit this testimony in strong and unequivocal opposition to all three ballot proposals currently under review: 1. "Fast-Track Affordable Housing" 2. "Simplify Review of Modest Housing and Infrastructure Projects" 3. "Establish a Citywide Land Use Appeals Board" These proposals, though framed in technical and bureaucratic terms, together represent a profound and dangerous shift in how land use decisions are made in New York City—away from transparency, public input, and local accountability, and toward an unchecked, top-down model that prioritizes the interests of politically connected developers over the rights and welfare of everyday New Yorkers. Ballot Question 1: Fast-Track Affordable Housing This proposal targets only the 12 community districts citywide that produce the least affordable housing. In practice, this means that a small subset—20% of districts—will be subject to disproportionately aggressive development, including many working-class and outer-borough neighborhoods already struggling with infrastructure strain and limited transit access. This is not "fair share" housing policy. It is punitive rezoning masked as reform, one that scapegoats communities for broader failures in housing policy. Mayor Adams and his appointees have made no secret of their allegiance to “his developers,” as he has openly called them. This plan is nothing short of an intentional effort to concentrate controversial development in politically less powerful areas—disregarding environmental impact, transit inadequacy, and community input—all in the name of an ill-defined “fast track.” It would open the door to years of cumulative damage to neighborhood character, affordability, and quality of life.

Ballot Question 2: Simplify Review of Modest Housing and Infrastructure Projects This proposal is deceptive in its language. Far from being limited to “modest” changes, it would allow large-scale apartment buildings—up to 45 feet tall with multiple units and zero parking requirements—to be built in neighborhoods currently zoned for one- and two-family homes. In effect, this would legalize R5D-style development in R1 and R2 zones across the city. Furthermore, in medium- and high-density areas (R6 and above), this plan would enable zoning changes that increase residential capacity by up to 30% without a full ULURP review—effectively escalating density and height in every eligible zone. This is not gentle growth. It is a blanket upzoning disguised as “streamlining,” with irreversible consequences for congestion, infrastructure, sunlight, and open space—again, with minimal public input.

Ballot Question 3: Establish a Citywide Land Use Appeals Board This measure dangerously revives the spirit of the unconstitutional and defunct Board of Estimate by creating a new, unelected “Appeals Board” that can override City Council land use decisions. It would eliminate the longstanding principle of member deference, whereby local Council Members—those closest and most accountable to the affected communities—can block projects opposed by their constituents. Under this new framework, developers would no longer have to seriously negotiate with local elected officials. Instead, they could appeal directly to a higher board stacked with political appointees, insulated from public accountability. This proposal weakens democracy, undermines local governance, and invites unchecked real estate influence at the highest levels of city planning.

A Dangerous and Cynical Power Grab Mayor Adams has attempted to portray himself as a bystander in this process. In reality, the Charter Revision Commission is his creation and is being used to carry out an aggressive political agenda to remake the city’s land use process in favor of monied interests. This represents one of the most egregious power grabs in the history of New York City governance. The combined impact of these proposals would:

- Erase meaningful public review.
- Undermine community boards and local elected officials.
- Encourage overdevelopment in vulnerable neighborhoods.
- Weaken the City Council's role in land use decisions.
- Hand unelected boards and appointees massive new powers.

I urge the Charter Revision Commission and, ultimately, New York City voters to reject these dangerous proposals in their entirety. We must protect democratic land use processes, respect neighborhood character, and ensure that the voices of New Yorkers—not developers—remain central to the future of our city.

Respectfully submitted, Sandy Reiburn
Fort Greene CB2 7/8/25

---

Testimony in Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Revision Ballot Questions 1, 2, and 3

To the Members of the New York City Charter Revision Commission:

I submit this testimony in strong and unequivocal opposition to all three ballot proposals currently under review:

1. “Fast-Track Affordable Housing”
2. “Simplify Review of Modest Housing and Infrastructure Projects”
3. “Establish a Citywide Land Use Appeals Board”

These proposals, though framed in technical and bureaucratic terms, together represent a profound and dangerous shift in how land use decisions are made in New York City—away from transparency, public input, and local accountability, and toward an unchecked, top-down model that prioritizes the interests of politically connected developers over the rights and welfare of everyday New Yorkers.

---

Ballot Question 1: Fast-Track Affordable Housing

This proposal targets only the 12 community districts citywide that produce the least affordable housing. In practice, this means that a small subset—20% of districts—will be subject to disproportionately aggressive development, including many working-class and outer-borough neighborhoods already struggling with infrastructure strain and limited transit access. This is not “fair share” housing policy. It is punitive rezoning masked as reform, one that scapegoats communities for broader failures in housing policy.

Mayor Adams and his appointees have made no secret of their allegiance to “his developers,” as he has openly called them. This plan is nothing short of an intentional effort to concentrate controversial development in politically less powerful areas—disregarding environmental impact, transit inadequacy, and community input—all in the name of an ill-defined “fast track.” It would open the door to years of cumulative damage to neighborhood character, affordability, and quality of life.

Ballot Question 2: Simplify Review of Modest Housing and Infrastructure Projects

This proposal is deceptive in its language. Far from being limited to “modest” changes, it would allow large-scale apartment buildings—up to 45 feet tall with multiple units and zero parking requirements—to be built in neighborhoods currently zoned for one- and two-family homes. In effect, this would legalize R5D-style development in R1 and R2 zones across the city.

Furthermore, in medium- and high-density areas (R6 and above), this plan would enable zoning changes that increase residential capacity by up to 30% without a full ULURP review—effectively escalating density and height in every eligible zone. This is not gentle growth. It is a blanket upzoning disguised as “streamlining,” with irreversible consequences for congestion, infrastructure, sunlight, and open space—again, with minimal public input.

Ballot Question 3: Establish a Citywide Land Use Appeals Board

This measure dangerously revives the spirit of the unconstitutional and defunct Board of Estimate by creating a new, unelected “Appeals Board” that can override City Council land use decisions. It would eliminate the longstanding principle of member deference, whereby local Council Members—those closest and most accountable to the affected communities—can block projects opposed by their constituents.

Under this new framework, developers would no longer have to seriously negotiate with local elected officials. Instead, they could appeal directly to a higher board stacked with political appointees, insulated from public accountability. This proposal weakens democracy, undermines local governance, and invites unchecked real estate influence at the highest levels of city planning.

A Dangerous and Cynical Power Grab

Mayor Adams has attempted to portray himself as a bystander in this process. In reality, the Charter Revision Commission is his creation and is being used to carry out an aggressive political agenda to remake the city's land use process in favor of monied interests. This represents one of the most egregious power grabs in the history of New York City governance.

The combined impact of these proposals would:

- Erase meaningful public review.
- Undermine community boards and local elected officials.
- Encourage overdevelopment in vulnerable neighborhoods.
- Weaken the City Council's role in land use decisions.
- Hand unelected boards and appointees massive new powers.

I urge the Charter Revision Commission and, ultimately, New York City voters to reject these dangerous proposals in their entirety. We must protect democratic land use processes, respect neighborhood character, and ensure that the voices of New Yorkers—not developers—remain central to the future of our city.

Respectfully submitted,
Sandy Reiburn
Fort Greene CB2
7/8/25

Wayne Rosenfeld-Testimony to the NYC Charter Commission on the choosing of Community Board Members

7/7/2025

Good evening. My name is Wayne Rosenfeld and I was a Board Member of Community Board 3 in Staten Island for 10 years serving on the Land Use Committee as well as other various committees. I stepped down for personal reasons 18 months ago but just applied to get my seat back and was just nominated by Councilman Frank Morano to be one of his choices for the seat.

I was also a Board member for 19 years at the Staten Island JCC and volunteered at Tottenville High School in Staten Island when my daughter attended on two separate parent committees. I have been fully engaged in Staten Island and volunteering to make life better for its residents for over 25 years. By the way, I am the Executive Director of a 100-year-old nonprofit in Brooklyn that serves Southern Brooklyn. Suffice to say I am very civic minded and feel it is important that people show up every day to help their fellow New Yorkers. I am here today to advocate for city council members to have their choice of who serves on a community board in their district. Currently, they can recommend half the open slots, but it is the Boro President who makes the final choice. It is my understanding that it is proposed in the new charter that the Boro President will have sole discretion on who to appoint to the community boards in their Boro. This would be a mistake because the choices would go unchallenged and political favors would ensue and there would be no check and balances. I am not saying all BP's would take advantage but if they get full control over the community board, the residence of that board won't be served properly. The BP's and the Council Members need to work together for the betterment of the community and one person shouldn't decide who will serve on the board. Over my 10 years I have weighed in on many things, some trivial and some major. The Community Board is in place for a reason, to protect people of the community from politics and for the community to also grow, change with the times and prosper....but again that can only happen with a wide and broad range of people serving from different backgrounds and ideologies on a community board.

To summarize, each district, each community in NYC is different. Some areas are urban in landscape, some are rural, some have over crowding, some have lots of park like areas. But all Boro's have differences within the Boro and each Community Board should stand alone and represent themselves and their interests. Of one BP chooses all Community Board Members themselves, then the individuality of the district would disappear. If one BP chooses all Community Board Members, then the voice of the community would be silenced. If each Council Member were able to work with the BP and they equally choose the board members, then there would be a balance and the entire district/community would be served with no back room politics at hand.

Thank you for your time.

Wayne Rosenfeld

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9278246 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 13:23:06 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 09:22:48 AM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Kelly Vaughan

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please do not open our primaries. It is important for a diversity of voices within our parties to maintain the party primaries.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b4b6:9007:8894:ed66:366e:1d36, 23[.]40[.]16[.]73, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b4b6:9007:8894:ed66:366e:1d36

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7884294 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 13:44:24 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 09:43:52 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Max Davidson

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, I am writing to express strong support for all of your recommendations for ballot proposals this November. I believe that your land use recommendations will be vital for helping address our city's housing crisis. I am also pleased that you noted the importance of expediting ULURP for resiliency and renewable energy projects. Additionally, as a recovering political consultant, I am glad that you are taking the issue of low voter turnout seriously and would implore you to think seriously about additional mechanisms to increase turnout, whether that is opening primaries or moving to a "Top 4" primary system.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4808:6193:aa00:4490:f330:255a:7339, 104[.]70[.]121[.]77, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8693943 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 13:55:23 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 09:55:06 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Mary Billyou

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear NYC Charter Revision Committee, I would like to submit my position as a NO on the 6th proposal on the ballot. I find it to be deeply suspicious that this subject is being seriously discussed after a historic election which was won through the efforts of over 46,000 volunteer canvassers and propelled by a huge surge in voter turnout of younger people. The cynical approach of the Commission is noted. Not a single member of the Commission is representing labor unions and working people's interests. If the commission's primary goal is to increase turnout, the way to do that is to go to even-year primaries, because data shows that jungle primaries fail to do so. While there's a lot to critique about political parties, the reality is that when candidates have a (D), (R), (C) or (WFP) next to their names, voters can make some pretty strong assumptions as to where they stand on issues that matter to them - like reproductive rights and immigrant rights. But that only works if the Party's members get to select the candidates. If political parties cannot nominate their candidates, it gives people with the money to influence elections more power to frame their preferred candidates. Rich people already dominate political and economic life. The Democratic Party primary is one of the few places where union members can even the score. This proposal to do away with primaries is an attempt to once again tilt the field in the direction of the wealthy and well-known. The purpose of this change is to weaken organized groups like labor unions and political parties. If our goal is actually to increase turnout, we need organized groups participating robustly in the system. Doing away with Political Party organization and their self-determination will decrease turnout, not increase it. Countless studies have shown how canvassing and other forms of direct-voter and member-to-member contact increases voter turnout. Black voters have built power and equity within the Democratic Party and now you're trying to take that away. Any effort to diminish Black voters' influence in local elections will trigger pre-clearance with New York's essential John Lewis Voting Rights Act. If you're interested in alternatives to the two party system I suggest researching proportional representation a voting system accepted by many European countries.

Sincerely, Mary Billyou

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:90bf:4a00:5c6a:cfab:7708:aecf, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1 Ddg/18.5
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:90bf:4a00:5c6a:cfab:7708:aecf

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1751923 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 13:58:22 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 09:57:46 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alex Maza

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I'm in favor all 6 of the proposals/questions on the table. I am particularly happy with the housing related questions (1-4), but after hearing testimonies last night I felt compelled to comment on the Open Primary question. Many folks questioned whether this would increase voter turnout. However, to me, this misses the main benefit to an open primary which that it would better represent voter preferences. Voters would be able to choose between a menu of all available candidates and select their initial preferences in the primary and then finalize their preferred candidate in the general. Currently voters are only given a menu of candidates for their assigned party. We know that people have mixed opinions across issue sets, and different candidates of different parties may better represent their views. Regarding housing, I'm very encouraged that the Charter Commission's Interim Report reflects the urgent call from communities across New York City to fix our broken land use system. Questions 1 through 4 propose common-sense reforms that would help address the city's worst housing shortage in over 50 years by making it faster and easier to build the homes and infrastructure we need—especially in the neighborhoods that have said “no” to new housing for decades. While the recent “City of Yes” and “City of Yes for Housing Opportunity” proposals are meaningful steps forward, they are not enough on their own. The City Charter governs many of the underlying processes that shape how and where we build housing, and right now, it’s outdated and overly bureaucratic. Updating these rules is essential to solving our city’s housing emergency. One reform I’m especially excited about is the creation of an Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP). This streamlined process would speed up approvals for modest but critical projects—like small-scale housing developments, affordable housing infrastructure, and climate-resilient upgrades—without sacrificing transparency or community input. It strikes the right balance by preserving the full ULURP process for large-scale development while removing unnecessary delays for clearly beneficial, lower-impact proposals. I strongly support the Charter reforms proposed in Questions 1 through 4. These changes would give New York City better tools to meet today’s challenges and finally move toward a more affordable, sustainable, and equitable future.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4808:60f4:4100:a4dd:9876:574b:8940, 104[.]70[.]121[.]77, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/136[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4808:60f4:4100:a4dd:9876:574b:8940

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4966065 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 14:33:44 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 10:33:11 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Eleanor Atkinson

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am AGAINST revising the Charter to remove ranked choice voting. Please KEEP ranked choice voting. Open primaries will favor the big money and not the people.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 24[.]107[.]239[.]122, 23[.]50[.]129[.]174, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 24[.]107[.]239[.]122

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4049472 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 14:36:12 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 10:35:55 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Samir Lavingia

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Hello, My name is Samir Lavingia. I am the Second Vice-Chair and Vice-Chair of the Transportation Committee, both on Manhattan Community Board 5. I am also a recently elected County Committee member of AD 75 Part B and hold a number of other affiliations as well. However, I write to you purely in a personal capacity. I was excited to see the proposals in the Charter Revision Commission's Final Report, especially those that focus on the impediments to building housing in New York City. I come from a family of market-rate renters who are constantly at risk of displacement. My parents and I live in Midtown, and my brother, his wife, and their newborn live in DUMBO. I want to ensure that it is possible for my parents to see their grandson grow up and for me to see my nephew grow up, and the only way for that to be a reality is if we build more housing in New York City to stymie the skyrocketing rents we've seen over the last few decades. I was a strong supporter of the City of Yes for Housing Opportunity zoning text amendment, but it did not go far enough. Polling has shown that New Yorkers want to see reform to make it easier to build more housing, but our elected officials are reluctant to give up their veto power over projects. This means it is time to take the issue straight to the voters. I want to comment specifically on the Expedited Land Use Review Procedure and the Zoning Appeals Board. ELURP is a great proposal that will make it easier to build a little more housing citywide. City of Yes for Housing Opportunity was a great start with UAP, and ELURP will build on that to make it possible to go a little denser without the full ULURP process. I would caution against allowing the City Planning Commission to require MIH in these projects, as MIH was created for much larger increases in density. We want to ensure that projects using ELURP can still pencil out financially. Additionally, the housing crisis does not end at the border of a Council District or Community District. We face this crisis in part due to member deference and parochialism. The Zoning Appeals Board will require us to take a more citywide or borough-wide lens when it comes to addressing the housing crisis. Lastly, I am a big supporter of the proposals concerning how we run our elections. I fully support even-year elections, which will help reduce the number of candidates who run for office risk-free and use participatory budgeting dollars to campaign in races they have no real chance of winning, knowing they have their current job in the State Legislature, or elsewhere, waiting for them if they lose. Aligning our elections to even years will reduce how often this happens. I also support top-two primaries. I lived in San Francisco for a few years and saw how successful they can be. In the primary for California State Senate District 11 in 2020, the top-two vote-getters were both Democrats, and the general election was a close head-to-head, with Scott Wiener winning 57% to 43%. In 2024, the top-two vote-getters were one Democrat and one Republican, and Wiener swept the general election with 78% to 22%. It's clear that when the top two are from the same party, the general election is much closer and gives voters a real choice. Right now, the primary often functions as the decisive election. We should move away from that system and toward one where the general, with higher turnout, is where the election is truly decided. Another option would be a fully non-partisan general election with ranked-choice voting, similar to our special elections, and I would support that as well. All that being said, while I support all the proposals, the housing crisis is the most urgent issue and we should not put that at risk. There is clearly a lot of opposition to open primaries, and if we need to punt that question to another year to de-risk negative messaging about all the proposals, we should do that. We need to put housing on the ballot and ensure that it passes! Best regards, Samir Lavingia

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 67[.]250[.]35[.]147, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 67[.]250[.]35[.]147

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Commissioners: No jungle primaries in NYC.

From: Kevin Garcia <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 14:56:27 +0000

---

<meta http-equiv="Content-Type" content="text/html; charset=utf-8">

<title></title>

<style type="text/css">

#outlook a {padding:0;}

.ExternalClass {width:100%;}

.ExternalClass, .ExternalClass p, .ExternalClass span, .ExternalClass font, .ExternalClass td,
.ExternalClass div {line-height: 100%;}

img {outline:none; text-decoration:none; -ms-interpolation-mode: bicubic;}

a img {border:none;}

.image_fix {display:block;}

p {margin: 1em 0;}

h1, h2, h3, h4, h5, h6 {color: #404040;}

table td {border-collapse: collapse;}

@media only screen and (max-device-width: 480px) {

a[href^="tel"], a[href^="sms"] {

text-decoration: none;

color: blue;

/* pointer-events: none; */

cursor: default;

}

.mobile_link a[href^="tel"], .mobile_link a[href^="sms"] {

text-decoration: default;

color: orange;

pointer-events: auto;

cursor: default;

}

}

```
@media only screen and (min-device-width: 768px) and (max-device-width: 1024px) {
  a[href^="tel"], a[href^="sms"] {
    text-decoration: none;
    color: blue;
    /* pointer-events: none; */
    cursor: default;
  }
}
```

```
.mobile_link a[href^="tel"], .mobile_link a[href^="sms"] {
  text-decoration: default;
  color: orange;
  pointer-events: auto;
  cursor: default;
}
}
```

```
@media only screen and (-webkit-min-device-pixel-ratio: 2) {

}
```

```
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:.75){

}
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:1){

}
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:1.5){

}
```

```
</style><!--[if IEMobile 7]>
<style type="text/css">
```

```
</style>
<![endif]--><!--[if gte mso 9]>
<style>
```

```
</style>
<![endif]-->
</head>
```

<body leftmargin="0" marginwidth="0" topmargin="0" marginheight="0" offset="0" style="margin: 0;padding: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF;width: 100% !important;-webkit-text-size-adjust:100%; -ms-text-size-adjust:100%;">

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe.&nbsp; Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

&nbsp;

<center>

<table cellpadding="0" cellspacing="0" border="0" id="backgroundTable" style="margin: 0;padding: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF;height: 100% !important;width: 100% !important;line-height: 100% !important; border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td align="center" valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="0" cellspacing="0" style="border: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF; border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td align="center" valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="10" cellspacing="0" style="border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse; background-color: #FFFFFF; padding:10px 10px 40px;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="10" cellspacing="0" style="border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;" width="600">

Charter Revision Commission Charter Revision Commission NYC,

Dear Commissioners,

I am writing to urge you to reject any proposal to implement a jungle primary system (top-two or top-four) in New York City.

Jungle primaries are not a path to greater democracy. In fact, they threaten to reverse the hard-won progress we've made with ranked-choice voting and small-donor public financing—reforms that have helped expand participation, especially in Black, brown, immigrant, and working-class communities.

Data from California shows that jungle primaries:

Lower voter turnout (2014 saw a historic low of 25.2%)

In both 2022 and 2024, turnout hovered at just 33%, even with universal vote-by-mail which is about average for a non-presidential year

Disadvantage candidates of color and grassroots challengers

Force general elections between two candidates of the same party, leaving many voters without a meaningful choice

Even more concerning, this proposal is being pushed without real community input. The Charter Revision Commission has not held broad-based discussions in the neighborhoods that this change would most impact. Most public testimony in favor has come from a few interconnected organizations, some of which are even based out of state.

I urge the Commission to:

Reject jungle primaries in all forms

Respect the reforms New Yorkers have already chosen

Engage directly with communities before fundamentally altering our elections

Let's strengthen—not undermine—representation and equity in New York City.

Sincerely,

Kevin Garcia

[Redacted Signature]

```
</table>

</center>

</body>
</html>
```

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4947513 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 14:57:24 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 10:57:01 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: CATHERINE MURAWSKI

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: The Housing Opportunity Plan is not at all economical for us taxpayers. If we continue to "Build baby Build.", we need the following, a. Con Edison to upgrade additional electricity, otherwise the city will experience numerous blackouts and brownouts. b. Landlords would have to upgrade their water supply pipes to have sufficient water pressure. c. Pulling out our front lawns to add additional parking will cause more store water runoff. d. We need more schools to educate these homeless children. Taking away the authority of the Building Dept. is extremely unsafe for illegal apartments. During Hurricane Ada, a few lives were lost and millions of dollars of damage to homes and apartments occurred. Basement apartments with no front doors or low windows have only one first exit, the backdoor. Sincerely yours, Catherine Murawski. Vice President Liberty Park Homeowners' Association (500 Homes and 700 Families in Glendale) [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

-----

Subject:

FW: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8260141 CRC Contact
Form - General Inquiries

From: Charter Info <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 15:49:00 +0000

---

From: agencyemail <agencyemail@customercare.nyc.gov>

Sent: Monday, July 7, 2025 5:51 PM

To: Charter Info <CharterInfo@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Subject: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8260141 CRC Contact Form - General Inquiries

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Monday, July 7, 2025, at 05:50:32 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: General Inquiries

Name: Lee S. Rottenberg

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am outraged that the city is trying to take control of our land use. As a member of QCB5 for over 20 years, I see how important it is for local input into many city issues. After all, who knows our neighborhood better the people who live in it. Taking the power away from us and from our elected Council Person leaves things open for corruption by outsiders who have no vested interest in our community and are just interested in their own personal gains. Things used to be like the proposed plan, but over the last decades we have made changes to improve neighborhood involvement with decisions such as these. It would be a shame to undo all of that and go back to the way things were, with all the problems they created.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5718313 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 16:13:21 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (evamarie.pc@gmail.com) on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 12:12:54 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Eva Marie Scheele

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: The New York City Charter Revision Commission should not advance a proposal to interfere with primary elections in New York City.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 74[.]80[.]233[.]11, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 74[.]80[.]233[.]11

---

Re: Opposition to the Consideration of a “Jungle Primary” System
July 8, 2025

Hello Commissioners,

Thank you for taking the time to read this. My name is Eva Marie Scheele. I represent myself, and IATSE Local 161.

I am here to express my very strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. I might add that “jungle” exactly describes this type of primary.

This is not just a technical adjustment as it is being promoted. No, It is a wholesale change to the way we New Yorkers would select our leaders—one that would upend more than a century of party-based democracy in our city. It is, in short, an enormous decision—and it is being considered through an inappropriate and secret process - secret because there has been very little public information given to us, the citizens of New York..

First, this Commission has done only limited work to engage impacted communities in this consequential electoral reform process. The Charter Revision Commission was convened to focus on improving one of the most serious questions New Yorkers have to deal with - the availability of affordable housing. There has been no serious public demand for a jungle primary system. Instead, the actors who want this kind of election system across the country took advantage of this moment to insert their political agenda. There has been no movement, no mass mobilization, no crisis calling for its adoption. Yet here we are, debating whether to remove voters’ ability (my ability) to shape our political future through party-based organizing. That’s not reform—it’s overreach by a small group!.

Second, the public has not been adequately informed or engaged. This is a serious weakness - but then, perhaps that is purposeful! A change of this magnitude should come only after a robust, charter revision process—one that includes multilingual education campaigns, community listening sessions, expert testimony from across the political spectrum, and an extended deliberation period. What we have instead is a rushed proposal, with little explanation, little data, and little outreach—especially to voters in the communities most likely to be harmed. We’ve seen how rushed reforms, however well-intentioned, can backfire when voters don’t understand what’s at stake. Imposing a fundamental redesign of our elections without clear public demand or broad-based consent is not just misguided—it is undemocratic. And again, it appears to be purposeful!

Third, this process undermines faith in the democratic system itself. It sends the message that our election rules can be rewritten from the top down, without the kind of transparency and accountability that is the bedrock of our democracy. That’s a dangerous precedent—especially in a moment when trust in democratic institutions is already fragile.

There are ways to improve democracy in this city. But these start with listening to the people, listening to many people by garnering input across the board—not bypassing us.

For these reasons, and many others which I am not addressing here, I strongly urge the Commission to reject any effort to advance a jungle primary system, and to commit instead to a public process rooted in transparency, equity, and community voice.

Thank you,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Eva Marie Scheele". The signature is fluid and cursive, with the first name "Eva" and last name "Scheele" clearly distinguishable.

Eva Marie Scheele, [REDACTED]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8184710 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 16:22:30 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 12:22:13 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Mohamed Q. Amin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Good evening, Commissioners, Thank you to the New York City Charter Revision Commission ("CRC"), for hosting Public Input Sessions to discuss proposed New York City Charter changes. My name is Mohamed Q. Amin, and I am the Executive Director of Caribbean Equality Project, an immigrant rights organization that empowers, advocates for, and represents Afro and Indo-Caribbean LGBTQ+ people in New York City. I am writing to express our strong opposition to adopting a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. We come to this conversation as an organization that has worked closely with grassroots organizations that knock on doors, hold community forums, and build political power from the ground up. These groups are the lifeblood of our city's civic fabric, and a jungle primary system would severely undermine their ability to influence elections and lift up the voices of working-class New Yorkers. First, jungle primaries erase the strategic foundation that grassroots groups rely on: party primaries. Grassroots groups spend years organizing hyper locally to win representation for their communities. They build coalitions, recruit candidates, and develop long-term strategies to shift power from political machines to the people. A jungle primary blows that up. In a top-two or top-four system, there is no party primary. Regardless of Party or values, every candidate appears on one crowded ballot. That forces grassroots candidates to compete in massive, often expensive fields, splitting the vote and making it far more challenging for community-backed candidates to break through. Second, jungle primaries amplify the power of money over organizing. In a high-candidate, low-information race without party cues, the winners usually have the largest war chests, the most name recognition, or the backing of wealthy interests. Grassroots groups can't compete with that kind of money. Their strength is people-powered campaigns that build trust over time, not six-figure media buys and insider endorsements/ Jungle primaries put movement candidates at a severe disadvantage and tilt the playing field back toward the very institutions grassroots organizing seeks to challenge. Third, this system would discourage long-term community organizing. One of the most powerful aspects of our current system is that it gives communities clear political targets: party primaries where their votes and their organizing can make a real difference. That's how working-class tenants have elected champions. It's how immigrant neighborhoods have shifted city policy. Jungle primaries scramble those lines, make electoral pathways murky, and take power away from communities that have only recently begun to claim it. Let's be clear: this proposal is not about empowering voters. It's about disempowering the people who have learned how to organize within the existing system to demand more for their neighborhoods. If we want a more inclusive democracy, the answer is not to dismantle the tools that marginalized communities have just started to master. The answer is to make those tools more accessible—to invest in civic education, expand voter access, and build systems that reward organizing, not money. For these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power—and for democracy. To learn more about Caribbean Equality Project, visit CaribbeanEqualityProject.org or email me at [REDACTED]. Thank you. Mohamed Q. Amin Executive Director Caribbean Equality Project

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:9bb5:2600:12c0:ffee:d3c5:9497, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:9bb5:2600:12c0:ffee:d3c5:9497

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution,

NYC Charter Revision Commission Hearing
Written Testimony to the New York City Charter Revision Commission Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle Primary" System

Caribbean Equality Project
Mohamed Q. Amin

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Monday, July 7, 2025

Good evening, Commissioners,

Thank you to the New York City Charter Revision Commission ("CRC"), for hosting Public Input Sessions to discuss proposed New York City Charter changes. My name is Mohamed Q. Amin, and I am the Executive Director of Caribbean Equality Project, an immigrant rights organization that empowers, advocates for, and represents Afro and Indo-Caribbean LGBTQ+ people in New York City. I am writing to express our strong opposition to adopting a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. We come to this conversation as an organization that has worked closely with grassroots organizations that knock on doors, hold community forums, and build political power from the ground up. These groups are the lifeblood of our city's civic fabric, and a jungle primary system would severely undermine their ability to influence elections and lift up the voices of working-class New Yorkers.

First, jungle primaries erase the strategic foundation that grassroots groups rely on: party primaries. Grassroots groups spend years organizing hyper locally to win representation for their communities. They build coalitions, recruit candidates, and develop long-term strategies to shift power from political machines to the people. A jungle primary blows that up.

In a top-two or top-four system, there is no party primary. Regardless of Party or values, every candidate appears on one crowded ballot. That forces grassroots candidates to compete in massive, often expensive fields, splitting the vote and making it far more challenging for community-backed candidates to break through.

Second, jungle primaries amplify the power of money over organizing. In a high-candidate, low-information race without party cues, the winners usually have the largest war chests, the most name recognition, or the backing of wealthy interests. Grassroots groups can't compete with that kind of money. Their strength is people-powered campaigns that build trust over time, not six-figure media buys and insider endorsements/ Jungle primaries put movement candidates at a severe disadvantage and tilt the playing field back toward the very institutions grassroots organizing seeks to challenge.

Third, this system would discourage long-term community organizing. One of the most powerful aspects of our current system is that it gives communities clear political targets: party primaries where their votes and their organizing can make a real difference. That's how working-class tenants have elected champions. It's how immigrant neighborhoods have shifted city policy. Jungle primaries scramble those lines, make electoral pathways murky, and take power away from communities that have only recently begun to claim it.

Let's be clear: this proposal is not about empowering voters. It's about disempowering the people who have learned how to organize within the existing system to demand more for their neighborhoods.

If we want a more inclusive democracy, the answer is not to dismantle the tools that marginalized communities have just started to master. The answer is to make those tools more accessible—to invest in civic education, expand voter access, and build systems that reward organizing, not money.

For these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power—and for democracy.

To learn more about Caribbean Equality Project, visit CaribbeanEqualityProject.org or email me at Mohamed@CaribbeanEqualityProject.org.

Thank you.

Mohamed Q. Amin
Executive Director
Caribbean Equality Project

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-463577 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 16:27:58 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 12:27:28 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Asher Ross

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Please see attached written testimony re: the NYIC's opposition to adding a NYC ballot question about Jungle Primaries. Thank you, Asher Ross New York Immigration Coalition

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 69[.]38[.]167[.]42, 23[.]196[.]2[.]203, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 69[.]38[.]167[.]42

---

Thank you for the opportunity to testify today. My name is Asher Ross and I am representing the New York Immigration Coalition. I am here to express our strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections.

We are opposed to Jungle Primaries primarily because they would diminish the power of member organizations and grassroots groups, including unions and community organizations.

These organizations have worked long and hard to organize, educate, and mobilize working class voters so that they have a voice in our political system. They act as a critical counterweight to big money in politics. They have spent years organizing within the Democratic Party to win representation for their communities. Jungle primaries would nullify their work and their role in our elections, and allow big donors and corporate interests to gain the advantage and have a dominant role.

We just had an election with exceptional voter engagement and turnout, including by young people, immigrants, and historically marginalized groups.

We just had an election in which the playing field was leveled by our public matching funds system, allowing candidates that weren't funded by big donors and corporations to compete and get their message out to working class voters.

We just had an election in which voters could rank candidates in their preferred order, leading to coalition strategies that allowed voters to rank their preferences while not wasting their vote.

These reforms have only been in place for four years, and they are clearly working to help engage and grow the electorate. Let them continue to produce positive results, and do not tamper with our current election system.

Thank you,

Asher Ross

New York Immigration Coalition

[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6272427 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 17:37:29 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 01:37:10 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Diane Aronson

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Via written comment, I'm writing to say no to these items appearing on the ballot in November. As posted, Open Primary item will open the floodgates for a funds-only-driven primary. No to the rest because they also will stifle democracy in NYC. Thank you for reviewing my comments.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b82d:fb04:fc46:c5ff:feb7:7f9d, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]1181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Android 14; Mobile; rv:140.0) Gecko/140.0 Firefox/140.0

True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b82d:fb04:fc46:c5ff:feb7:7f9d

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-205631 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 17:59:57 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (Preserveharlemslegacy@gmail.com) on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 01:59:41 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Julius Tajiddin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: The following comment is against proposed charter amendment #3. I'll be submitting comments on all of the proposed amendments, only one at a time. #3, Eliminating the Mayor's power to veto certain land use actions and replacing it with a new Appeals Board made up of the City Council Speaker, Borough President, and Mayor to have the last draw power to reverse City Council decisions on certain land use matters would be creating an unconstitutional board. In 1989 the Supreme Court held in Board of Estimate of New York City v. Morris that the BOE was an unconstitutional body. This appeals board would essentially be equivalent to the BOE. All of the bodies and officers weighing in on a proposal in ULURP proceedings, including City Council, would essentially become advisory opinions. This appeals board would be the real decider. If it doesn't like the council's decision it can reverse it. If it likes the decision it will let it stand. Here's how this proposed board and the BOE are similar. The SCOTUS determined that the BOE was unconstitutional because although all of the 5 borough presidents were on the board, Brooklyn, the city's most populous borough, had no greater effective representation on the board than Staten Island, the city's least populous borough, and that this arrangement was a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment's Equal Protection Clause pursuant to the high court's 1964 "one man, one vote" decision in (Reynolds v. Sims). We can assume, although it has not been explicitly stated, that the 5 borough presidents will rotate on this board. Meaning, if a land use matter pertains to Brooklyn it will be the Brooklyn Borough President who will sit on the board at that time. But the problem with that is people in Manhattan won't have equal protection of the law, in this case, meaning representation, because the Brooklyn BP is voted in by Brooklyn residents. Moreover, the Brooklyn BP represents more people than the Staten Island Borough President. Essentially we'll have the same problem as we had with the BOE. Then there is the Speaker. Whoever that person will be is voted in by the speaker's council district citizens. So there is no representation at all for the other NYC citizens outside of such district. A reminder to this commission. Although a land use matter may be in a certain district that won't directly affect the other 49 council districts, all 50 City Council members vote on the matter. For this reason the veto power must stay as is.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 65[.]78[.]24[.]193, 23[.]200[.]89[.]192, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 65[.]78[.]24[.]193

_____

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-969985 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 19:09:23 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 03:09:05 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Samir Thanedar

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Hello! I support the initial proposals put forth by the Charter Revision Commission that would make it easier to build more affordable housing and make election results more representative of all New Yorkers.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:567d:4800:acb6:1ecf:ac29:81f8, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:567d:4800:acb6:1ecf:ac29:81f8

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4934424 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 19:15:24 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 03:14:51 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Richard Fox

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Good Afternoon, My name is Richard Fox, and I am a NYC public school teacher. I was at the hearing on 7/7/25 and signed up to testify but had to leave at 8:40 pm once it became clear I was not going to have the opportunity to speak. I'd like to share my thoughts with you here and I hope you consider them in your decision. First, I'd like to suggest if an ordered list of registered speakers could be shared with those that sign up in the future, just so we have an idea if we are likely or not to actually testify. Maybe a separate hearing for high profile figures would help. Many of us travelled far distances, prepared for hours, and paid tolls to attend, and ultimately were not able to speak. My prepared testimony is below: As a concerned citizen, I've been researching primary reform and engaging with my local Assembly Member, Robert Carroll, on improving NYC's election system to expand voting access. I was encouraged to see your proposal for a top-two nonpartisan primary system and believe it's the most effective reform NYC can implement at this time. First, a nonpartisan system levels the playing field for all candidates, whether affiliated with a major party or not. Currently, the Democratic and Republican parties control who makes it to the general election, often sidelining independents and smaller party candidates. A nonpartisan primary would allow all candidates to compete in one unified primary, increasing the diversity of ideas presented to voters. Second, it would empower all NYC voters—including over one million independents—to participate meaningfully in primaries. In our current system, these voters are excluded, despite being one of the fastest-growing segments of the electorate. Nonpartisan primaries give all voters an equal voice, regardless of party affiliation, and help ensure the top two candidates going to the general election have broad support. Top-two nonpartisan systems are already used in 85% of U.S. cities. NYC's successful adoption of ranked choice voting shows our voters are ready for more inclusive reforms—96% reported positive experiences with ranked choice voting, and 76% want to keep or expand it. Implementing nonpartisan primaries would build on that success and make our elections even more representative. Finally, the current two-party primary system too often rewards candidates backed by entrenched party interests and wealthy donors. This has contributed to polarization and the rise of leaders who do not reflect the will of the people - lately even displaying authoritarianism. As George Washington warned, party factions can become dangerous to democracy. A nonpartisan primary process would reduce party capture, foster leaders with broader appeal, and help prevent the rise of authoritarian leaders in the future. My prepared testimony ends there, but in response to some of what was heard at the hearing, I'd like to share a few more brief thoughts on this topic: First, I am also supportive of a top 4 system, but I think ranked choice would need to be extended to the general election for that to work optimally. So, since ranked choice is only in the primary, and top 2 has been widely tested, I think top 2 is the best version of a nonpartisan reform we can enact right now. Second, like Comptroller Lander, I am a progressive — and as a registered independent, I would've ranked the most progressive candidates, like Mamdani and Lander, as my top choices if I could have voted in the primary. I'm not a registered Democrat anymore because usually progressives, and those of other political persuasions are sidelined by party insiders. Ironically, by opposing nonpartisan primaries, many candidates, like Lander, are leaving votes like mine on the table. The opposition has asked you not to place this proposal on the ballot, but why are they afraid to hear what the people of NYC think on this matter through a democratic vote? If the people want it or don't want it, they will all let us know when it is on the ballot. I urge you to move forward with this proposal. You have heard so many opinions on this topic that I believe it to only be fair to put the proposal to a vote for the people of New York City to decide in November. Thank you. Best Regards, Richard Fox

NYC Public School Teacher

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:a410:40be:5ed:5d95:c818:f66c, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.3.1 Safari/605.1.15

Good Afternoon,

My name is Richard Fox, and I am a NYC public school teacher. I was at the hearing on 7/7/25 and signed up to testify but had to leave at 8:40 pm once it became clear I was not going to have the opportunity to speak. I'd like to share my thoughts with you here and I hope you consider them in your decision. First, I'd like to suggest if an ordered list of registered speakers could be shared with those that sign up in the future, just so we have an idea if we are likely or not to actually testify. Maybe a separate hearing for high profile figures would help. Many of us travelled far distances, prepared for hours, and paid tolls to attend, and ultimately were not able to speak.

My prepared testimony is below:

As a concerned citizen, I've been researching primary reform and engaging with my local Assembly Member, Robert Carroll, on improving NYC's election system to expand voting access. I was encouraged to see your proposal for a top-two nonpartisan primary system and believe it's the most effective reform NYC can implement at this time.

First, a nonpartisan system levels the playing field for all candidates, whether affiliated with a major party or not. Currently, the Democratic and Republican parties control who makes it to the general election, often sidelining independents and smaller party candidates. A nonpartisan primary would allow all candidates to compete in one unified primary, increasing the diversity of ideas presented to voters.

Second, it would empower all NYC voters—including over one million independents—to participate meaningfully in primaries. In our current system, these voters are excluded, despite being one of the fastest-growing segments of the electorate. Nonpartisan primaries give all voters an equal voice, regardless of party affiliation, and help ensure the top two candidates going to the general election have broad support.

Top-two nonpartisan systems are already used in 85% of U.S. cities. NYC's successful adoption of ranked choice voting shows our voters are ready for more inclusive reforms—96% reported positive experiences with ranked choice voting, and 76% want to keep or expand it. Implementing nonpartisan primaries would build on that success and make our elections even more representative.

Finally, the current two-party primary system too often rewards candidates backed by entrenched party interests and wealthy donors. This has contributed to polarization and the rise of leaders who do not reflect the will of the people - lately even displaying authoritarianism. As

George Washington warned, party factions can become dangerous to democracy. A nonpartisan primary process would reduce party capture, foster leaders with broader appeal, and help prevent the rise of authoritarian leaders in the future.

My prepared testimony ends there, but in response to some of what was heard at the hearing, I'd like to share a few more brief thoughts on this topic:

First, I am also supportive of a top 4 system, but I think ranked choice would need to be extended to the general election for that to work optimally. So, since ranked choice is only in the primary, and top 2 has been widely tested, I think top 2 is the best version of a nonpartisan reform we can enact right now.

Second, like Comptroller Lander, I am a progressive — and as a registered independent, I would've ranked the most progressive candidates, like Mamdani and Lander, as my top choices if I could have voted in the primary. I'm not a registered Democrat anymore because usually progressives, and those of other political persuasions are sidelined by party insiders. Ironically, by opposing nonpartisan primaries, many candidates, like Lander, are leaving votes like mine on the table.

The opposition has asked you not to place this proposal on the ballot, but why are they afraid to hear what the people of NYC think on this matter through a democratic vote? If the people want it or don't want it, they will all let us know when it is on the ballot. I urge you to move forward with this proposal. You have heard so many opinions on this topic that I believe it to only be fair to put the proposal to a vote for the people of New York City to decide in November. Thank you.

Best Regards,

Richard Fox

NYC Public School Teacher

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2870477 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 19:53:08 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (pocasangre@newamerica.org) on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 03:52:52 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Oscar Pocasangre

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I'm attaching an expanded version of my testimony on the topic of open primaries. I include references to relevant research showing the marginal effects of open primaries and the situations when they increase voter roll-off.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:536e:a600:c0c6:a1cc:b8cf:6f2, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:536e:a600:c0c6:a1cc:b8cf:6f2

New York City Charter Revision Commission
Testimony of Oscar Pocasangre, PhD
July 7, 2025

Thank you for the opportunity to testify today on the reforms to New York City's elections. My name is Oscar Pocasangre, I hold a PhD in political science from Columbia University and currently work as a Senior Data Analyst for the think tank, New America, where I do research on electoral systems and electoral reform.

I'd like to start by highlighting some of the evidence on the effects of top-2 primaries on turnout in primaries and general elections. First, I'd like to point out that to the best of my knowledge, there is no existing rigorous research on the effects of a ranked-choice voting primary followed by a top-two general election because that combination has not been widely implemented and tested (indeed the whole point of an RCV election is to not have a second round, which is why it's often called instant run-off). So any evidence-based recommendation necessarily has to extrapolate.

From research on open primaries with top-2, however, the political science evidence is clear: open primaries have very little impact on voter participation. Most of the research comes from California and some from Washington. The data show, at best, marginal improvements on turnout in the first round primary, and mixed effects in second round general elections – meaning sometimes up and sometimes down.

Highton, Huckfeldt, and Hale (2016) show that in California “Although there are more competitive elections when they are same-party elections, this is a case where more competition brings lower turnout because of its effects on voters from the excluded party” and that there is “substantial rolloff in same-party elections, about 7.2 percentage points compared to 2.8 pp in two-party elections.”

Bonneau and Zaleski (2021) find that these general elections with co-partisans on the ballot, “do not affect voter turnout as a whole, but can increase voter roll-off by upwards of 7%.”

Fisk (2020) finds that among voters who are left “orphaned” because none of their co-partisan candidates make it to the general, “levels of undervoting are nearly 20 percentage points higher for orphaned voters compared to non-orphaned voters.”

Patterson (2020) shows that in California and Washington, co-partisan elections “have no effect on overall turnout. Moreover, rather than increase participation, the “as-if” random absence of partisan competition results in a significant number of voters “rolling off” the ballot” and concludes that “top-two primaries not only fail to increase voter turnout, but may exacerbate the very shortcomings they sought to alleviate.”

What explains the puzzle that opening up primaries to a broader electorate ends up depressing turnout?

There are two counteracting effects: opening up primaries to independent voters expands the electorate, but also depresses the participation of voters of the party that is excluded from the general election (Sinclair and O’Grady 2018). These can end up cancelling each other out.

Another thing to consider is that independent voters do not vote at the same rate as other voters. Independent voters are not registered with a party for many reasons: it’s difficult to form a cohesive block of independent voters given their diversity. This helps explain why reforms to primaries have little effect. Most people who would vote are already voting and parties will most likely devote energy to mobilize their base of voters instead of trying to expand their base by trying to decipher a message that resonates with a heterogeneous group of voters. Further, it’s unclear that opening up the primary would encourage more people to vote: consider that many voters registered with parties do not vote even though they can, why would that be different for voters who have not registered with a party?

All this evidence suggests that opening up primaries will not have a transformative change. The problem is that reforming primaries does not address the real problem that there is no genuine party competition in the general elections, which would motivate parties to do a better job at connecting with voters and offering something that might bring unaffiliated voters into the fold.

These findings raise important points regarding the question of impacts on underrepresented communities: what community is more likely to have higher roll-off rates? What communities will have lower turnout levels as a result of co-partisan elections?

It’s alarming that there is no research on these questions, especially if the main objective of the reform is to increase turnout and especially if the reform seeks to do no harm among underrepresented communities. Particularly because research on RCV in NY has shown that ballot exhaustion (when voters do not rank all possible candidates, thus diminishing their electoral influence) is higher in areas with higher concentrations of ethnic and racial minorities (McCarty 2024), it is worrisome that an additional reform could end up reducing the electoral influence of minority groups if they experience higher roll-off rates or lower turnout. More research is needed to make sure this would not be the case.

Finally, I'll note that RCV for primaries is in its infancy in NYC. Candidates, parties, and voters are still getting used to it and changing the rules of primaries undoes a lot of the work already done to teach voters about RCV and the work done by parties and candidates to learn about how to work in this new system. Give RCV time to see if it can result in increases in turnout in NYC.

Thank you.

References

- Bonneau, Daniel D., and John Zaleski. 2021. "The Effect of California's Top-Two Primary System on Voter Turnout in US House Elections." Economics of Governance 22(1): 1–21.
- Fisk, Colin A. 2020. "No Republican, No Vote: Undervoting and Consequences of the Top-Two Primary System." State Politics & Policy Quarterly 20(3): 292–312. doi:10.1177/1532440019893688.
- Highton, Benjamin, Robert Huckfeldt, and Isaac Hale. 2016. "Some General Consequences of California's Top-Two Primary System." California Journal of Politics and Policy 8(2).
doi:10.5070/P2cjpp8230564.
- Patterson, Shawn. 2020. "Estimating the Unintended Participation Penalty under Top-Two Primaries with a Discontinuity Design." Electoral Studies 68: 102231.
doi:10.1016/j.electstud.2020.102231.
- Sinclair, J. Andrew, and Ian O'Grady. 2018. "Beyond Open and Closed: Complexity in American Primary Election Reform." In Routledge Handbook of Primary Elections, Routledge.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1227965 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 20:01:12 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 04:00:38 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Robert Holden

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: testimony attached/

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 72[.]89[.]90[.]90, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 72[.]89[.]90[.]90

---

COMMUNITY OFFICE:

58-38 69th Street
Maspeth, NY 11378
(718) 366-3900
FAX: (718) 326-3549

CITY HALL OFFICE:

250 BROADWAY, SUITE 1781
NEW YORK, NY 10007
(212) 788-7381

THE COUNCIL OF
THE CITY OF NEW YORK
ROBERT HOLDEN
COUNCIL MEMBER, 30TH DISTRICT, QUEENS

CHAIR
VETERANS

-----
COMMITTEES
PARKS AND RECREATION
PUBLIC SAFETY
TECHNOLOGY
ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION

-----
IRISH CAUCUS
ITALIAN CAUCUS
COMMON SENSE CAUCUS

July 8, 2025

NYC Charter Revision Commission
253 Broadway, 4th Floor
New York, NY 10007

To the Members of the New York City Charter Revision Commission

I am writing to express my deep concern and opposition to several of the proposals currently under consideration by this Commission.

What is being presented to the public as thoughtful reform is, in reality, one of the most sweeping attempts to dismantle local control and concentrate power in the hands of unelected bureaucrats and politically connected developers.

Ballot Questions 1 through 3 are nothing short of City of Yes on steroids. They give a blank check to developers and completely erode the rights of communities to shape their own future. Question 1 targets select districts for aggressive upzoning under the pretext of affordable housing, while ignoring infrastructure, transit access, and real affordability. Question 2 opens the floodgates for dense development in low density neighborhoods across the city, gutting zoning protections that residents have relied on for decades. Question 3 proposes a new Appeals Board that would override the City Council and local representatives, eliminating one of the last remaining checks on unchecked development. Taken together, these proposals are a roadmap for citywide overdevelopment and displacement. They send a chilling message to New Yorkers that their voices do not matter and that special interests rule the day.

If City of Yes was the opening salvo in this administration's war on neighborhoods, these proposals are the full scale invasion. They are an attack on the very idea of community input and representative government.

On top of this, I am alarmed by the continued refusal of this Commission to place the issue of sanctuary city laws on the ballot. For the second time, New Yorkers are being denied the opportunity to vote on a set of policies that have profoundly impacted public safety, strained city resources, and undermined public confidence. It is no mystery why this is being excluded. City Hall knows the people would overwhelmingly support change, so it refuses to let them speak. This is a deliberate and undemocratic choice that cannot go unchallenged.

I also strongly support the call by my colleague Council Member Frank Morano and others in the Common Sense Caucus to give Council Members binding appointment power over Community Boards. If the Commission is considering giving Borough Presidents greater influence over land use, then Council Members must be empowered to ensure Community Boards reflect the needs of the people who actually live in these neighborhoods. Without that balance, Community Boards risk becoming little more than extensions of Borough Hall, out of touch and unaccountable.

Finally, if this Commission is truly committed to transparency and public input, then it must place on the ballot the question of whether Rikers Island should be closed and borough based jails built in its place. This is one of the most consequential public safety decisions in decades, and yet the public has never been given a direct voice.

I urge you to reject the dangerous proposals now being considered, and instead focus on restoring balance, respect for communities, and real democratic accountability. Anything less will be seen for what it is: an effort to permanently change the fabric of this city without the consent of its people.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Robert F. Holden".

Robert F. Holden
Council Member, District 30

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7350163 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 20:26:32 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 04:26:10 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Nan Faessler

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission Re: Opposition to the Implementation of a "Jungle Primary" System Delivered by Nan Faessler, Member of Indivisible Harlem a Good evening, Commissioners, Thank you for the opportunity to testify today. My name is Nan Faessler and I represent Indivisible Harlem, a grassroots local organization focusing on issues that take on environmental, racial and economic injustices primarily through our engagement in electoral politics and community education. I am here to express my strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections, especially as someone who moved from Los Angeles CA and to NYC and saw how backward and flawed jungle primaries were in California. The jungle primary is being sold as some neutral process, even fits into a false narrative of if we adopt the jungle primary it increases our kumbaya factor, we have gone beyond politics. But the reality is that this system threatens to diminish the voices of communities of color, particularly Black voters, undermines our city's democratic values and punishes the achievements of grassroots organizations. I saw this in Los Angeles, California where I lived for over 30 years before moving to NYC nearly 10 years ago. Where jungle primaries have been implemented, communities of color have often found themselves with no candidate of choice on the general election ballot. When multiple candidates from one community run, they can split the vote and be eliminated—even if their community constitutes a majority of voters in that district. Although Indivisible Harlem is not a political party nor an arm of the Democratic party -our values mostly overlap and align with the Democratic platform. Grassroots organizations like ours work within our communities to educate, build coalitions to make sure that power moves away from big machines to everyday folks and a jungle primary destroys our work. The idea that we would have one ballot representing political ideologies from progressive and fair to authoritarian and cruel is beyond me and frankly a pure power play by those who appear to be open and transparent but are hiding behind a smoke screen with the richest and most powerful shilling for the idea of a jungle primary. Grassroots candidates having to compete in an expensive and massive primary means the vote gets split and makes it much harder for community-backed candidates to break through. Jungle primaries amplify the power of money over organizing. Grassroots groups can't compete with that kind of money. Our strength is people-powered campaigns that build trust over time—not six-figure media buys and insider endorsements. Jungle primaries put movement candidates at a severe disadvantage and tilt the playing field back toward the very institutions grassroots organizing seeks to challenge. The rest of the country, the world sees NYC as a progressive bastion standing up to the authoritarian rule in D.C., why would we take a step backward to appease the money interests behind those pushing for a jungle primary. The income inequality in NYC is already sky high, why would we hand over even more power to the powerful and rich. Rank Choice Voting has proven to be effective and has allowed more people of color and working people to compete. Heck why would we undo this progress? Let's make sure NYC continues down a path that allows long-term community organizing where we can put an eye on the prize of putting forth candidates who are not afraid to stand up to power that does not serve our communities. We need to elect working class champions. A jungle primary is just frankly a bad idea and takes away electoral power from BIPOC and working class communities. Rather than blowing money on a new system - since we only recently introduced RCV, how about investing in civics, expand voter access, and reward the grassroots organizers not the monied interests. Again, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward, when NYC needs to continue to march forward. Thank you.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:a300:2503:4fc:30b3:e386:c8ea, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205,
10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10.15; rv:139.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/139.0

True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:a300:2503:4fc:30b3:e386:c8ea

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3681462 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 21:17:17 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 05:16:45 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Tyler Baldwin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: My name is Tyler Baldwin, and I am here today to express my profound appreciation and strong support for the land-use related questions outlined in the Commission's Interim Report. New York City is currently grappling with its most severe housing shortage in 50 years. This emergency demands innovative solutions, and regrettably, our current governmental tools are insufficient to meet the challenge. While initiatives like the recent "City of Yes" and "City for All" plans were crucial steps forward, they are by no means enough to extricate us from this crisis. The City Charter, which governs so many of the processes impacting where and how much housing can be built, is ripe for modernization. We are incredibly excited about the opportunity these proposed updates present to directly address the housing emergency. I am particularly enthusiastic about Question 1: Fast tracking affordable housing. This proposed amendment is a game-changer for our city's most pressing need. By creating a new zoning action for publicly financed affordable housing projects administered by the Board of Standards and Appeals, and, crucially, establishing a fast-track public review procedure for applications that deliver affordable housing in the Community Districts that have historically produced the least affordable housing, we can begin to meaningfully address the inequities and inefficiencies in our current system. This "fast-track for fair housing" directly implements the Speaker's Fair Housing Framework, ensuring that new housing proposals in low-growth neighborhoods are not only more likely to be approved but also brought to fruition more quickly. This is a critical step towards creating a more equitable and housing-secure New York for all. The other proposals—simplifying the review of modest housing and infrastructure projects (Question 2), establishing a land use appeals board with council, borough, and citywide voices (Question 3), and modernizing the city map (Question 4)—are equally important and demonstrate a comprehensive approach to streamlining processes that have long hindered necessary development and infrastructure improvements. These land-use reforms would provide our government with the essential tools needed to accelerate housing production, especially affordable housing, and ensure that our city can grow sustainably and equitably. I urge the Commission to advance these vital questions to the ballot in November, allowing New Yorkers the opportunity to vote for a more responsive and effective government capable of solving our housing crisis. Thank you for your time and consideration. Sincerely, Tyler Baldwin

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:ab01:7ba4:71c2:c063:8199:1186, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:ab01:7ba4:71c2:c063:8199:1186

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-700428 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 21:42:10 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 05:41:57 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Megan Taylor

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle Primary" System I strongly oppose the proposal to adopt a "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. A change this significant deserves a robust, transparent charter revision process—not this rushed, poorly explained proposal with minimal outreach to the communities most affected. We know that hasty reforms, however well-meant, can backfire when voters aren't informed. Imposing a fundamental redesign of our elections without clear public demand or broad consent is not only misguided, it's undemocratic. This process undermines trust in our democratic system by sending the message that election rules can be rewritten from the top down, without the transparency and accountability our democracy depends on. That's a dangerous precedent, especially now when trust in our institutions is already fragile. We can strengthen democracy by listening to New Yorkers and engaging communities—not bypassing them. I urge the Commission to reject the jungle primary proposal and commit instead to a fair, inclusive process rooted in transparency, equity, and community voice.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8906901 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 21:43:15 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 05:43:02 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Phil Levin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Dear Commissioners, I write to communicate my unequivocal support for all five proposed Charter amendments featured in your July 1, 2025 Interim Report. These reforms, spanning affordable housing fast-track, modest state and infrastructure review, land-use appeals, modernization of the city map, and even-year elections, should be advanced together and should not be diluted. They represent a comprehensive, tightly interlocked package designed to unlock housing, streamline governance, improve participation, and modernize our governing infrastructure. Weakening any single proposal would undermine the synergy of the reforms and the potential to address New York City's urgent housing and civic challenges. I urge you to move forward with the full suite intact. Thank you.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 207[.]237[.]113[.]114, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6356736 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 22:08:47 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 06:07:46 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Albin Henneberger

Email:

Phone:

Comments: I am very excited about the proposed changes to the city charter. I am extremely in favor of the changes to the current primary process and having even year voting. To boost turnout - it is really important to run mayor's races on the same cycle as the president. Additionally - open primaries will help form more options for all voters. Most importantly, the changes to the ULURP process are great. I am particularly in favor of having the city council president, the borough president, and mayor having the ability to override member deference. To often there are many sectors of the city that outright to refuse to build housing. This is an important step to overriding member deference. Additionally - please consider alternative forms of soliciting community feedback. Using randomized surveys to gather support for proposals are a great way to avoid only relying on CBs. CBs are not representative of the citizens of an area - they typically don't have kids, are older, are not renters, and own cars. These special interests act as a stopping point to progress.

Greetings to the commissioners

My name is Nia Alvarez-Mapp, and I am the Lead Organizer for Rank the Vote NYC — a coalition of coalitions and organizations united by one goal: ensuring that all eligible New Yorkers are not only able to vote, but also fully understand the voting system they'll encounter, whether or not they choose to use it to their full advantage.

This effort began six years ago, when people from diverse backgrounds came together to ask commissioners — like those of you here today — to allow an unfamiliar system called Ranked Choice Voting to appear as a ballot proposal. It's safe to say we've seen the success of that initiative, as demonstrated by the nearly one million New Yorkers who turned out to vote in this year's primary.

But as I mentioned earlier, this was a six-year effort that required significant community buy-in, and even now, many New Yorkers are still getting accustomed to it, especially since state and federal elections continue to use traditional voting methods. We at Rank the Vote NYC want to acknowledge that New Yorkers welcome expansion, anything that brings out voters, but I urge you to keep it simple- easy to explain, like closed semi-open primaries. The results look like a breeze on June 24th-July 1st, but no one ever considers the 9 months of preparing for this result, semi-weekly to monthly meetings, the countless phone calls, the door knocking, translation work, the civic education that this city desperately lacks, voter apathy, hot and cold rooms, the amount of supplies, yelling over a subway, or praying that the wifi works, late nights and early mornings but most importantly the community effort it takes to do this wonderful work so that the people can be heard, so people can feel like they matter, so voters new and old don't default and do not show up.

Because of that work, the more than 50 organizations that we work with in coalition to first pass RCV on the ballot and then to educate their communities so that voters use RCV, have been laser-focused on educating the voters in their communities and on GOTV. Some of these folks like Minkown Center for Community Action which works in the Korean community, Dominicanos USA that works with Spanish-speaking Dominican-Americans, Hispanic Federation, West Harlem Environmental Action (WE-ACT), The Hispanic Federation, and New York Transgender Advocacy Group (NYTAG), just to name a few, were not aware of the Charter Revision Commission's discussion of Open Primaries at all. These groups have told me that they have not conducted the research needed to form an opinion, because they have been so busy educating people and are taking time this week and last to recover from 9 months of intensive voter education. Many of the individuals we collaborate with at our partner organizations are not even reachable to share their position (or lack of one) with me, as they are away on vacation.

I fear that some of the groups that we work with are going to be force to oppose an open primary measure on the November ballot because they have not had time to arrive at a considered opinion. Based on the conversations I have had with our partner organizations, I believe that moving forward with an Open Primary proposal this November will cause unnecessary division and opposition to primary reform. I urge you to give our organizations more time to research the different types of open primaries and, hopefully, build a broad consensus around a form of open primaries that will work for all of New York City's diverse communities before placing the issue before the voters.

Best,

Nia Alvarez-Mapp

Rank the Vote, Lead Organizer

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5865381 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 22:49:24 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 06:49:11 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Nick Clark

Email:

Phone:

Comments: I would like to submit testimony opposing bringing "jungle" primaries to NYC.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb90:fea2:84f3:6897:33c7:176b:9a14, 23[.]40[.]17[.]151, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb90:fea2:84f3:6897:33c7:176b:9a14

---

Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission
re: Opposition to the Consideration of a “Jungle” Primary System

I’m writing to vehemently oppose the proposal to bring “jungle” primaries to NYC. This is clearly the answer to a question that no one has asked. This unpopular idea was defeated 70/30 the last time it was put in front of NYC voters, and just last year, it was rejected by voters across the ideological spectrum in six other states. So, why are we revisiting this here, now?

We just had a Democratic primary in which the mayoral candidate who focused most relentlessly on issues designed to help and empower the working-class won more votes than any candidate in city history. The fact that this is being discussed - largely outside of public view - right on the heels of that historic mandate, is as galling as it is clarifying. This is transparently an idea meant to favor billionaires, party-bosses, and powerbrokers who wish to reassert their control over who gets to run for and assume office in our city. It will hamper unions, grass-roots organizers, and less-connected individuals of all stripes.

As we saw in the June primaries, folks across NYC sent an undeniable message: we want a government anchored in the concerns of working people, not one biased toward those who can choose candidates in backrooms and fund their candidacies with billionaire coffers. I implore you to reject this proposal, because doing otherwise would be an insult to the voters who are more energized now than at any time in recent memory to participate in building an equitable city for all New Yorkers.

Thank you,
Nick Clark

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3161073 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 23:05:53 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 07:04:51 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Stuart Sorell

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: The problem with changing the zoning citywide is that it doesn't reflect the character of individual neighborhoods. The notion of creating affordable housing is a false narrative. These newly created apartments are unaffordable for most people who currently reside there. Residents who chose to live in one and two family neighborhoods do not want to live in a mini Manhattan. There are hundreds of underutilized office buildings that can be renovated to create affordable residential apartments. Do not change the current zoning. The only people who will benefit from this are greedy developers and corrupt politicians.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 108[.]30[.]77[.]27, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3884901 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 01:00:16 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 08:59:59 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Barbara H Gold

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: While I agree that NYC needs more affordable housing, I don't think neighborhoods should be arbitrarily transformed or broken up. Old neighborhoods in the Bronx have been destroyed by Cross Bronx Expressway etc. There is plenty of vacant buildings that could be renovated and offered affordable like the old Mitchellama program. Everyone shouldn't suffer because of bad decisions made in the past.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 47[.]17[.]159[.]155, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X)

AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) CriOS/138.0.7204.119 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1

True-Client-IP: 47[.]17[.]159[.]155

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Election changes testimony

From: Karen Wharton <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 21:49:04 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

My name is Karen Wharton, and I am here writing to express my views on the proposed shift to a so-called “jungle primary” or “top-two primary” system in New York City. One of the key arguments made by supporters of this model is that it would increase voter turnout. However, the data does not support that claim.

Let’s talk about California. California adopted the top-two system statewide in 2010, which provides ample data points for study. At the time of its adoption, supporters of California’s top-two primary system promised that it would increase voter participation by engaging those unaffiliated with a party. Still, the reality doesn’t quite live up to the promise.

Multiple studies by the Public Policy Institute of California and the California Journal of Politics and Policy have concluded that the California system does not increase turnout. In fact, Eric McGhee, senior fellow at the Public Policy Institute of California, in his study, “Voter Turnout In Primary Elections,” wrote the following: “[o]pen primaries, or jungle primaries, have not been associated with higher turnout in the states that have used the for over the past 30 years, at least in the cases where “open” meant any system that allowed independents to participate in some way in the election.” Data from the California Secretary of State shows a negligible increase in voter turnout for non-presidential years.

In districts where two candidates from the same party advanced to the general election, the turnout in the general election also tended to decline. When the final ballot didn’t reflect voters’ ideological or party affiliations, participation declined, as expected.

While we haven’t seen a reliable increase in turnout in California, we’ve seen this system invite mischief. We have had situations where Candidate A supported Candidate B, helping the latter finish second because Candidate B was more easily beaten in the general election. This potential for manipulation has been demonstrated several times, including by Gavin Newsom in 2018 and

Adam Schiff in 2024.

New York does not need this. We just implemented ranked choice voting, and it seems to be working. Let us not replace it with a system that does not demonstrably increase turnout and may actually reduce competition in the general election. That would be a huge step backward.

We should build on what's working, not replace it with a system that has dubious results. Replacing what we have with a system that does not demonstrably increase turnout and may actually reduce competition in the general election would be a huge step backward. Let's not trade away our gains for a system that sounds promising in theory but fails in practice.

I urge this commission to reject the top-two model and protect the integrity of our local democracy.

I've attached a PDF version of this testimony that includes footnotes.

Thank you.

Dear Commissioners.

My name is Karen Wharton, and I am here writing to express my views on the proposed shift to a so-called “jungle primary” or “top-two primary” system in New York City. One of the key arguments made by supporters of this model is that it would increase voter turnout. However, the data does not support that claim.

Let’s talk about California. California adopted the top-two system statewide in 2010, which provides ample data points for study. At the time of its adoption, supporters of California’s top-two primary system promised that it would increase voter participation by engaging those unaffiliated with a party. Still, the reality doesn’t quite live up to the promise.

Multiple studies by the Public Policy Institute of California and the California Journal of Politics and Policy have concluded that the California system does not increase turnout. In fact, Eric McGhee, senior fellow at the Public Policy Institute of California, in his study, “Voter Turnout In Primary Elections,” wrote the following: “[o]pen primaries, or jungle primaries, have not been associated with higher turnout in the states that have used the for over the past 30 years, at least in the cases where “open” meant any system that allowed independents to participate in some way in the election.”<sup>1</sup> Data from the California Secretary of State<sup>2</sup> shows a negligible increase in voter turnout for non-presidential years.

In districts where two candidates from the same party advanced to the general election, the turnout in the general election also tended to decline. When the final ballot didn’t reflect voters’ ideological or party affiliations, participation declined, as expected.

While we haven’t seen a reliable increase in turnout in California, we’ve seen this system invite mischief. We have had situations where Candidate A supported Candidate B, helping the latter finish second because Candidate B was more easily beaten in the general election. This potential for manipulation has been demonstrated several times, including by Gavin Newsom in 2018 and Adam Schiff in 2024.

New York does not need this. We just implemented ranked choice voting, and it seems to be working. Let us not replace it with a system that does not demonstrably increase turnout and may actually reduce competition in the general election. That would be a huge step backward.

We should build on what’s working, not replace it with a system that has dubious results. Replacing what we have with a system that does not demonstrably increase turnout and may actually reduce competition in the general election would be a huge step backward. Let’s not trade away our gains for a system that sounds promising in theory but fails in practice.

I urge this commission to reject the top-two model and protect the integrity of our local democracy.

---

<sup>1</sup> “Voter Turnout in Primary Elections” May 2014 Eric McGhee

<sup>2</sup> <https://elections.cdn.sos.ca.gov/sov/2024-primary/sov/05-historical-voter-reg-primary.pdf>

Thank you.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8400649 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 02:34:05 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Tuesday, July 8, 2025, at 10:33:37 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=PAQ0xDSwLaWPpleH RuA2FIbQIxmQABp4IwI3uyQIHhdatuRy9qMA8E7ZLk2_YSH4_IQuNvdpR2RoYA9CTUZI7gGobl_aem_ tdwgmNCs4jpKaHUB8Yj7dw

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Shawn Leventhal

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: We need to make it easier to build new homes. In neighborhoods like Astoria, building heights on commercial blocks should be 8-10 stories allowing those investing in land to be able to build more units, especially affordable ones.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:aef0:8610:407c:596b:4ab6:6e9d, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 Instagram 387[.]0[.]0[.]24.91

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Commissioners: No jungle primaries in NYC.

From: Anna Humphrey <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Tue, 08 Jul 2025 13:33:14 +0000

---

<meta http-equiv="Content-Type" content="text/html; charset=utf-8">

<title></title>

<style type="text/css">

#outlook a {padding:0;}

.ExternalClass {width:100%;}

.ExternalClass, .ExternalClass p, .ExternalClass span, .ExternalClass font, .ExternalClass td,
.ExternalClass div {line-height: 100%;}

img {outline:none; text-decoration:none; -ms-interpolation-mode: bicubic;}

a img {border:none;}

.image_fix {display:block;}

p {margin: 1em 0;}

h1, h2, h3, h4, h5, h6 {color: #404040;}

table td {border-collapse: collapse;}

@media only screen and (max-device-width: 480px) {

a[href^="tel"], a[href^="sms"] {

text-decoration: none;

color: blue;

/* pointer-events: none; */

cursor: default;

}

.mobile_link a[href^="tel"], .mobile_link a[href^="sms"] {

text-decoration: default;

color: orange;

pointer-events: auto;

cursor: default;

}

}

```
@media only screen and (min-device-width: 768px) and (max-device-width: 1024px) {
  a[href^="tel"], a[href^="sms"] {
    text-decoration: none;
    color: blue;
    /* pointer-events: none; */
    cursor: default;
  }
}
```

```
.mobile_link a[href^="tel"], .mobile_link a[href^="sms"] {
  text-decoration: default;
  color: orange;
  pointer-events: auto;
  cursor: default;
}
}
```

```
@media only screen and (-webkit-min-device-pixel-ratio: 2) {

}
```

```
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:.75){

}
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:1){

}
@media only screen and (-webkit-device-pixel-ratio:1.5){

}
```

```
</style><!--[if IEMobile 7]>
<style type="text/css">
```

```
</style>
<![endif]--><!--[if gte mso 9]>
<style>
```

```
</style>
<![endif]-->
</head>
```

<body leftmargin="0" marginwidth="0" topmargin="0" marginheight="0" offset="0" style="margin: 0;padding: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF;width: 100% !important;-webkit-text-size-adjust:100%; -ms-text-size-adjust:100%;">

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe.&nbsp; Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

&nbsp;

<center>

<table cellpadding="0" cellspacing="0" border="0" id="backgroundTable" style="margin: 0;padding: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF;height: 100% !important;width: 100% !important;line-height: 100% !important; border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td align="center" valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="0" cellspacing="0" style="border: 0;background-color: #FFFFFF; border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td align="center" valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="10" cellspacing="0" style="border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse; background-color: #FFFFFF; padding:10px 10px 40px;">

<table border="0" cellpadding="10" cellspacing="0" style="border-collapse:collapse; mso-table-lspace:0pt; mso-table-rspace:0pt;" role="presentation">

<tbody>

<tr>

<td valign="top" style="border-collapse: collapse;" width="600">

Charter Revision Commission Charter Revision Commission NYC,

Dear Commissioners,

I am writing to urge you to reject any proposal to implement a jungle primary system (top-two or top-four) in New York City.

Jungle primaries are not a path to greater democracy. In fact, they threaten to reverse the hard-won progress we've made with ranked-choice voting and small-donor public financing—reforms that have helped expand participation, especially in Black, brown, immigrant, and working-class communities.

Data from California shows that jungle primaries:

Lower voter turnout (2014 saw a historic low of 25.2%)

In both 2022 and 2024, turnout hovered at just 33%, even with universal vote-by-mail which is about average for a non-presidential year

Disadvantage candidates of color and grassroots challengers

Force general elections between two candidates of the same party, leaving many voters without a meaningful choice

Even more concerning, this proposal is being pushed without real community input. The Charter Revision Commission has not held broad-based discussions in the neighborhoods that this change would most impact. Most public testimony in favor has come from a few interconnected organizations, some of which are even based out of state.

I urge the Commission to:

Reject jungle primaries in all forms

Respect the reforms New Yorkers have already chosen

Engage directly with communities before fundamentally altering our elections

Let's strengthen—not undermine—representation and equity in New York City.

Sincerely,

```
</table>

</center>

</body>
</html>
```

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2794926 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 07:23:28 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 03:23:14 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Eric J. Graf

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Hello, Please see the attached testimony regarding the open primary proposal under consideration by the Commission. Thank you.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 15[.]223[.]188[.]93, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 15[.]223[.]188[.]93

---

Hello,

I write to express my opposition to the open primary proposal under consideration by the Commission. I write this even though I am a lifelong New Yorker who has been unable to vote in the major party primaries held during most of the years I have been registered to vote. As it currently stands, however, I am a registered Democrat and, as such, I was excited to cast my first ranked-choice ballot just a few weeks ago.

I want to thank the Commission for its role in bringing ranked-choice voting to our primary elections and special elections. I hope that the Commission will support ranked-choice voting in our general elections next. Indeed, this fall's general election for mayor demonstrates why we need it. With five major candidates running, a candidate could win the election with just over 20% support. This would not be a desirable outcome. Related to this is the also undesirable public conversation currently occurring among the candidates not named Zohran Mamdani.

The general election candidates running for mayor should all be able to make the case for themselves and for their ideas for our city and the voters should be able to rank the candidates in their order of preference. Instead, we are hearing proposals about using a privately conducted poll to determine which of the non-Mamdani candidates should drop out of the race so there can be an artificial two-way race in November.

While the "top two" general election aspect of the open primary proposal being considered by the Commission would do away with this problem, it would do so in an undemocratic fashion. The number of voters in a November General Election is likely to always exceed the number of all primary voters the preceding June – especially if the city moves local elections to coincide with national elections, as the Commission is proposing. We should not be limiting the choices of the larger general election electorate.

If New York State were to allow unaffiliated voters to vote in party primaries throughout the state, I would welcome that, but the City, in my view, should not adopt the proposal being considered by the Commission.

Thank you for your consideration.

Best,
Eric J. Graf

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9934406 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 10:03:24 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 06:03:08 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR5ix8d3o_0XMG0CMqOe1yhLEHCCF2IX0hleRhNTcqTgR3-1E30oEJFIheulA_aem_I7D9323-bWZ ysptgo92ibw

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Dawn and Rich Doyle Doyle

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dawn Doyle Tottenville , Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Dawn Doyle Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:387:f:5d19::1, 23[.]202[.]91[.]160, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone14,8;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/759969108;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2600:387:f:5d19::1

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-96502 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 10:28:35 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 06:28:21 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR4AaZShvNtO2gshZcM7NwjV-XYJjFBIHTs9H6XvL8o1GEd-9d1BE1ri8BipJw_aem_EYG-aq3ijy1hv
GHE-ZXZyQ

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Victoria Scarano-Afflitto

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Victoria Scarano-Afflitto Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York

City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating: • Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation. • Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory. • Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all. Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Victoria Scarano-Afflitto Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5f91:1300:6158:7601:6180:786c, 23[.146[.112[.1205, 23[.1220[.1105[.189, 10[.1143[.158[.1120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.10[.10[.138.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone14,7;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760210430;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5f91:1300:6158:7601:6180:786c

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6567070 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 10:30:21 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 06:30:06 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR4AaZShvNtO2gshZcM7NwjV-XYJjFBIHTs9H6XvL8o1GEd-9d1BE1ri8BipJw_aem_EYG-aq3ijy1hv
GHE-ZXZyQ

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Harlan Afflitto

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Harlan Afflitto Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Harlan Afflitto Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5f91:1300:6158:7601:6180:786c, 23[.]46[.]12[.]205, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone14,7;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760210430;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5f91:1300:6158:7601:6180:786c

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9567991 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 10:39:33 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 06:39:14 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR6tQWF_8_DPbnWcpURik_ZYzr4F2f7IOAqT6_0XGHsX3SW4w7Q7ZiMmLHqkQ_aem_eH2zRstq
CrJpuQEY4pZjmg

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Christina Fama

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Christina Fama Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Christina Fama Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:93e7:fe00:5d1d:d34a:e9b9:8a6e, 23[.133[.143[.1217, 23[.146[.1181[.1202, 10[.1143[.158[.1120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone15,3;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760080001;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:93e7:fe00:5d1d:d34a:e9b9:8a6e

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8820413 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 10:43:15 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 06:43:01 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR6FLI9WXhm329UCcN1c-PSG9N5eX2yMephEOVhkpW2CaadZC0l4H61gbnOBg_aem_cZTvGCo
CNydQHjNWfOFOhg

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Mary ievolo

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Mary ievolo Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Mary ievolo Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5fae:2a00:f18b:c804:1a71:a574, 184[.]51[.]149[.]31, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone15,4;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760102448;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5fae:2a00:f18b:c804:1a71:a574

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4308622 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 11:02:34 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 07:01:17 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR4M3pFuv_wZ-CJlnENUuTknZuuPbjpr_MGhV2Th0ZNIE0DuhT-BkWZRNeOWg_aem_BdgOPfnPB
Nusgadwn3Kwdg

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Ann marie Cangialosi

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Ann Marie Cangialosi Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York

City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating: • Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation. • Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory. • Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all. Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Ann Marie Cangialosi Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 67[.]243[.]113[.]183, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone12,1;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO
S;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/2;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760210430;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 67[.]243[.]113[.]183

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8280436 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 11:21:59 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 07:21:49 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR7I7mdCWjP7wECyRxNeUq0_Am9KEkZfaDuzA8yVw2ZgshRiBORijFCy bq6viw_aem_zCs3OcHy2
4gZp-bqMq1aiw

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Miriam guirguis

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Miriam guirguis Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 9, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Miriam guirguis Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b4ca:53a6:e8ea:c705:7358:29b0, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/519[.]1[.]0[.]40.99;FBBV/753726094;FBDV/iPhone15,2;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/757734483;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b4ca:53a6:e8ea:c705:7358:29b0

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-367451 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 11:40:09 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 07:39:41 AM

---

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR4E5yulEB1x3UuiNvxOK43Ov6KwrJIISExfkrBBQbZU5TG7emWIK0SMBRgVIA_aem_WUIBU-AFw
GqSI05_ulFNmQ

---

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Cagney Meyler

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Date: July 9, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission
Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’
Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision
Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like
Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York
City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. §

3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Cagney Meyler Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:6f00:36e8:945a:1b48:7bc1:b5cb, 184[.]51[.]149[.]31, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIO;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone17,1;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760354837;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:6f00:36e8:945a:1b48:7bc1:b5cb

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2534936 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 11:46:52 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 07:46:40 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR7GN79gZ1_OPYVLYnxbOnuYoMa2AnmdLt1TWtC0EDE4sdcxNtZ8iDouWAexkw_aem_tfYArZ4
MKeOI5y2BPai1A

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: M Dishuk

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios:

45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning.

Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation.

Skyrocketing

Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating: • Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation. • Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory. • Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all. Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Maureen Dishuk Concerned Staten Islander

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:6f00:2e0f:f9d4:5dc:7eb0:1f78, 184[.]51[.]149[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPad; CPU OS 16_6_1 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/20G81 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPad11,6;FBMD/iPad;FBSN/iPadOS;FBSV/16.6.1;FBSS/2;FBID/tablet;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760210430]

True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:6f00:2e0f:f9d4:5dc:7eb0:1f78

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9362890 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 12:10:23 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:09:03 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR4WeWwyfSlAHArwjYe0HSjpB4F8rPZEdXqCptV3gDluR4GnRiR-J9xEXgb7wA_aem_iZ6YCL02JTz h4JpHkp6z7Q

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Danielle Rigney

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Mike Caldera Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Mike Caldera Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:93e9:9d00:b0d9:6fa9:f046:ae26, 184[.]51[.]149[.]37, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/511[.]0[.]0[.]38.96;FBBV/727668296;FBDV/iPhone14,3;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/732548456;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:93e9:9d00:b0d9:6fa9:f046:ae26

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9038036 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 12:12:50 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:11:54 AM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR6Gqp_QpI5wjjFZE-3wrVsTlThZbMR5wQqscV0e-GOILW3zdrj5uU_rqoem_w_aem_utmQg47jwqz 1IHG5HaqISw

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jamie Dilorio

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Jamie Dilorio Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Jamie Dilorio Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b439:a4d2:cd7e:1f10:b0b1:13, 23[.]33[.]43[.]217, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 15_6_1 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/19G82 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/518[.]0[.]0[.]52.100;FBBV/750192798;FBDV/iPhone14,4;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/15.6.1;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/754560942;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b439:a4d2:cd7e:1f10:b0b1:13

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1352373 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 12:20:44 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:20:11 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwY2xjawLbPXhleHRu
A2FlbQlXMAbicmlkETFRaXIITm92UXpObWQxdFFXAR7EsZQ-Y6fScSc6wV6BGSSsAlhqkfttYGvGQ0wl xCz8PjqFAzr7thD9l5lSHUQ_aem_lm3lyPPRnka9VU9tupnDiA

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Michelle Moyle

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: From a concerned Tottenville resident: Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios:

45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning.

Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Michelle Moyle Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 100[.]37[.]136[.]82, 104[.]110[.]188[.]180, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/16.5.1 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 100[.]37[.]136[.]82

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3195652 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 12:44:54 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:44:39 AM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwY2xjawLbQvRleHRu A2FlbQlXMQABHrNUqoG3cssx77mFwkZPFdynpT53flqZdqakat69UIPa9MDIHIYV2uU-b95z_aem_MbJ kr3oEQIGWWbQ1XlsXRQ

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lynn Hartnett

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Lynn Hartnett Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Mike Caldera Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:6f00:2e07:9ea8:5199:d6c0:4dc4, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 15; SM-S908U Build/AP3A.240905.015.A2; wv)
AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/4.0 Chrome/138.0.7204.139 Mobile
Safari/537.36 [FB_IAB/FB4A;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]44.99;IABMV/1;]
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:6f00:2e07:9ea8:5199:d6c0:4dc4

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Written Testimony Following the Release of the Interim Report

From: Vishnu Reddy <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 09:34:01 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Members of the Charter Revision Commission,

My name is Vishnu Reddy, I live in Sunnyside, and I want to express my enthusiastic support for every single proposal mentioned in the Charter Revision Commission's Interim Report. I'm looking forward to voting for all of them. I unfortunately didn't get the opportunity to speak during the hearing on July 7th, so I wanted to send in my written testimony.

Housing Production

The lack of housing production has caused a housing shortage that is the biggest crisis facing our city today. I'm so grateful that this Commission is working to help us find solutions. Fast-tracking affordable housing, simplifying reviews of modest projects, and creating a land use appeals board after the City Council portion of ULURP are all common-sense ways to address the roadblocks that have led us to this point. While these proposals should be more aggressive to be proportional to the depth of the housing shortage, they are still great steps in the right direction.

Election Reform

I'm also very excited at the possibility of even-year elections. If passed by City voters in November, I will be advocating for the necessary changes to be made at the state level as well so we can bolster the civic engagement that is so important to the thriving of our city. I would, however, slightly prefer that the elections be held two years off-cycle from the presidential elections, as I worry that holding them during presidential elections will cause local issues to get drowned out. Regardless, even-year elections would be a great improvement over the status quo.

Lastly, I want to express my strong support for open primaries, and I hope this question is brought to the voters this November. I'm very thankful that we have ranked choice voting in the primaries, but there are still issues with the current way we run elections. A ranked choice open primary with a top two general election would solve several issues at once. First of all, it would solve the issue of voters being disenfranchised by their party registration. I know several folks who wanted to vote in the recent Democratic primary, but were not able to because they were registered under a different party without realizing that it would prevent them from being able to vote. Open primaries would prevent issues like this from occurring, expanding ballot access to more New Yorkers. Second of all, we currently don't have a "sore loser" law, meaning that the loser of a primary can still run in the general election. This creates a lot of perverse incentives for people running in elections and creates confusion for voters. The open primary proposal would solve that issue as well. Lastly, our general election is still decided on a plurality vote basis, making it likely that the winner is unrepresentative of their constituents and reducing the legitimacy of our political system. For these reasons, I support the open primary proposal that the Charter Revision Commission is considering, and I encourage the commission to send the question over to voters in November.

With appreciation,
Vishnu Reddy

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5596538 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 13:38:18 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 09:38:03 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR7Lfdi4tb3xNhRPlsq1qmYVniUinDaZNLP18LCVYWly3ChcC_t3fb1A7W4WHA_aem_3TYQueHfDy
ZKoSap6MHqSw

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Tottenville Resident

Email:

Phone:

Comments: No to this

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5f94:6900:f96b:88b9:4108:f01c, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPad; CPU OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOs;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPad13,18;FBMD/iPad;FBSN/iPadO
S;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/2;FBID/tablet;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/759914710]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3254034 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 13:48:49 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 09:48:17 AM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwY2xjawLbUdNieHRu
A2FIbQlXMAbicmlkETE1UIhXdkVWSVhnbmhMYVB5AR5wUB4pVIGi2zdzo3I9Pd0oIJOhgSTqVvWqOh
Ql84mxCtk784p0wyt_rOdJhg_aem_WV3ArI7R3AkalrEgT7sxCw

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Patricia Yannotta

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: [REDACTED] Date: July 8, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals

Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Patricia Yannotta Concerned Tottenville resident

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:7340:7e8f:7490:b7e5:efb7:a367, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/99.0.4844.51 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:7340:7e8f:7490:b7e5:efb7:a367

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution,

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1806803 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 13:49:04 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 09:48:23 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Laura Fenton

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Dear Commissioners, Thank you for the opportunity to submit written testimony in opposition to the so-called "jungle primary" system proposed for New York City elections. I've been a New Yorker for 27 years and am an active community activist. I am also a co-founder of Jackson Heights Indivisible. I've volunteered for campaigns and with community groups, and I believe a jungle primary system would favor the rich and the powerful by forcing grassroots candidates to compete in massive, often expensive fields—splitting the vote and making it far harder for community-backed candidates to break through. This proposed system of primaries amplifies the power of money over organizing. We need less influence of money in our politics, not more. This proposal is not about empowering voters. It's about giving the rich even MORE power. And it will significantly disempower people like me and my neighbors who have learned how to organize within the existing system. Let's do something real to make a more inclusive democracy: Invest more in civic education, expand voter access, and build more systems that reward organizing, not money. I beg you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It's wrong for our city. Thank you, Laura Fenton, Jackson Heights, NY

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6172223 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 14:08:33 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 10:08:18 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR4zvewYTAAbPIX6-LSZCoFAwi64tkf7ROFTV2mOu2WKJ6Ye9Ryz5cPGfQpewaA_aem_JEnbBEiFLX ri0S3ny9pyXw

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Roselle Mann

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Roselle Mann Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating: • Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation. • Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory. • Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all. Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Roselle Mann Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 100[.]37[.]17[.]83, 23[.]40[.]16[.]30, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone15,2;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO
S;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760102448;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 100[.]37[.]17[.]83

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2308154 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 14:56:24 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 10:56:10 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Victoria Serecin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Date: July 9, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission
Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios:

45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning.

Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation.

Skyrocketing

Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Victoria Serecin Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5f93:1100:18d1:cf2:49d0:3ea5, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_12_6) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/103[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5f93:1100:18d1:cf2:49d0:3ea5

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2885924 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 14:58:53 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 10:58:40 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR6SKqNiXnQFjiA6nMyvBAbgKwA-8FfdolRmhbWHRfMeGz_U-4Wy74FrZzllGQ_aem_LCibwjQ9r_Al
AGXtB0SkPQ

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Tara Timpanelli

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Stop this building on Staten Island. Building department already ruined our neighborhoods with building houses behind houses for years now the population has increased to capacity for a 14 mile Island that can not support the infrastructure

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5f9e:4000:6922:1afb:7354:222b, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-714745 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 15:36:59 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 11:36:35 AM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Councilwoman Kristy Marmorato

[REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Attached please find the written testimony from CM Marmorato of District 13.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 68[.]132[.]158[.]50, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 68[.]132[.]158[.]50

---

DISTRICT OFFICE
1925 WILLIAMSBURGH ROAD
BRONX, NY 10461
PHONE: 718-931-1721
FAX: 718-931-1605

CITY HALL OFFICE
250 BROADWAY, SUITE 1554
NEW YORK, NY 10007
PHONE: 212-788-7375
FAX: 212-442-2724

District13@council.nyc.gov

THE COUNCIL
OF
THE CITY OF NEW YORK
KRISTY MARMORATO
COUNCIL MEMBER, 13TH DISTRICT, BRONX

COMMITTEE
ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION, RESILIENCY, AND WATERFRONTS
HEALTH
HOSPITALS
MENTAL HEALTH, DISABILITIES, AND ADDICTION VETERANS
-----
SUB-COMMITTEE
COVID AND INFECTIOUS DISEASES

Dear Charter Revision Commission,

As the Council Member for District 13, I know firsthand how critical it is to keep local voices at the center of land use decisions. I recently led my district through a major rezoning, and the only reason I was able to support it was because I spent months meeting with community leaders, working closely with our community board, and listening directly to the people I was elected to represent.

That feedback wasn't a roadblock—it was the roadmap. Because I had a real seat at the table, I was able to secure over $170 million in infrastructure investments, alone, that made the project work FOR our community. That's what real representation looks like.

Now, proposals are being pushed forward in this charter that would remove elected Council Members—and by extension, our communities—from key parts of the ULURP process. These changes would let City Hall, private developers, and outside entities fast-track land use matters with minimal review and zero accountability to the people who actually live there.

Some individuals may argue this is necessary to make housing easier to build. But let's be honest: for some, this is a tactic to avoid public scrutiny and responsibility. It's a way to bypass the hard parts of public service—like listening, compromising, and being held accountable for your vote. I didn't run for office to hand off decisions to unelected appointees. I ran to represent my community—and that's exactly what I intend to keep doing.

We need a system that respects citywide goals while still honoring neighborhood voices. That balance is only possible when the Council Member stays in the process. Removing us silences the people we serve, and I will not support any proposal that cuts out the very residents who trust us to speak on their behalf.

Thank you to the commission for hearing me today and for letting me stand up and speak on behalf of my constituents.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Kristy Marmorato".

Kristy Marmorato
New York City Council Member
District 13, Bronx

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4494784 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 15:58:26 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 11:58:12 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Ryder Kessler

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: My ancestors immigrated to New York over a century ago seeking a better life—economic opportunity and freedom to worship as they chose. New York delivered on that promise. When my grandfather was born in 1924, his father could afford a three-room home in Brooklyn for what would become a family of ten on the salary of a cotton miller because New York was building enough homes to keep up with rising demand—averaging nearly 73,000 each year over the course of the 1920s. My grandfather could then remain in Brooklyn as a WWII veteran attempting to build a womenswear business, accessing factories and showrooms in Manhattan as he lifted his family out of poverty. In a flash, my family went from farmers in Eastern Europe to executives of a company trading on the New York Stock Exchange. That New York is gone. From 2010 to 2023, New York averaged about 22,000 new homes each year—less than a third of 1920s rates. With demand far outpacing supply, just 1.4% of apartments are vacant, rents are rising seven times faster than wages, and record numbers of our neighbors are sleeping in shelters or on the street. If they came to America today, my family would have passed through Ellis Island—and kept going. New York's character isn't retained through obsessive fealty to its existing physical footprint, retaining facades but losing future entrepreneurs, educators, and artists. The existing process for permitting new homes is broken. It is far too slow and far too responsive to incumbent homeowners over tenants stuck in an increasingly precarious rental market—or New Yorkers not yet here. I serve on Manhattan's Community Board 2, where I see firsthand the ways we are stuck in a vicious circle. Very little new housing is built in a supply-constrained market; when new homes go up lower Manhattan, they are expensive, so we lament only allowing “luxury” homes. We approve less housing and vote against rezonings, unwilling to benefit greedy developers. Prices keep going up, and all housing becomes “luxury” because there is so little of it. We say we support 100% affordable housing, but we still insist on years-long processes to gate-keep our district to new residents—often seeking to shrink or block these affordable developments altogether. The only beneficiaries of this status quo are wealthy landlords, the homeowners and stabilized tenants who are secure in their housing, and the red states to which New York families are fleeing. We must reform this broken system. I urge the Charter Revision Commission to use every lever at its disposal to streamline the approval of new homes: to ensure we build enough to lower rents for everyone, to even the playing field between big developers that can navigate byzantine processes and those currently kept out of competition, and to ensure equitable construction of new homes across all neighborhoods—not just less politically powerful ones. Proposals 1-4 are all laudable and well-considered. They should be put before voters in whatever form will maximize their impact.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 67[.]251[.]153[.]146, 23[.]198[.]215[.]133, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 67[.]251[.]153[.]146

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6731139 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 16:02:19 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 12:01:54 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: McLean Cozine

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Charter Revision Commission, As a current Brooklyn resident, I am writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5. We desperately need more housing, both affordable and market-rate. Proposals 1, 2, and 3 are excellent steps in speeding up the process to build this housing. They are measures that will slow the sharp increase in housing costs, allow both citizens and the city to more quickly and easily respond to housing and infrastructure needs, and ensure that development reflects citywide interests. Proposal 4's Digital City Map addresses these concerns as well. However, I believe that it goes beyond this to greatly reduce the amount of time and therefore money that all development will take in this city. It is also a commendable example of improving government services and updating them to reflect contemporary technology. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer to me. Increasing voter turnout, simplifying participation in our democratic processes, and saving money at the same time are all great goals. To that end, I believe that continuing with Proposal 6, open primaries, is also a good idea. Please put all six of these measures on the November ballot for the public to decide. Sincerely, McLean Cozine
Brooklyn 11222

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Top-Four Primary Testimony from 6/23/2025

From: R <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 12:31:51 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Good evening, Commissioners,

My name is Rob Anglin. This my first time testifying but I'm moved to do so because I'm opposed to the Final-Four or "Top-Four" jungle primary for our New York City local elections.

I want to focus on a popular claim often made in support of this system:

that it leads to the election of more moderate, less polarized candidates. That claim is widely repeated, but not supported by the data.

Let's start with the theory: under a top-four or top-two system, all candidates appear on a single primary ballot regardless of party, and the top finishers advance to the general election—supposedly encouraging candidates to appeal to the "middle." But in practice, this has not happened.

In California, which implemented a top-two primary system in 2010 with the same theoretical goal, multiple peer-reviewed studies have found no evidence of increased moderation. A landmark 2016 study by political scientists Douglas Ahler, Jack Citrin, and Gabriel Lenz concluded that "California's top-two primary has not had a substantial effect on the ideological positions of elected officials." (Ahler et al., 2016, California Journal of Politics and Policy).

Likewise, a 2020 report by the Public Policy Institute of California found that legislators elected under top-two were no more moderate than their predecessors, and the system had done little to reduce party polarization in practice (PPIC, 2020).

The same is true in Alaska, where Final-Four voting was introduced in 2022. While some point to Senator Lisa Murkowski's reelection as proof of moderation, the reality is that Murkowski is a long-term incumbent with enormous name recognition, a unique brand, and deep financial backing—not the product of Final-Four mechanics. There is no consistent trend in Alaska showing the election of more centrist candidates in either state legislative or congressional races. And one cycle of data in a state as politically and demographically distinct as Alaska should not be used to justify sweeping reform in New York City.

In fact, some research suggests that Final-Four and top-two systems may reduce ideological clarity for voters and lead to strategic gaming by well-funded candidates who can afford to court multiple blocs. This undermines transparency and makes it harder, not easier, for voters to hold officials accountable.

The real impact of these systems is often just the opposite of what's promised: more confusion, more big money, and no measurable moderation.

We don't need to replace a functioning, voter-backed system with an unproven one. There is no solid evidence that Final-Four jungle primaries lead to more moderate elected officials, and certainly not enough to justify a risky overhaul of how our city chooses its leaders.

Thank you

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-109076 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 16:32:29 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 12:32:07 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jonathan Bloom

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Thank you Commission for the incredible work you are doing. I intended on giving my testimony over Zoom on February 24th, but of course the one moment I got called away by my 5-year old son was when I got called on to speak at the hearing! I did want to get my written testimony into the commission though, so please see attached. Thank you!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 96[.]232[.]123[.]234, 23[.]198[.]215[.]153, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 96[.]232[.]123[.]234

Jonathan Bloom Testimony for NYC CRC Hearing

Hello and thank you for this opportunity to testify today. My name is Jonathan Bloom, and I am a resident of my beloved New York City, and a registered voter, who has consistently voted in general elections. However, I am not registered to any organized political party, thus making me one of over 1 million independent voters in New York City. Due to closed partisan primaries, independent voters are disenfranchised in New York City and the best solution is to do away with partisan primaries and move toward a system of non-partisan primary elections.

In New York City, there is an estimated population of about 8.3 million people. Of that 8.3 million people, there are about 6 million eligible voters, and about 4.7 million active registered voters. As I mentioned, 1 million active registered voters are not registered to any political party, over 3 million are registered Democrats, and about half-a-million are registered Republicans. The 1 million independents do not have any say in who our candidates are in the general election. Which means that independents have had almost no say in our elected officials for over 15 years.

Since the 2009 mayoral election, no general election for New York City mayor has had a closer margin than 39%. The elections are decided in the partisan primaries, particularly the Democratic primaries. In 2021, about 800k people voted in the Democratic primary, which is the de facto general election in deciding who will be the leader of this great city. This constitutes less than 10% of the overall population, and only about 15% of active registered voters. In 2013, just 700k people voted in the Democratic primary, and in 2017, just about 400k people. It is crazy to have so few people deciding the elected officials of a city of 8.3 million, especially the most important city in the world. No American should have to be forced to actively become a registered member of a political party in order to have a voice in the democratic selection of our elected officials. It is time to do better and end the disenfranchisement of independent voters in New York City. Thank you.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4502460 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 16:44:31 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
([REDACTED]) on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 12:43:41 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: David Pecoraro

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: As an individual member of Community Board 13Q (not authorized to speak on behalf of the Board) and a lifelong NYC resident of 65 years, I must express my strong opposition to any ballot measure that seeks to weaken the community protections that Community Boards and Councilmember input currently have regarding the ULURP process. Last year, thanks to the input of our Board and local Civic Associations, Councilmember Selvena Brooks-Powers was able to introduce and pass meaningful amendments to the poorly planned City of Yes legislation that threatened the ecology and geology of our vulnerable Rosedale community, which is built on old marshland. These vital changes would not have been enacted had the proposed charter changes been in place at that time. Currently there is a plan to build a 12 story structure with 310 units (and only about 40 parking spots) in Queens Village. While the Board has not taken any position on the matter, the concerns for privacy of neighboring homeowners and the effect on the capacity of the nearby LIRR station, as well as local parking issues have all been ignored. While the goal of building truly affordable housing is laudable, the scope of this proposed building is well beyond the ability of this community to absorb. In addition, the building is far out of local context and is more than twice as large as transit oriented development under the just passed City of Yes permits. Local input is not only logical but necessary if NYC is to claim to still be a true democracy. While I favor contextual proposals that include the Creedmore development, this project raises questions that must be addressed on the local level by the local Community Board (our closest layer of participatory governance) and our local City Council members. I urge the Commission in the strongest possible terms to reject this poorly planned revision to our City Charter. I urge the Commission in the strongest

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:c202:f9d7:8824:bb36:b828:3e5c, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/131[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:c202:f9d7:8824:bb36:b828:3e5c

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-915130 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 16:46:29 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 12:46:17 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR5IbhznACSBVFcLMHww8Cu5RILGfgQ2s5nFeBmsNRlgm7DLApXsqMAZkiboPQ_aem_zG5wM6R shpzdS_40O6mV2Q

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Josephine

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws,

including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals

Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely,

Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:6ef0:77f0:882f:5f25:298:d7f, 23[.]219[.]82[.]45, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPad; CPU OS 17_7_8 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/21H440 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPad7,5;FBMD/iPad;FBSN/iPadOS;FBSV/17.7.8;FBSS/2;FBID/tablet;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760435943]
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:6ef0:77f0:882f:5f25:298:d7f

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No to JUNGLE Primaries

From: Desiree Wharton <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 12:52:41 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

My name is Desiree Wharton-Roach, and I've lived in Brooklyn for over forty years. I am a proud voter who believes deeply in the power of inclusive democracy. I am opposed to the proposal to implement a so-called "jungle primary" system in New York City.

This system, which sounds neutral on paper, has real and harmful consequences in practice. When California and Washington State adopted jungle primaries, we saw Black, Brown, and working-class candidates squeezed out of general elections. The system favors the well-funded and well-known, not the grassroots candidates who reflect our communities and fight for our values.

In a city as diverse as ours, we need electoral systems that expand access and representation, not narrow it. Jungle primaries confuse voters and consolidate power in ways that will set back the progress we've made in engaging underrepresented communities. We already saw the confusion created by ranked-choice voting in 2021, especially in Black communities and particularly older Black people who are the backbone of the Democratic Party. Now, without real public education or meaningful community consultation, you are preparing to put another complicated system on the ballot? That is unacceptable.

If the goal is to fix voter turnout or reduce polarization, let's do the real work: invest in civic education, multilingual outreach, and voting infrastructure. Don't short-circuit democracy with a shortcut that will ultimately silence New Yorkers like me and my neighbors.

This proposal is about making it easier for the powerful to stay in power.. The Commission must not move forward with this. Instead, deepen your engagement with the communities you claim to serve.

Regards,

Desiree Roach

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4360891 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 17:48:09 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 01:47:45 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR5pVXn2aVKpwzkkesQbqK2rBj7QEujtbzdBjEL-IDvI_HvF-HbBYl2jljtURA_aem_LT3_hw_fXvc7Bn4
TVesA2Q

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Kim Gerbino

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: See attached

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:93fa:5900:4d7d:e8ac:732d:2d85, 23[.]208[.]166[.]178, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/516[.]0[.]0[.]47.97;FBBV/743277063;FBDV/iPhone13,2;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS

Kim Gerbino

Date: July 8, 2025

Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission

Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input

Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission,
We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the Main reasons for opposition:

- 1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input:
The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas.
- 2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board:
The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor’s veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official—powerless.
- 3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes:
Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could disproportionately harm existing homeowners.
- 4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say:
In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety or flood risk reduction.
- 5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits:
Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville’s suburban character.
- 6. Fair Housing Act:
The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could violate these protections.

Case Scenarios:

45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes:
A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property rights laws.

Silencing the Mayor and Community:
The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor’s veto power, renders the city’s highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects without community input.
Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales:
Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair takings.

City Takeovers in Flood Zones:
The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment’s Takings Clause and triggering lawsuits.

Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for inverse condemnation.

Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations

- These proposals at a minimum risk violating:
- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
  - Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board’s override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor’s veto power denies homeowners a fair hearing.
  - Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
  - Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
  - Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for housing.

Why the Current System Works

The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It ensures community input is heard and considered.

We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system.

Sincerely,
Kim Gerbino
Concerned Staten Islander

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-154617 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 17:54:48 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 01:54:20 PM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Veronica Yurovsky

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I'm writing to enthusiastically support the land-use reform proposals put forth by the commission. Our city's housing shortage is dire, and simplifying the process of building more housing would go a long way to help ease the financial burden of many residents. City of Yes and City for all are great, but every bit helps. I'm especially excited about the establishment of the land-use appeals board. For too long, new housing was denied in many neighborhoods due to member deference. I hope that this board would take a wider, more objective, look at the problem and push through new housing despite local opposition, which rarely represents anyone but the well-off property owners and their interests. Hope you approve all of these measures!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb10:7321:1::808, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps.nyc.gov

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9351919 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 18:12:05 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 02:11:43 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR7DOtc_HvUDKNCmaYKW5M9tZTz2VaTFUTN-s26thn5iP6oIINH-HQX4cBazzg_aem_x9Pu2f7Xg
4ssmhfOyO_yDA

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Diana Marolla

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws,

including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals

Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely
Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 100[.]37[.]55[.]118, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone17,2;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO
S;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760471132;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 100[.]37[.]55[.]118

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1278605 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 18:17:11 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 02:16:50 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.cityofnewyork.us/site/charter/contact/contact-charter>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Rebecca Schick

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: This interim report shows that the Commission is listening to New Yorkers. I'm thrilled the city is exploring proven methods to make it faster and easier to build more housing, especially in the places that have said "no" to new housing for *decades*. The city is experiencing its worst housing shortage in 50 years, and our government lacks the necessary tools to address the worsening housing emergency. I believe these charter reforms would make a difference. The recent passing of "City of Yes" and "City for All" plans were important steps in the right direction (hopefully FBAHA is next!), but they are by no means enough to get us out of the housing shortage. I believe in the power of these proposals to attack our housing crisis head-on. I'm especially excited about "simplifying the review of modest housing and infrastructure" — let's be a city that makes it easier to BUILD housing for people who need it. With all of the technology at our fingertips, we should be able to gain consensus and move forward in a far more rapid pace than the onerous requirements and slow timelines projects currently face. Thank you for listening to your constituents.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4386805 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 18:31:18 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 02:31:02 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwY2xjawLbk9ZleHRu A2FlbQlxMQABHvBx6AEI177MThpkXI-rt-9rouyrHT2K2guEBR2rRXwkIMRwMZSeH7j7Q7d__aem_ejx vhDHJHeNqdOAxGco2Vg

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Kerry Sprague

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Date: July 8, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission
Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’
Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision
Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like
Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York
City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. §

3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Kerry Sprague Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 12[.]216[.]111[.]84, 23[.]198[.]14[.]196, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 12[.]216[.]111[.]84

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Open Primary Proposal

From: James Blain <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 18:36:33 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To the Members of the NYC Charter Revision Commission,

My name is James Blain, and I am a resident of Brooklyn and a lifelong Democrat. I am opposed to your considering open primaries for New York City local elections.

This system, where all candidates run in one primary regardless of party and only the top two vote-getters advance, may sound fair in theory, but it is deeply flawed in practice. Open primaries will distort representation in a city where communities of color and working-class voters are still fighting for a meaningful voice in our democracy.

We have seen how this system plays out in other states. In California and Washington, it has led to general elections without a single candidate from the dominant political party in a given community, effectively disenfranchising large segments of voters. Worse, it creates an environment where money and name recognition matter more than community roots or progressive vision. We just had a mayoral election where one candidate tried to buy the election. We don't want any more of this.

Instead of increasing voter participation, jungle primaries can lead to voter confusion and disengagement. New York is a city of over 8.5 million people who speak over 300 languages. What works in Alaska will not work here.

Please reject the open primary proposal. NYC deserves better.

Sincerely,

James Blain

Brooklyn, NY

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9655101 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 18:50:29 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 02:49:20 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Community Board 3, Manhattan

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Please find the attached resolution with testimony passed by Manhattan Community Board 3 in June 2025. Please contact the community board office with any questions. Thank you, Orin James Assistant District Manager Community Board 3, Manhattan 59 East 4th Street 212-533-5300 x205

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 98[.]0[.]202[.]90, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 98[.]0[.]202[.]90

THE CITY OF NEW YORK
MANHATTAN COMMUNITY BOARD 3
59 East 4th Street - New York, NY 10003
Phone (212) 533-5300
www.cb3manhattan.org - mn03@cb.nyc.gov

Andrea Gordillo, Board Chair

Susan Stetzer, District Manager

June 26, 2025

Richard R. Buery Jr., Chair
New York City Charter Revision Commission

Dear Charter Revision Commission,

At the June 2025 Full Board Meeting, Community Board 3 passed the following resolution

TITLE: Community Board 3 support for certain issues considered for Charter Revision including support for new tools to prevent displacement and unlock housing development, preserve community boards' limited ability to provide input, consideration of member deference that does not dilute CB input, support efforts to streamline the contractor payment processes, and consideration of any proposal that might increase voter turnout

WHEREAS, Mayor Eric Adams convened the NYC Charter Revision Commission ("MCRC") and Council Speaker Adrienne Adams convened the NYC Commission to Strengthen Local Democracy, which are both reviewing the New York City Charter and have each released preliminary reports outlining areas they may explore further as they continue their work; and

WHEREAS, both commissions are continuing their review processes, with further updates and recommendations expected later this year and the MCRC is explicitly seeking public comment; and

WHEREAS, the commissions appear to be exploring the possibility of reforms pertaining to land use, elections, and city agencies; and

WHEREAS, the MCRC discusses possible changes to fast-track the Universal Land Use Review Process (ULURP) to reduce costs and facilitate certain types of development; and

WHEREAS, the MCRC introduces the idea of different levels of review: large projects take one path, small projects take another with the intention of providing opportunities for more smaller rezonings; and

WHEREAS, the MCRC also suggests streamlining the review of "categorically beneficial projects," like, 100% affordable housing, but fails to provide clarity on the criteria for determining what is considered a categorically beneficial project; and

WHEREAS, the MCRC introduces the concept of a "zoning administrator" office, which was already mentioned in the charter but has not been implemented, as the mechanism to review projects that qualify for "fast-track" treatment that are small, crucial, and categorically beneficial; and

WHEREAS the MCRC proposes the creation of a different review procedure for housing developments in districts that fail to meet Fair Housing targets. The city will set housing development goals as part of Fair Housing efforts and a Fair Housing Framework that will set housing targets by Community District; and

WHEREAS, the MCRC is proposing to amend the roles played within the ULURP process, including, the role of community board, and the role of officials, like the Borough President, and the Speaker of the City Council; and

WHEREAS, the most common recommendation has been to consolidate the advisory portions of ULURP — that is, Community Board, Borough President, and, when applicable, Borough Board — into a single review period. This suggestion would preserve an advisory role for the Community Board and Borough President but could save meaningful time. Today, the Community Board review period is generally 60 days and Borough President and Borough Board review add another 30 days. Consolidation could thus reduce the overall review period from 90 days to 60; and

WHEREAS, the MCRC suggests a new process for zoning changes related to Climate/Infrastructure and another process for public land disposition as "ULURP's "one-size-fits-all" procedure with the intention of having the City spend scarce time and resources on exceedingly modest changes"; and

WHEREAS, there is a recommendation to streamline disposition to activate public land for affordable housing and other uses the city have hundreds of properties that are tiny, sometimes inches wide and to dispose of them, the City must go through ULURP. There is already a precedent for special disposition processes such as DSBS's maritime dependent lease provision that are deployed for other public benefits; and

WHEREAS, the MCRC described the idea that certain zoning changes would not have a full ULURP but would instead go to the Zoning Administrator office. This new mechanism would replace some land use and Board of Standards and Appeals action, but the report has no detail on if and how this role would impact Community Board input on these actions. It is unclear whether CBs would still see these applications and whether the Zoning Administrator would hold hearings; and

WHEREAS, the MCRC includes language on "elevating citywide needs" in land use processes, which suggests a Citywide plan but does not explicitly call for one. The commission examines imposing "Fair Share" housing requirements using models from other jurisdictions, such as California, Oregon, and New Jersey. The commission also examines how capital planning processes set out in the Charter may need to change to ensure investments in infrastructure, transportation, and neighborhood amenities are made in concert with new housing; and

WHEREAS, the MCRC suggests the allocation of additional funding as well as DCP staffing to support the development of community 197A plans but does not describe a mechanism by which those plans would be incorporated into actionable plans from city agencies; and

WHEREAS, the MCRC identifies "Member Deference" as a barrier to development in certain areas and to balancing citywide versus local priorities. Member deference is a City Council convention and not a Charter-mandated process and there are no specific recommendations for a Charter amendment; and

WHEREAS, the tradition of "member deference" in the city council allows members to block more needed housing in their districts, especially in wealthier neighborhoods, and the lack of affordable housing is a city wide issue and every district must do its part to contribute new housing to bring down costs; and

WHEREAS, contrary to the MCRC's report, Community Board 3's ("CB3") has seen benefits to member deference (such as permanently affordable housing in Essex Market and two stages for the East Side Coastal Resiliency) as councilmembers are the first layer of government that most communities and community boards have access to, and who are more likely to listen to the community than large, monied interests, and

WHEREAS, the local community and community board is likely to have a better idea about what the impact of projects will be and are in a better position to be able to bring attention to defects with plans or suggest alternatives to those plans,

WHEREAS, the MCRC is recommending changes to the process for modernizing the city map by centralizing its management from borough presidents' office to the Department of City Planning ("DCP"), digitizing the city map, and other minor actions; and

WHEREAS, consistently CB3's district needs includes the need for more affordable housing production and preservation as a major challenge for the district and states that "unnecessary administrative and bureaucratic roadblocks in the approval process are some of the largest financial costs in building new affordable homes, which often renders desirable projects financially unfeasible"; and

WHEREAS, the Charter Revision Commissions has deemed it important to consider several possible changes to the City's Election process in order to increase and improve voter turnout; and

WHEREAS, the Commission is also looking into the impact on voter turnout should the city switch to Open Primaries. Currently NYC has "Closed Primaries" which means voters must be enrolled as members of a political party to vote in that party's primary election. New York State also has closed primaries; and

WHEREAS, NYC has almost one million unaffiliated voters who cannot vote in party primaries and it is posited that opening our primaries may increase voter turnout; and

WHEREAS, several past charter commissions have considered whether to implement open primaries and the various ways to do so, including considering a two top system, where the two top vote getters in the primary election ran for mayor in the general election, however that proposal was overwhelmingly rejected by NYC voters in 2003; and

WHEREAS, over time NYC voter participation has declined, in the 1970s and 1980s participation was at 50% but registered voter turnout has not exceeded 40% in a mayoral election since 2001 and has been below 30% in every mayoral election since 2009, and in 2021, just 23% of NYC registered voters participated in the general election; and

WHEREAS, good government groups say that moving NYC elections to even years would increase voter participation<sup>1</sup> and allow younger voters and voters of color, especially Latino communities, to be better represented in high-turnout, even-year elections; and

WHEREAS, the MCRC has deemed it important to consider several possible changes to NYC's election process to increase and improve voter turnout; and

WHEREAS, one possible change would be shifting city elections from odd years to even years, which would guarantee that state elections and city elections would occur at the same times. Additionally, it could also allow city elections to be held at the same time as presidential elections; and

WHEREAS, studies have shown that voter participation is increased when citywide elections are held at the same time as other elections and that voter turnout is higher in traditionally marginalize electorates including voters of color; and

WHEREAS, holding city elections at the same time as state elections could save as much as $42 million every two years; and

WHEREAS, holding state elections and city elections in even years could help eliminate special elections to fill vacated seats, where candidates would be forced to indicate which seat they chose to contest rather than holding on to their current seat and, should they win a new position, then cause a special election to fill their former position; and

WHEREAS, the commission should thoroughly consider how best to implement the shift to even year elections, considering the numerous impacts of voter drop off; and

WHEREAS, NYC relied on non-profit service providers to fulfill its stated mission and deliver public services; and

WHEREAS, NYC has consistently struggled to fulfill its own contractual obligations to these non-profits including delays in contract execution and registration and crucially the delivery of payments, leading to financial hardships on the part of the non-profits and in turn a decreased ability of these non-profits to deliver the services they have been contracted to provide; and

WHEREAS, closed primaries are becoming an increasing area of concern in New York as the number of unaffiliated voters grows<sup>2</sup>; and

---

<sup>1</sup> <https://www.commoncause.org/new-york/press/common-cause-ny-on-gov-hochuls-state-of-the-state/>;
<https://citizensunion.org/portfolio-item/cu-report-moving-municipal-elections-to-even-numbered-years/#:~:text=A%20key%20reason%20for%20low,held%20in%20even%2Dnumbered%20years.>

<sup>2</sup> <https://www.commoncause.org/new-york/resources/independent-state-of-mind-the-rise-of-new-yorks-unaffiliated-voters/>

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, New York City has a housing crisis and needs new tools to prevent displacement and unlock housing in communities that don't produce enough, particularly tools for projects that include affordable housing, and not allowing sites chosen for housing developments to be inequitably changed to a different community district; and

THEREFORE, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, this committee is adamant about preserving the already limited ability of the community boards to provide input and is not open to proposals that seek to affect the process of member deference because it would dilute community boards' ability to provide input; and

THEREFORE, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, CB3 supports the MCRC efforts to streamline the contractor payment processes, including the contracting portals, to support the city meeting its obligations on a more timely basis; and

THEREFORE, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, the commission should consider any proposal that might increase voter turnout and participation including the commission's recommendation that NYC elections be moved to even election years and that primaries be open to everyone regardless of party affiliation to ensure free and fair elections and should support additional proposals for equitable participation in NYC elections not contemplated by MCRC.

That Community Board 3 encourages the charter commission to continue to consider and evaluate any proposals that might increase voter turnout and participation, including that New York City elections be moved to even years and that primaries be open to everyone regardless of party affiliation, in order to ensure free and fair elections but that Community Board 3 takes no position on these proposals at this time.

THEREFORE, BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, Community Board 3 is opposed to the concurrent review period of the Borough President and Community Board in order to preserve the Community Board's ability to comment prior to the Borough President taking action.

Please see the attached supplemental materials and contact the community board office with any questions.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Andrea Gordillo". The script is fluid and cursive.

Andrea Gordillo, Chair
Community Board 3

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Damaris Reyes". The script is fluid and cursive.

Damaris Reyes, Chair
Land Use, Zoning, Public & Private Housing Committee

CC: Chris Marte, City Council Member District 1
Carlina Rivera, City Council Member District 2

THE CITY OF NEW YORK
MANHATTAN COMMUNITY BOARD 3
59 East 4th Street - New York, NY 10003
Phone (212) 533-5300
www.cb3manhattan.org - mn03@cb.nyc.gov

Andrea Gordillo, Board Chair

Susan Stetzer, District Manager

July 7, 2025

New York City Charter Revision Public Hearing;

My name is Susan Stetzer, and I am District Manager for Manhattan Community Board 3. I am representing the Board. CB 3 voted on a lengthy resolution which I am submitting along with a written copy of this summary.

CB 3 takes its ULURP responsibility very seriously in hearing from the community at a public hearing and in our deliberations on the overall benefit to the community. Our # 1 priority for many years has been affordable housing—not just housing in general. Therefore, there are times when the City or a developer might want a ULURP rushed through but CB3 has successfully negotiated with City or developer, often with support from the council member, more deeply affordable units or increase in number of units. This is not only CB 3, I have heard of other CBs being labeled as nimby for not rubberstamping approval of housing when they are trying to get the developer or City to invest in more affordable housing. There are times when CBs can be nimby—but let's not throw out the hard work of all CBs. CB 3 has voted very clearly to not limit the CB voice in our already limited input for planning for our community.

CB 3 agrees that the timeline can be improved for ULURPS—but the great length of time is required before it comes to the CB. There should be an effort from the City to consider how the requirements pre-ULURP, which can take over a year, can be streamlined. Our District Needs Statement says “unnecessary and administrative and bureaucratic roadblocks in the approval process are some of the largest financial costs in building new affordable homes”. This also applies to the timeline and was reported to us by one of our affordable housing developers. We specifically do not approve of the concurrent review by CBs and the Borough Presidents. The point of the CBs is to hear from the community through the CB regarding the ULURP before the BP makes a decision. This would further limit CB / community voice.

Member deference is not in the Charter—it is a tradition that is not set in stone. CB 3 believes that member deference gives added weight to our very limited voice. Council members know their communities and the CBs have access to council members for ULURPS. We have found that our advisory role has added weight because of council member deference, which gives them power in negotiating. An example is the permanently affordable housing we have at Essex Crossing instead of limited number of years—which was a deal breaker for Council member Margaret Chin at the time. Another example is having the reconstruction of our waterfront in two phases thanks to negotiation by our Council Member Carlina Rivera. Again, don't throw out our dedication and work for our community because of a some problems that do not outweigh the benefit to our communities.

Communiy Board 3 supports efforts to streamline the contractor payment process. CB 3 also supports efforts to increase voter participation but takes no position at this time.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4550454 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 18:58:31 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 02:58:17 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR7uaHCi4-NhUa8_VKYyEHG5P0mwBQHlcVEqV-x7p417ENYAeRelzpz0a8X2YA_aem_tBjug8Fb5 8eTy6XnnmsUpQ

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lois Schwaryz

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Lois Schwartz Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Lois Schwartz Concerned Staten Islander

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5f9c:ae00:3c68:9d57:ef23:96fe, 23[.]46[.]12[.]205, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone12,1;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/2;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760471132;IABMV/1]

True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5f9c:ae00:3c68:9d57:ef23:96fe

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Written Testimony in Opposition to the Flawed Process of Jungle Primaries

From: Marcos Descalzi <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 15:12:39 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Good evening, Commissioners,

Thank you for the opportunity to testify today. My name is Marcos Descalzi, and today I am representing myself as a New Yorker.

I am here to express my very strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. The public has not been adequately informed or engaged, and should have been for a change of this magnitude. Such a change should come only after a robust, charter revision process—one that includes multilingual education campaigns, community listening sessions, expert testimony from across the political spectrum, and an extended deliberation period. What we have instead is a rushed proposal, with little explanation, little data, and little outreach—especially to voters in the communities most likely to be harmed. We've seen how rushed reforms, however well-intentioned, can backfire when voters don't understand what's at stake. Imposing a fundamental redesign of our elections without clear public demand or broad-based consent is not just misguided—it is undemocratic.

This process undermines faith in the democratic system itself, one that I have believed in my entire life! It sends the message that our election rules can be rewritten from the top down, without the kind of transparency and accountability that is the bedrock of our democracy. That is a dangerous precedent—especially in a moment when trust in democratic institutions is already so fragile.

This is not just a technical adjustment as it is being promoted. No, It is a wholesale change to the way we New Yorkers would select our leaders—one that would upend more than a century of party-based democracy in our city. It is, in short, an enormous decision—and it is being considered through an inappropriate and secret process - secret because there has been very little public information given to us, the citizens of New York.

First, this Commission has done only limited work to engage impacted communities in this consequential electoral reform process. The Charter Revision Commission was convened to focus on improving one of the most serious questions New Yorkers have to deal with - the availability of affordable housing. There has been no serious public demand for a jungle primary system. Instead, the actors who want this kind of election system across the country took advantage of this moment to insert their political agenda. There has been no movement, no mass mobilization, no crisis calling for its adoption. Yet here we are, debating whether to remove voters' ability (my ability) to shape our political future through party-based organizing. That's not reform—it's overreach by a small group.

Second, the public has not been adequately informed or engaged. This is a serious weakness - but then, perhaps that is purposeful! A change of this magnitude should come only after a robust, charter revision process—one that includes multilingual education campaigns, community listening sessions, expert testimony from across the political spectrum, and an extended deliberation period. What we have instead is a rushed proposal, with little explanation, little data, and little outreach—especially to voters in the communities most likely to be harmed. We've seen how rushed reforms, however well-intentioned, can backfire when voters don't understand what's at stake. Imposing a fundamental redesign of our elections without clear public demand or broad-based consent is not just misguided—it is undemocratic. And again, it appears to be purposeful!

Third, this process undermines faith in the democratic system itself. It sends the message that our election rules can be rewritten from the top down, without the kind of transparency and accountability that is the bedrock of our democracy. That's a dangerous precedent—especially in a moment when trust in democratic institutions is already fragile.

There are ways to improve democracy in this city. But these start with listening to many people by garnering input across the board—not bypassing us.

For these reasons, and many others which I am not addressing here, I strongly urge the Commission to reject any effort to advance a jungle primary system, and to commit instead to a public process rooted in transparency, equity, and community voice.

Thank you for your attention on this matter,

Marcos Descalzi

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Danger of Voter Disenfranchisement

From: Amy Pinilla <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 15:36:06 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

One of the most underappreciated functions of political parties is risk management for voters. By selecting a candidate with a party label, a voter is not just choosing an individual; they are choosing a known entity with a public track record and a stated platform. This reduces the risk of electing a complete unknown with no clear allegiances or principles. It provides a baseline of accountability. Without parties, every election would be a high-stakes gamble on individual personalities, making our political system far more volatile and unpredictable.

Thank you,

Amy Pinilla

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Unpopular Choice: Jungle Primaries

From: Kristy 2556 <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 15:58:25 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

I'm here to highlight that jungle primaries are unpopular with voters, and they've rejected them consistently. These reforms are ineffective at achieving their stated goals. Last year, this was on the ballot in six states – Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota – and it failed in every single one. This is a clear signal that voters, across the political spectrum, understand the value of political parties. Don't waste our time and money on a proposition that's already been dismissed. If you want to increase voter turnout, stick with what's proven to work: even-year elections.

- Kristy Bar

Subject:

FW: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9673680 CRC Contact
Form - General Inquiries

From: Charter Info <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 20:00:21 +0000

---

From: agencyemail <agencyemail@customercare.nyc.gov>

Sent: Wednesday, July 9, 2025 2:11 PM

To: Charter Info <CharterInfo@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Subject: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9673680 CRC Contact Form - General Inquiries

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 02:10:27 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR7DOtc_HvUDKNCmaYKW5M9tZTz2VaTFUTN-s26thn5iP6oIINH-HQX4cBazzg_aem_x9Pu2f7Xg
4ssmhfOyO_yDA

-----

Topic: General Inquiries

Name: Diana Marolla

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes - Protect Staten Island Homeowners' Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, "nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation." The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting "fair and equitable housing," falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor-the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City-powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor-the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers-powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP

system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns. Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating: * Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation. * Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process. * Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process. * Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory. * Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all. Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Diana Marolla Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 100[.]37[.]55[.]118, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone17,2;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO
S;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760471132;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 100[.]37[.]55[.]118

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8378870 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 20:08:44 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 04:08:18 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR4eyFeo8DOchiBY7I2Q5wQMrGsLtI3UbNEhklAiBygQJzCwcHS_L-MwmloYgg_aem_6qnIps94L1V
Xu4F12_KwyQ

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Derek smith

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Derek Smith Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Mike Caldera Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:51a7:3e00:9d65:6395:30e5:8e01, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone17,5;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO
S;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760536228;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:51a7:3e00:9d65:6395:30e5:8e01

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No Jungle Primaries in NYC!

From: Kali Blain <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 16:09:43 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Charter Revision Commission,

My name is Kali, and I am 25 years old. I reside in Brooklyn. I was proud to participate in the recent Democratic primary, particularly in supporting candidates such as Zohran Mamdani. He advocates for our communities, not merely special interests.

However, just a few weeks after Zohran beat the political establishment, you are once again proposing a comprehensive overhaul of the voting system. This proposal appears to be a form of retaliation. Jungle primaries would exacerbate the challenges faced by progressive candidates, particularly those supported by young people, immigrants, and working-class communities.

While you assert that jungle primaries will enhance voter turnout, this claim is factually inaccurate. In California, where this system has been implemented for over a decade, voter participation has not experienced a positive trajectory. I have conducted research to substantiate this claim. A 2022 report from the Public Policy Institute of California revealed that voter participation in top-two primaries remained low and uneven, with younger voters and communities of color disproportionately underrepresented. Even the Government of California's historical voter participation data corroborates this observation.

Unaffiliated voters are fickle. Many have lost confidence in our government, leading them to register as independents. Even in states with open primaries, they do not turn out to vote.

Therefore, I pose a question: what is the underlying motivation behind your consideration of this proposal? Are you attempting to penalize us for supporting Mamdani? Do not punish us for exercising our civic responsibilities. Do not silence our voices simply because we did not align our votes with the preferences of the establishment. I urge you to vote against jungle primaries.

Best,

Kali Blain

Brooklyn, NY

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Open Primaries: Zero Impact on NYC Voter Rolls

From: Daniel Langenbucher <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 16:05:42 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

I want to express my strong opposition to jungle primaries as a solution for NY's low voter turnout problem. We must base our policy decisions on what the data tells us, not on hopeful but ultimately unsubstantiated claims.

The factual evidence from states where jungle primaries have been implemented shows they do not boost participation, as evidenced by Alaska, which has jungle primaries and had the lowest turnout of any state in the entire country last year! The 2024 primary election saw alarmingly low turnout, ranking among the lowest in half a century.

This outcome decisively points to the conclusion that just changing who can vote in what primary has little to no impact on encouraging greater voter participation. We need to recognize that this new system doesn't automatically guarantee high turnout and that other, more direct methods are far more effective ways of encouraging every voter to make their voice heard during elections.

Thanks,

Daniel Langenbucher

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Sustaining Participation

From: Mel Friedman <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 16:34:57 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I believe that our current RCV system is working admirably and does not need recasting in the image of the plutocratic few who would weaken the chances of democratic governance. Jungle primaries disparage the will of the voters and favor candidates with deep-pocket donors. As democracy is undermined nationally to benefit oligarchs, we cannot allow the same trend to root in New York, the heart of diversity and multiplicity in the now faltering American experiment. RCV has generated record turnout and vibrant political dialogue and contention. We don't need to switch horses in midstream when our current mount is doing exceptionally well.

Thank you,
Mel Friedman

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5225261 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 21:53:01 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 05:52:48 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwY2xjawLbw9dleHRu
A2FlbQlXMQABHum0GBCv7DCuReO8VoL4w1rgypU3PAIBMdnNXHPgdkOnYbHS1qKzwXluq97_aem
_nDz5Wb_ZboHX0tgysMv5xQ

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Mike Caldera

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Mike Caldera [REDACTED] Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating: • Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation. • Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory. • Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all. Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Mike Caldera Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 100[.]37[.]61[.]58, 23[.]208[.]24[.]82, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 14; KB2007 Build/UKQ1.230924.001; wv) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/4.0 Chrome/138.0.7204.139 Mobile Safari/537.36 [FB_IAB/FB4A;FBAV/520[.]0[.]44.99;IABMV/1;]
True-Client-IP: 100[.]37[.]61[.]58

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution,

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] NYC's Turnout Problem: Open Primaries Are Not the Answer

From: Rebecca Saletan <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 18:13:21 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To the Commission:

As a New Yorker galvanized by the 2016 election, I helped found an Indivisible chapter in Harlem. From 2017 on, our work has included not only petitioning and canvassing but broader voter engagement with issues and with the processes that keep our democracy healthy.

In 2021, it was obvious that the voters we were speaking with in advance of the mayoral primary were unfamiliar with Ranked Choice Voting and had a lot of questions about how it worked. In 2025, it was immediately obvious to us that the vast majority of voters we spoke with on the streets, in farmer's markets, and at subway stops had grown familiar and comfortable with Ranked Choice Voting and its advantages, and were eager to participate in the process.

The results of this recent primary bear this out. Already in 2021, with the introduction of Ranked Choice Voting, turnout was higher than it had been since 1989, and 2025 participation was still higher. If the goal is to increase voter turnout, it appears that RCV has already been a striking success, and it is reasonable to assume that familiarity with the process will only continue the trend. Exit polls confirm the sense that an overwhelming majority of voters now understand the process, and more than three quarters want to keep or expand it. Why then would we want to change it?

With this kind of embrace of Ranked Choice Voting, it's easy to see why a sudden change to the process would sow not only confusion but also mistrust in the democratic process. The introduction of such a proposal after a primary such a wide swath of the electorate engaged with - by a commission originally convened to address housing proposals, and with insufficient demonstrated need, research, or public engagement - will raise entirely reasonable suspicion about what special interests the commission may be responding to.

For these reasons and many others, I urge the Commission to reject any effort to advance a jungle primary system in New York City and to commit itself instead to a public process rooted in transparency and response to express community needs.

Thank you.

Rebecca Saletan

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Consensus is Clear: No Jungle Primaries

From: Deane Norton <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 16:58:00 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

I am strongly opposed to and advise against any consideration of jungle primaries. Voters have consistently demonstrated their opposition to these reforms, proving their ineffectiveness and unpopularity. Last year, the proposal was on the ballot in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota, and it failed in all six. This speaks volumes about voters' understanding of the value of political parties in our system. This commission should not waste public resources on a proposition that has already been so decisively dismissed. If the true goal is to increase voter turnout, stick with what is proven to work: even-year elections.

Sincerely,

Deane Norton

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Clear Public Stance: No Jungle Primaries

From: Patricia Coughlin <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 19:12:22 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

I'm deeply concerned about the push for jungle primaries. From what I've seen, these reforms are consistently unpopular with voters, and it's not hard to understand why. Last year, the concept was on the ballot in six states – Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota – and it failed in every single one. This wasn't a partisan issue; it was rejected across the board, in red states, blue states, and purple states. It shows that voters, regardless of their ideology, understand the vital role political parties play in candidate selection. This commission should pay attention to these clear signals. Don't waste our time and money on a proposition that's already been resoundingly rejected. If the goal is truly to increase voter turnout, stick to what works: even-year elections.

Sincerely,

Patricia Coughlin

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Proven Path to Turnout

From: [REDACTED EMAIL]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 19:48:15 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

We must reject reforms that are counterproductive to the stated goal of increasing voter turnout. The evidence is clear: jungle primaries simply do not succeed in boosting participation. A far more effective and proven approach is to implement even-year primaries. Furthermore, the vital role of labor, community, and political organizations in driving turnout cannot be overstated. These groups are masters of direct voter engagement, utilizing strategies like canvassing and personalized outreach that numerous studies confirm are highly effective. Any proposal designed to weaken these organized groups or their ability to self-determine, such as weakening unions or political parties, would directly lead to decreased turnout, not increased. Such measures appear intended to diminish the influence of organized constituencies rather than to genuinely broaden the electorate. If we are serious about maximizing turnout, we must empower, not impede, these essential organized forces.

Sincerely,

Eve Crenovich

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7243813 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 00:00:59 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:00:12 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwY2xjawLb4MRleHRu
A2FlbQlXMQABHinANF2yD2zWRhFrGmTW8e5ajyJVVsi5zG87qrOD-kpVSwmdkAQVM7bKm2aX_aem
_Ihl2ScQ5IYS1al6NjGzjkQ

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Patricia McCarthy

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Date: July 8, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission
Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’
Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision
Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like
Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York
City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. §

3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Mike Caldera Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5fa7:1f00:e460:ae33:1115:2899, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 15; SM-F946U Build/AP3A.240905.015.A2; wv)
AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/4.0 Chrome/138.0.7204.139 Mobile
Safari/537.36 [FB_IAB/FB4A;FBAV/520[.]0[.]44.99;IABMV/1;]
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5fa7:1f00:e460:ae33:1115:2899

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution,

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Focus on Election Consolidation

From: Sime Viduka <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 20:10:17 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

It's imperative that New Yorkers be given adequate time to adjust to the Ranked-Choice Voting system, passed in 2019, before we contemplate further reforms. The benefits of RCV can only be realized if voters understand and trust the process. Introducing "Jungle Primaries" now would disrupt that crucial period of adaptation, signaling that electoral rules are arbitrary. This instability is antithetical to encouraging consistent voter engagement.

Please give RCV a chance.

-- Šime Viduka

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Preserve the Role of Political Parties

From: Corey McDade <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 20:15:43 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

Please consider this a formal objection to any proposal involving jungle primaries. This is a system that has been tested and has been found wanting by the electorate. The six-state sweep of defeats last year is a clear indication of its unpopularity. Voters in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota have sent a message. They value the existing primary system. This commission should heed that message and focus on reforms that have a real chance of making a positive impact, such as consolidating elections in even years.

- Corey Mcdade

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Organizing Principle of Turnout

From: Maria Ordonez <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 20:17:17 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

The human element is crucial to increasing voter turnout, not just mechanical adjustments. It's a clear finding that jungle primaries fail to increase participation; they are not the solution we need. Instead, the most reliable way to boost turnout is to shift to even-year primaries. Critically, the power of labor, community, and political organizations in mobilizing the electorate is immense. They possess the dedication and infrastructure to conduct the most effective forms of voter engagement: canvassing and direct member-to-member contact. Numerous studies have confirmed how these personal interactions are key drivers of participation. The underlying motivation behind attempts to diminish the power or self-determination of organized groups, such as political parties, seems to be to suppress, not increase, turnout. If we want a more vibrant and engaged electorate, we need these organized entities to flourish and participate robustly within the system.

Thanks,

Maria Ordoñez

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Defense of the Party System

From: Mahtab Khan <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 20:21:08 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

The link between member-driven candidate selection and voter turnout is undeniable. A party that empowers its grassroots to choose its champions will always have a more energized and motivated base. The feeling of investment that comes from participating in the nomination process is a powerful catalyst for political action. It transforms passive supporters into active campaigners. Any electoral reform that seeks to weaken this link, under the guise of "opening up" the process, risks dampening the very enthusiasm that drives democratic participation and fuels vibrant campaigns.

Sincerely,

Mahtab Khan

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1796215 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 00:30:56 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:30:43 PM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Emily Meagher

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I am a New York City resident writing in strong support of the proposed land use reforms that would streamline approvals for smaller-scale development and infrastructure projects, especially clean energy installations such as solar panels and battery storage systems. Climate change is already impacting our city with more extreme heat, flooding, and grid stress. To prepare for a safer, more affordable, and resilient future, New York must make it easier—not harder—to build clean energy infrastructure in every neighborhood. That’s why I support the Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracked zoning actions that reduce bureaucratic delays for modest-scale, environmentally beneficial projects. Particularly, solar panels and battery storage systems are critical public infrastructure. They reduce greenhouse gas emissions, lower utility bills, provide backup power during outages, and protect vulnerable residents during extreme weather. These projects are often blocked or delayed by costly and time-intensive ULURP processes, even when they are located on public buildings or vacant land. The proposed charter changes—especially ELURP—will help remove these barriers by speeding up approvals, enabling NYC to meet its climate and resiliency goals faster and more equitably. I urge the Commission to ensure that clean energy projects are explicitly prioritized under any fast-track procedures and that solar and storage installations—whether standalone or part of broader projects—are clearly eligible for streamlined review. Finally, I encourage the Commission to work with the City Council and relevant agencies to develop clear implementation guidelines that prevent unnecessary delays while maintaining community engagement and oversight. Thank you for your work on this crucial reform process. Sincerely, Emily Meagher Brooklyn, NY

---

HTTP_ADDR: 98[.]116[.]200[.]109, 23[.]196[.]2[.]203, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 98[.]116[.]200[.]109

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5339098 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 00:32:07 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:31:55 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sarah Scaffidi

Email:

Phone:

Comments: As a New Yorker and advocate for climate resilience, I'm writing in strong support of the proposed land use reforms that would streamline approvals for smaller-scale development and infrastructure projects - especially solar systems and battery energy storage. With the federal government's hostility towards renewable energy, we as a city will need to work even harder to support solar energy. This will set us up for clean and affordable energy, which we need desperately. Climate change is already impacting our city with more extreme heat, flooding, and grid stress. To prepare for a safer, more affordable, and resilient future, New York must make it easier—not harder—to build clean energy infrastructure in every neighborhood. That's why I support the Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracked zoning actions that reduce bureaucratic delays for modest-scale, environmentally beneficial projects. In particular, solar panels and battery storage systems are critical public infrastructure. They reduce greenhouse gas emissions, lower utility bills, provide backup power during outages, and protect vulnerable residents during extreme weather. These projects are often blocked or delayed by costly and time-intensive ULURP processes, even when they are located on public buildings or vacant land. The proposed charter changes—especially ELURP—will help remove these barriers by speeding up approvals, enabling NYC to meet its climate and resiliency goals faster and more equitably. I urge the Commission to ensure that clean energy projects are explicitly prioritized under any fast-track procedures and that solar and storage installations—whether standalone or part of broader projects—are clearly eligible for streamlined review. Finally, I encourage the Commission to work with the City Council and relevant agencies to develop clear implementation guidelines that prevent unnecessary delays while maintaining community engagement and oversight. Let's not let red tape stand in the way of climate action. Thank you for your work on this crucial reform process. Sincerely, Sarah Scaffidi Brooklyn, NY

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b0bc:29a9:2c01:fc7b:edde:19da, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b0bc:29a9:2c01:fc7b:edde:19da

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] New Primaries: Unnecessary Confusion

From: Melani Velasquez <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 20:35:01 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

Not even four years is not enough time for New Yorkers to fully internalize RCV, which was passed in 2019. To introduce "Jungle Primaries" now is to guarantee greater voter confusion and, consequently, lower turnout. We cannot expect citizens to consistently engage when the very rules of engagement are constantly being rewritten. Give voters a chance to learn and adapt to one system before introducing another.

Sincerely,

Melani Velasquez

Melani A. Velasquez

MS, CCC-SLP, TSSLD-BE

Bilingual Speech Language Pathologist

DOE District 75

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Testimonial: Sheba Simpson-Amsterdam

From: Sheba T. Simpson-Amsterdam <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 20:35:36 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Good evening,

This my testimonial on the NYC Charter Commission's proposal for "jungle primaries" also known as top-two primaries.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Sheba Simpson-Amsterdam

CEO, I'm On Assignment, Inc.

July 9, 2025

Dear Members of the NYC Charter Commission,

My name is Sheba Simpson-Amsterdam, and I am the CEO of I'm On Assignment, Inc., a New York City-based nonprofit dedicated to community empowerment, equity, and civic engagement. I am writing today to express my strong opposition to the proposal to implement "jungle primaries" in New York City.

First and foremost, I would like to state for the record that I was only informed about the opportunity to give testimony on July 7th, the same day as the final public hearing, at 2:36pm. This last-minute notice is not just disrespectful to the public, it is emblematic of the larger issue at hand; a lack of transparency and inclusion in processes that directly impact the voices and votes of New Yorkers.

Let's be clear, New York State voters already made their voices heard when they approved Ranked Choice Voting (RCV). The public is largely unaware that the NYC Charter Commission is now considering dismantling that progress through a radical shift to a "jungle primary" system. This is not reform; it is regression disguised as innovation.

The communities that will be most harmed by this change are the ones that have already borne the brunt of disenfranchisement and systemic neglect: Black people, other POC, immigrants, low-income, and historically marginalized populations. These communities rely on every avenue of democratic inclusion to have a say in who represents them. Under jungle primaries, these voices will be diluted, and grassroots candidates without major financial backing will be pushed out before the public even has a chance to hear their platforms.

Who will benefit from "jungle primaries?" This proposal is for the wealthy, the well-connected, and the politically entrenched. This change consolidates power in the hands of those who already have it, furthering a status quo that has long excluded new, community-driven leadership. It is a system designed to confuse voters, suppress turnout, and ensure that only candidates with deep pockets or establishment support make it through to the general election.

This proposal does not challenge gatekeeping, it reinforces it. It does not expand access, it narrows it. And it does not empower the people, it undermines them.

New York City must do better. If the goal of the Charter Commission is to strengthen democracy, this is not the way to do it. We should be focusing on improving and expanding Ranked Choice Voting, increasing voter education, and removing barriers to participation. Not adopting confusing and exclusionary systems under the radar.

For the sake of equity, for the sake of justice, and for the sake of democracy, I urge this Commission to reject the proposed jungle primaries and return to a process that respects the will of the people.

Sincerely,

Sheba Simpson-Amsterdam

CEO, I'm On Assignment, Inc.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3374078 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 00:36:53 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:36:27 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Haley Fradkin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Hello Commissioners, As a New York City resident who works to promote climate resilience each day, I'm writing in support of the proposed land use reforms that would streamline approvals for clean energy installations. Climate change is already impacting our city with extreme heat, flooding, and grid stress. To prepare for a safer, more affordable, and resilient future, New York must make it easier to build new clean energy infrastructure in every borough. That's why I support the Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracked zoning actions that expedite environmental projects. In particular, solar panels and battery storage reduce greenhouse gas emissions, lower utility bills, provide backup power during outages, and protect residents during extreme weather events. These projects are often blocked or delayed by costly and time-intensive ULURP processes, even when they are located on public buildings or vacant land. The proposed charter changes—especially ELURP—will help remove these barriers and speed up approvals, enabling NYC to meet its climate and resiliency goals faster and more efficiently. I urge the Commission to work with the City Council and ensure that clean energy projects are prioritized under any fast-track procedures and that solar and storage installations are eligible for streamlined review. Please use your power to work on this crucial reform process and support climate action in New York City! Sincerely, Haley Fradkin

---

HTTP_ADDR: 98[.]116[.]200[.]109, 23[.]200[.]89[.]58, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 98[.]116[.]200[.]109

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4902177 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 00:38:27 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:38:09 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sean Reidy

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Hello, As a New York City resident and advocate for climate resilience, clean energy, and saving the planet, I'm writing in strong support of the proposed land use reforms that would streamline approvals for smaller-scale development and infrastructure projects—including clean energy installations such as solar panels and battery storage systems. Climate change is already impacting our city with more extreme heat, flooding, and grid stress. To prepare for a safer, more affordable, and resilient future, New York must make it easier—not harder—to build clean energy infrastructure in every neighborhood. Clean energy initiatives on private/public land are often blocked or delayed by costly and time-intensive Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) processes, even when they are located on public buildings or vacant land. The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) proposal is a critical opportunity to enable these easy and impactful solutions. It will reduce bureaucratic delays for modest-scale, environmentally beneficial projects. In particular, solar panels and battery storage systems are critical public infrastructure. They reduce greenhouse gas emissions, lower utility bills, provide backup power during outages, and protect vulnerable residents during extreme weather. I urge the Commission to ensure that the ELURP and associated environmental protection clauses are explicitly prioritized under any fast-track procedures and that solar and storage installations—whether standalone or part of broader projects—are clearly eligible for streamlined review. Let's not let red tape stand in the way of climate action. Thank you for your work on this crucial reform process. Sincerely, Sean Reidy - Climate Changemakers Greenpoint, Brooklyn

---

HTTP_ADDR: 98[.]116[.]200[.]109, 23[.]200[.]89[.]192, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 98[.]116[.]200[.]109

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Current Reform Needs Time

From: Jack McClatchy <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 20:17:38 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

If we truly care about voter turnout, we'll allow New Yorkers to adapt to RCV first. "Jungle Primaries" would be an active barrier to increasing participation. It's a move that prioritizes theoretical novelty over practical voter experience and understanding. Let's focus on supporting voters in the system they currently have.

By opening primaries to voters not registered with a party, there is no guaranteed result of increasing voter turnout. We already see a model for increasing voter turnout, and that is more inspiring candidates in political primaries. Parties are legally disparate organizations, and they have a right to select their nominees.

Thanks,

Jack McClatchy

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2985825 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 00:40:31 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:39:39 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Megan Vomvas

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Hello, I'm a native New Yorker and passionate advocate for climate change mitigation. I deeply support of the proposed land use reforms that would streamline approvals for development projects - and especially excited about them for solar systems and energy storage! Climate change is an imminent threat to our city with more extreme heat, flooding, natural disasters and more. If we want this city to be affordable and resilient, and secure the future for younger generations, New York must make it easier to build clean energy infrastructure in every neighborhood. That's why I support the Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracked zoning actions that reduce bureaucratic delays for modest-scale, environmentally beneficial projects. In particular, solar panels and battery storage systems are critical public infrastructure! They reduce greenhouse gas emissions, lower utility bills, provide backup power during outages, and protect vulnerable residents during extreme weather. These projects are often blocked or delayed by costly and time-intensive ULURP processes, even when they are located on public buildings or vacant land. The proposed charter changes—especially ELURP—will help remove these barriers and speed up approvals, enabling NYC to meet its climate and resiliency goals faster and more equitably. I urge the Commission to ensure that clean energy projects are explicitly prioritized under any fast-track procedures and that solar and storage installations—whether standalone or part of broader projects—are clearly eligible for streamlined review. Finally, I encourage the Commission to work with the City Council and relevant agencies to develop clear implementation guidelines that prevent unnecessary delays while maintaining community engagement and oversight. Let's not let red tape stand in the way of climate action. Thank you for your work on this crucial reform process. Sincerely, Megan Vomvas Brooklyn

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b424:d0e:cc3a:4003:4ae8:381c, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/132[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b424:d0e:cc3a:4003:4ae8:381c

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8735009 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 00:41:11 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:40:32 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Mallory Bulkley

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I am writing to support the currently proposed land use reforms to streamline approvals for smaller scale development + infrastructure projects. I was pleased to hear about the proposed ELURP procedure and potential to fast track zoning actions in support of environmental/clean energy projects, and reduce barriers for adding more solar panels and battery storage systems. These projects are critical public infrastructure and support lower energy bills. Right now, these projects are often blocked and slowed down by the long ULURP process, so I'm excited that we could speed these types of projects up that we know will help improve NY's resiliency and combat climate change. I respectfully request the Commission to ensure that clean energy projects are explicitly prioritized under any fast-track procedures and that solar and storage installations are clearly eligible for streamlined review (both when standalone or part of larger projects). Additionally, I encourage the Commission to work with the City Council and relevant agencies to develop clear implementation guidelines that prevent unnecessary delays while maintaining community engagement and oversight. Thank you for your work on this process. Sincerely, Mallory Bulkley of Brooklyn, NY

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8657198 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 00:41:23 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:41:08 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Elysa Ryan

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am writing to you as a long time New Yorker who has seen first hand the increasing impacts of climate change in my own home Brooklyn. As you constituent, I am in strong support of the proposed land use reforms that would streamline approvals for smaller-scale development and infrastructure projects - especially solar systems and battery energy storage. Climate change is already impacting our city with historic heat waves, flooding, and grid stress. To prepare for a safer, more affordable, and resilient future, New York must make it easier—not harder—to build clean energy infrastructure in every neighborhood. Not only that, any efforts and money we invest to preventing climate change now will pay off in the near short term. That's why I support the Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracked zoning actions that reduce bureaucratic delays for modest-scale, environmentally beneficial projects. In particular, solar panels and battery storage systems are critical public infrastructure. They reduce greenhouse gas emissions, lower utility bills, provide backup power during outages, and protect vulnerable residents during extreme weather. These projects are often blocked or delayed by the current Unified land processes, even when they are located on public buildings or vacant land.

The proposed charter changes—especially ELURP—will help remove these barriers and speed up approvals, enabling NYC to meet its climate and resiliency goals faster and more equitably. I urge the Commission to ensure that clean energy projects are explicitly prioritized under any fast-track procedures and that solar and storage installations—whether standalone or part of broader projects—are clearly eligible for streamlined review. Finally, I encourage the Commission to work with the City Council and relevant agencies to develop clear implementation guidelines that prevent unnecessary delays while maintaining community engagement and oversight. I urge you to take climate action now. We only have one planet and need to treat it kindly. Thank you for your work on this crucial reform process. Sincerely, Elysa Ryan Brooklyn, NY

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb90:fe82:c9a3:1c6b:a94e:bce8:6b3e, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) CriOS/138.0.7204.119 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb90:fe82:c9a3:1c6b:a94e:bce8:6b3e

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9497712 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 00:41:26 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:41:11 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alec Regitsky

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: As a New York City resident and advocate for climate resilience and clean energy, I'm writing in strong support of the proposed land use reforms that would streamline approvals for smaller-scale development and infrastructure projects—specifically clean energy installations such as solar panels and battery storage systems. Climate change is already impacting our city with more extreme heat, flooding, sea level rise, and grid stress. To prepare for a safer, more affordable, and resilient future, New York must make it easier—not harder—to build clean energy infrastructure in every neighborhood, whether on public or private land. That's why I support the Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracked zoning actions that reduce bureaucratic delays for modest-scale, environmentally beneficial projects. In particular, solar panels and battery storage systems are critical public infrastructure. They reduce greenhouse gas emissions, lower utility bills, provide backup power during outages, and protect vulnerable residents during extreme weather. These projects are often blocked or delayed by costly and time-intensive ULURP processes, even when they are located on public buildings or vacant land. The proposed charter changes—especially ELURP—will help remove these barriers by speeding up approvals, enabling NYC to meet its climate and resiliency goals faster and more equitably. I urge the Commission to ensure that clean energy projects are explicitly prioritized under any fast-track procedures and that solar and storage installations—whether standalone or part of broader projects—are clearly eligible for streamlined review. Finally, I encourage the Commission to work with the City Council and relevant agencies to develop clear implementation guidelines that prevent unnecessary delays while maintaining community engagement and oversight. Let's not let red tape stand in the way of climate action. Thank you for your work on this crucial reform process. Sincerely, Alec Regitsky [REDACTED]

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 98[.]116[.]200[.]109, 23[.]200[.]89[.]44, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.3 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 98[.]116[.]200[.]109

-----

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] An Unacceptable Threat to Public Servants

From: Liz Keefe <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 20:45:53 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

We cannot allow our electoral system to be reshaped by the whims of billionaires. Or by a single politician because they don't like the outcome of RCV. The jungle primary is a classic union-busting tactic. It is designed to make it harder for pro-labor candidates to win elections, which will have dire consequences for all working families in our city. This isn't about making elections fairer; it's about making them easier for the wealthy to control. We must recognize it as a direct attack on our collective power and fight back accordingly to protect our representation.

Best,

Liz Keefe

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4116793 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 00:46:31 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:46:16 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Danny DeBare

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: As a New Yorker and advocate for climate resilience, I'm writing in strong support of the proposed land use reforms that would streamline approvals for smaller-scale development and infrastructure projects - especially solar systems and battery energy storage. Please Climate change is already impacting our city with more extreme heat, flooding, and grid stress. To prepare for a safer, more affordable, and resilient future, New York must make it easier—not harder—to build clean energy infrastructure in every neighborhood. That's why I support the Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracked zoning actions that reduce bureaucratic delays for modest-scale, environmentally beneficial projects. In particular, solar panels and battery storage systems are critical public infrastructure. They reduce greenhouse gas emissions, lower utility bills, provide backup power during outages, and protect vulnerable residents during extreme weather. These projects are often blocked or delayed by costly and time-intensive ULURP processes, even when they are located on public buildings or vacant land. The proposed charter changes—especially ELURP—will help remove these barriers and speed up approvals, enabling NYC to meet its climate and resiliency goals faster and more equitably. I urge the Commission to ensure that clean energy projects are explicitly prioritized under any fast-track procedures and that solar and storage installations—whether standalone or part of broader projects—are clearly eligible for streamlined review. Finally, I encourage the Commission to work with the City Council and relevant agencies to develop clear implementation guidelines that prevent unnecessary delays while maintaining community engagement and oversight. Let's not let red tape stand in the way of climate action. Thank you for your work on this crucial reform process. Sincerely, Danny DeBare

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 98[.]116[.]200[.]109, 23[.]196[.]2[.]176, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 98[.]116[.]200[.]109

-----

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Simple Message: No

From: Kat Cleofe <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 20:49:35 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

I am writing to you today to voice my strong opposition to any proposal for jungle primaries. This system is not only unpopular but has been decisively rejected by voters in multiple states. The results from last year's elections, where this measure failed in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota, speak for themselves. This consistent rejection indicates a broad public consensus. This commission should abandon this flawed concept and instead focus its resources on proven methods to increase voter participation, such as advocating for even-year elections.

- Katrina Cleofe

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8776796 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 00:49:31 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:49:15 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Joanne Milano

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I believe the purpose of any City Council is to act as advocates for the people of their districts. As such, they are experts in the needs and wants of their community. For those reasons, I am opposed to the proposal to change the city charter to have an Appeals Board made up of the borough president, City Council speaker and mayor, thereby removing power from the City Council. I know who my City Councilwoman is and she is not only very active in the district, but also extremely responsive to issues in the district when contacted for assistance. I had to Google who the Queens borough president and the City Council speaker are. How can it be expected that they will have any knowledge of what is important to the people of every district and act in the best interest of these people rather than in their own best interest? Additionally, I am opposed to open primaries with ranked voting, which I assume will lead to the top two candidates coming from the same party. This system will lead NYC further down the road to one-party rule, which I believe is the actual goal here. Rather, I would prefer open primaries where unaffiliated voters, such as myself, are permitted to choose to vote in ONE party's primary in a particular election. Those registered in a party would continue to be able to vote only in that party's primary. Thank you, Joanne Milano

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:555f:4300:796f:f689:46d0:bc52, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 Edg/138[.]0[.]0[.]0
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:555f:4300:796f:f689:46d0:bc52

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

I believe the purpose of any City Council is to act as advocates for the people of their districts. As such, they are experts in the needs and wants of their community. For those reasons, I am opposed to the proposal to change the city charter to have an Appeals Board made up of the borough president, City Council speaker and mayor, thereby removing power from the City Council. I know who my City Councilwoman is and she is not only very active in the district, but also extremely responsive to issues in the district when contacted for assistance. I had to Google who the Queens borough president and the City Council speaker are. How can it be expected that they will have any knowledge of what is important to the people of every district and act in the best interest of these people rather than in their own best interest?

Additionally, I am opposed to open primaries with ranked voting, which I assume will lead to the top two candidates coming from the same party. This system will lead NYC further down the road to one-party rule, which I believe is the actual goal here. Rather, I would prefer open primaries where unaffiliated voters, such as myself, are permitted to choose to vote in ONE party's primary in a particular election. Those registered in a party would continue to be able to vote only in that party's primary.

Thank you,

Joanne Milano

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3540941 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 02:01:34 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 09:58:03 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR711zdHT8Xx2QNj5pDGdxPOYvQbxPbWukuPchUUTMTHKDQI94mxHRrFQpJ42Q_aem_t0R226
Ayff_XAc3IZzmErg

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Wendy Salvatierra

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Tottenville, Staten Island NY

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1013:b01f:b8d:614e:938a:d4ed:3b39, 23[.]72[.]88[.]229, 23[.]48[.]36[.]231,
10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIO;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone16,2;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO
S;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760655087;IABMV/1]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3653257 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 02:01:36 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 10:01:19 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR711zdHT8Xx2QNj5pDGdxPOYvQbxPbWukuPchUUTMTHKDQI94mxHRrFQpJ42Q_aem_t0R226
Ayff_XAc3IZzmErg

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Wendy Salvatierra

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Wendy Salvatierra Tottenville, Staten Island, NY [REDACTED] Date: July 9, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Wendy Salvatierra Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1013:b01f:b8d:614e:938a:d4ed:3b39, 23[.]72[.]88[.]229, 23[.]48[.]36[.]231, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone16,2;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760655087;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2600:1013:b01f:b8d:614e:938a:d4ed:3b39

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Let's Strengthen, Not Weaken, Our System

From: Temi Balogun <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 22:03:17 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

My message to the commission is clear and simple: say no to jungle primaries. This is a reform that has been consistently rejected by voters. The evidence from last year's elections in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota is overwhelming. The proposal failed in every single state. This shows a deep and abiding public trust in the role of political parties. It is time for this commission to respect that trust and focus its energies on proven reforms like even-year elections to strengthen our democracy.

Thank you,
Temi Balogun

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9650264 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 02:04:07 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 10:03:53 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR7AANc77gP4xtpITLf0cEjjNsPcAoOTE2GGP-kWvJyDSmG9mMNjLx3Dn39gjQ_aem_fs5EXYxWZ_
T6Th7cocpToQ

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Manuel Salvatierra

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Manuel Salvatierra [REDACTED] Date: July 9, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Manuel Salvatierra Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1013:b01f:b8d:614e:938a:d4ed:3b39, 23[.]72[.]88[.]198, 23[.]48[.]36[.]231, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone16,2;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760655087;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2600:1013:b01f:b8d:614e:938a:d4ed:3b39

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Concerns from a Born and Raised New Yorker

From: Raina von Zerneck <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Wed, 09 Jul 2025 22:16:37 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

I want to state my unequivocal opposition to jungle primaries. This is a flawed system that has been soundly rejected by voters. The evidence from last year's elections in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota is compelling: the proposal failed everywhere it was tried. This commission should not be wasting its time on such a demonstrably unpopular idea. The focus should be on proven strategies to boost voter engagement, like even-year elections, which have a track record of success in increasing participation.

Best,

Raina von Zerneck

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4515755 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 02:54:47 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 10:54:30 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jeanine Wallen

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I paid alot of much money for my home to live in a safe neighborhood. I don't want a shelter, I don't want bike lanes. I sure as hell don't want the city of yes. We have traffic issues already we don't need more housing or more cars.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b4b1:3623:c74:9cc1:ac6f:8049, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1

True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b4b1:3623:c74:9cc1:ac6f:8049

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8754296 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 04:13:13 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 12:11:09 AM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sanford Miller

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Chair Buery and Commissioners, My name is Sanford Miller. I am a member of Manhattan Community Board 4, but the opinions expressed here are my own. I am strongly in favor of including questions 1-5 on the ballot this November. New York City has a severe housing shortage; we need many more homes of every type: market-rate, mixed-income, and deeply affordable. Today's land-use process, especially the tradition of member deference, too frequently causes housing to not get built, or even proposed at all. Ballot question 1 is my favorite for the following reasons: 1. It protects the important place of community input, by requiring that every not as-of-right project still come before the local community board. I especially appreciate retaining the 60-day review window; community boards are made up of volunteers and most boards/committees meet monthly and therefore it doesn't work logistically to meaningfully review complex proposals in 30 days. 2. It incentivizes 100% affordable projects, which are an invaluable public good, and today are all too scarce. Shortening the permitting timeline and reducing the amount of uncertainty will make it viable for non-profit developers to build more of these sorts of projects, and help each dollar of subsidy go farther. Skipping o expediting pre-certification as well is a wise move, since non-profit developers often struggle to continue to pay high-interest pre-development loans during extended regulatory proceedings. 3. It unlocks "missing middle" housing types. Creating a path forward in zoning for small apartment buildings that would never work with traditional ULURP is a quiet--and much-needed--revolution. Not every neighborhood should have skyscrapers, but low-rise apartment buildings and townhouses belong everywhere! Arguably, if you think about it terms off the imbalance of folks who want to live in one to folks who can afford to, medium-density neighborhoods are experiencing even more of shortage than high-density ones. Yet it remains excessively difficult to get approval for medium-density building forms in the many NYC neighborhoods still zoned for single-family homes and duplexes--even though those areas already contain plenty of pre-1961 low-rise apartment buildings. Ballot question 2 is also an excellent idea. As a pro-housing member of MCB4, it has been quite frustrating to me to see other neighborhoods build nothing at all, or even losing units. For the past several decades, MCB4 has welcomed growth, voting in favor of several upzonings and adding tens of thousands of new apartments each decade, including thousands of affordable apartments. MCB4 has consistently produced the most units of the Manhattan community districts. Question 2 nudges the whole city toward that same spirit of shared responsibility. Question 3 would provide a much-needed counterbalance to member deference, providing an institutional mechanism for ensuring that the needs of the city overall are considered, especially regarding housing, in the ULURP process. Question 4's proposal to modernize the city map, putting streets, sewers, and zoning in the same system, will simplify and speed up the work agencies must do to approve or move forward with housing, transit, and climate-resilience projects. Question 5 would double or triple voter turnout in local elections from its current abysmally low levels. One benefit of this--in addition to many others, which I will leave it to others to elaborate on--is that increased turnout will decrease the influence of local special interests. Please adopt ballot questions 1-5. They preserve local input while removing structural bottlenecks to housing production that keep rents high and New Yorkers down. Thank you for your consideration!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:9276:6b00:c0b2:73be:b3dc:1883, 184[.]51[.]149[.]37, 23[.]220[.]105[.]77, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:9276:6b00:c0b2:73be:b3dc:1883

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-274190 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 04:45:21 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 12:45:07 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR4zjxxXaG0AnToAyWx5Gd17y8fZqOZFh04RWSCG6jxlf-Xyuu4lt5JNsi1nKQ_aem_AYw2E-FPCtb
YqA75xNoiVg

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jamie Lindelof

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 8, 2025 Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals

Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Jamie Lindelof Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 68[.]174[.]208[.]35, 23[.]200[.]89[.]192, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/505[.]0[.]0[.]49.97;FBBV/710084827;FBDV/iPhone15,4;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS ;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/715382107;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 68[.]174[.]208[.]35

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No Jungle Primaries

From: Katerina Siira <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 09:38:39 +0300

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear commission,

Voters have made it abundantly clear: we do not want jungle primaries.

These reforms are not only ineffective but also routinely rejected at the ballot. Just last year, this very measure was on the ballot in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota, and it failed in every single state.

Voters, regardless of their political affiliation, understand the value political parties bring to candidate selection.

This commission should not waste taxpayer resources on an unpopular and unproven proposition. Instead, let's focus on strategies that are known to increase voter turnout, such as even-year elections.

Sincerely,

Katerina Siira

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7805048 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 10:40:39 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 06:39:35 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Julius Tajiddin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Question 1 In this summary proposal, "affordable housing" was mentioned 5 times. This proposed amendment alleges that by creating two new paths of ??? it will be easier to build more affordable housing across the city, allowing affordable housing to be produced more quickly and at a lower cost, helping to ensure that every community adds affordable housing. This proposal is double talk poorly written. However, one of the paths is a zoning action for publicly financed affordable housing at the Board of Standards and Appeals. This new path seems like it would be removing Community Boards from the reviewing process when it comes to such development. While community boards can act political at times, someone like me has a better chance presenting my views to all reviewing bodies via the community board. Furthermore, gentrification (a condition) is created by the government. So unless this affordable housing targets the incomes of families earning moderate and low incomes the sad truth is that those families are going to continue getting priced out. It's basic math. If most of the development is for luxury housing at the community's expense (rezonings) it will outpace the development of housing for families earning moderate and low incomes. So far in Harlem, most of those moderate and low income families are Black. The Black population is also the plurality in Harlem. In any event, this proposal is quite vague. When it states that this new zoning action is for publicly financed affordable housing is the housing 100% so-called affordable? Or, is it like how it's usually done now, which is mostly a hybrid funding, and still developers get air property and at times land property for free. Still, publicly funded mainly means the people's money. And the people's voice should not be left out of any reviewing process that involves Land Use, as it is one of, if not the most, important areas of business for a city. So, because it seems that this is a proposal to eliminate community boards from a land use equation I strongly say "NO" to it.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb91:323f:33b:ad4:3351:9b88:9eb8, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb91:323f:33b:ad4:3351:9b88:9eb8

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9488880 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 10:42:46 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 06:42:32 AM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR4REx3isz7t_IZYrKD1g4QF3DtP-pQcm_vFv7daoKKNLdo-Y1_gfElzj9Z9SA_aem_lpEmWBs3m-ou
GQQpSKeVSQ

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Loren Vitalone

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Mike Caldera [REDACTED] Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Loren Vitalone Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 100[.]37[.]220[.]139, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/513[.]1[.]0[.]55.90;FBBV/735017191;FBDV/iPhone17,1;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS ;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/738600055;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 100[.]37[.]220[.]139

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9330127 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 11:24:02 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 07:23:51 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR4PdRShTydtBF9YIJErIVg8aFHrcRUjPsqay22Nvjzdd45GhVfbT4v9OwAWNA_aem_sRjTkobRtufz
SaTiRZQQsA

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Karen SantoPietro

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I want a say in my community

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb91:1c92:55d9:81c2:93da:9dfc:7fc3, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/514[.]0[.]0[.]47.102;FBBV/737212593;FBDV/iPhone14,5;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO
S;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/741762890;IABMV/1]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Why Pursue a Failed Policy?

From: Linda Rosenberg <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 07:31:12 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

This commission should be guided by evidence, and the evidence on jungle primaries is clear: they are a failed idea. The public has consistently rejected them. Look at the overwhelming 70-30 vote against it in New York City. Look at the six states—Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota—that all turned it down last year. This isn't an anomaly; it's a clear pattern. Voters understand the importance of political parties. It is time for this commission to understand it as well and move on to more productive, popular reforms like even-year elections--and allow the diverse communities that make up NYC to continue to have their voices heard and not allow corporate interests to essentially buy the candidates that are likely to emerge from jungle primaries.

Sincerely,

Linda Rosenberg

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Reality of Open Primaries: Stagnant Turnout in NYC

From: Nan Faessler <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 07:51:59 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

I'm here to dispute the claim that jungle primaries are a viable solution for increasing voter turnout. The available data from states that have adopted these systems consistently shows otherwise. If the commission is genuinely committed to boosting participation, then it must acknowledge the empirical reality that jungle primaries simply do not achieve this objective. The recent data out of Alaska, which implemented open primaries in 2022, serves as a stark reminder. The 2024 primary election saw alarmingly low turnout, marking it as one of the lowest in half a century. This outcome directly challenges the notion that this new system automatically guarantees high turnout. The evidence strongly suggests that these elections have had little to no impact on encouraging greater voter participation, making them a "solution in search of a problem" in terms of turnout.

- Nan Faessler

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Reality of Open Primaries: Stagnant Turnout in NYC

From: Nan Faessler <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 07:52:15 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

I'm here to dispute the claim that jungle primaries are a viable solution for increasing voter turnout. The available data from states that have adopted these systems consistently shows otherwise. If the commission is genuinely committed to boosting participation, then it must acknowledge the empirical reality that jungle primaries simply do not achieve this objective. The recent data out of Alaska, which implemented open primaries in 2022, serves as a stark reminder. The 2024 primary election saw alarmingly low turnout, marking it as one of the lowest in half a century. This outcome directly challenges the notion that this new system automatically guarantees high turnout. The evidence strongly suggests that these elections have had little to no impact on encouraging greater voter participation, making them a "solution in search of a problem" in terms of turnout.

- Nan Faessler

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Simple Truth: Jungle Primaries Are Unpopular

From: [REDACTED EMAIL]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 07:52:42 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

HeIII,

I'm writing to urge this commission to dismiss any notions of jungle primaries. Voters have unequivocally rejected these reforms, proving their ineffectiveness and unpopularity. Last year, the proposal was on the ballot in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota, and it failed in all six. This speaks volumes about voters' understanding of the value of political parties in our system. This commission should not waste public resources on a proposition that has already been so decisively dismissed. If the true goal is to increase voter turnout, stick with what is proven to work: even-year elections.

Thanks,

Ximena Frankel

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Consistent Failure of Jungle Primaries

From: Matthew Unangst <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 08:30:41 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

I am here today to speak the truth about jungle primaries: they do not increase voter turnout. This is not a partisan issue; it is a factual one. The data from every state that has implemented this system tells the same story. It is time to stop pretending otherwise. Let's have an honest and open discussion about what we can do to increase voter participation, but let's base that discussion on evidence, not on wishful thinking.

Thanks,
Matthew Unangst

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Vote no on open primaries

From: America Canas <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 08:36:40 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

A core function of government is to provide clear, consistent rules for civic life, especially for voting. "Jungle Primaries" would be a profoundly destabilizing force, upending an electoral process that was just recently changed with RCV. This is not how you build public trust or encourage people to vote. It's how you create cynicism and frustration.

We must prioritize a stable and predictable system that all New Yorkers can understand and participate in confidently. This proposal moves us in the opposite direction. I urge you to vote NO on this initiative.

Thank you,
America Canas

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Stability Over More Change

From: Griffin Koelbel <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 09:01:10 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

We haven't even fully assessed the impact of RCV, which was passed in 2019. To introduce "Jungle Primaries" now is to act without sufficient data or understanding. Responsible governance requires allowing reforms time to be evaluated before proposing yet another drastic change that could undermine voter confidence and turnout.

Thank you,
Griffin Koelbel

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] NYC: The Truth About Open Primary Efficacy

From: Griffin Koelbel <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 09:03:12 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

I want to express my deep concern that advocating for jungle primaries as a solution for voter turnout is misguided. The factual evidence from states where they have been implemented shows they do not boost participation. We must base our policy decisions on what the data tells us, not on hopeful but ultimately unsubstantiated claims. Consider Alaska, which adopted open primaries in 2022. The 2024 primary election saw alarmingly low turnout, ranking among the lowest in half a century. This outcome decisively points to the conclusion that these "new systems" have had little to no impact on encouraging greater voter participation. We need to recognize that this new system doesn't automatically guarantee high turnout and that other, more direct methods are far more effective.

- Joseph Koelbel

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2579442 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 13:27:25 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 09:26:58 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR66X6Ejp6Rlm6h1vQA67J6qhw1oeg-0DYe10HQTE_S7eeoKR-pdlyTLZ3_deQ_aem_aNKyR5ykU
HNIabzwSdOVrg

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lori Pierce

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Tottenville people do not approve abd will fight this!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:6f01:5d00:f4f4:8b38:2bd3:b84b, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_3_2 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22D82
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone14,2;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO
S;FBSV/18.3.2;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760587333;IABMV/1]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] An Appeal to the Commission

From: Sarah Mandell <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 10:06:02 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

I urge this commission to see the writing on the wall when it comes to jungle primaries. This is an unpopular reform that has been consistently rejected by voters. The six-state sweep of defeats last year is the most recent and powerful evidence. Voters in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota all chose to stick with the traditional primary system. This commission should take that as a clear directive. It is time to abandon this failed idea and focus on proven reforms that can actually improve our elections.

Thanks,

Sarah Mandell

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Don't Weaken the Voice of Workers

From: Grace Saul <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 10:13:01 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

The idea that our city needs jungle primaries is a solution in search of a problem. The real problem is the overwhelming and corrupting influence of money in politics, which this proposal would only exacerbate, not solve. It would weaken the labor movement, which remains the most effective check on unbridled corporate power and the relentless push to privatize public goods. This isn't a step toward a healthier democracy; it's a step toward a system where elections are just another commodity for the rich to buy and sell.

Thanks,

Grace Saul

Brooklyn, NY

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Protect the Progress We've Made with RCV

From: [REDACTED EMAIL]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 10:25:57 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

The very body that studied this issue, the Charter Commission, acknowledged the risk of depressing turnout by introducing another reform so soon after RCV. To push forward with "Jungle Primaries" is to willfully ignore that warning. It is a counterintuitive move that prioritizes change for its own sake over the stated goal of increasing voter participation. We should act with caution and prudence, respecting the expert analysis that advises against this kind of rapid, successive reform. Let RCV settle in.

The Democratic primary is over there is a clear winner and the party should rally with the candidate to ensure that the voters are heard.

Thanks,
Matt Chang

Subject:

FW: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9785628 CRC Contact
Form - General Inquiries

From: Charter Info <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 14:49:55 +0000

---

From: agencyemail <agencyemail@customercare.nyc.gov>

Sent: Wednesday, July 9, 2025 8:33 PM

To: Charter Info <CharterInfo@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Subject: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9785628 CRC Contact Form - General Inquiries

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Wednesday, July 9, 2025, at 08:32:48 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: General Inquiries

Name: Priscilla Jin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: As a New Yorker and advocate for climate resilience, I'm writing in strong support of the proposed land use reforms that would streamline approvals for smaller-scale development and infrastructure projects - especially solar systems and battery energy storage. Climate change is already impacting our city with more extreme heat, flooding, and grid stress. To prepare for a safer, more affordable, and resilient future, New York must make it easier-not harder-to build clean energy infrastructure in every neighborhood. That's why I support the Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracked zoning actions that reduce bureaucratic delays for modest-scale, environmentally beneficial projects. In particular, solar panels and battery storage systems are critical public infrastructure. They reduce greenhouse gas emissions, lower utility bills, provide backup power during outages, and protect vulnerable residents during extreme weather. These projects are often blocked or delayed by costly and time-intensive ULURP processes, even when they are located on public buildings or vacant land. The proposed charter changes-especially ELURP-will help remove these barriers and speed up approvals, enabling NYC to meet its climate and resiliency goals faster and more equitably. I urge the Commission to ensure that clean energy projects are explicitly prioritized under any fast-track procedures and that solar and storage installations-whether standalone or part of broader projects-are clearly eligible for streamlined review. Finally, I encourage the Commission to work with the City Council and relevant agencies to develop clear implementation guidelines that prevent unnecessary delays while maintaining community engagement and oversight. Let's not let red tape stand in the way of climate action. Thank you for your work on this crucial reform process. Sincerely, Priscilla Jin

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b418:2fd3:64dc:4b2a:537b:42ff, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b418:2fd3:64dc:4b2a:537b:42ff

_____

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Uphold the 2019 Vote for RCV

From: Athena R <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 10:53:58 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

Let's be clear: introducing "Jungle Primaries" now would be an irresponsible act. The learning curve for Ranked-Choice Voting has been steep for many New Yorkers. To scrap that progress for another untested and complicated system is to show a startling disregard for the voter experience. Stability is paramount for building confidence in our democratic processes. This proposal would shatter that stability, leading to widespread confusion and predictable declines in voter turnout. We must give RCV a legitimate chance to prove its worth and allow voters to become comfortable with one system.

Sincerely,

Athena C

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7980836 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 15:17:18 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 11:15:10 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR5yE8ZD2-5for4VE_y08JRseCz-k1Yn7uMt7AqAF0GIQdGFFJCEgFG-NbqW0A_aem_whB57mwxo
06KR9_VLji2Ig

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Joseph pierce

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: We don't want this in tottenville.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:6f01:5d00:a1ed:cb44:1cda:5c9e, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone14,7;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO
S;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760587333;IABMV/1]

Dear City Charter Commissioners,

My name is Dr. Herman Guy. I currently serve on Bronx Community Board 10. I have come before this Commission to oppose changes to the City of New York Charter regarding Community Boards' role in the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP).

As you know, we are volunteers. We are residents of our community and join our Community Board to learn how to help improve our neighborhoods, protect it, and ensure we are receiving our fair share of city services.

This Commission is reviewing changes such as reducing the ULURP's Community Board review period of 60 to 30 days. In 2019, a then Charter Revision Commission gave Community Boards an additional 30 days to review ULURP applications. This was a positive change for our process. It gave our volunteer membership additional time for presentations, to read difficult texts such as the City Environmental Quality Review (CEQR) and the ULURP application itself, have time for more public meetings, properly conduct public outreach and, most importantly, make better, educated decisions.

Your report mentions attempts to "fast track" specific zoning district applications, implement "absolute" thresholds that calculate change in residential density, and using affordable housing applications as a means for lessening ULURP time requirements. If these ideas are proposed and passed, New Yorkers will have less information about occurrences in their communities. Community Boards are trusted, non-partisan institutions where constituents join to learn and understand the changes affecting their community. It is not just because of Community Boards that housing production lessened. Your Commission is correct to seek changes to the current permitting processes which occur after ULURP is completed. As you know, ULURP is a City Charter-required process for community boards and the public to review changes to our environment, assess and request more city services from our municipal agencies to accommodate the proposed density. In addition, it ensures that our communities have active and working relationships with developers and property owners. No matter how many income-restricted units are proposed in a ULURP application, our city is better served if Community Boards have its current allotment of 60 days.

Lastly, your report mentions concerns with the New York City Council internal process of "member deference." While we leave the politics to our City Council Member, the Commission should know that the independence of our legislative body is something we value because Community Boards, too, are independent municipal agencies. The City Council inner workings should be respected as Council Members are the voices of their districts and take back to City Hall their community's concerns and requests of city government. At the conclusion of the Community Board process, the ULURP application proceeds to the Office of the Borough President and then the New York City Council. The New York City Council Member can organize their colleagues to reflect the wishes of their district regarding the ULURP application. We would not want to see our legislative branch not have the opportunity to discuss land use matters with their colleagues in hopes of defending their community's best interests and while holding developers accountable.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,

Dr. Herman Guy

CSA (Political Liaison)

NYC HSPA (President)

CSA (Executive Board)

BELC (Chair)

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Don't let billionaires undermine our democracy -
Please reject open primaries.

From: Justin Wood <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 15:41:10 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

The proposal for so-called "jungle primaries" is a transparent effort to undermine the influence of organized labor and other grassroots organizations. This approach would make it easier for very wealthy individuals to control electoral outcomes, as their financial resources would become even more decisive in carrying candidates to victory.

By bypassing political parties' process of nominating candidates, an open primary would shift power away from party members and toward those who can heavily fund their own campaigns. This would directly undermine labor unions, which are often the strongest advocates against privatization and the erosion of public services. The argument that "public sector unions" have an outized influence is a manufactured one, designed to justify attacks on workers' collective power. Wealth already dominates our political and economic life. The Democratic Party primary is one of the few mechanisms where working people can still exert a collective voice. This proposal would diminish that voice.

- Justin Wood, Staten Island, New York

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-766098 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 16:21:46 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 12:21:20 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwY2xjawLcx3hleHRu
A2FlbQlXMQABHlpkisJ1bFPzFWVYNMQ_BI78zIsXthLAeVTjmgPgXHK7comuFTXKReHb_XWf_aem_qtj
WuXEtrTmlRchRmA7nTw

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Liz Miller

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Mike Caldera [REDACTED] Date: July 8, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Liz Miller Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:6ff0:88e0:5ae4:68e0:7e09:2be5, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 15; SM-S921U Build/AP3A.240905.015.A2; wv)
AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/4.0 Chrome/138.0.7204.139 Mobile
Safari/537.36 [FB_IAB/FB4A;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]44.99;IABMV/1;]
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:6ff0:88e0:5ae4:68e0:7e09:2be5

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Testimony of United Neighborhood Houses

From: Lena Cohen <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<chartertestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 16:33:24 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Members of the New York City Charter Revision Commission,

Thank you for the opportunity to provide testimony. I attended the public input session on July 7 and was not called on to testify before the meeting adjourned at 9:30 PM. I am submitting the attached testimony to the record. Please let me know if you have any questions. Thank you.

Best,
Lena Cohen

Lena Cohen

Senior Manager of Civic Engagement

United Neighborhood Houses

Pronouns: She/Her

Office: [REDACTED]

45 Broadway, 22nd Floor, New York, NY 10006

212-967-0322 | www.unhny.org

New York City Charter Revision Commission
Testimony of United Neighborhood Houses
Submitted by Lena Cohen, Senior Manager of Civic Engagement
July 7, 2025 Public Input Session

Thank you, members of the New York City Charter Revision Commission, for the opportunity to testify. My name is Lena Cohen, and I am the Senior Manager of Civic Engagement at United Neighborhood Houses (UNH). UNH is a policy and social change organization representing neighborhood settlement houses that reach 800,000 New Yorkers from all walks of life.

A progressive leader for more than 100 years, UNH is stewarding a new era for New York's settlement house movement. We mobilize our members and their communities to advocate for good public policies and promote strong organizations and practices that keep neighborhoods resilient and thriving for all New Yorkers. UNH leads advocacy and partners with our members on a broad range of issues including civic and community engagement, neighborhood affordability, healthy aging, early childhood education, adult literacy, and youth development. We also provide customized professional development and peer learning to build the skills and leadership capabilities of settlement house staff at all levels.

For over a century, settlement houses have driven higher levels of civic engagement, particularly among disenfranchised community members. UNH works closely with settlement houses to build community power by leading nonpartisan voter mobilization, promoting the inclusion of all residents in the Census and the redistricting process, and advocating for modernized election laws to ensure residents who live and work in the city are fairly represented in local government.

UNH's civic engagement work includes educating New Yorkers about opportunities to engage in democracy as well as advocating for government transparency and an election system that enhances voter power and participation. Opportunities to revise the New York City Charter provide a direct pathway for civic engagement and positive community change. To highlight a recent example, in November 2019, New York City voters approved a Charter amendment to establish ranked choice voting in primary elections for city offices starting in 2021, with 73.5% of participating voters voting in favor. UNH supported advocacy efforts that brought ranked choice voting onto the ballot, and we continue to provide voter education on how to fill out the ballot during ranked choice elections.

UNH supports practices and policies that drive participation by all eligible voters, particularly in local elections. Local elections are those in which voters elect officials to serve in the New York City government, including Mayor, Public Advocate, Comptroller, Borough Presidents, and City Council members. While national and state elections often dominate headlines, the elected officials closer to home are responsible for the services and regulations that shape everyday experiences in the city. From decisions about childcare services and affordable housing to policies that make it easier for working parents and older adults to live in the city, the results of local elections have a tangible and direct impact on the quality of life for all residents.

UNH supports measures that increase access to voting, voter education and voter participation. We also believe that any significant changes to voting should be fully discussed with all New York voters. Running open primaries is a major policy change that should include widespread community conversations. This proposed change to our current system should not be rushed.

With the recent primary less than two weeks behind us, fresh in our minds are the voters that settlement house staff met from all walks of life who are adjusting to recent changes in our elections. We hear from neighbors who are still adapting to early voting and their new polling site locations. We meet with voters who continue to seek guidance on how to use ranked choice voting. Many neighbors want to understand why the city has different election systems at different times of the year, and how to keep track of the varying frequency of city, state, and federal races. Overall, our experiences show us that it can take several election cycles for reforms to be fully implemented and perhaps even longer for voters to adapt to the changes. Further, the successful rollout of election reforms depends on community buy-in and consistent nonpartisan voter education efforts that will ensure community members are equipped to vote, as we have seen with ranked choice voting.

There is no urgency to ask voters to adopt a Top 2 primary system in less than four months. New York City won't have another local election until 2029, so a delay in passage would not disrupt the implementation timeline. We have a four-year window to thoroughly evaluate the different primary systems and analyze how our communities will be impacted before we take a position on if and how best to open up the city's closed primary election system.

UNH is not ready to take a position on this measure. We need time to study the various systems of primary elections beyond the Top 2 system that is currently being proposed. We also need to hear from experts, evaluate the impact of different primary systems on our communities, and reach consensus across a diverse coalition of organizations, community leaders, and other stakeholders as to which system would improve New York City's participation in elections.

Rather than support or oppose an amendment that we have yet to fully vet with our communities, we urge the Commission to delay any proposals for changes to our primaries.

We appreciate this Commission's commitment to receiving direct input. Democracy functions best when constituents are active and engaged in civic processes. Thank you again for the opportunity to testify.

Please direct any questions to Lena Cohen at [REDACTED]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7476801 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 16:42:11 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 12:40:54 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR5qalsQ0d9XkZKkpdSEjvOy-gH1yOaSP1FpljH2bk_ITP4iesSZ-WD8-yzUnQ_aem_S63liphZTzzCR ohUYY6d5A

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lynn Burkley

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Lynn Burkley [REDACTED] Date: July 9, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating: • Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation. • Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process. • Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory. • Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all. Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Lynn Burkley Concerned Staten Islander

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 100[.]37[.]51[.]53, 23[.]196[.]2[.]176, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIO;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone12,1;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO
S;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/2;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760587333;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 100[.]37[.]51[.]53

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-624696 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 17:06:10 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 01:04:44 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Kamillah Hanks Council Member

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: below see CM Hanks' testimony to the charter commission Testimony of Council Member Kamillah Hanks Before the 2025 Charter Revision Commission Re: Proposed Revisions to ULURP Thank you for the opportunity to testify. I am Kamillah Hanks, Council Member for the North Shore of Staten Island. I strongly oppose the proposed changes to the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure. These revisions would silence communities and strip duly elected Council Members of their critical role in shaping our neighborhoods. This proposal is a step backward. Giving a three-member panel, the Mayor, the Speaker, and one borough representative the power to override the entire City Council mirrors the unconstitutional Board of Estimate. That is not progress. That is regression. Communities deserve real input, not a fast track for developers. As a Council Member, I have approved over 3,000 units of affordable housing with robust community engagement. That would not have happened under this proposed process. Staten Island stands to lose the most. Many of our rezonings are for projects under 45 feet, exactly the type this proposal seeks to exempt from Council review. But even small rezonings can have major impacts on traffic, infrastructure, and flooding. Local input is essential. When the City of Yes housing plan was released, I brought together civic leaders, and advocates to assess its impact on our flood-prone communities. That led to meaningful reforms, including banning basement units in flood zones, preserving low-density neighborhoods, and pushing for critical infrastructure upgrades. None of that would have happened without Council leadership. I support giving Borough Presidents more authority like appointing themselves to the City Planning Commission or the Panel for Educational Policy to increase accountability. But land use appeals already have a legal venue: the Board of Standards and Appeals. Creating a new appeals panel only undermines the Council and centralizes power further. We know what happens when Staten Island is cut out of decision-making. That's how we got Fresh Kills. We will not let that happen again. New York is a city of neighborhoods. If we want a more transparent, responsive government, we must localize decision-making. That means empowering Borough Presidents, strengthening community boards, creating borough-based Council budget subcommittees, and investing in neighborhood planning. This proposal takes us in the wrong direction. I urge the Commission to reject it and protect the voice of our communities. Local democracy must be preserved. Thank you.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7001:cff0:92b0:f47b:fcdd:fff1:5388, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (X11; CrOS x86_64 14541.0.0) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/126[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7001:cff0:92b0:f47b:fcdd:fff1:5388

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7450065 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 17:07:23 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 01:07:03 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR40HlgWesci6Oh6Xlep8ITH-ueKbfrswAiadjyLD80UjO0i-Njkyv3BK2sfeg_aem_Nn8rDX9PI7608H f9CFOp4g

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Donna Day

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Donna Day [REDACTED] Date: July 11, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and

Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Donna Day Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:6f00:3aff:b4af:94f6:e859:5d3f, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 [FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone14,5;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760587333;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:6f00:3aff:b4af:94f6:e859:5d3f

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Against open primaries

From: Brandon West <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 13:08:54 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hi,

I understand the impulse of wanting to make government work better, I have several years of experience working in good government groups, and coalitions focused on helping get marginalized communities more access to the ballot. I studied open primaries in graduate school at NYU Wagner, and read the book the Scandal of Reform which directly talked about it. I do not support this reform because I don't believe it solves the problems that it's being trotted out to do. I think in a city where there are very few purple districts, it doesn't exactly serve the purpose outside of trying to undermine some of the more effective, grass roots or organizing groups instead of built power in the last few years. At the end of the day, money in politics is the problem and we need to find a way to combat that without just throwing more money at the situation. Elections should be no more than 2 to 3 months, and PAC should not be able to dump money into races to get the outcome they want. More money and more candidates doesn't necessarily mean more democratic. There is a reason why the NAACP fought against open primary years ago when the charter revision idea came up, they saw as a way to undermine their power. Now it's being suggested as a tool against another group of organized people. After we had just had a very constructive mayor race where multiple candidates endorse each other and refuse to attack each other, the idea of getting rid of the system immediately is just a shrewd attempt to try to create a playing field, where establishment political figures, and well financed power brokers can try and push more moderate candidates.

Sincerely,

Brandon West

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Ineffectiveness of Jungle Primaries on Voter Turnout

From: Alice Janigro <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 13:11:39 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

The argument that jungle primaries lead to higher voter engagement is not supported by factual evidence. We must base our policy decisions on verifiable data, not on unsubstantiated theories. For instance, Alaska's recent experience with open primaries, implemented in 2022, is a powerful counter-narrative. The 2024 primary election in that state saw one of the lowest turnout rates in the past 50 years. This result strongly indicates that altering the primary system does not automatically translate into a surge of voter participation, and we should therefore explore other avenues to achieve this goal.

Thank you,

Alice Janigro

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Need for Genuine Voter Mobilization

From: Jared Mathis <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 13:28:29 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hi there,

It is time for a reality check on jungle primaries. They are not a magic bullet that will solve the problem of low voter turnout. They are a failed experiment that has not lived up to its hype. We need to be willing to admit this and move on. There are no easy solutions to the problem of low voter participation, but there are things that we can do that will make a difference. Let's focus on those and stop wasting our time on ideas that have been proven not to work.

Sincerely,

Jared Mathis

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3843968 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 18:48:03 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 02:46:24 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Brooklyn Community Board 9

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: BROOKLYN COMMUNITY BOARD 9 RESOLUTION 2025 MAYORAL CHARTER REVISION COMMISSION Whereas, The Mayor has convened a Charter Revision Commission which will propose ballot referendum measures for Nov 2025 and heard public testimony on reforms to the ULURP process related to housing production in February and March of 2025; and Whereas, the Charter Revision Commission has received numerous proposals from members of pro- housing growth lobbying groups, affordable and for-profit developers and others seeking to shorten the ULURP process or increase the influence on development approvals of the Mayor, Borough Presidents, city planning commission, or newly created individual roles at the expense of community boards and council members; and Whereas, the Charter Revision Commission received testimony from numerous members of the public including CB9 residents; and Whereas, the Commission released a preliminary report on April 30, 2025 recommending that in seeking to address long timelines in the land use development process resulting in insufficient production of housing that meets the needs of NYC residents, and localized opposition to housing and affordable housing in certain districts resulting in inequities in housing production among all the community districts in the city, the Charter should nevertheless “foreground basic planning principles and keep the following considerations in mind: ● the necessity of land use procedure to support planning, oversight, transparency, democratic accountability, and public participation. ● the goal in the land use process is to allow for change, while balancing competing goods, goals, and valid perspectives. ● the effects of changes to land use procedures are rarely straightforward. These processes exist within a dynamic political context that adapts and responds to new circumstances. ● the Charter exists within a broader structure of state and federal law that grant authority to the City but also limit it;” Whereas, most developments encountered by CB9 which submit rezoning applications for affordable housing have 3-5 years or more total development timelines while the ULURP process is limited to 7.5 months, a predictable and tiny fraction of this total time and that proposed changes to the ULURP process would shave at most 1 month off this 5-year timeline; and Whereas, we have approved at least two developers initiated upzonings (529 Empire Blvd Rezoning in 2013 and 341 Troy Avenue variance in 2009) which have resulted in no development at all after more than ten years, proving that zoning and land use approval procedures are not the primary obstacle to housing development; and Whereas, the community board’s existing review period of 60 days is barely enough to announce and hold a public hearing and hold votes at both the land use committee and general board as the charter and our bylaws require us to do. Therefore, Community Board 9 resolves that we SUPPORT any charter revisions which strengthen requirements for community engagement during the pre-certification process including mandatory developer meetings with community boards 30 days after filing a pre application statement with the department of city planning, and one or more meetings after filing an initial EAS and at least 30 days prior to certification; and Therefore, we also OPPOSE ANY changes to the charter which shorten the community boards’ ULURP review period which is being unfairly blamed for long development timelines; or any changes which reduce the influence of our community via the community boards in the land use process and increases the influence of individual elected officials or unelected officials at the expense of broader democratic bodies, including but not limited to : ● combining the borough presidents review period with the community boards ● moving the borough presidents review period after that of the council ● Allowing the city planning commission veto power over council votes ● allowing developers to appeal council zoning votes to a small body of unelected officials other than through the current Board of Standards and Appeals process ● or appointing a zoning administrator to make certain land use decisions Whereas, Community Board 9 has added more than 4500 units of housing and 1900 units of affordable housing since 2010 on top of having the highest population density of all community districts in Brooklyn, while ten community districts in the city built and preserved fewer than 500 units of affordable housing; and Whereas, Community Board 9 has deep concerns about ● the impact of existing and added density on quality of life and essential services, ● the lack of environmental review of new development in our district (most of which is as of right), ● and insufficient allocation of city resources for services and capital improvements to our district given limited private resources to manage density (our median household income is below the median for the city); and Whereas, Community Board 9 recognizes that the city as a whole needs to continue residential development to provide sufficient housing for expected future population but treasures our stable and affordable residential community and our historic built context and does not want to be responsible for shouldering more than our fair share of density and locally unwanted land uses (we oppose development for the sake of development). Therefore, Community Board 9 resolves that we SUPPORT Charter reforms that recognize the Fair Housing Framework passed by City Council in 2023 by requiring the relevant city agencies to develop in coordination with Community Boards and the city council:

- Enforceable five-year housing and locally unwanted land use targets. Targets would take previous development, development pipeline and environmental assessments into consideration.
- Borough-wide and district level mandated environmental assessments every 5 years
- Tying these results to resource allocation for each district given citywide budgets; and strategies for economic and human capital development, and mitigations and solutions to quality-of-life problems caused by overdevelopment and density or concentration of Locally Unwanted Land Uses. And that such fair share targets and broader perspectives on development should be enforced in ways that center oversight, transparency, democratic participation and community-based planning such as
- encouraging borough boards to vote on individual land use applications during their separate review periods,
- providing resources to communities to create their own comprehensive plans, if needed,
- limiting the pre-certification and pre filing review periods for rezonings with the department of city planning without reducing environmental review or other technical requirements;
- for districts which fall short of fair share targets by a wide margin and fail to create their own comprehensive plans to increase housing and affordable housing production, having the city create a comprehensive plan for those districts which would go through the normal ULURP process.
- for districts which exceed their fair share targets by a wide margin, they should be able to request a moratorium on development until sufficient infrastructure is provided; and Whereas, Community Board 9 has observed a persistent pattern of city planning commission and council member deference to developer and mayoral priorities while community board and community views are ignored (we voted no on both Franklin Avenue rezonings and the Bedford Union Armory rezoning while the planning commission and council member approved all or almost all the developers requested upzoning and did not win as much affordability as we requested); and Whereas, Community Board 9 has observed a consistent trend of mayoral attempts to avoid charter mandated ULURP proceedings in rezonings of public housing developments and siting of homeless shelters (for example 205 Parkside Avenue) through “emergency” procedures. Therefore, Community Board 9 resolves that we OPPOSE any charter reform proposals that further increase the influence of the Mayor and developers at the expense of other players in the ULURP process, including but not limited to eliminating City Council review, and that we support increasing the power of the community in ULURP proceedings by:
- Adding 5 volunteer voting representatives to the city planning commission who are chosen from among community board land use members representing each borough, on a rotating basis and including one person from the community board land use committee where the application is being reviewed.
- Reducing the number of members of the planning commission appointed by the Mayor
- Allowing the relevant community board and  $\frac{2}{3}$  of the relevant borough board to override a city planning commission veto, mirroring the Mayor’s override power, the application then moves to the city council where a  $\frac{2}{3}$  vote is required for action.

ADOPTED: June 30, 2025 The resolution was sent to the following on 7/10: Mayor’s Office

(CAU) CM's Hudson, Joseph, and Mealy BP Reynoso Senator Myrie Assemblymember Cunningham
DCP

-----

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3418959 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 18:59:30 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 02:59:15 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR6fmOu0YWGIk4NUk9I6ffueJDFKPheEZiuy-txPgwe2OI-AketxwEDixUpkgQ_aem_KSlwQVvmi5k_ atROdbaRzw

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Linda Drennan

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Done!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b434:bd9d:b51e:743a:8c20:1f3c, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/520[.]0[.]0[.]38.101;FBBV/756351453;FBDV/iPhone12,8;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iO
S;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/2;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/760587333;IABMV/1]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] I Do Not Support Jungle Primaries

From: Ricky Silver <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 15:47:42 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

I believe strongly that the push for jungle primaries is a recurring priority for the wealthy elite masked as a voter expansion effort. The ultra rich know that a strong, unified labor movement is a significant threat to their power and their agenda of deregulation and privatization. They will stop at nothing to weaken it.

There is also overwhelming evidence that shows a move to open primaries DOES NOT expand voter engagement in a meaningful way. The city should focus on expanding civic engagement and education around ranked choice voting, a system we just implemented and are seeing great signs of success with. Jungle primaries are not the answer.

Thank you,
Ricky Silver

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Fridays For Future NYC Testimony on Jungle Primaries
Proposal: This Is A Disaster For Youth.

From: Keanu Arpels-Josiah <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 15:54:43 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission
Re: Opposition to the Consideration of a "Jungle Primary" System
Delivered by Keanu Arpels-Josiah, Fridays For Future NYC.
June 07, 2025

Good evening, Commissioners,

Thank you. My name is Keanu Arpels-Josiah and I represent today Fridays For Future NYC, a grassroots organization of high school students and young people across dozens of schools dedicated to fighting for action on the climate crisis, and I am here to express our strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. You heard earlier from one of our passionate middle school organizers speaking in her personal capacity, Catherine Du.

Let's be clear this top two or top four proposal is distinct from true open political primaries. That isn't the debate here. This is disastrous for our generation.

Last cycle our members knocked on thousands of doors, held forums, and we've done the work to build political power from the ground up. Members like ours are the lifeblood of our city's civic fabric, and how many young people, including those who may not be of age yet to vote, engage in our electoral process—and a jungle primary system would severely undermine grassroots voters' ability to engage in elections.

First, in an RCV top-two or top-four system, there is no party primary—ultimately, it undermines the logic for primaries at all. Every candidate, regardless of party or values, appears on one crowded ballot. That forces grassroots candidates to compete in massive, often expensive fields—splitting the vote and making it far harder for community-backed candidates to break through.

Second, jungle primaries amplify the power of money over organizing. In a high-candidate, low-information race without party cues, the winners are usually those with the biggest war chests, the most name recognition, or the backing of wealthy interests. Our generation can't compete with that kind of money. Our strength is people-powered campaigns that build trust over time—not six-figure media buys and insider endorsements. Jungle primaries put movement candidates at a severe disadvantage and tilt the playing field back toward the very institutions grassroots organizing seeks to challenge.

Third, this comes after historic youth turnout in the most recent primary specifically among those aged 18-29. Where 25% of voters were zero-prime voters. And on the hottest day in 15 years. This system changes a system to favor billionaires not youth. One of the most powerful aspects of our current system is that it gives our generation clear political targets: party primaries where our votes and community organizing can make a real difference. That's how coalitions of youth have shifted city policy. Jungle primaries scramble those lines, make electoral pathways murky, and take power away from a generation that has only recently begun to claim it.

Let's be clear: this proposal is not about empowering young voters. It's about disempowering the people who have learned how to organize—it's about disempowering young voters who just showed up in historic numbers in the most recent primary.

For these reasons, I urge you to join with our generation, with labor and grassroots groups, from the Carpenters to DSA, and reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power, for our generation—and for democracy.

Thank you.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No to Open Primaries

From: Bright D Limm <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 16:00:00 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners:

I write to express my opposition to the proposal for "open primaries" (also known as "jungle primaries").

(1) First, open primaries would contradict the State of New York's main purpose for recognizing political parties: namely, to enable only party-affiliated voters to determine a party's nominees for a general election. To make primaries "open" would functionally amount to nullifying the very purpose of legally recognized political parties.

(2) Second, open primaries do not necessarily increase voter turnout. To the extent that such evidence exists, they functionally reduce candidate choice, by disproportionately rewarding candidates of similar (and usually status-quo, centrist) politics to win primary nominations - thereby reducing the political diversity of the candidates who go on to compete in the general election.

(3) Third, open primaries tend to augment the already disproportionate power of independent expenditures funded by billionaires and big corporations, thereby further discounting the influence of small-dollar donations and the grassroots efforts of members of the electorate.

All of the considerations above combine to strengthen the power of concentrated wealth and weaken the power of the actual voters of NYC to elect candidates aligned with their respective views. For these reasons, the proposal to open NYC's primaries is a terrible one that should be removed from the commission's final set of ballot proposals.

Sincerely,

Bright Limm

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No Turnout Gains from Open Primaries in NYC

From: Jaslin Kaur <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 16:07:39 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

I'm here today to make it clear that jungle primaries are not the answer to low voter turnout. The data from states that have implemented them consistently shows they do not increase participation. If our true objective is to enhance democratic engagement, then we must look beyond these types of reforms, as they have proven to be ineffective in this specific regard. Consider Alaska, which adopted open primaries in 2022. The 2024 primary election saw alarmingly low turnout, ranking among the lowest in half a century. This directly contradicts the idea that jungle primaries inherently lead to higher engagement. The data out of Alaska strongly points to the conclusion that these elections have had little impact on turnout, reinforcing that they are a "solution in search of a problem" when it comes to boosting participation.

Best,

Jaslin Kaur

Jaslin Kaur

pronunciation: jus-LEAN KARR

[REDACTED]

(she/her)

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Action Alert: Save Our Unions

From: Magdalena Moranda <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 16:09:00 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

The implementation of jungle primaries would represent a significant step backward for democratic representation. It is a system that intrinsically favors candidates with pre-existing wealth or access to extensive financial networks, enabling them to bypass the traditional party vetting processes. This directly impacts labor unions and community organizations that champion public services and resist privatization. The striking absence of labor representation on the deliberating commission is highly indicative of whose interests are truly being prioritized. The assertion that "public sector unions" exert "outsized influence" is a narrative designed to weaken their legitimate role. In a political landscape already dominated by the affluent, the Democratic primary serves as a crucial space for collective action and for working people to assert their voice. This proposal is designed to undermine that vital mechanism.

Thanks,

Magdalena Moranda

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Data-Driven Perspective on Primary Reform

From: Mark McDougale <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 16:08:43 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

It is imperative that we base our decisions on empirical evidence, not on wishful thinking. The idea that jungle primaries are a solution for low voter turnout falls into the latter category. The data from states that have implemented these systems is a testament to their ineffectiveness in this regard. We cannot afford to waste time and resources on policies that do not work. Instead, we should be channeling our efforts into proven strategies like voter registration drives, educational campaigns, and direct outreach that have a demonstrated impact on participation rates.

It is not surprising that the current mayor is interested in this since he is so badly considered and didn't even enter the Democratic Primary. This issue, this discussion, deserves a lot more consideration and research before there is a decision

Thank you,
Mark McDougale

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] City Charter Commission's 2025 proposals for November ballot questions

From: Richmondtown & Clarke Ave. Civic Assoc <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 16:40:25 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Richmondtown and Clarke Avenue
Civic Association, Inc.

Re: Ballot Questions 1-3

BALLOT QUESTION #1: Fast Tracking Affordable Housing

BALLOT QUESTION #2: Simplify Review of Modest Housing and Infrastructure Projects

BALLOT QUESTION #3: Establish a Land Use Appeals Board with Council, Borough, and Citywide Voices

The Charter Commission's proposals for the November, 2025 ballot questions 1 through 3, raise concerns for NYC citizens and our City Council representatives. Ballot questions 1 and 2 call for "fast-tracking" housing projects, which could be disastrous for a community. There must be sufficient time allowed for the public to be notified of proposed projects or developments, and then allowed time to analyze the impact of proposed projects. There must also be consideration for the fact that needed infrastructure, essential services, schools, etc., must be in place before additional housing would be added to a community. New Yorkers already feel a serious strain from the inadequacy of current services and infrastructure.

Ballot question 3 would cause our City Council representatives to lose their ability to make decisions relating to land use and housing. Appointees to a special review board do not have the insight and first-hand knowledge of a community, which our City Council representatives hold.

Sincerely,

Carol Donovan
President

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Testimony of Win - Charter Revision Commission

From: Christopher Mann <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:45:51 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Good Afternoon,

Please see Win's testimony for the Charter Revision Commission attached.

Best,

Chris Mann | he/him/his
AVP of Policy and Advocacy
Win (Women in Need)

[REDACTED]

Cell: [REDACTED]

New York City Charter Revision Commission 2025

July 7, 2025

Testimony by Win (Women in Need)

My name is Chris Mann and I am the AVP of Policy and Advocacy at Win. I would like to thank the members of the Commission for the opportunity to submit testimony. Win is the largest provider of shelter and supportive housing to families with children in New York City and the nation. We operate 16 shelters and nearly 500 supportive housing units across the five boroughs. Each night, nearly 7,000 people call Win “home,” including 3,800 children. Today we are writing to submit testimony on three issues top of mind for our organization’s work: (1) addressing late payments to nonprofit providers; (2) funding the human service sector; and (3) addressing the affordable housing shortage.

Addressing Chronic and Pervasive Late Payment Issues Troubling Nonprofits

As both a shelter and supportive housing provider, Win sees firsthand the extreme challenges that late payments create for non-profits serving New Yorkers in need. Despite the City’s effort to clear the $4 billion backlog of unpaid contracts, late payments remain a persistent and harmful problem.

Chronic payment delays disrupt our ability to maintain our buildings, pay landlords, and fund the case management and clinical services that create long term stability for our clients. Like many shelter and supportive housing providers, we are often required to open programs and move clients into unit’s months before contracts are registered or payments are released. In our experience, it takes at least 6 months for the city to register contracts. This delays crucial rent and service reimbursements and forces providers like us to front the full cost of housing New Yorkers.

Finally, the funding policies of the new federal administration have created much uncertainty for non-profit providers here in NYC. Between proposed federal funding freezes and federal staff firings, many providers are concerned over the reliability of funds from the federal government. Most recently, the administration has proposed cutting the staff at Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) by 50%. We know that reducing staff and administrative resources at HUD will have dire results, including the closure of programs that serve people experiencing homelessness, and the potential reduction of permanent affordable and supportive housing. In particular, we are concerned about critical CoC funding.

New York City’s procurement options are defined in the first instance by state law. Within the state framework, the Charter establishes the basic structure of the City’s procurement process, including the methods that agencies can use to make procurements. We believe that the Charter Revision Process is a crucial opportunity to tackle these pervasive late payment issues threatening the solvency of nonprofit homeless shelters and homeless service providers.

Recommendations 1–3: Contract Registration

Recommendation 1: Limiting work without a registered contract.

The Charter should mandate a PPB rulemaking prohibiting contracting agencies from asking any vendor to perform any services without a registered contract. Late contracts and late payments increase costs for nonprofits because they must spend time and money chasing the dollars they are owed and shifting resources to fill temporary gaps. A registered contract is a necessary assurance that they will be compensated as agreed upon.

Recommendation 2: Automatic contract registration for existing vendors.

The Charter should mandate the PPB to make a rule that would automatically require agencies to process extension contracts for their existing vendors. This rule could be triggered whenever agencies are unable to begin processing new RFP awards at least six months prior to the end of the existing contract.

Recommendation 3: Establishing time limits for emergency contracts.

The Charter should limit the extended use of emergency contracting, which is often expensive, by requiring the mayor and the comptroller to renew their joint determination that emergency procurement remains appropriate, after such a contract has been in place for two years.

Recommendations 4–6: Timely Payments

Recommendation 4: Interest on Late Payments.

As mentioned above, many of providers take out lines of credit to alleviate cash flow issues. However, the interest payments on loans are not reimbursable, except in rare cases, so nonprofits must make these payments from reserves already stretched to the breaking point. This also assumes that an organization can find a willing lender or has not already maxed out their borrowing options.

We recommend amending the Charter so that nonprofits can collect interest when the City pays late. Ideally, no contracts should ever start before payments are made, but nonprofits should not bear the cost of any late payments. Current policies around interest payments do not work — providers are almost never granted interest for late payments. As a result, the City is starting to lose the network of providers it is relying on because of its inability to get payments out on time. Therefore, we recommend that Section 332 include a requirement that the City is responsible for interest on late payments, including late payments due to late contract registration. This could be implemented by requiring appropriations for interest on late payments to be included in agency contract budgeting. If the agencies do not spend the allocated reserves, the money could be spent to support other agency initiatives such as PEGs, which would incentivize agencies to pay invoices on time.

Recommendation 5: Addressing the timeliness of invoice payments.

Mandate the Procurement Policy Board (PPB) to establish rules that require City agencies to pay (very soon after receipt) a minimum percentage for each invoice from a human services contractor in good standing (which should be clearly defined in the rules by the PPB). Agencies could then resolve the disputed portions of invoices within a longer mandated timeframe without putting the fiscal stability of their nonprofit partners at risk.

Recommendation 6: Mandating prompt procurement timeframes.

The City Charter creates a timeframe for the comptroller to register a contract within 30 days and we believe that Chapter 13, Section 311 should be amended to require the Procurement Policy Board (PPB) to set contracting timelines for each step of the procurement process and regularly report on the compliance of the contracting agencies. There are many steps from the announcement of the award to registration, and with the data acquired through PASSPort, there must be mandated timeframes to hold the contracting agencies accountable for the delayed procurement processes resulting in human services providers waiting months and sometimes years to be paid for the services provided.

Recommendations 7–9: Other Changes

Recommendation 7: Elevating the oversight and accountability role of MOCS.

The Charter should establish a mandate describing the specific responsibilities of the Mayor’s Office of Contract Services (MOCS), similar to those already in place for other critical Mayoral functions, such as the Office of Management and Budget and the Office of Operations. It is crucial for MOCS to have charter authority to ensure city agencies meet contracting deadlines and be able to improve procurement processes across programmatic agencies. Many of the payment issues our providers face, are a result of inconsistent payment policies across agencies. MOCS should have charter authority not just over procurement, but invoicing and payment, to ensure consistent policies. This could be accomplished by establishing an office in the Executive Office of the Mayor that has the authority to take actions needed to ensure that agencies comply with contract laws and regulations, invoicing, and payment. The Office should also have the power to survey each agency, furnish data and information, and answer inquiries pertinent to the exercise of any of the director’s duties regarding procurement related matters

Recommendation 8: Standardizing the contracting, invoicing, and auditing process.

MOCS should be mandated to ensure consistent policies across agencies to make the contracting, invoicing, and auditing process is standardized, with reasonable deviations, across each agency. Agencies should have some discretion in the documentation needs but a uniform process that only slightly deviates from agency to agency would allow nonprofits to better navigate the system.

Recommendation 9: Data transparency on contract registration and payment processing.

Performance data on contract registration and payment processing should be collected and reviewed by the Mayor’s Office of Contracts. This data should be made publicly available via the Mayor’s Management Report. In addition, the Charter should provide for the PPB and City Council to review this information and seek remedies.

Funding the Human Services Sector

The nonprofit sector has struggled for decades with how competitive procurements impact the systemic underfunding of programs to the detriment of the financial health of nonprofits. While the Charter is not a document structured to set rates, there are ways that the Charter could manage procurements to better ensure equitable rates. Nonprofits provide a myriad of services on behalf of the government – many of them mandated – and the sector leverages private and philanthropic dollars and funding from the City, State, and federal government to create dynamic programs at a discount to the City.

Additionally, we must pay special attention to the workforce who makes this all possible. We must ensure that nonprofit service providers are funded at levels that support fair and equitable wages for the dedicated human service workers who carry out this vital work. The well-trained, talented, and committed nonprofit workforce should not be forced into poverty due to chronic underfunding of City contracts.

Recommendation 10: Amending the PPB principles.

The underfunding of human services contracts is the most pressing issue impacting the sector. The PPB should be the body to address this issue. Charter section 311, sets out principles for the PPB and should be amended to include language requiring that procurements reimburse providers for reasonable costs by adding language to Section 311.d “(iv) rules requiring all agencies to reimburse nonprofit client services providers for at least the reasonable cost of providing the contracted services.”

Recommendation 11: Addressing underfunded contracts with sample budgets.

Human services providers compete for contracts that contain scopes of work proposed by government that are typically developed without a market survey of costs or input from providers. This results in contracts that do not cover the actual cost of services and provide inadequate compensation for a highly educated workforce essential to implementing a high-quality program. Chapter 13 of the Charter instructs the City on the procurement process, the City should include a rationalization, through a sample budget, for the rates set forth in the RFP. Chapter 13 of the Charter should include language that “Prior to issuing an invitation for bids, requests for proposals, or other solicitations that set forth proposed rates, the agency shall undertake an analysis of the costs associated with performing the service, including employee costs, and include the analysis as a sample budget in the bid or request for proposal documents.”

Recommendation 12: Surveying contract vendors to develop RFPs.

New York City outsources the bulk of human services programs to nonprofit vendors, and many of these providers compete for contracts for programs in which they have previously held contracts at the City level, as well as from other levels of government and private funders. When the City develops a request for proposal for a set of contracts that are expiring or developing a new RFP that is substantially similar to existing contracts, the City should survey current vendors to receive information on rates, deliverables, and outcome measurements. Current contractors hold vital information on the real costs of running programs, what works and what does not in the current program design, and what deliverables are being met and move towards the outcomes the City seeks when designing a program. Providers can also make recommendations on updated program models that better reflect current needs of client population. The City charter should include in Section 312 language requiring City agencies to survey current vendors, or vendors who hold substantially similar contracts, when creating a bid or request for proposal.

In the event the RFP does not reflect market research, the agency should have to defend why crucial services and equitable wages were not fully funded. The rate setting methodology should be transparent to the public especially for per-client or per-service rates and should document the components and calculation of the rate.

Recommendation 13: Require Human Service contracts to be funded at the True Cost of Living

In Section 16 of the Charter, the mayor must report on social indicators and equity including “budgetary resources allocated to reduce poverty.” The city’s current under-resourcing of human services contracts is poverty-inducing; not poverty reducing. We respectfully submit that the Charter should require human services contracts to be funded at a true cost of living, and such funding be reported annually. To further this goal, we suggest amending Charter Section 2-04 to require multi-term client services contracts include annual wage escalators that maintain contract wages at a true cost of living.

Addressing New York City’s Housing Crisis

Our shortage of affordable housing has reached a breaking point. With record low vacancies, rising rents and rising costs, plus stagnant wages – we are in a dire moment that needs action to prevent additional New Yorkers from entering homelessness. In April, New York City’s shelter system already housed (on average) nearly 85,000 individuals a night. New York already State saw a 53.1% increase in homelessness between January 2023 and January 2024 — more than four times the national average; New York City accounted for 93% of this increase. With pending federal funding cuts and under investment in the sector, people will be forced to enter a system that is not resourced for this volume.

Increasing the housing stock is not enough – we must prioritize deeply affordable housing that reduce the number of rent burdened tenants and make it easier for clients who transition of shelter to find housing.

Recommendations 14–19: ULURP Related Proposals

Recommendation 14: Disposition of City-owned land for affordable housing that conforms to underlying zoning should not have to go through ULURP.

We suggest the creation of a simplified public process be established in place of ULURP to ensure government transfers are appropriate but are quick.

Recommendation 15: Consider truncating ULURP as a consequence for districts that are not meeting their production targets in the framework.

In these instances, ULURP would end at City Planning Commission, preventing the local councilmember from blocking affordable housing after failing to meet district targets.

We also recommend that Fair Housing Framework production targets prioritize affordable housing. This could be done by giving a greater weight to affordable housing in housing production targets.

Recommendation 16: Limiting the application and review of the ULURP Process.

The ULURP process requires 60-day review by the Community Board and 30-day review by the Borough Board. We support merging the two reviews into one review overseen by the Borough President. This would shorten the ULURP timeline. It would allow for local input but give more of a borough-wide focus. And it could allow the Borough Presidents to create a process that includes more voices the community.

Additionally, we recommend requiring only agency approval for certain actions, including special permits, revocable consents, concessions, franchises, housing and urban renewal plans instead of going to ULURP.

Breaking the Cycle of Homelessness
for Women and their Children

Recommendation 17: Streamline Advisory Reviews in ULURP.

Local input into the City's land use review process prioritizes those with the most time, money, and connections. Many places around the country have adopted better community engagement practices that are more representative and less reactionary. We should combine the separate Community Board and Borough President advisory reviews in ULURP, bringing them together with additional BP oversight, improved engagement techniques, and a borough-wide lens.

Recommendation 18: Delegating review of small or minor projects with strictly local significance to borough presidents as the final step.

The current process is so long and expensive that small projects cannot afford to go through it. Few, if any, small rezoning projects go through ULURP. Smaller projects are important ways to add housing in lower-density neighborhoods. A shorter review process for these projects would make it affordable for them to go through the process and where appropriate get approved.

Recommendation 19: Make the Fair Housing Plan more enforceable by amending the charter to:

- Encourage and advantage certain ULURP proposals found to be in compliance with reaching Fair Housing Plan targets, by moving them through an expedited process
  - This would be done in a tiered fashion where:
    - 100% affordable developments with deeply affordable units could be expedited in all geographies
    - Mixed-income affordable developments could be expedited only in those geographies deemed both "low-affordability" and not a "high displacement risk area" by the Fair Housing Plan and that did not reach their housing production targets in the most recently completed five year time period
  - Such projects would not receive an automatic Council hearing and vote unless a majority of the Council voted to do so
- Require that the capital budget details how it is advancing and addressing the goals, targets, and obstacles established and identified by the Fair Housing Plan

Recommendations 20–24: Other Recommendations

Recommendation 20: Fast track the approval process for HPD-sponsored affordable housing seeking a limited rezoning through the Board of Standards and Appeals (BSA).

Doing so would facilitate the building of more affordable housing throughout the city. Additionally, the BSA fast-track would reduce steps and shorten the process of developing affordable housing, treating it like the urgent public policy priority that it is. Finally, this fast track could be temporary and apply while New York City meets the standard of "housing emergency" with a vacancy rate below 5% or be implemented under New York City's Fair Housing Framework to help achieve affordable housing growth targets.

Recommendation 21: Amend the charter to mandate that New York City create a comprehensive plan on a recurring timeline, with the following essential components:

- Establishment of equity goals, including

Breaking the Cycle of Homelessness
for Women and their Children

- Ensuring an equitable distribution of development and investment
  - Increasing access to affordable housing
  - Promoting social, economic & racial integration
  - Advancing environmental justice, open and green space
  - Through the coordination of existing plans' goals and mandates (such as the Fair Housing Plan, Long-term sustainability plan)
- Establishment of citywide and Community District level targets across a host of issues, including for
  - Housing
  - School seats & community facilities
  - Open space
  - Infrastructure & Resiliency
  - Through the coordination of existing plans' quantifiable targets (such as the Fair Housing Plan)
- Committing all 59 Community Districts to create Community District level plans to achieve these targets, with the necessary resources to conduct this process with robust, deliberative and inclusive community engagement, including budgetary and technical assistance needs to achieve this
- Requiring land use, annual expense budget, capital budget and policy decisions to detail how they are in accordance with the comprehensive plan so as to achieve its goals and targets

Recommendation 22: Create a Fast-Track for Fair Housing.

We need a new approval process for proposals that would advance fair housing in our most transit-rich, climate-resilient, and low-growth neighborhoods, in line with the implementation of Speaker Adams' Fair Housing Framework. In these well-resourced neighborhoods, we must fast-track approvals and remove the ability for the local Council Member to block new homes. Such reforms are common in other states, often known as "builder's remedies," but New York is behind.

Recommendation 23: Make Public Land Work for Affordable Housing.

The City is the largest landowner in the five boroughs, but turning underutilized, city-owned land into affordable housing is bureaucratic and slow. We should establish an expedited process to build HPD-financed affordable housing on city-owned land.

Recommendation 24: Factor Housing Needs into Landmarks Decisions.

The Landmarks Preservation Commission is limited by the Charter in what factors it can consider in making critical decisions. The impact is especially severe in the City's most well-resourced, low-growth neighborhoods. We must make sure that housing affordability and availability are part of the discussion when LPC creates new historic districts and allows building consolidations in existing districts.

TESTIMONY TO CHARTER REVISION COMMISSION

MANHATTAN PUBLIC HEARING, JULY 7, 2025

HOWARD SLATKIN, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Good afternoon, Chair Buery and Commissioners. My name is Howard Slatkin, and I am Executive Director of Citizens Housing and Planning Council, an 87-year-old policy research organization. I am pleased to submit testimony for CHPC in strong support of the proposed Charter revisions on land use and housing.

In February, at the start of this Charter revision process, I testified about the skewed political incentives embedded in the structure of ULURP, how today's environment differs from what the City faced in 1989, and what we have learned since then. We articulated a set of principles to guide reforms:

- Return to the original ULURP concept of “local voice, citywide responsibility.”
- Build into the process a check against member deference.
- Promote cooperation rather than stoking conflict or rivalry.
- Make minor actions faster and less resource-intensive.
- Accelerate urgent affordable housing investments with procedural relief.

CHPC is heartened that the Commission's recommendations significantly address all of these principles. The proposed Charter revisions reflect a deliberative consideration of the proposals offered by CHPC and numerous other stakeholders, and chart a practical way forward. Together, the creation of a “fast track” for

Chairman
Richard Roberts
President
Mark Ginsberg
Vice President
Samantha Magistro
Treasurer
Matthew Petrucci
Secretary
Joseph Lynch
Executive Director
Howard Slatkin
Executive Committee
Hercules Argyriou
Robert Ezrapour
Paul Freitag
Kirk Goodrich
Aileen Gribbin
Marvin Markus
Amelia Rideau
Matthew Rooney
Jessica Sherman
Richard C. Singer
William Stein
Board Members
Sandra Acosta
Richard Barth
Simon Bacchus
Stuart Beckerman
Patrick Blanchfield
Anthony Borelli
Alex Brito
Thomas Brown
Thomas Campbell
Louise Carroll
Rafael Cestero
Emily Chen
Andrew Cohen
James Colgate
Bret Collazzi
Jill Crawford
James S. Davidson
Monica Dean
Beatriz De la Torre
Douglas D. Durst
Neil Falcone
Deborah Gans
Richard Gerwitz
James Gillespie
Sally Gilliland
Elliott M. Glass
Alexander Gorlin
Rick Gropper
Amie Gross
David E. Gross
Baaba Halm
Timothy Henkel
Larry Hirschfield
William N. Hubbard
Marcie Kesner
Aaron Koffman
Emily Kurtz
Deborah Clark Lamm
Phil Lavoie
Robert O. Lehrman
Nicholas Lettice
Jeremy Levkoff
Richard Lobel
Michael Lohr
Brian Loughlin
Kenneth Lowenstein
Philippe Martelly
Moshe McKie-Krisberg
Ron Moelis
Niall Murray
Perry Notias
Michael Nyamekye
Anthony Richardson
James Riso
Joseph B. Rose
Carol Rosenthal
David Rowe
Matthew Schatz
David Schwartz
Avery Seavey
Paul Selver
Nadir Settles
Wendi Shafraan
Ethel Sheffer
Jane Silverman
Brian Smalley
Meenakshi Srinivasan
Mark E. Strauss
David Walsh
Adam Weinstein
Alan H. Wiener
Mark A. Willis
Emily Youssouf
Emeritus
Peter Salins

affordable housing approvals, an expedited review process for actions of lesser scope, and an appeals process for ULURP decisions will better align our land use processes with the critical priorities of building sufficient housing and promoting equitable housing creation among neighborhoods.

The proposed changes will leave us far better prepared to achieve these goals, yet it will still require commitment and effort from our democratically elected officials. For instance, in the rulemaking for and administration of these reforms, it will be important to ensure that these revised processes remain straightforward and navigable without undue delay or cost.

We are continuing to review the details of the proposed Charter language to ensure that it will accomplish the purposes the Commission has described. We will share specific comments on this language in the near future.

Thank you.

CHPC additional comments on proposed Charter language

July 10, 2025

Fast Track eligibility

- Need for CPC determination of eligibility for 197-e, to prevent misuse or unintended consequences. Eligibility is supposed to be for local land use actions to produce housing and are subject to MIH. The language here is potentially overinclusive (it is not specific to housing-oriented applications, and could encompass downzonings) and underinclusive (a zoning map change to facilitate housing may affect properties that are not subject to MIH or intended to be developed). At certification, in determining that a proposal is eligible for 197-e, the CPC should be required to find that the action meets the specified criteria and that its primary purpose is to facilitate additional housing.
  - To illustrate the problem of overinclusiveness in the proposed criteria:
    - Under established policy, MIH is applied to rezonings that would permit substantially more residential development even if the intended purpose is not residential. This could encompass projects (e.g., Memorial Sloan-Kettering, NY Blood Center, Lenox Hill Hospital) that do not have a housing component and should not be fast-tracked on the basis of insufficient affordable housing production.
    - The downzoning of an existing MIH area would be eligible for 197-e under the criteria specified in the proposed Charter language. In addition, while established policy and legal guidance has been to add MIH only when rezoning promotes new housing development, the proposal leaves the door open to future misuse. The application of MIH to an area without significant upzoning – for example, rezoning an existing R10 district to R10A and extending the district boundary by 10 feet – would effectively reduce, rather than increase housing capacity, but would also be eligible for 197-e as currently drafted.
  - The problem of underinclusiveness:
    - For example, take a portion of a block where the side street is zoned R4 and the avenue is zoned R6/C2. As was typical under 1961 zoning, the district boundary extends 150 feet from the avenue, the last 50 feet of which encompasses R4-style small homes fronting the side street. The proposed map change might map R7A within 100 feet of the avenue, but bring the remaining 50 feet of the current R6 district into the R4. That should be fine – it's good planning! – and not preclude eligibility for 197-e. The Charter should avoid procedural incentives for inferior planning results wherever possible.

- Note also that the eligibility criteria for low-density zoning map changes already require reasonable interpretation at the time of CPC certification – they must determine that the change would “increase the residential capacity.” This is the correct concept, but in implementing it the CPC must consider not just FAR but also use (single-family, two-family, multifamily), minimum lot size, and other factors. For instance, a rezoning from R4 to R5A entails an increase in FAR and decreases the minimum lot size for detached homes, but limits buildings to single- or two-family detached homes. Guidance for how to make these determinations should be provided in the CPC's rulemaking.
- Need for an appeal for certification under 197-e. Paragraph (b)(4) requires as a condition of eligibility for 197-e that “The department of city planning certifies as complete such application no later than two years after such application is filed.” But this leaves open the possibility for administratively slowing applications by refusing to certify them. This problem led to the 1989 Charter revision introducing an appeal mechanism by which BPs or applicants could help get a delayed application certified. There is no specifically identified avenue for appeal to certify under 197-f/197-e the way there is under 197-c. A similar appeal process needs to be built into 197-e.
  - The timing requirements for certification of an application (197-f(b)(4)) are also potentially problematic. Applications are commonly refiled and should be allowed to be, within reason. If a new list of 12 CDs comes out on Jan 1 (or near this time) that does not include the CD an application is in, a grace period should be available during which a previously filed project may be refiled without losing eligibility for the 197-e process.
- Special permits. The proposed language makes zoning map amendments that increase permitted residential FAR by 30 percent or less eligible for the expedited 197-e process, but does not allow special permits the same expedited process, even though many special permits provide much lesser relief (e.g., floor area bonuses or transfer not exceeding 20 percent). This disparity could create perverse incentives not to utilize special permits, many of which are intended as ways to optimize development. While the Commission may find there to be no categorical way to expedite the full variety of special permits available, it should not abandon the goal of expediting special permits. The Charter proposal should require DCP to conduct a full review of discretionary actions available under the Zoning

Resolution, and no later than January 1, 2027, to propose actions (whether zoning text amendments or additions to the 197-e eligibility list) to bring these actions into consistency with the review procedures for comparable actions under these changes.

- Designation of areas of lowest affordable housing production. The calculation of affordable units specifies for the numerator the “total number of affordable dwelling units for which the department of buildings has issued a permit for construction work in the prior five years.” This is ambiguous as to whether it refers to new affordable units only or existing affordable units on which construction work has been permitted. Presumably it is intended to refer to the former. This should be clarified (e.g., “new affordable units”; language that can be further elucidated in the CPC’s rules).
  - Edits to this language: “The director, in consultation with the commissioner of housing preservation and development, shall determine such twelve community districts by ~~measuring~~ dividing the total number of new affordable dwelling units for which the department of buildings has issued a permit for construction work in the prior five years ~~as a percentage of~~ by the total number of housing units located in such community district at the start of each five-year cycle.”
- Actions consisting of multiple applications. The proposed language appears to force eligible applications to go through 197-e. This creates a problem when an action includes multiple actions, only some of which are eligible for 197-e. For instance, a zoning map change and special permit would not be able to proceed through review in tandem. For obvious reasons, this would compromise decision making. The proposed language should be clear (or allow CPC rulemaking to clarify) which actions would proceed under 197-e and which under 197-c/200.

ELURP

- It is not clear from the language proposed for 197-e(e)(b)(2) whether rezoning from an M (or C8) district to a low-density R district is permitted, though it appears to be. Not clear that this is intended; it is not allowed for rezonings to medium- or high-density districts.

Appeals Board

- Timing and mechanics of appeals process.

- The Appeals Board may “resolve by affirmative majority vote” to initiate review of a Council ULURP vote. This must happen within five days of the Council’s vote. Presumably the Appeals Board needs to meet to take this vote. If so, there does not appear to be sufficient time for them to provide notice for doing so. (If not, what is the mechanism by which they would vote?) Need more clarity to understand how this would function within the limited time frame available.
  - Based on the number of meetings required in a short span, it would be preferable to allow this process to be initiated by individual actions of at least two of the three members of the Board (e.g., a statement of intent to appeal), rather than requiring a vote, which requires a public meeting. It shouldn’t be harder for the Board to initiate an appeal than for an applicant to do so.
- In addition, the board must file proposed modifications with the CPC for its 15-day review (during which the Board’s 15-day review is tolled), and only after this may the Board vote on the final changes.
  - Presumably the Board would need to vote to file modifications, which requires a public meeting. This makes as many as three meetings of the Board (see bullet above).
- Typo in the numbering of 197-g, paragraph (d), which is labeled paragraph (c).

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Avoiding Disengagement in Elections

From: Josh Daniel <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 16:49:30 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

I write to you today in strong opposition to the proposed changes to Open Primaries here in NYC.

Consider the very real risk of voter disenfranchisement when political parties are weakened or their role is diluted. A system where voters cannot easily identify a candidate representing their party's values leads directly to disengagement. Studies have shown that almost half of all voters whose Party doesn't have a candidate in an election choose to sit out. This isn't a sign of voter apathy; it's a sign that the system isn't providing meaningful choices. A jungle primary, for instance, can inadvertently eliminate choice for voters by forcing them to choose between candidates who may not align with their core party values. A robust party system, where members select their candidates, is vital for ensuring voters feel represented and motivated to participate.

Sincerely,
Josh Daniel

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Re: City Charter Commission's 2025 proposals for November ballot questions

From: Paul Graziano <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "Richmondtown & Clarke Ave. Civic Assoc"

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 16:50:41 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Carol - here's another round-up of all of the ballot questions and references to the pages in the Charter Revision Commission's report:

Thanks,

Paul

Question #1: "Fast Tracking Affordable Housing" - Pages 47-62

This would force the 12 Community Board Districts with the lowest number of affordable housing units to be targeted for it and would take away the Councilmember's ability to amend or stop *any* proposal that includes affordable housing (some of which may be very bad and inappropriate).

Question #2: "Simplify Review of Modest Housing and Infrastructure Projects" Pages 63-75

This would allow apartment buildings to be built up to 4 stories tall and at a 2.0 FAR (at an R5/.R6 density) in all R1 through R5 lower density districts everywhere; and give a 30% increase in FAR and density for all development in R6 and above everywhere. They are calling this ELURP: Expedited Land Use Review Procedure which, again, would take away the City Council's role in land use and zoning decisions. It would also basically remove the City Council from other land use decisions including disposition of small and irregular sites, resiliency projects, city map changes, etc.

Question #3: "Establish a Land Use Appeals Board with Council, Borough and Citywide Voices"
Pages 76-83

This would - very directly - take away Council "Member Deference" for local projects and zoning changes. It would actually recreate (in essence) the Board of Estimate, which was dissolved in 1989 as considered unconstitutional under Federal law and the subsequent changes to the City Charter that brought us to our current government set up. It would remove the City Council as the final vote with a Mayoral veto and replace it with an "Appeals Board" that is made up of the Mayor, one Borough President and the Speaker of the City Council.

Question #4: "Modernize the City Map" Pages 84-87

This would centralize the official City Map, which remains divided among each borough or county. This is meant to expedite development by having centralized control over the mapping of the city instead of each Borough President controlling that process.

Question #5: "Even Year Local Elections" Pages 92-99

This is about changing the voting year from an odd year to a Presidential year for Mayor, Citywide and Borough-wide races as a way to encourage more turnout. This allows the local race - Mayor, Comptroller, Public Advocate, Borough President and Council Members - to get "lost" in an election with the President, House of Representatives, State Senate and State Assembly.

Possible Question #6: "Open Primaries" Pages 100-109

This is about creating a non-Party "Jungle Primary" system, where all candidates regardless of party would compete in a single open primary, This would be ON TOP OF the current ranked choice system and would have the top two vote getters go on to the General Election. However, this runs afoul of the State Constitution, which guarantees "Fusion" politics, allowing small parties (WFP, Conservative, independent ballot lines, etc.) to get on the ballot for the General Election.

Richmondtown and Clarke Avenue
Civic Association, Inc.

Re: Ballot Questions 1-3

BALLOT QUESTION #1: Fast Tracking Affordable Housing

BALLOT QUESTION #2: Simplify Review of Modest Housing and Infrastructure Projects

BALLOT QUESTION #3: Establish a Land Use Appeals Board with Council, Borough, and Citywide Voices

The Charter Commission's proposals for the November, 2025 ballot questions 1 through 3, raise concerns for NYC citizens and our City Council representatives. Ballot questions 1 and 2 call for "fast-tracking" housing projects, which could be disastrous for a community. There must be sufficient time allowed for the public to be notified of proposed projects or developments, and then allowed time to analyze the impact of proposed projects. There must also be consideration for the fact that needed infrastructure, essential services, schools, etc., must be in place before additional housing would be added to a community. New Yorkers already feel a serious strain from the inadequacy of current services and infrastructure.

Ballot question 3 would cause our City Council representatives to lose their ability to make decisions relating to land use and housing. Appointees to a special review board do not have the insight and first-hand knowledge of a community, which our City Council representatives hold.

Sincerely,

Carol Donovan
President

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5215180 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:53:34 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 04:53:18 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=4&can_id=f87f91965 dda217de4f4d83dead50c35&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email_ 2807601&email_subject=_-housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Shaeril McBrown

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I could help people with affordable housing and lower costs

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5785:8a00:f0dc:48d0:7e4b:6b13, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
SamsungBrowser/28.0 Chrome/130[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5785:8a00:f0dc:48d0:7e4b:6b13

July 7th, 2025 Testimony to 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission

Commissioners:

Thank you for the opportunity to testify again as you conclude the 2025 Charter revision process. In my previous testimony I stated how essential it is our city's main governing document be updated from time-to-time to ensure our government is as responsive to – and representative of – the people of New York City as possible. I am testifying again in support of open primaries to ensure this potential modification is given the attention and public consideration at the ballot box I believe it deserves.

In my previous testimony I mentioned my concern about the Black voting portion of the electorate shrinking relative to the larger electorate (32% to 27% between 2013 and 2021). While that concern hasn't diminished, I'd like to address my concerns about the portions of the electorate who are Black or in communities of color who are unable to participate.

I'm sure you're aware by now over 1,000,000 New Yorkers are unable to vote in primary elections. This is disappointing for many reasons. As testified to previously, because we have closed primaries in New York City, this means closed primaries are continuing to disenfranchise unaffiliated Black voters year over year. On the heels of a significant primary election this past June, I am reminded of this constituency who did not get a chance to support the elected democratic nominee or potentially participate in their local city council election. Of the registered, but unaffiliated voters, approximately 500,00 are people of color. Additionally, 500,000 voters who are unaffiliated are under 50 years old. This is fundamentally unfair and counter to the spirit of the democratic process we hold in high esteem.

As I reflect on the recent mayoral primary, I am impressed with the wave of young voters who turned out across the city to express their desire for a particular type of change. This vote clearly speaks to the desire of communities of color, Black voters, and young people advocating for a different all type of governance and political leadership. It is a travesty many of their friends, neighbors, and families are unable to join them in voting as they don't officially belong to a political party.

I've heard murmurs of open primaries being born of a business community effort to dilute progressive votes. I am not of the business community and I count myself as a progressive, forward-thinking member of the City. Last week, former US Attorney Loretta Lynch released a report which determined open primaries, as in many cities and states across the country, would not have a disenfranchising effect on the Black community or communities of color if it were to be successfully passed via public ballot.

I continue to believe the most effective path towards greater inclusivity and addressing the growing disenfranchisement is to establish non-partisan primaries. America's largest cities - Houston, Chicago, Los Angeles and Washington, D.C. all hold some version of open primaries. These cities continue to successfully conduct elections where public servants of color and from progressive communities are selected by the public.

As shared before, the Bi-Partisan Policy Center published a study whereby voter participation increased 5% when cities switched to open primaries and Black and Latino turnout increased 3%, shrinking the equity gap with white voters. An increase of these percentages means tens of thousands more Black and brown voters participating in NYC primaries.

Permitting all registered New Yorkers the chance to vote just makes sense. For decades the advocacy and civil rights community worked hard to register our friends and neighbors to give full voice to our needs politically. History continues to prove, when we let more people vote, our elections become more equitable, and our government becomes more representative of its people.

I want to thank the commissioners for what I know is hard, sometimes thankless work. I also want to encourage you to give the public a chance to vote, on their ability to vote, in the future.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Frederick A. Davie
Executive Vice-President
Union Theological Seminary in the City of New York

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9270329 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:01:04 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 05:00:48 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=4&can_id=fe69ec21
1493ecf8cdb5bc7e19f1d38c&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email_
2807601&email_subject=_-housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Tyrone L Jackson

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I approve of the proposed changes because rent is too expensive here in NYC compared to the rest of the country. I'm born and raised here. This is my home. An affordable rent here would make the cost of living much more easier. In addition, native New Yorker wouldn't move so offen from this expensive city.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 148[.]75[.]79[.]142, 23[.]50[.]129[.]166, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 13; QWbwuqwdBt; U; en) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/135.0.7049.111 Mobile Safari/537.36

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5288166 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:09:43 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 05:08:56 PM

-----

This form resides at hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=4&can_id=1e77d255e3cc6911de366ea0e517240a&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email_2807601&email_subject=_housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Irina Babushkina

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I fully support making city primaries open to all voters, not just registered democrats. Whether jungle primaries or allowing independents to vote in democratic primaries, both would be a huge improvement in a city where primary largely decided general election outcome.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:387:15:621a::3, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 2600:387:15:621a::3

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2757180 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:27:25 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 05:27:12 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=4&can_id=fde672fe0 5f7da77aa3d7a73908f287d&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email_
2807601&email_subject=_housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Rachel Varga

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Will failing and abandoned infrastructures throughout the city, especially in low income neighborhoods, be addressed along side the proposed the "Fast track new affordable housing" ? These structures are a health issues.They feed infestation, structural hazards, and unsanitary conditions. It does no good to continue to build shinny new buildings around the problem.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5241:a400:7068:d618:43d9:9a26, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No to open primaries; instead, propose RCV in general elections.

From: Bright D Limm <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 17:27:01 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners:

I write to oppose the proposal for "open primaries," for many reasons but with particular attention to three:

(1) First, Making primaries "open" would amount to nullifying the purpose of legally recognized political parties, which are structures essential to the ability of working people to organize masses of fellow working people at a scale that can compete with the power of concentrated capital in the hands of the wealthy few.

(2) Second, open primaries have not been shown overall to reliably increase voter turnout. Moreover, even in those jurisdictions in which such evidence exists, the increased turnout tends to come at the cost of also reducing the political diversity of the candidates who appear on the general-election ballot.

(3) Third, open primaries tend to augment the already disproportionate power of independent expenditures funded by billionaires and big corporations, thereby further discounting the influence of the actual electorate.

All of these considerations combine to strengthen the power of concentrated wealth and to weaken the power of the actual voters to elect candidates aligned with their respective views. For these reasons, the proposal to open NYC's primaries should be removed from the commission's final set of ballot proposals.

Instead of opening primaries, the Commission should propose instituting ranked-choice voting in general elections; this change would substantially address most of the Commission's concerns as stated in its July 01 report.

Sincerely,

Bright Limm
Jamaica, Queens

Subject:

FW: BK CB1_ Testimony to Charter Review Commission

From: Charter Info <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:43:01 +0000

---

From: BK01 (CB) <bk01@cb.nyc.gov>

Sent: Thursday, July 10, 2025 4:51 PM

To: Charter Info <CharterInfo@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Subject: BK CB1_ Testimony to Charter Review Commission

Dear Charter Revision Commission,

Please find attached BK CB1 Testimony to Charter Review Commission, delivered by District Manager Ms. Johana Pulgarin at the Charter Review Commission Meeting held on July 7, 2025.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Dealice Fuller

Chairperson

COMMUNITY BOARD No. 1

435 GRAHAM AVENUE - BROOKLYN, NY 11211- 8813

PHONE: (718) 389-0009

FAX: (718) 389-0098

Email: bk01@cb.nyc.gov

Website: www.nyc.gov/brooklyn1

ANTONIO REYNOSO
BROOKLYN BOROUGH PRESIDENT

SIMON WEISER
FIRST VICE-CHAIRMAN

DEL TEAGUE
SECOND VICE-CHAIRPERSON

GINNA BARROS
THIRD VICE-CHAIRMAN

DAVID HEIMLICH
FINANCIAL SECRETARY

SONIA IGLESIAS
RECORDING SECRETARY

PHILIP A. CAPONEGRO
MEMBER-AT-LARGE

DEALICE FULLER
CHAIRPERSON

JOHANA PULGARIN
DISTRICT MANAGER

HON. LINCOLN RESTLER
COUNCILMEMBER, 33rd CD

HON. JENNIFER GUTIERREZ
COUNCILMEMBER, 34th CD

July 10, 2025

Hon. Richard R. Buery Jr., Chair
Hon. Shaon Greenberg, Vice Chair
Hon. Alec Schierenbeck, Executive Director

Members of The 2025 New York City
Charter Revision Commission
City Hall
New York, NY 10007

Hon. Henry Garrido, Co-Chair
Hon. Arva Rice, Co-Chair
Hon. Danielle Castaldi-Micca, Executive Director

Members of the NYC Commission to Strengthen Local Democracy
250 Broadway
New York, NY 10007

Honorable members of the 2025 New York City Charter Revision Commission and the NYC Commission to Strengthen Local Democracy:

Please find below testimony given by the District Manager, Ms. Johana Pulgarin, on behalf of Brooklyn Community Board 1.

Good evening, Charter Revision Commission, my name is Johana Pulgarin, Brooklyn Community Board 1's District Manager, thank you for having me and allowing me to give the following testimony on behalf of Brooklyn Community Board 1.

Of all of the voting bodies involved in land use matters, Community Boards are in the unique position to have intimate, hands-on involvement and relationships with the land, neighborhood, residents, and landowners actually involved in the various applications. Although their recommendations are only advisory, those recommendations are vital to an objective and meaningful evaluation regarding the effects each application will have on the community and what concerns or conditions, if any, should be considered by the city in its ultimate decision on land use items. Although other voting bodies have hearings at which interested parties are permitted to give testimony, none afford the all-encompassing hands-on, objective, and democratic exchanges among all residents, elected officials, city agencies, and land use applicants that Community Board committee meetings and public hearings provide. To diminish in any way the role or time allotted to Community Boards for meeting with those involved in land use applications would be a terrible disservice to our communities and to well informed urban planning.

In sum, Community Boards play a vital role in informing local land use plans, providing a democratic and direct voice for local communities to provide input in planning their neighborhoods. Eliminating or reducing this role could result in the consolidation of planning power with a handful of people, making the land use process less democratic, less informed and poorly planned, and more susceptible to corruption. This is why the Board of Estimate was eliminated in the first. Shutting out local voices this way would be a huge step backward.

I would also suggest that an area for exploration to help reduce the time and cost for land use applicants would be to leverage AI technology to perform Environmental Reviews and draft Impact Assessments and Statements. This technology is helping with so many areas. Land Use seems like would be an excellent fit for this advancement.

Working for a Better Williamsburg-Greenpoint.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Dealice Fuller". The signature is written in dark ink and is positioned above the printed name and title.

Dealice Fuller
Chairperson

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2202238 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:43:55 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 05:43:44 PM

-----

This form resides at hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=3&can_id=99b20fd8584754a5127a7362425111fe&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email_2807601&email_subject=_-housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: REYDAVID HERALDO GENOVES

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: i have being traying to bring my situation to the HONORABLE SENATOR PERSUAD OFFICE FOR THE PAST YEAR AND IM STILL WAITING TO HAVE MY SITUATION BROUGHT UP TO THE PROPER GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS IT IS ABOUT THE ABUSE OF POWER IN LEGAL FIRMS (JOHNSON & JOHNSON) FUNDS AWARDED BY THE SUPREME COURT IN WASHINGTON FOR PEOPLE (my family) affected by a PESTICIDE ROUND UP MONSANTO by Bayer CHEMICALS. I WOULD LIKE TO BRING MY ISSUE TO YOUR HONOR they even send me a termination of contract for my insistence to have my case handle properly it is an corrupted way to treat powerless citizens like me my wife passed for cancer my son was born with birth defects and i was diagnosed with non hodgkin lymphoma side effect of this malignant product my phone number 917-582-2921 my email is :reyy davidgenoves@gmail.com your office has documents of my claims and you are my only way to get this abuse to proper attention as you can see there is corruption all over in the country thank you for your service your honorable LADY

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Integrity of the Party Label

From: Lori Sandler <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 17:49:05 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

To truly boost voter turnout, political parties must be more than just fundraising committees; they must be vibrant, member-driven organizations. The key is activating the base, and that activation is never more potent than when members feel they have personally selected their candidate. This democratic process creates a powerful sense of investment and responsibility that translates directly into higher participation on election day. Weakening the role of members in favor of consultants or party elites is a sure path to a demoralized base and a less representative democracy.

- Lori Sandler

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Charter Testimony

From: [REDACTED] <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:48:19 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

Thank you for allowing me to submit a written testimony after not being allowed to testify virtually due to the in-person testimonies going overtime. Attached is my testimony.

In Community,
Pharein Griffith

[cid:storage_emulated_0_Android_data_com_samsung_android_email_provider_files__EmailTempl mage_1_TempSignature_signature_20220420_100659_jpg_1680626842475]

"A Community Informed Is A Community Prepared "-PG

Good evening, Commissioners,

I'm grateful for the opportunity to speak with you this evening. My name is Pharein Griffith, and I'm a Harlem resident for 30 years and civic leader.

I flatly oppose your consideration of top-two primary elections and moving elections to even years for our local elections in New York City.

Let's be real about what's happening here. You want to put something on the ballot without meaningful community engagement, particularly in the Black community, a community that will be most affected if this passes. You'll say that you've done an impact study, who did you talk to?

We know how this goes: if you put it on the ballot in November, with confusing language and no education, it will pass, not because people support it, but because they won't know what it is.

We've seen this before.

In 2019, Ranked Choice Voting was put on the ballot and passed overwhelmingly. Yet in 2021, many of our people were confused by ranked choice voting, not because we opposed the idea of choice, but because there was no real investment in outreach or civic education ahead of placing it on the ballot and ahead of implementation. We held forums, we scrambled to explain the system ourselves, because the city didn't do the work. And now, here we are again, with a major electoral change being proposed. Once again, the Black community is being left out of the conversation. Having a meeting in Harlem is not the same as engaging Harlem.

Top-two is not for us. It's a system that benefits wealthy candidates, dilutes community power, and pushes grassroots candidates off the ballot before we even get to vote in the general election.

Look at California:

- Turnout dropped to historic lows under the top-two system and remains at just barely 33%. What improved turnout are you talking about?
- Despite California's diverse electorate, the number of Black legislators in the state Senate and Assembly remained flat, and no new major gains were made in statewide executive positions outside of the high-profile win by Karen Bass. Mayor Bass won with significant resources, national endorsements, and deep name recognition, which is not the norm for most Black candidates under the top-two system.
- In California, candidates of color and working-class challengers lost ground, and the system did not produce more moderation or engagement, despite the promises.

Compared to California, New York City has, for the first time in history, a majority-women, majority-minority city council.

And now, you're pushing this proposal using research funded by Unite America, a group backed by billionaires like Kent Thiry and Michael Bloomberg, the same people who tried to bring nonpartisan elections to NYC in 2003, and who were rejected by the voters.

You'll argue that the proposal here is an improvement over California, that you've had two different racial impact reports that suggest there will be no adverse impact. What if you're wrong? We don't want to be your lab rats.

If you want to reform the system, start with real engagement. Start by talking to people. Go to churches, housing associations, block clubs, and community boards. Ask us what kind of democracy we want.

Top-two is not it.

We didn't ask for this, and we won't be fooled by it.

I urge you to do what's right: take this off the table and focus on reforms that include—not exclude—Black voters, poor voters, and everyday New Yorkers.

Thank you.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8816539 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 22:27:52 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 06:27:39 PM

-----

This form resides at hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=3&can_id=9a9882d299b2de3e7f6e1e653ecfe2ee&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email_2807601&email_subject=_-housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Shawn Christopher Rutkowski

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: In short for your proposed charter change of digitizing maps of the city I would contact Googles Headquarters on 8th about integrating all your maps between hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/nyc-resources/nyc-maps[.]page and deeds tax etc from hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/finance/property/acris[.]page into Google Earth Pro. It could all be overlayed over all existing and past data Google already has. The interactive experience could be made embedded on your website. This would have to be a custom job though. hxxxs://mapsplatform[.]google[.]com/maps-products/ I think its wonderful you are updating and consolidating your maps. It will be more efficient and save money in the long run. I do warn you that that Google is not going to take kindly to your RAISE ACT ie Assembly Bill A6453A. This kind of blatant overreach will push Big tech out of NYC and NYC cant really afford that loss right now. Furthermore if passed it will be shot down in higher court for its vagueness as most importantly its restriction on interstate trade. Aptly known via the constitution as Dormant Commerce Clause.

Dormant Commerce Clause: Interstate Commerce: The bill's scope section states that it applies to frontier models "developed, deployed, or operating in whole or in part in New York state." This could be problematic under the Dormant Commerce Clause, which limits states' ability to pass laws that unduly burden or discriminate against interstate commerce. Since the development and deployment of frontier models are inherently interstate and often global activities, a New York law requiring specific safety protocols and disclosures could impose a significant and potentially conflicting burden on companies operating nationwide. This could be challenged as an attempt to regulate conduct that occurs primarily outside of New York's borders. Thank you for your time. Excelsior!

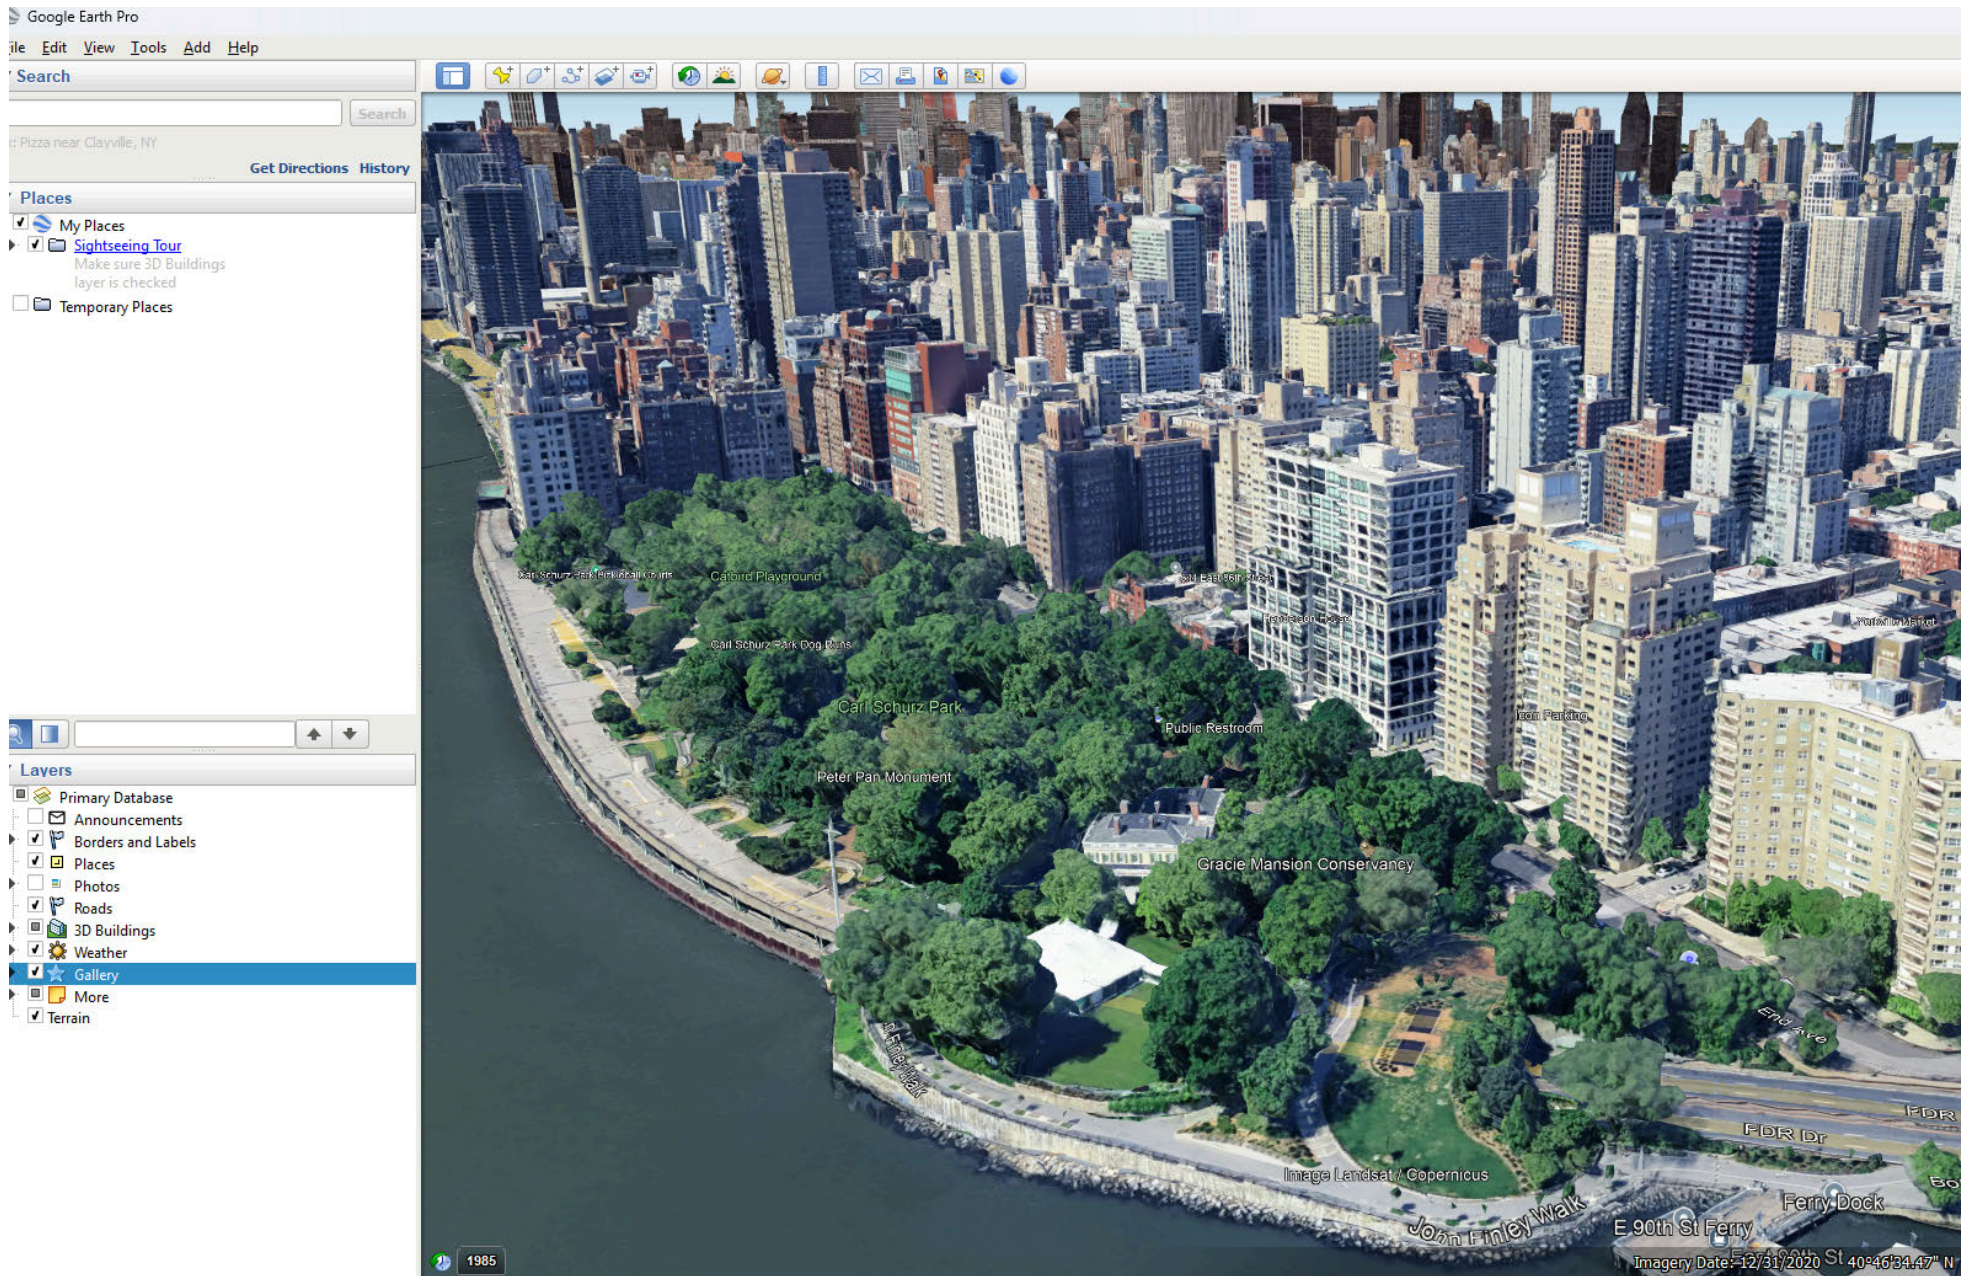

---

HTTP_ADDR: 45[.]144[.]113[.]171, 23[.]40[.]16[.]30, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 45[.]144[.]113[.]171

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Prioritize Proven Methods, Not Jungle Primaries

From: Jonah Redel-Traub <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 18:33:21 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

Don't waste our time or money on jungle primaries. Voters have rejected them repeatedly. These reforms are not just ineffective, they're unwanted. Mayor Bloomberg's attempt in New York in 2003 was overwhelmingly dismissed by voters, 70-30%. Last year, it failed in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. This shows a widespread understanding among voters of the value of political parties. This commission needs to listen. If you want increased voter turnout, stick with proven methods like even-year elections.

- Jonah Redel-traub

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Jungle Primaries: Undermining Our Values

From: Michael Kranz <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 18:47:01 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The introduction of jungle primaries would tilt the political playing field decisively and permanently in favor of the super-rich. It is a system specifically designed to undermine the collective bargaining power of unions and their ability to advocate for policies that benefit all working people, not just the wealthy. By making elections a contest of financial resources, it ensures that pro-labor candidates face an almost insurmountable barrier. This is not a reform to be considered; it is a threat to be neutralized before it can do irreparable harm to our city.

Best,

Michael Kranz

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] An Attack on Every Working Family

From: Jamilah Elder <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 22:47:57 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern, The arguments in favor of jungle primaries conveniently ignore who truly benefits: the wealthy elite. This system weakens political parties, creating a vacuum that is eagerly filled by dark money and corporate special interests. It is a direct threat to the unions that represent municipal workers and fight to keep public services in public hands. When parties can't nominate candidates, money becomes the sole nominator.

We must reject this cynical attempt to further rig the system in favor of the rich and powerful, who already have more than enough influence. Thanks, Jamilah Elder

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-612196 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 22:50:15 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 06:50:02 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Erica Baum

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Community Boards and Council Members know their neighbors best. It would be a terrible mistake to limit or eliminate their vital role in the ULURP process. Therefore I urge you not to proceed with this Charter Revision. Thank you.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 67[.]245[.]157[.]190, 23[.]200[.]89[.]192, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10.15; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 67[.]245[.]157[.]190

---

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] When Parties Lack Candidates Voter Behavior

From: Roni Zahavi-Brunner <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 18:56:00 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

When voters step into the booth, they rely heavily on party labels to make informed decisions. The presence of a (D), (R), (C), or (WFP) next to a candidate's name allows them to make strong assumptions about where that candidate stands on vital issues like women's healthcare or immigrant rights. This shorthand is incredibly valuable for navigating complex ballots. However, this system only functions effectively when the party's members themselves get to select the candidates who bear that label. If the candidates are chosen through backroom deals or processes that disenfranchise the members, the party label loses its integrity, misleading voters and undermining the very purpose of party identification.

Thanks,

Roni Zahavi-brunner

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Political Parties and Functioning Democracy

From: Lauren Clavin <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 19:00:53 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

The capacity of political parties to increase turnout is intrinsically linked to the democratic health of their internal operations. When party members are actively engaged and empowered to select their candidates, a powerful ripple effect occurs. This grassroots involvement fuels enthusiasm, creates dedicated volunteers, and generates a genuine desire to see their chosen candidate succeed. This kind of organic activation is what truly drives voters to the polls. Conversely, if primary systems marginalize the role of party members in candidate selection, it saps the energy from the base, leading to apathy and ultimately, lower participation rates. Member-driven candidate selection is a non-negotiable component for robust voter turnout.

Thanks,

Lauren Clavin

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Voter Confusion: A Real Risk

From: [REDACTED EMAIL]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 18:56:39 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

We must give RCV a fair chance. Rushing to replace it with "Jungle Primaries" before it's even had a few cycles to take hold is a recipe for voter cynicism and follows too closely after 2019. Reforms need time to demonstrate their value and for the electorate to become accustomed to them. Patience is key for meaningful change.

Sincerely,

Giavana Margo

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Critical Pillar of Our Democracy

From: Kirby Shultz <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 19:10:36 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

Consider the immense value a party label provides to the average voter. In a world of complex policy debates, seeing a (D), (R), or other party affiliation next to a candidate's name is an indispensable shortcut. It offers a reliable snapshot of that candidate's likely stance on everything from tax policy to social issues. To do away with this system would be to place an unreasonable burden on citizens, forcing them to research every individual from scratch. This would inevitably favor candidates with high name recognition or massive campaign funds, undermining the principle of a level playing field.

Thanks,

Kirby Shultz

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Ineffectiveness of Jungle Primaries

From: Barat Ellman <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 19:16:23 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

I am opposed the charter revision allowing for “jungle primaries.” The idea of jungle primaries is fundamentally flawed because they fail to meet stated goals and are consistently rejected by the electorate. Last year, the proposal was on the ballot in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota, and it was defeated in all six states. This demonstrates a clear consensus among voters, across all political persuasions, that political parties are vital for candidate selection. This commission should listen to the voters and avoid pursuing a proposition that has already been so clearly dismissed. If the aim is to increase voter turnout, the focus should be on proven methods like even-year elections.

Sincerely,

Barat Ellman

Rabbi Barat Ellman, PhD

Adjunct Professor of Theology, Fordham University

Formerly Faculty, Bard Prison Initiative

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Jungle Primaries: A System Rigged for the Rich

From: Janie Blackstein <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 19:17:23 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

The proposal to institute jungle primaries is a direct threat to a fair and balanced democracy. It is a mechanism that allows financial might to triumph over the collective will of the people, effectively creating an aristocracy of wealth. This is particularly dangerous for municipal unions, which serve as the frontline defense against the erosion of public services that benefit all citizens, not just the rich. We must reject this thinly veiled attempt to silence the voices of working people and hand our city's future over to the highest bidder.

Sincerely,

Jane E Blackstein

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Moving Beyond Ineffective Structural Reforms

From: Danyell Thillet <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 19:18:06 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

I want to challenge my colleagues to produce any credible evidence that shows that jungle primaries increase voter turnout. I have looked for such evidence, and I have not been able to find it. All of the available data points in the opposite direction. If we are going to have a serious debate about this issue, it needs to be based on facts, not on unsubstantiated claims. Let's stick to the evidence and have an honest conversation about what works.

Sincerely,

Danielle Thillet

She/They

Illustrator, Writer & Social Media Manager

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Workers' Rights at Stake: Demand Fair Elections

From: Linda Bermas <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 19:54:43 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

The arguments for jungle primaries are deceptive. They are a tool for the wealthy to control elections, allowing money to outweigh public opinion. When political parties cannot nominate, it enables rich donors to handpick candidates, eroding accountability to constituents. This directly undermines the power of municipal unions, which are vital in safeguarding public services from privatization. The commission's lack of labor representation indicates a clear bias. The idea that workers have "outsized influence" in the current economic climate is a fiction. Wealth already dominates every sphere. The Democratic primary is a critical space for working people to organize and elect representatives who genuinely champion their interests. This proposal is a direct threat to that democratic space.

Thanks,

Linda Bermas

Subject:

FW: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1170004 CRC Contact
Form - General Inquiries

From: Charter Info <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 00:00:23 +0000

---

From: agencyemail <agencyemail@customercare.nyc.gov>

Sent: Thursday, July 10, 2025 6:40 PM

To: Charter Info <CharterInfo@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Subject: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1170004 CRC Contact Form - General Inquiries

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 06:39:55 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=3&can_id=01c13742
27e695cb292fd81734f11a5b&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email
_2807601&email_subject=_-housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----
Topic: General Inquiries

Name: Surujdai Shanta Gopaul

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: What the City of New York should address is the depressing time HRA/DHS handles CityFheps, Section 8 , etc. tenant's packages (2 months plus) before a tenant is approved for move-in assistance. Also, the lackadaisical approach theses agencies conduct their work load and inspections of rental units.

-----

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Myth of Jungle Primary Success

From: Arman Chowdhury, CPA <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:04:44 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners: The public has spoken on jungle primaries, and it's a resounding 'no.' These reforms are not effective and are actively rejected. We saw it last year in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota – it failed in all six states. This shows that voters, regardless of their political alignment, understand the importance of political parties in our democracy. This commission should not waste valuable time and money on an unpopular proposition. If the objective is to increase voter turnout, focus on proven strategies like even-year elections. Best, Arman Chowdhury

Thank You,
Arman Chowdhury

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Link Between Organization and Turnout

From: Isaiah Gutman <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:20:16 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

Let's have an honest conversation about the real drivers of voter participation. Reforms like jungle primaries have not lived up to their promise. A much more effective strategy is the implementation of even-year primaries. Even more crucial is the role played by organized groups. Community, labor, and political organizations are the backbone of voter mobilization efforts, using proven techniques like personal canvassing. Any attempt to hobble these groups will harm turnout. Our focus should be on creating an environment where these vital organizations can thrive.

Best,

Isaiah Gutman

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No jungle primaries!

From: Devin McManus <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:23:22 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

Jungle primaries do not increase voter participation, we should instead hold city primaries in even years to align with state elections.

Thank you,

Devin McManus

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Proven Failure: Jungle Primaries & Voter Turnout

From: Emma Saltzberg <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:24:26 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

I want to let this commission know that jungle primaries are unpopular with voters, and they've rejected them consistently. These reforms don't achieve their stated goals. Last year, the shift to jungle primaries was on the ballot in six states – Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota – and it failed in every single one. This is a clear signal that voters, across the political spectrum, understand the value of political parties. Don't waste New Yorkers' time and money on a proposition that's already been rejected in so many other places. If you want to increase voter turnout, stick with what's proven to work: even-year elections. Voting in local elections at the same time we vote in state and federal elections will make it easier for New Yorkers to make their voices heard in our political system.

Sincerely,

Emma Saltzberg
Brooklyn, NY

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3119746 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 00:28:28 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 08:27:23 PM

-----

This form resides at hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=3&can_id=fdf990c3f2346edd98177fb079da7dd8&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email_2807601&email_subject=_housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Thafarie Thomas

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: The City should also consider using these vacant spaces to facilitate more storefront businesses. Like affordable housing, these businesses should be affordable as far as the overhead rent or for purchase.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb91:308b:5192:1c7e:f1ff:fede:356, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/120[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A History of Rejection: Jungle Primaries

From: Jesse Singh <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:31:10 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

The idea of jungle primaries keeps resurfacing, and honestly, it's frustrating. These reforms aren't just ineffective; they've been routinely rejected by voters, time and time again. We've made it abundantly clear: we don't like jungle primaries. Just look at the evidence from last year. This very proposition was put to a vote in six different states – Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. And what happened? It failed in all six. This wasn't a fluke; it was a strong message from voters of all stripes – conservative, liberal, independent. We value our political parties and their ability to vet candidates. This commission needs to listen and avoid bringing forward something voters have already dismissed. Focus on proven methods for turnout, like even-year elections.

Thank you,
Jesse Singh

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Open Primaries Will Hurt, Not Help, Turnout

From: Lisa Watson <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:33:56 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The democratic process is not a laboratory for constant experimentation. Open primaries - nicknamed "Jungle Primaries" - would be a radical change that revokes the recent implementation of Ranked-Choice Voting, a system New Yorkers themselves approved. This move would signal that voter decisions are not respected and that our electoral framework is permanently unstable. Such an environment is detrimental to fostering long-term civic engagement. We need to build confidence in the system, and that starts with giving the reforms we've already enacted a genuine chance to succeed.

Thank you for considering my opinion on this important issue.

Lisa Watson

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] This Reform Lacks Public Support

From: Eva Kolodner <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:34:04 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

The record on jungle primaries is clear: voters don't want them. This commission should not waste another minute on this rejected concept. The failure of this reform in six states last year, from Arizona to South Dakota, speaks volumes. It shows a cross-partisan consensus that political parties are a necessary part of our democratic process. Pursuing this idea further would be a disservice to the public. I urge you to pivot towards solutions that have demonstrated success, such as aligning local elections with the higher-turnout even-year federal calendar.

- Eva Kolodner, Brooklyn, NY

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6844951 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 00:35:51 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (angelatw1951@gmail.com) on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 08:35:37 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Angela Tripi-Weiss

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: It is hard to believe that our present Mayor Adams is attempting to lesson the positive impact City Council has had on our city for so many years in order to grab more control over much needed funding for our schools, the homeless, elderly, important medical options for poor families and much more. City Council has kept funding balanced for all and is truly the voice of ALL NYC people!!! As a born and raised New Yorker I have witnessed the many positive effects City Council has had for ALL the people in my community as well as others, and not just the rich who can curry favor with high level politicians like the mayor by buying his ear. City Council steps in to represent the needs of the many and equalize the playing field for all. I urge you to not break what works for all and leave City Council alone to do the hard work they have done for sooo many years well!!!

-----

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Don't let wealthy New Yorkers mess with our primaries

From: Eliza Byard <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:41:43 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

A lifelong NYC voter, I am writing in opposition to any effort to impose open primaries on the city. This is a transparent ploy to thwart the will of dedicated primary voters regarding the nominees of their party.

In addition, this proposal will do nothing to achieve the ostensible purpose (to increase voter turnout). The most recent data from Alaska confirms what we have already learned from California: jungle primaries do not lead to higher voter turnout. In fact, they may even have the opposite effect. This is a critical piece of information that should inform our decisions moving forward.

We cannot afford to implement policies that are based on flawed assumptions. Let's be guided by the data and pursue strategies that have a real chance of success.

Thank you,
Eliza Byard

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Member-Driven Candidate Selection Explained

From: Janos Marton <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 15:27:40 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

The timing and origins of support for this proposal is enough to cause concern. Anyone can register rather easily as a Democrat or Republican, these parties are hardly exclusionary. Rather, this seems like an effort by special interest groups to increase their influence.

Finally, we just moved to RCV. It would confuse voters and likely hurt participation to make such a large change so soon. I oppose.

Thank you,

Janos Marton

Staten Island

Janos Marton

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Say not to Non-Partisan Elections

From: Meghan Wasserman <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:43:11 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

Let's consider the practical reality for voters. Seeing a party affiliation on a ballot—(D), (R), (C), etc.—is an invaluable aid to decision-making. It provides an immediate frame of reference for a candidate's likely positions on dozens of issues. This is not intellectual laziness; it is an efficient coping mechanism in an information-rich world. For this system to work, however, the label must be meaningful. That meaning is forged when party members themselves vet and select their candidates, ensuring the person carrying the banner is a true representative of the party's core values.

Voters deserve to have their voice heard, and changing elections in this manner is not the answer.

Sincerely,

Meghan Wasserman

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] We Will Not Be Silenced

From: Darren Kwong <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 00:56:11 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

I do not support the jungle primaries. Our current system gives candidates who support popular ideas that support working class families. Jungle primaries will crowd those ideas out in favor of candidates who only support the wealthy. This electoral change is a backdoor strategy to achieve a political goal: the dismantling of the public good for private profit. We must defend our services by defending our primary system.

Thank you,
Darren Kwong

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Say NO to Billionaire-Controlled Elections

From: Rachel Sherman <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:03:19 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

The fight against jungle primaries is a fight for the very principle of collective action. It is a defense of the idea that working people, when they stand together, can be a powerful force for progress and a vital check on corporate greed. This proposal seeks to atomize working people, leaving us isolated and powerless against the overwhelming influence of concentrated wealth. It is designed to break our solidarity. We must unite to protect our ability to act collectively and defend our democracy from this plutocratic assault.

Thank you,
Rachel Sherman

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Primaries should be democratic and allow for parties to exist

From: Jenna Tipaldo <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:08:28 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom This May Concern,

The proposed jungle primaries could be a fundamental threat to the democratic process. Proposing yet another change for voters while many are still adjusting to ranked choice voting should be considered carefully. Making primaries "open" would functionally nullify the State of New York's purpose of recognizing political parties. Furthermore, open primaries tend to augment the already disproportionate political influence of concentrated wealth – which, in elections for NYC officers, usually takes the form of large independent expenditures funded by billionaires and big corporations.

Thank you for your time and consideration of this matter.

Best,

Jenna Tipaldo

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Real Target: Your Union

From: elspeth carroll <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:17:43 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

We must question the motives of those championing jungle primaries. Consistently, they are billionaires who view strong public-sector unions as a direct obstacle to their financial interests and privatization goals. This is not about increasing voter choice; it's about cementing elite control over our political system. Their advocacy for this system is a clear signal that it would serve their interests, not the interests of the general public. We should be deeply suspicious of any "reform" pushed so aggressively by those who already have too much power and want more.

Best,

Elsbeth Carroll

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Prioritizing Effective Mobilization

From: Aurora <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:18:53 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

There is a clear path to getting more voters to the polls, and it does not involve speculative reforms. The data definitively shows that jungle primaries are unsuccessful in increasing turnout. The most reliable and proven strategy for boosting participation is to move to even-year primaries. Moreover, the backbone of successful voter mobilization rests squarely with labor, community, and political organizations. These groups are uniquely adept at direct voter engagement, employing methods like canvassing and personal contact that numerous studies have confirmed are highly effective in increasing turnout. Any attempt to dilute the strength or curtail the autonomy of these organized groups, particularly political parties and unions, will inevitably depress turnout. Such moves appear to be designed to weaken organized influence rather than to genuinely expand the electorate. To truly increase turnout, we need these organized forces to be vibrant and actively engaged within the system.

Thank you,

Aurora Nonas-Barnes y Alvarado

--

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Fight for Fair Elections Starts Now

From: Lynn Cartwright-Punnett <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 19:40:25 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The proponents of jungle primaries are not interested in broad-based democracy; they are interested in consolidating power for the wealthy. This system allows billionaires to effectively buy the seats and politicians they prefer, bypassing traditional party structures that provide accountability. This directly harms labor unions, which are often the strongest advocates for public services and against privatization. The claim that American workers have an "outsized influence" is a convenient fiction. This proposal seeks to diminish what little influence workers have left.

Sincerely,

Lynn Cartwright-punnett

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No open primaries in NY!

From: Camilla Wasserman <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:27:58 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

Open primaries would be bad for NYC. To increase voter turnout, we must reject failed reforms and embrace what works. Jungle primaries have repeatedly failed to deliver higher participation. The smarter, data-backed reform is the implementation of even-year primaries. Equally important is the central role of organized labor, political parties, and community groups. These entities are the masters of direct voter contact, a method proven to be highly successful. Any measure that seeks to undermine these groups is an attack on voter turnout itself. A genuine effort to boost participation must start with supporting these vital organizations.

Best,

Camilla Wasserman

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Opposing Jungle Primaries

From: Stephen DiFiore <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 21:45:25 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

It's barely been a few years since the 2019 referendum, and we're already discussing dismantling RCV for "Jungle Primaries." This is a disrespectful approach to voter education and civic engagement. It sends a message that previous democratic decisions are easily overridden, undermining trust in the entire process.

The exhaustion rate of ballots this year was also lower than 4 years ago, demonstrating a better understanding on the RCV system. We should continue using a system that voters support and are comfortable using. Let the current system be.

Thank you,
Stephen DiFiore

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Jungle Primaries: A Bad Idea Resoundingly Rejected

From: [REDACTED EMAIL]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 22:12:32 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

I'm here to strongly advise against implementing jungle primaries. The public has repeatedly shown its disdain for these reforms, rejecting them at every opportunity.

The argument that they achieve desired outcomes simply doesn't hold water. Last year, this very concept was put before voters in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota, and it was voted down in all six.

This proves that voters, irrespective of their political leanings, understand the value of political parties in selecting candidates.

This commission should not squander our time and money pushing something voters clearly don't want. If you aim to increase voter participation, adhere to proven methods such as even-year elections.

Sincerely,
Erica Bersin

Subject:

FW: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2610113 CRC Contact
Form - General Inquiries

From: Charter Info <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 02:31:22 +0000

---

From: agencyemail <agencyemail@customercare.nyc.gov>

Sent: Thursday, July 10, 2025 8:09 PM

To: Charter Info <CharterInfo@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Subject: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2610113 CRC Contact Form - General Inquiries

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 08:08:14
PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/
-----

Topic: General Inquiries

Name: Elias

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please pass all the ballot propositions and let the people of NYC vote in November.
-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5259:fe00:2cbe:f707:cf43:e78d, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Reject Jungle Primaries: Parties as Value Signifiers for Voters

From: Oscar Seneris <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 22:57:55 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

Political parties are not simply relics of the past; they are dynamic entities absolutely vital to a functioning democracy in the 21st century. They provide the necessary structure for collective action and the articulation of diverse political philosophies. The party label is perhaps the most efficient signifier of values and stances a voter possesses, allowing them to quickly grasp a candidate's alignment on issues from economic growth to social justice. To diminish or eliminate this organized system is to invite an era where money, not ideas or collective will, dominates the political landscape, fundamentally altering the nature of our representative government.

Furthermore, the unique political character of New York City and its current electoral system have given politicians and movements of all ideologies and tendencies the chance to earnestly showcase their beliefs to the city in an attempt to win local office. A powerful and beloved insurgent campaign like that of Zohran Mamdani's would be impossible under a jungle primary system because the weight of Republican voters would crush any potential progressive candidate while the weight of Democratic voters would crush any potential conservative candidate. Jungle primaries are anathema to robust political debate because they stifle the spaces - in this case political parties - within which that debate is fostered. To move for open primaries is to move against democracy, against deliberation, and against the will of the people towards a status-quo do-nothing system that disincentivizes the bold policy positions voters want and New York needs. We cannot allow our political system to be bought by billionaires.

Thank you,

- Oscar Seneris

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Stop the Push for Jungle Primaries

From: Syed W Quadri, CPA <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 23:05:42 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

The case for jungle primaries collapses in the face of public opinion. Voters have consistently rejected this idea, most recently and emphatically in six states last year: Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. This widespread failure is a clear signal that the public values the role political parties play in vetting candidates. This commission should not be in the business of promoting unpopular and failed policies. I strongly recommend you redirect your efforts toward proven and popular reforms, such as the implementation of even-year elections.

Sincerely,
Syed Quadri

Best Regards,

Syed W. Quadri, CPA

Email: [REDACTED]

USA, UAE and India

Tax Resolution . Business Intelligence . IT Audit

"WE FIND SOLUTION"

IRS Circular 230 Disclosure:

Any tax advice contained in this e-mail is not intended to be used, and cannot be used by any taxpayer, for the purpose of avoiding Federal tax penalties that may be imposed on the taxpayer. Further, to the extent any tax advice contained in this e-mail may have been written to support the promotion or marketing of the transactions or matters discussed in this e-mail, every taxpayer should seek advice based on such taxpayer's particular circumstances from an independent tax adviser.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Evidence is Clear: Voters Hate Jungle Primaries

From: Samuel Zalutsky <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 23:07:58 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To woman it may concern:

Jungle primary reforms are clearly not working, and voters are rejecting them. Last year, in six different states—Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota—these proposals failed. This isn't a partisan issue; it's a clear message from voters of all ideologies that they understand the importance of political parties in selecting candidates. This commission should take heed and not waste taxpayer money on an unpopular and ineffective proposition. Focus on what has been proven to increase voter turnout: even-year elections.

Sincerely,
Sam Zalutsky

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] RCV: Still Very New

From: Jeremy Demick <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 23:15:38 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

The message we send by considering "Jungle Primaries" right after RCV, implemented in 2019, is that our electoral system is constantly in flux, making it difficult for voters to grasp. This "too much change too soon" approach undermines public confidence and participation. It creates a sense of instability that actively works against increasing voter engagement. We need stability, allowing the current system to be understood.

Best,

Jeremy Demick

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Warning from a Concerned Voter

From: na <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 23:55:37 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

I urge this commission to abandon any and all plans for jungle primaries. This is an unpopular reform that has been consistently defeated at the ballot box. The results from last year, with failures in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota, make it clear that there is no public appetite for this change. Voters understand and value the role of political parties in our electoral system. It is time for this commission to do the same and focus its energies on proven, popular reforms like even-year election cycles.

Sincerely,

Na Thirakomen

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-987335 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 03:55:57 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 11:49:27 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alan Du

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I would like to express my strong support for all proposed charter amendments, and express strong support for a system of open primaries. The sky-high costs of housing, and the subsequently sky-high cost-of-living, are an existential threat to New York's future. I moved to New York 10 years ago for college, and although I am lucky enough to work in the high-paying tech industry, over my time here I have seen the way that rental costs and general cost-of-living have pushed my friends out of the city. Literally all of my friends who do not work in tech or finance have since left the city for greener, more affordable locations. Action to unlock more supply and to help more people move to NYC is desperately needed. I believe that charter amendments 1, 2, and 3 will be crucial for unlocking new housing: * Proposal 1's amendment to fast track affordable housing will ensure unlock development, especially in areas of the city that have stubbornly refused to build any meaningful amount of affordable housing. The housing crises is big enough and urgent enough that all parts of NYC need to chip in, and I think the proposal for streamlined review for the 12 districts with the least affordable housing will help ensure that we spread the load of this effort. * Proposal 2's creation of a streamlined ELURP is a big step forward. NYC cannot be frozen in amber, and small, incremental changes should be embraced and streamlined, not held up in red tape. If anything, I would encourage the commission to include even more categories as part of ELURP (for instance, moving all parking mandate exemptions to the ELURP process regardless of residential zoning size). * Proposal 3 will ensure that we balance district-level and city-wide needs. I believe the combination of the borough president, the mayor, and the city council member strike a good balance between different perspectives I do not have strong opinions about Proposal 4, but it strikes me as a common-sense, straightforward reform. I also am writing in strong support of Proposal 5 to move city-wide elections to even years. This is long past overdue, and having elections in odd years is both anti-democratic (since we know that many voters will not show up) and wasteful. I would strongly encourage the charter to consider two additional electoral reforms: * I am strongly in favor of open primaries, especially of the top-two or top-four variety. Because of political polarization, for many offices the party primaries is the only competitive election, and it is crazily anti-democratic to prevent people from having their voices heard. I know many people who are not registered Democrats, which means they have almost no say in important city-wide offices (e.g. Comptroller, Borough President, etc). Open Primaries will boost turnout *and* make our elected officials more accountable and representative. I would strongly discount statements from existing political parties and candidates, who often benefit from the current system by enhancing their powers and locking others out. * If open primaries are too much, then I would strongly encourage the Charter to propose RCV for the general election. The fact that we have RCV for the primaries but not the general is incredibly confusing for voters and undermines the representativeness of the general election. -- Alan Du, 11238, 10 year NYC resident.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5c16:6e00:e6dd:b0e3:422f:42ee, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (X11; Linux x86_64; rv:142.0) Gecko/20100101 Firefox/142.0
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5c16:6e00:e6dd:b0e3:422f:42ee

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Voter Participation - Open Primaries

From: Ozzie Araujo <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 05:14:56 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners:

I write to express my opposition to the proposal for "open primaries." My opposition is based in many reasons, but for the sake of concision I would like to highlight three in particular:

Making primaries "open" would functionally nullify the State of New York's purpose of recognizing political parties. Legally recognized political parties are not only culturally important constructs; they are legal structures that provide essential mechanisms by which working people without wealth can successfully organize masses of other fellow working people at a scale large enough to compete with the power of concentrated capital that lies in the hands of the wealthy few.

Open primaries have not been shown to reliably increase voter turnout. Moreover, even in those specific jurisdictions for which evidence of higher turnout exists, such increased turnout tends to come at the cost of also reducing the political diversity of the candidates who appear on the general-election ballot.

Open primaries tend to augment the already disproportional political influence of concentrated wealth - which, in elections for NYC officers, usually takes the form of large independent expenditures funded by billionaires and big corporations. In so doing, open primaries further diminish the relative power of the donations made, and the organizing & mobilizing activities conducted, by most voters. In short, open primaries weaken the impact of voters' own efforts to elect candidates aligned with their respective views.

For these reasons alone, the proposal to open NYC's primaries should be removed from the commission's final set of ballot proposals.

Instead of open primaries, the Commission should propose ranked-choice voting in general elections; such a change would substantially address most of the Commission's concerns as stated in its July 01 report.

Sincerely,
Oswald Araujo

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Collective Action Through Political Parties

From: Jim Casale <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 05:28:37 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

For political parties to effectively increase turnout, they must cultivate a deep sense of ownership and investment among their members. This is achieved when Party members are activated because they selected their candidate. The connection between a grassroots-chosen nominee and a motivated electorate is undeniable. When party members feel their voice was instrumental in shaping the ballot, they become enthusiastic advocates, tirelessly working to mobilize voters and secure victory. Conversely, if candidates are imposed or selected without significant member input, the party's ability to energize its base diminishes, leading to lower voter participation.

Regards,

Jim Casale

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7474589 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 09:50:47 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 05:50:34 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=4&can_id=d43ea2ab 4502ffe0b02edb89cc40ce28&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email_
2807601&email_subject=_-housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Reva Feinstein

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I urge the Commission to adopt reforms to achieve a more efficiently run and affordable city. NYC's future depends on it!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 172[.]56[.]35[.]12, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1

True-Client-IP: 172[.]56[.]35[.]12

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] My Comment In Opposition to Open Primaries

From: Nick Gulotta <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 06:46:06 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear NYC Charter Revision Commission,

I write to express my opposition to the proposal for "open primaries."

Political parties are the essential machinery for turning diverse public opinions into a coherent political force. Without them, our political landscape would be a chaotic free-for-all, where only the wealthiest voices could afford to be heard. Parties provide the structure necessary for organized groups to advocate for their shared interests, ensuring that collective will can effectively challenge individual power and influence. This organizational capacity is not just a feature of our democracy; it is the very foundation of a government that is accessible and responsive to its citizens. This is why Democracies across the world have political parties. Open primaries have not been shown to reliably increase voter turnout. Moreover, even in those specific jurisdictions for which evidence of higher turnout exists, such increased turnout frequently comes at the cost of also reducing the political diversity of the candidates who appear on the general-election ballot.

For these reasons alone, the proposal to open NYC's primaries should be removed from the commission's final set of ballot proposals.

Respectfully submitted.

Nick Gulotta

--

Nick Gulotta (he/him)

[REDACTED]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Jungle Primaries: A Step Backwards

From: Jim Talbott <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 10:47:03 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners, The motivations behind the push for jungle primaries are clear: billionaires want to crush labor unions. This was the case with Mike Bloomberg's past efforts, and it is the driving force today. These primaries are a mechanism to attack municipal labor unions and other people's organizations that actively resist the privatization of government functions, such as education, and the weakening of essential government agencies.

The commission considering this proposal conspicuously lacks any representation from labor unions or working people. As Josh Greenman accurately argued in Vital City, the true purpose is not to increase turnout, but to limit labor's influence. The assertion that American workers have an "outsized influence" in politics, considering the past five decades, is baseless. The Democratic Party primary is a crucial space for working people to level the score. This proposal seeks to further tilt the field in favor of the wealthy and well-known. Thank you, Jim Talbott

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7166698 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:00:23 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 07:00:08 AM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Noëlle King

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, I am in favor of Open Primaries and ranked choice voting. I know this will best represent the majority of New Yorkers. Please take this into consideration. Thank you, best wishes, Noëlle King

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:52eb:9000:a98d:bf7f:8ef1:17ed, 184[.]51[.]149[.]37, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:52eb:9000:a98d:bf7f:8ef1:17ed

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1402103 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:11:14 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 07:11:03 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Virginia Brown McCarthy

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please do not destroy this close knit neighborhood that has already gotten too busy with more congestion of traffic and people. To get to another part of Bayside it can take sometimes 15 minutes even though its just a mile and a half. Please do not damage the integrity of our neighborhood causing more health concerns from the increased pollution. Thank you for reading my pleas.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 108[.]46[.]182[.]112, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/17.6 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 108[.]46[.]182[.]112

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4662737 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:21:41 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 07:19:39 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Nick Katsivelos

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: As a 60 year old native new yorker, I have been denied access to the democratic process for 42 years. No where in the constitution does it require a citizen to join a party be it republican, Democrat, communist or nazi. Closed primaries are clearly voter supression. Many of my fellow citizens have registered as Democrat to access the democratic primaries which effectively determine the final election result. The time has come to restore the democratic process in new york. Failure to allow a vote adopt open primaries would be a disgrace. Hiding behind issues like not having enough time to define the new process is cowardly. If that is a true concern write the option to define a commission and a hard deadline of no more than one year to enact the change. Thanks for your consideration Nick Katsivelos Washington Heights where I was born and raised my children born and raised and students at PS/Is 187. Mother was also born and raise in the heights and attended 187 as well. That means that we have been on the same block since 1941.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1021841 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:26:37 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 07:26:23 AM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Dana Friedman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I do not think the ballot measure for open primaries should be considered. There are a lot of factors at play and this feels very rushed. Open primaries are a way for people of a different party affiliation to vote against a candidate, rather than for one that they like. It's a way to game the system. Please keep closed primaries.Thanks

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5672:5c00:cc0f:cc9c:abb3:414c, 184[.]51[.]149[.]31, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5672:5c00:cc0f:cc9c:abb3:414c

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6035130 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:27:36 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 07:27:22 AM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Daniel Uslander

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I'm studying all 5 of the proposed changes but one of the proposals deserves immediate approval and implementation: Open Primaries. This one simple change could have a far reaching, overwhelmingly positive outcome for the city. I think any and every election should be run with an open primary system. Everyone campaigns, everyone votes in the primary, top two vote getters run it off in the General. In very short order it will lead to more moderate candidates, regardless of whether they lean left or right, winning elections. Having candidates that need to moderate their message in order to win benefits us all.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:a410:d10a:48d9:e31a:68:fc18, 23[.]33[.]43[.]217, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9394054 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:27:42 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 07:27:31 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lilly Icikson

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I think it's time for open primaries in NYC. As a poll worker, I had to turn away several voters who were not registered with a party. Each person turned away was eager to vote, and was disappointed to be excluded from the primary. Several were new to our city and came from cities with open primaries. They were surprised and confused by our rules limiting their ability to participate in a primary election in NYC. Because we have closed primaries, we have many voters who switch their party registration just to participate in a primary. This makes party registration somewhat meaningless, no?

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 98[.]7[.]122[.]31, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)

Subject:

FW: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9246927 CRC Contact
Form - General Inquiries

From: Charter Info <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:00:25 +0000

---

From: agencyemail <agencyemail@customercare.nyc.gov>

Sent: Thursday, July 10, 2025 9:54 PM

To: Charter Info <CharterInfo@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Subject: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9246927 CRC Contact Form - General Inquiries

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Thursday, July 10, 2025, at 09:53:19 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=3&can_id=c9095cb2 b2c3c2ceb5d8a08250a2c12a&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email _2807601&email_subject=_-housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----
Topic: General Inquiries

Name: linda nicholas

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: no to casino on 38 th and 1st ave NYC! a big NO!!

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:473d:3fff:b087:5b71:c0bb:b2fa, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205,
10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

Subject:

FW: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7202902 CRC Contact
Form - General Inquiries

From: Charter Info <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:03:00 +0000

---

From: agencyemail <agencyemail@customercare.nyc.gov>

Sent: Friday, July 11, 2025 8:02 AM

To: Charter Info <CharterInfo@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Subject: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7202902 CRC Contact Form - General Inquiries

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 07:54:48
AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: General Inquiries

Name: Joy Campbell Priveterre, Esq.

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Open primaries is one antidote for voter malaise, disengagement and disenfranchisement. Please put the matter before the People. Thank you!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 146[.]75[.]237[.]25, 23[.]200[.]89[.]192, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Keep Money Out of Our Primaries

From: Lindsey Mayer <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 08:20:15 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

The adoption of jungle primaries would represent a significant setback for democratic fairness. These systems disproportionately favor candidates with name recognition and vast financial resources, allowing them to bypass the rigorous vetting process of political parties. This directly harms municipal labor unions, which play a vital role in advocating for public services and resisting privatization. The fact that not a single member of this commission represents labor interests is a serious concern. The claim that public sector unions have "outsized influence" is a narrative designed to justify weakening them. For decades, the balance of power has favored the wealthy. The Democratic primary offers a crucial opportunity for working people to come together and elect representatives who genuinely serve their interests. This opportunity should not be curtailed.

Thank you,

Lindsey Mayer

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-635204 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:37:33 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 08:37:11 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Deidre Hoguet

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Regarding the potential November 2025 ballot measure to allow open primaries in future NYC elections, I am opposed to including this as a ballot measure. Primaries exist for parties to put forth their candidates for the general election. If a voter is not a member of a party, why would they get a say in picking that party's candidate? This seems rife for bad actors to manipulate who is duly put forth by different parties. ALL voters do get a say in the general election. In addition, this potential measure has come about very quickly and seems rushed for a ballot measure to be put to voters this November. Signed A voter (D Hoguet)

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 72[.]80[.]196[.]63, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2300584 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:50:55 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 08:50:38 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Eve Grassfield

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please hold off on making major election reform without further time for understanding the implications of implementation. This is not a realm to make decisions in haste and key community leaders have not been given ample time to fully understand proposed policies (as cited in the recent The City article). Thank you.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 108[.]6[.]103[.]26, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 108[.]6[.]103[.]26

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Voter Rejection: The Jungle Primary Story

From: Romke Hoogwaerts <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 14:52:13 +0200

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

I'm here to state firmly: jungle primaries are unpopular with voters, and they have rejected them consistently. These reforms don't achieve their stated goals. Last year, this was on the ballot in six states – Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota – and it failed in every single one. This is a clear signal that voters, across the political spectrum, understand the value of political parties. Don't waste our time and money on a proposition that's already been dismissed. If you want to increase voter turnout, stick with what's proven to work: even-year elections.

Sincerely,

Romke Hoogwaerts

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Voter Confusion Is Not Reform

From: Rana Abdelhamid <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 09:46:57 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

Consider the average voter, who is busy and does not follow the minutiae of election law. The shift to Ranked-Choice Voting was a significant new concept to learn. To now suggest "Jungle Primaries" is to create a level of complexity that will surely discourage participation. This isn't theoretical; constant changes create real barriers for people. Our goal should be to make voting a simple, intuitive civic duty, not a confusing test of a voter's ability to keep up with shifting regulations. This proposal fails that test completely.

Thank you,

Rana Abdelhamid

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1391287 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 13:52:43 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 09:52:17 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Michelle D Winfield

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Withdraw the ULURP Proposals for November 2025 ballot

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:4600:74bc:cf1:8564:ea3d:9125, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88,
10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:4600:74bc:cf1:8564:ea3d:9125

---

Testimony of Community Member Michelle D Winfield
NYC Charter Revision Commission
July 11, 2025

My name is Michelle D Winfield, District Leader in the 74th Assembly District, Part C in Manhattan.

Thank you for setting up procedures for the community to participate in this process. I am writing to express my opposition to the proposed land use changes under consideration for the November 2025 ballot.

As a housing advocate, I have been concerned about the affordability of mixed use housing. The residents and businesses from the community needs to be able to express their concerns of what can and should be in the community.
Don't throw out the Uniformed Land Use Review Process, ULURP that offers the opportunity for the public to participate and offer their concerns.

At community boards there is always an opportunity to ask questions. The board members include the public when discussing the land use projects, reviewing if there are resources available to support the project. The CB's review areas of concerns and how to mitigate issues.

Example of concerns:

Education, Postal Service, Transportation, Sanitation, Hospitals, Supermarkets, Housing, Safety, Helicopter use, and Environmental (noise).

It is through the ULURP process, the impact of the project on the community is discussed and how to mitigate the issues.
As an example, in CB Six Manhattan, during the ULURP process they collaborated with NYC Council Member and determined the need. After input, the final housing project, Camel Place, at East 27th Street off First Avenue, NYC included eight apartment units for veterans at 40 % Area Median Income and accepted Section 8 Vouchers. This was a win-win situation hashed out through the ULURP process.

I urge the Commission to withdraw the land use proposals because this will only eliminate the opportunity for residents and the public to work together, insuring issues can be mitigated and the impact of the community's voice.

Thank you.
Michelle D Winfield

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Foundational Role of Political Parties

From: Peter Martin <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 10:13:46 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The power of party labels to inform voters is immense. When you see a (D), (R), (C), or (WFP) next to a candidate's name, you can make strong assumptions about their likely positions on issues such as climate change or healthcare policy. This is a crucial efficiency in our democratic process. However, this relies on the fundamental principle that the party's members get to select the candidates who represent their values. If this internal democratic process is compromised, the party label becomes less trustworthy, and its ability to guide voters effectively is severely diminished, leading to confusion and potential disengagement.

Best,

Peter Martin

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Party Engagement and Increased Participation - Open
Primaries

From: Cameron Clarke <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 10:16:11 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

Political parties are the vehicles of collective action in a democracy. They allow individuals with shared beliefs to pool their resources, amplify their voices, and compete effectively for political power. This organized approach is far more democratic than a system dominated by wealthy individuals or uncoordinated interests. The party label is an essential signifier of values and stances, providing voters with a critical lens through which to view candidates' positions on everything from fiscal policy to civil rights. To limit or eliminate this crucial function is to disempower the very citizens seeking to organize and participate meaningfully in their government.

There are arguments for open primaries, but this method of changing the system, with minimal public notice and scarcely any opportunity for feedback, right after a major change (ranked choice voting) has just been implemented, and is still in the process of being understood by communities, is a reckless and irresponsible step that would only have the effect of confusing citizens, disenfranchising marginalized groups, and inflating the influence of outside groups on parties. I hope the Commission takes the time to more carefully solicit buy-in from the community before rushing to cram this reckless change onto the ballot this year.

Sincerely,
Cameron Clarke

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No Jungle Primaries!

From: Jack Perdue <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 10:25:42 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

This commission should be guided by evidence, and the evidence on jungle primaries is clear: they are a failed idea. The public has consistently rejected them. Look at the overwhelming 70-30 vote against it in New York City. Look at the six states—Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota—that all turned it down last year. This isn't an anomaly; it's a clear pattern. Voters understand the importance of political parties. It is time for this commission to understand it as well and move on to more productive, popular reforms like even-year elections.

Thanks,
Jack Perdue

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7081079 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 14:25:55 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 10:20:53 AM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Karen S. Chwe

Email:

Phone:

Comments: I support open or "jungle" primaries similar to what California has. It's a more democratic way of choosing candidates and would allow NYC's 1.1 million independent or unaffiliated voters to participate in primaries.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 65[.]78[.]16[.]152, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 Edg/138[.]0[.]0[.]0
True-Client-IP: 65[.]78[.]16[.]152
-----

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4961302 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 14:26:40 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 10:20:56 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Karen S. Chwe

Email:

Phone:

Comments: I support open or "jungle" primaries similar to what California has. It's a more democratic way of choosing candidates and would allow NYC's 1.1 million independent or unaffiliated voters to participate in primaries.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 65[.]78[.]16[.]152, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 Edg/138[.]0[.]0
True-Client-IP: 65[.]78[.]16[.]152

“Closed primaries are a form of political segregation and independent New Yorkers have waited long enough for equal voting rights. We shouldn't have to wait any longer. I particularly want to thank this Commission for focusing on top two nonpartisan primaries. 85% of cities use this model. New York is an outlier. Top two nonpartisan primaries put the voters, not the parties and special interests, in the driver's seat. That's the appeal of top two—it's voter-centric. It empowers voters.

- Dr. Jessie Fields, OP Board Member”

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-705072 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 14:42:41 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 10:42:09 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Creepy Cuomo

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Andrew Cuomo is a pervert. The creepy old sex pest should be banished from New York City after being perp walked up Broadway so people can boo his grandma killing rear end

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 37[.]19[.]205[.]250, 23[.]214[.]199[.]110, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 37[.]19[.]205[.]250

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2806090 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 14:47:33 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 10:46:59 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: #MNQA

Email:

Phone:

Comments: MAKE NASSAU COUNTY QUEENS COUNTY AGAIN. 1899 WAS A MISTAKE. WE NEED
MORE LAND FOR HOUSING. MAKE NASSAU QUEENS AGAIN. #MNQA
#MAKENASSAUQUEENSAGAIN

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 37[.]19[.]205[.]250, 23[.]214[.]199[.]100, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 37[.]19[.]205[.]250

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-361772 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 15:04:28 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 11:03:56 AM

-----
This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Paul Schreiber

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Please eliminate the offices of the Borough President. The BP offices provide little value to the citizens of New York City and cost substantial amount of money to run. BP offices provide minimal constituent service. That work is better handled by the city council members and city agencies or investigative bodies (such as DOI). The BP office serve primarily as "parking lots" for elected officials who have termed out of city council and hope to run for another office in the future.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5992:a400:95f5:909b:eb89:973e, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36

Open Primaries are as crazy as letting criminals sit on their own jury. NO. you do not invite people with a vested interest in skewing results to participate. this is so obvious that even to have to write it to you is an insult to intelligence.

Marilee Wyman

Zip code: [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-83711 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 15:12:40 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 11:12:28 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Richard Hellenbrecht

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I object to the three land use questions proposed for November. Let's implement City of Yes first, evaluate the impacts, make any corrections needed, BEFORE committing to charter revisions that may have unexpected consequences. Businesses don't make changes without careful consideration of the current environment.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 37[.]19[.]198[.]135, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 37[.]19[.]198[.]135

Testimony in Opposition to Proposed NYC Land Use Charter Revisions

To the Members of the Charter Revision Commission:

My name is Richard Hellenbrecht, a resident and homeowner in Bellerose, Queens, for over fifty years. I am an active participant in civic organizations for neighborhood advocacy and protection. I submit this testimony in strong opposition to the proposed land use Charter revisions, particularly within months of the largest zoning initiative and before the slightest opportunity to evaluate the effectiveness or potential conflicts in City of Yes.

While I recognize the urgency of addressing New York City's housing crisis, I am deeply concerned that these revisions are premature in light of the new and untested overhaul of our city's land use framework via the City of Yes initiative. City of Yes rules have barely been promulgated and were only put into effect mid-June. There has not been an opportunity to demonstrate its effectiveness or identify any unintended consequences of the largest rezoning effort since 1961. Affected city agencies and staff have little experience implementing these changes, which are significantly more than tweaks.

No successful business would introduce such massive changes before previous initiatives have been thoroughly reviewed and adjusted as necessary. The Charter, the City's governing document, should be revised only in extraordinary circumstances, not prematurely when corrections may be needed down the road.

The proposed fast-track mechanisms for "affordable housing and modest projects", while seemingly pragmatic, sidestep meaningful public input and reduce the ability of Community Boards and Borough Presidents to shape outcomes that reflect local needs. The creation of an Appeals Board to override City Council decisions further erodes democratic accountability by replacing elected oversight with a powerful panel that may not represent or adequately consider the interests of affected communities.

Moreover, the revisions appear to incentivize dense development in historically low-density areas without adequate consideration for infrastructure, transit capacity, or environmental impact. This is not planning—it is displacement disguised as progress.

I urge the Commission to delay placing any of these proposals on November's ballot until the City of Yes initiatives have been fully implemented, studied, and publicly reviewed. Charter revisions must be grounded in proven policy, not aspirational slogans. New Yorkers deserve a land use process that balances citywide goals with neighborhood integrity, and that honors—not bypasses—the voices of those who live here.

Respectfully,
Richard Hellenbrecht
Bellerose, Queens

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-213609 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 15:13:52 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 11:13:39 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Victoria Vessella

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am a strong proponent of open primaries for unaffiliated voters. As someone who prefers to cast my vote for a specific candidate and who is not blindly loyal to a given political party, an open primary would save the headache of having to affiliate with a given party whenever I want to vote in a primary election. It is more fair and democratic to allow voters affiliated with any party (or with no party) to vote in the primary of their choice. I hope the city will be amenable to this long overdue change that should increase primary participation by removing roadblocks.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5d2a:c00:d008:1865:93f3:8ed, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Questioning the Narrative on Jungle Primaries & Saying
No to Billionaires Hijacking Our Elections

From: Cori Marquis <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:33:00 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

The case of Alaska's recent primary election should give us pause. Despite the implementation of an open primary system, turnout was alarmingly low. This serves as a powerful piece of evidence against the claim that jungle primaries are a cure for low voter participation. We need to be realistic about the limitations of such structural reforms. They are clearly not a panacea. If our goal is to strengthen our democracy by increasing the number of voters, we must be willing to look beyond these types of changes and explore other, more promising avenues.

Additionally, I feel deeply alarmed by the big-monied interests pushing Jungle Primaries. We have taken substantial, commendable strides here in NY to empower voters and small dollar donors. We should NOT move in a direction that is clearly backed by and would benefit billionaire donors and their chosen candidates who deliver for them over regular New Yorkers.

Thanks,
Cori Marquis

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Questioning New Election Reforms

From: Winslow Corbett <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:37:34 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The Charter Commission's warning about the detrimental impact of rapid reform on voter turnout is powerful. They identified that we've had only one RCV election since its 2019 referendum. This single data point is insufficient to warrant another major overhaul. To proceed with "Jungle Primaries" despite this acknowledged risk prioritizes theoretical change over the practical reality of voter behavior. We should be cautious and allow the existing reform to settle.

Thanks,

Winslow Corbett

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Our Elections, Our Rules: Reject Jungle Primaries

From: Sara R. Edwards <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 15:39:46 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

The concept of jungle primaries is a non-starter for voters. These reforms are not only ineffective but are consistently rejected at the ballot box. Consider the evidence from last year: it was on the ballot in six states – Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota – and it failed in every single one. This shows that voters, across the political spectrum, appreciate the function of political parties in candidate selection. This commission should not waste valuable resources on an unpopular proposition. If the goal is to increase voter turnout, stick with what is proven to work: even-year elections.

Thanks,

Sara Edwards

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] This Is About Power, Not Progress

From: John Cater <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:46:17 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

The proponents of jungle primaries are consistently the same wealthy individuals who benefit from a weakened labor force. This was true when Mike Bloomberg first pushed for such reforms, and it remains true now. Their goal is to dismantle labor unions, which serve as a critical barrier to the privatization of government functions, such as education, and the weakening of essential agencies. The current commission addressing this matter includes no representatives from labor unions or working people. As Josh Greenman's writing in Vital City elucidated, the actual argument for jungle primaries isn't about increasing turnout; it's about limiting labor's influence. The idea that American workers have an "outsized influence" in politics is contradicted by decades of economic trends. The Democratic primary is one of the few remaining spaces where collective action can challenge the dominance of the wealthy.

Thank you,
John Cater

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No History of Increasing Turnout

From: Hikma Abdulghani <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:47:26 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Good afternoon,

The argument that we're "not even four years in" to Ranked-Choice Voting, yet already considering throwing it out for "Jungle Primaries," highlights a fundamental problem. This legislative whiplash is precisely what disengages New Yorkers. How can citizens invest time in understanding how to vote when the rules keep changing dramatically? This isn't reform; it's creating perpetual confusion that discourages participation. We need consistency, not continuous upheaval.

If anything, we should be doing Ranked Choice in the general election.

Sincerely,

Hk Abdulghani

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No to Jungle Primaries: Yes to Worker Power

From: Dalton Stephens <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:49:36 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

The proposed jungle primaries are a fundamental threat to the democratic process. They are consistently backed by billionaires whose primary goal is to crush labor unions, which stand in the way of their agenda of privatizing government functions. This was the case with Mike Bloomberg's previous attempts, and it is the same dynamic today. The commission lacks any representation from labor unions or working people, highlighting whose interests are truly being served. Josh Greenman's insights in Vital City revealed the real reason: to limit labor's influence. The idea that American workers have "outsized influence" in politics is a myth perpetuated by those who already hold immense power. The Democratic Party primary is a crucial space for working people to level the playing field. This proposal seeks to further tilt it in favor of the wealthy.

Sincerely,

Dalton Stephens

Dalton Stephens

Assistant Editor

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Don't Privatize Our City: Stop Jungle Primaries

From: Sam Dow <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:51:06 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

The proposed jungle primaries are a direct assault on the collective power of working people. These initiatives, consistently backed by billionaires, are intended to strip political parties of their nominating authority, thereby amplifying the influence of outside money in elections. This makes it considerably easier for the wealthy to install their preferred politicians. This strategy directly targets municipal labor unions, which serve as essential bulwarks against the privatization of vital government functions, such as education, and against policies that gut public agencies. The assertion that unions wield "outsized influence" in politics fundamentally misrepresents the economic and political trends of the last five decades, where the rich have increasingly consolidated power. The Democratic primary offers a crucial space for working people to organize collectively and challenge this pervasive dominance. This proposal is a transparent attempt to erode that power.

Thank you,
Samantha Dow

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Understanding Why Voters Dislike Jungle Primaries

From: Miles Smith <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:48:46 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners:

I write to express my opposition to the proposal for "open primaries." My opposition is based in many reasons, but for the sake of concision I would like to highlight three in particular:

Making primaries "open" would functionally nullify the State of New York's purpose of recognizing political parties. Legally recognized political parties are not only culturally important constructs; they are legal structures that provide essential mechanisms by which working people without wealth can successfully organize masses of other fellow working people at a scale large enough to compete with the power of concentrated capital that lies in the hands of the wealthy few.

Open primaries have not been shown to reliably increase voter turnout. Moreover, even in those specific jurisdictions for which evidence of higher turnout exists, such increased turnout tends to come at the cost of also reducing the political diversity of the candidates who appear on the general-election ballot.

Open primaries tend to augment the already disproportionate political influence of concentrated wealth – which, in elections for NYC offices, usually takes the form of large independent expenditures funded by billionaires and big corporations. In so doing, open primaries further diminish the relative power of the donations made, and the organizing & mobilizing activities conducted, by most voters. In short, open primaries weaken the impact of voters' own efforts to elect candidates aligned with their respective views.

For these reasons alone, the proposal to open NYC's primaries should be removed from the commission's final set of ballot proposals.

Instead of proposing open primaries, the Commission should propose ranked-choice voting in general elections; such a change would substantially address most of the Commission's concerns as stated in its July 01 report.

Sincerely,
Michele Smith
Bronx, NY

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Heed the Voice of the Voters

From: Chad Miller <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:51:28 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

Let me add my voice to the chorus of citizens urging you to abandon jungle primaries. This is a demonstrably unpopular idea. The fact that it was defeated in all six states where it appeared on the ballot last year—Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota—is telling. Voters value the role parties play. For this commission to continue pursuing it would be to ignore the clear will of the people. Please, let's focus on practical, effective reforms like even-year elections that can genuinely strengthen our democracy and increase participation.

- Chad Miller

Chad Miller

Producer - NYC

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Opposing opening up primaries

From: James <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 15:56:15 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

If increasing voter turnout is our genuine aim, we must prioritize supporting the very entities that mobilize voters. The evidence is conclusive: jungle primaries simply do not increase participation. A much more effective approach is to transition to even-year primaries, a move consistently correlated with higher voter engagement. Equally vital is recognizing and empowering the role of community organizations, labor unions, and political parties. These groups are not peripheral; they are central to mobilizing the electorate. Their success stems from direct, personal outreach methods like canvassing and targeted member-to-member contact, which countless studies have confirmed are highly effective. Any proposed change that seeks to weaken the organizational capacity or self-determination of these groups—be they unions or political parties—would be a direct impediment to increasing turnout. It is crucial to understand that such measures would more likely serve to marginalize organized influence than to genuinely broaden the voting base. Real turnout gains come from robust, organized participation.

- James Cui

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Ensuring Member Selection of Candidates

From: Christine Bateup <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:59:16 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

For the party label to truly serve as an effective signifier of values and stances, it must be earned and validated through internal party democracy. When party members get to select the candidates who run under their banner, that (D), (R), (C), or (WFP) becomes a reliable indicator of a candidate's position on issues like public education or economic regulation. If this process is opaque or controlled externally, the label loses its meaning, and voters are left without a clear guide. Empowering the party faithful in candidate selection is crucial for maintaining the integrity of the party system and enabling informed voter choice.

Best,

Christine Bateup

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6512589 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 16:04:34 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 12:03:53 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Nathaniel Hochman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: To the NYC Charter Revision Commission, I write in strong support of the proposed reforms that would modernize and streamline New York City's land use processes to make it easier to build housing. These changes are essential to addressing the severe housing shortage that undermines affordability, equity, and long-term economic competitiveness. New York City is in a housing crisis. Rents have reached historic highs, homelessness is surging, and essential workers are increasingly priced out of the communities they serve. The current land use and environmental review processes—while well-intentioned—are often duplicative, unpredictable, and slow, creating costly delays that discourage the production of new homes, especially affordable and multifamily units. The proposed Charter reforms would create more transparency, consistency, and accountability in the land use process. In particular, aligning environmental review with the public land use review (ULURP), setting clearer timelines, and expanding early engagement can improve both public participation and project delivery. These reforms would not eliminate scrutiny or community input—they would ensure that such input occurs in a timely, focused, and constructive manner. Cities around the country are adapting to the urgency of the housing crisis by revisiting outdated procedures. New York City cannot afford to fall behind. These changes will not solve the housing crisis alone, but they are a necessary precondition for any serious effort to address it. I urge the Commission to adopt these reforms in full.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 172[.]254[.]24[.]37, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 172[.]254[.]24[.]37

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Reducing Voter Disenfranchisement Through Parties

From: Elise Steichen <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:09:56 -0500

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

The debate over political parties often overlooks their crucial function as information providers. For the vast majority of voters, a party affiliation is the quickest, most reliable indicator of a candidate's general platform. When you see a (D) or an (R) on the ballot, you can make reasonably strong assumptions about their stance on a range of issues, from climate change to national defense. This allows voters to make efficient decisions without having to meticulously vet every single candidate's individual policy paper. While parties certainly have their imperfections, this ability to signal broad values is indispensable for enabling widespread, informed participation in elections. Eliminating this would severely hinder voter decision-making.

Thank you,

Elise Steichen

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Unpopularity of Jungle Primaries

From: Meg Dukes <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:10:23 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

The idea of jungle primaries has been litigated in the court of public opinion, and it has lost. This commission should not try to revive a failed concept. The six defeats in six states last year—Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota—are a clear testament to its unpopularity. Voters value the role that parties play in structuring their choices. It is time to move on from this issue. A much more productive use of this commission's time would be to promote proven turnout-boosting measures like even-year elections.

Thank you,
Meg Dukes

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Please dismiss the idea of cross party "jungle" primaries in NYC

From: Cliff Fuller <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:14:50 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners:

Please table the discussion of jungle primaries and focus on more pertinent and pressing issues to New Yorkers. Jungle primaries are a non-solution to a non-problem with democracy and elections in NYC.

The 2025 primary worked exactly as it should work, and the process was free and fair. Jungle primaries are like Reddit upvoting or online polls, where the data can be manipulated or compromised and not actually represent the will of the voters.

And this is precisely why Mayor Adams has suggested it in reaction to the recent NYC Dem mayoral primary results. He is polling historically badly, is running as an independent in the same lane as Andrew Cuomo, and knows that his only chance to compete is to change the rules and move the goalposts.

Voters have repeatedly said no to jungle primaries. These reforms are not effective and are routinely rejected. Mayor Bloomberg's attempt in New York in 2003 was overwhelmingly dismissed by voters, 70-30%. In 2024 it failed in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota.

These regular rejections of the concept show a widespread understanding among voters of the value of political parties, and voting agency. This commission needs to listen, impartially, and not make short-term reactive decisions based on a self-serving and de facto lame duck mayor.

If his aim and the aim of the commission was increased voter turnout in general, then a better and more popular solution is to host even-year elections (aka the same years as POTUS when there is already higher turnout).

In fact, with Eric Adams promising to sign up 1 million voters ahead of the November 2025 mayoral election, even he himself understands that the actual issue here isn't to create jungle primaries, it's for him to find and register more New Yorkers that believe in his mission and policies and previous performance.

Please do not consider bending the laws based to suit Mayor Adams's short-term preferences and transparently clear and brazen self-interests.

Thank you,

Cliff Fuller

Bronx resident and registered voter

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] An Assault on the Public Good

From: Maggie Patterson <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 11:20:46 -0500

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

We must be clear about what jungle primaries represent: a handout to the wealthy elite. By allowing unlimited money to flood our elections, this system sidelines the collective voice of working people. It's a direct assault on municipal labor unions, the very organizations that protect our public assets from being sold off to the highest bidder. It is profoundly concerning that the commission pushing this reform has absolutely no labor representation, revealing its true allegiance. This cynical maneuver is about consolidating power for the rich, not enhancing democracy for the people who make this city run.

- M Patterson

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Parties should continue to pick candidates in closed primaries

From: Peter Feld <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 10:37:45 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

Please do not place any Charter revision proposal on the November ballot that would alter the current system for nominating candidates for City office by our parties.

Regarding so-called open primaries, I want to emphasize that these proposals defeat the ability of parties to choose their own nominees.

Jungle primaries are deeply unpopular with the electorate. The stated goals of such reforms are not being met, and more importantly, voters have consistently and emphatically rejected them. Consider the evidence from just last year: this measure was on the ballot in six different states – Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. In every single instance, it was defeated. This isn't about partisan divides; it's about a broad consensus among voters who understand and value the role political parties play in the democratic process. This commission should respect the will of the people and refrain from advancing a proposition that has already proven to be an unpopular waste of time and money. Focus instead on what genuinely works to increase voter turnout: even-year elections.

Best,

Peter Feld

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] the truth about so-called "Electoral Reform"

From: ANN LINDEN <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:24:17 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The debate over jungle primaries is a debate about the soul of our city. Will we have a government accountable to its people, or one beholden to billionaires? This proposal is a direct assault on working families and the unions that protect their rights and livelihoods. It is a calculated attempt to neutralize the power of collective action, which finds its most potent political voice in the Democratic primary. We must stand firm against this regressive change, which serves only to concentrate power and wealth in the hands of a select few.

Now is definitely NOT the moment in time to make changes with unforeseen consequences for We the People.

Sincerely,
Ann Linden

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Let's Prioritize Clarity, Not Complication

From: Beau Alessi <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:24:44 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

The argument for electoral stability cannot be overstated. "Jungle Primaries" would introduce a jarring change to a system that is still reeling from the last one. Ranked-Choice Voting requires time for voters to build comfort and fluency. Pulling the rug out from under them now with a completely different primary structure would be a grave error. It signals that our city's leaders are not serious about long-term, sustainable reform, but are instead chasing fleeting ideas that will ultimately confuse and disenfranchise voters. Let's commit to the system we have.

Sincerely,
Beau Alessi

Advocacy Associate

The Municipal Art Society of New York

@masnyc

[mas-logo-for-email-signature-sm]

July 11, 2025

MAS Comments on the Charter Revision Commission Interim Report

The Municipal Art Society of New York (MAS) supports the Charter Revision Commission's efforts to modernize and streamline the City's land use review process and maintain meaningful public participation. We commend the Commission for addressing long-standing structural inefficiencies with the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) and offer the following comments on each proposed ballot question related to land use:

Ballot Question #1 – Fast Tracking Affordable Housing

MAS supports the goal of making it easier and more efficient to develop publicly financed, 100 percent affordable housing. However, we strongly recommend that the proposal be split into two separate questions on the ballot for better clarity. The two mechanisms it introduces — the Board of Standards and Appeals (BSA) fast-track for Housing Development Fund Companies (HDFCs) and the expedited ULURP process in low-production districts — are substantively different and deserve independent consideration by voters.

We support the first mechanism. A streamlined BSA process for 100 percent affordable HDFC projects, with mandatory public hearings and a fixed timeline, is a welcome reform that could reduce delays for approving deeply affordable housing. The inclusion of community board review and a required BSA hearing strikes an appropriate balance between expediency and transparency. While MAS does not generally support fast-tracking land use applications based on project type alone, the revised proposal sufficiently limits eligibility to a narrow set of public-purpose projects with clear affordability thresholds and ownership structures. Should this proposal pass, the BSA will need sufficient resources and staffing to ensure it can meet the demands of creating a streamlined process.

We have some concerns about the second mechanism. As part of the Thriving Communities Coalition (TCC), MAS supports equitable housing development across the five boroughs that is consistent with the goals of the Fair Housing Framework. While the intent to create more affordable housing in underproducing community districts is laudable, this element of the ballot proposal lacks meaningful enforcement. We understand that market forces may affect a lack of housing being built in districts where land is more expensive than others; however, districts that continue to underperform should be required to conduct an infill study and/or inventory of underutilized or vacant City-owned land and report the findings to the public. Without a mandate to act on those findings, however, we are skeptical this mechanism alone will shift development patterns — especially in low-density districts where private interest in affordable development remains weak. MAS is not opposed to this provision, but we do not believe it will have a measurable impact without stronger implementation tools.

MAS is also aligned with the following recommendations advanced by the TCC to improve the effectiveness and equity of this proposal:

- Ensure deeper affordability for fast-tracked BSA projects. For HDFC projects that move through BSA rather than ULURP, we support the addition of a weighted Area Median Income (AMI) cap or average to ensure that these developments include a meaningful share of deeply affordable units.
- Refine how Fast Track districts are identified. For mixed-income affordable housing projects that would use the expedited ULURP process, the geographic criteria should better align with the City's Fair Housing Framework. For the initial round of targets starting in October 2026, the Fast Track should apply to the 18 community districts with the lowest rate of affordable housing production — a threshold consistent with the definition of "limited affordability areas."
- Introduce stronger accountability in future rounds. Beginning with the second round of Fair Housing Framework targets and thereafter, Fast Track eligibility should be limited to community districts that:
  - Are classified as "limited affordability areas,"
  - Are not classified as "high displacement risk areas," and
  - Have failed to meet their affordable housing production targets in the prior five-year period.

These changes would better align the proposed Charter reforms with the City's broader housing equity goals and ensure that fast-tracking tools are used in a manner that both increases affordability and protects vulnerable communities.

Ballot Question #2 – Simplifying Review of Modest Housing and Infrastructure

MAS supports the proposed Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and the creation of faster pathways for modest rezonings, infrastructure upgrades, and climate resilience projects. We support the decision to combine the community board and borough president review into a single 60-day period. This strikes a better balance between maintaining public input and reducing unnecessary procedural delays.

We strongly support the inclusion of the following categories in the expedited process:

- Modest housing proposals that allow small-scale multifamily housing in low-density residential districts or modest increases in medium- and high-density residential districts. These proposals align with the City of Yes for Housing Opportunity zoning text amendment and help facilitate the construction of "missing middle" housing typologies that are currently difficult to build through standard ULURP.

- Administrative changes to the City Map, which are often procedural in nature and currently subject to unnecessarily lengthy review.
- Resiliency, open space, and climate-related site actions, such as flood buyouts, solar panel installations, or acquisitions of public land for the creation of parks, which are critical to an equitable climate response and should be facilitated rather than delayed.

However, MAS raises concerns regarding the proposal's treatment of City-owned land dispositions. We support the expedited review of dispositions for affordable housing, including transfers to HDFCs, so long as appropriate safeguards are in place to prevent speculative consolidation. This tool should remain focused on enabling publicly-financed housing, not facilitating large-scale private assemblages. We are concerned about the expedited disposition of small parcels of City-owned land. While often treated as surplus, these lots may offer potential for pocket parks, community gardens, or other public-serving uses. MAS recommends limiting this category of expedited disposition to only districts that achieve the City's median open space ratio of 1.5 acres per 1,000 residents, to ensure public land is not prematurely removed from neighborhoods that lack sufficient green space. Alternatively, the City should explore mechanisms to incentivize the creation of open space when transferring land to private developers, for example, by requiring the inclusion of publicly accessible open space improvements as a condition of disposition.

Finally, we caution against granting the City Planning Commission (CPC) and City Council unrestricted authority to add additional categories to this expedited list in the future. Doing so may undermine the transparency and public legitimacy this Charter revision process is designed to uphold. We recommend either codifying a broader list of categories now or reserving such additions for future Charter Revision Commissions with public input.

Ballot Question #3 – Establishing a ULURP Appeals Board

MAS supports this proposal as a fair and balanced reform to ULURP. By replacing the mayor's rarely used veto with a three-member Appeals Board consisting of the mayor, the speaker of the City Council, and the borough president of the affected borough, this amendment preserves checks and balances while curbing the outsized influence of member deference.

Including both borough-wide and citywide elected officials in this process helps ensure that land use decisions reflect a broader range of interests and goals, not just those of a single Council member. Developers and applicants, in turn, gain a more predictable pathway through ULURP, which may reduce the chilling effect that uncertainty and late-stage political interference can have on socially beneficial projects, particularly those that seek to add density in neighborhoods that have historically resisted new housing. The Board's limited authority to either reverse disapprovals or restore CPC-approved applications, but not to craft new modifications, provides a final safeguard without undermining the Council's legislative role.

Ballot Question #4 – Modernizing the City Map

This is a long-overdue and common-sense modernization. Replacing more than 8,000 individual paper maps with a unified digital City Map will reduce inefficiencies, lower transactional costs, and improve access to land use data across the five boroughs. MAS encourages the City to go further by integrating other core land use records, like public assets and rent-stabilized units, into a centralized, searchable platform. True modernization requires not just digitization, but integration and accessibility.

Conclusion

While these reforms introduce new layers of process, they also have the potential to make land use decisions more transparent, equitable, and navigable, particularly for small and nonprofit developers. MAS supports the Commission's direction and urges continued engagement to ensure that future land use reforms balance speed with equity and efficiency with public trust.

We appreciate the Commission's attention to these issues.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Keri Butler", with a stylized, flowing script.

Keri Butler
Interim President, Municipal Art Society of New York

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6053781 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 16:30:01 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 12:29:26 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Nechesa Morgan

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: As someone who votes in primaries, I say DO NOT have open primaries. I, as a Democrat, want only democrats to vote for our candidate for the general election. The Republicans can vote for their candidate. Independents can even create their own party so they can participate in a primary election. I DO NOT want it to be a free for all for candidates in the primary.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:57b6:2800:1de8:41e4:4a8c:37d1, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (X11; CrOS x86_64 14816.131.0) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/103[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] An Unwanted Electoral Experiment

From: Aarif Morbi <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:36:00 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

I want to state for the record my opposition to jungle primaries. This is not a reform that enjoys public support. Quite the opposite. Last year, voters in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota all had the chance to approve it, and they all declined. This widespread rejection is a powerful signal that the public values the role of political parties in the electoral process. This commission should take that signal to heart and abandon this proposal. Your energy would be better spent on proven strategies like even-year elections.

- Aarif Morbi

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Proven Path to Higher Voter Turnout

From: Sean Nolan <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:36:05 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

To genuinely increase voter participation, we must rely on strategies backed by evidence. The data is clear: jungle primaries have failed to boost turnout. A more effective structural reform is the adoption of even-year primaries. Critically, the engine of voter mobilization lies with community organizations, labor unions, and political parties. Their direct voter contact methods, like canvassing, are proven to be highly effective. Any policy that weakens these essential groups will inevitably suppress, not increase, voter engagement. True reform empowers the organizations that successfully bring citizens into the democratic process.

Sincerely,
Sean Nolan

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Bad, Unpopular and Ineffective Idea

From: Jesse Rosen <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 10:36:09 -0600

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

As a New York City voter I want to be register my dismay at the prospect of open primaries: jungle primaries are a bad idea that voters have consistently opposed. The system is flawed, and the public knows it. We saw definitive proof of this last year when the initiative failed in six states, from the Mountain West to the Southwest. This widespread rejection is a powerful statement about the perceived value of political parties in the electoral process. This commission should heed the public's voice and abandon this proposal. Your time would be better spent advocating for proven reforms like even-year elections.

Sincerely,
Jesse Rosen

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Stop Billionaire Backed Jungle Primaries

From: Adam Prince <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:38:07 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners: Historical precedent demonstrates that jungle primaries serve as a tool for the wealthy elite, a recurring strategy to disempower working people. Mike Bloomberg previously attempted this, and similar forces are now at play. The true objective, as highlighted by Josh Greenman, is not enhanced voter engagement but a reduction in labor's influence. Public sector unions provide essential checks against the privatization of services and the degradation of crucial government functions. The notion that American workers, after fifty years of declining union density and stagnant wages, exert "outsized influence" in politics is disingenuous. The existing primary system, despite its imperfections, is a vital avenue for working families to express their collective will. To embrace this proposal is to cede electoral power to the highest bidder. - Adam Prince

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Future of Public Education is at Risk

From: Gareth de Wied <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 12:40:33 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

The connection between the push for jungle primaries and the broader agenda of privatization is undeniable. These systems are consistently favored by those who wish to sell off public assets for their own private profit. They see strong and vocal labor unions as the main obstacle to their plans, and they are using this so-called "reform" to remove them from the equation. This is not just about changing how we vote; it's about changing who our city works for. We must ensure it continues to work for the public, not private corporations.

Thanks,

Gareth de wied

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9499962 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 16:47:54 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 12:47:30 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Christopher Hanusa

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Hello, thank you for your work in this endeavor. I am against a top-two primary for New York. New York has a long history of fusion voting, which allows minor parties to have a say in the electoral process. If top-two primary voting is passed, it is very likely that no candidate from multiple state party appears on the ballot in the general election. That makes it so that people's voices are not heard. A better option would be ranked-choice voting in the general election, so that everyone's preferences can be taken into account. I support moving the mayoral election to even year elections so that more people vote. But whoever is elected to mayor in 2025 should be given a full 4 (or 5) year term. I would advocate for a "no sore loser" law that prohibits a person who had lost a major party primary to run as an independent. Thank you for your consideration.

-----

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9469894 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 16:49:20 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 12:48:14 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Vincent Gau

Email:

Phone:

Comments: As someone who lives in the city proper, I've never felt more empowered to vote knowing that in my primary I can make my preferences known, rather than just my brute needs. Ranked choice voting makes me feel like there's a chance that not only "big money" wins.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb91:ee0:8287:845a:5efc:fb0:af0d, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Android 15; Mobile; rv:140.0) Gecko/140.0 Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb91:ee0:8287:845a:5efc:fb0:af0d

---

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Voter Turnout: Let's Focus on What Works

From: Michael Gross <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 16:54:04 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

The continued advocacy for jungle primaries as a tool to increase voter turnout is puzzling, given the wealth of evidence to the contrary. We have a responsibility to pursue policies that are effective, and the data on jungle primaries is unequivocal. They do not result in a significant increase in voter participation. California's experience since 2012 is a case in point. Turnout rates for both primary and general elections have remained remarkably stable compared to the period before the change. This indicates that jungle primaries are not the solution to low voter engagement.

Sincerely,
Michael Gross

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No Open Primaries

From: Maya Priya Huq <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 16:55:11 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

I do not want open primaries. I want ranked choice voting in general elections.

Thanks for your time.

Maya Priya Huq

Crown Heights, Brooklyn

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1341931 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 17:00:12 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 01:00:00 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: David Rozan

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please do not pursue open primaries. I strongly believe that only registered members of a party should have say as to who their nominee is. Also, this could lead to voters of the other party participating solely to sabotage the process.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 146[.]75[.]237[.]85, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.3.1 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 146[.]75[.]237[.]85

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5990047 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 17:02:54 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 01:02:42 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Rubayat Qadeer

Email:

Phone:

Comments: I do not believe an open primary system is currently the correct choice for elections in New York City at this time and as a NYC resident I strongly disagree with this change and feel like it would make the process more chaotic instead of helpful for democracy. I do agree with holding elections during Election years instead of off cycle to help get as much turnout as possible

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:9d76:cb00:20cc:4a91:6b2a:e463, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76 Barcelona 388[.]0[.]0[.]9.80

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No Open Primaries

From: Zach Radu <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 13:05:13 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I want our primaries to be closed to people who have a stake in the political project that is locked behind a party registration. I don't want people who are completely against my views being able to vote in the primary of my party and being able to influence the results in their favor. It dilutes political diversity and causes candidates to have to appeal to the same electorate in the primaries as well as the general election.

Sincerely,

Zachary Radu

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-71451 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 17:05:59 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 01:05:44 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Hater waiters

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Eric Adams should be made to serve tables for the rest of his life as pennance for his Turkish corruption and turning the NYPD into a big pay to play scheme. Eddie Caban, Phil Banks, Jeffy Maddog Maddrey, Kaz, and Chell too

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 37[.]19[.]205[.]250, 23[.]214[.]199[.]100, 23[.]220[.]105[.]188, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 37[.]19[.]205[.]250

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4912753 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 17:05:58 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 01:05:44 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Hater waiters

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Eric Adams should be made to serve tables for the rest of his life as pennance for his Turkish corruption and turning the NYPD into a big pay to play scheme. Eddie Caban, Phil Banks, Jeffy Maddog Maddrey, Kaz, and Chell too

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 37[.]19[.]205[.]250, 23[.]214[.]199[.]100, 23[.]220[.]105[.]188, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 37[.]19[.]205[.]250

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1949649 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 17:06:08 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 01:05:44 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Hater waiters

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Eric Adams should be made to serve tables for the rest of his life as pennance for his Turkish corruption and turning the NYPD into a big pay to play scheme. Eddie Caban, Phil Banks, Jeffy Maddog Maddrey, Kaz, and Chell too

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 37[.]19[.]205[.]250, 23[.]214[.]199[.]100, 23[.]220[.]105[.]189, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 37[.]19[.]205[.]250

---

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Protect Union Power in Our City

From: Paula Galowitz <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 13:07:28 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

History teaches us that jungle primaries are a tool of the super-rich. Mike Bloomberg's previous attempts to install such a system prove that this is about breaking the power of labor, not empowering voters. These systems are an attack on the community organizations and unions that serve as a bulwark against privatization and corporate greed. The claim that unions have "outsized influence" is a deliberate distraction from the real concentration of power at the top. We must learn from the past and reject this repeated assault on the rights of working people.

Best,

Paula Galowitz

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] This Proposal Ignores the Voter Experience

From: Steven Abt <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 13:09:27 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

Voters are not political scientists; they are busy citizens who need a clear and straightforward way to participate in democracy. "Jungle Primaries" would create a bewildering new process right after they were asked to learn Ranked-Choice Voting. This is a direct path to lower participation. The constant need to relearn how to vote fosters apathy. Our focus should be on stability and voter support within the current RCV framework, not on introducing yet another disruptive and confusing overhaul that will only serve to discourage people from voting.

Sincerely,
Steven Abt

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1084578 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 17:10:38 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (cynthiarichietterrell@representwomen.org) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 01:10:22 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Cynthia Richie Terrell

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: We are writing in opposition to the prospective move toward a Top Two primary because it would disadvantage women voters and women candidates.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:2f6b:9800:dcd7:a8eb:7809:29d2, 23[.]48[.]249[.]176, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:2f6b:9800:dcd7:a8eb:7809:29d2

July 11, 2025

Dear Members of the New York City Charter Revision Commission,

We are a coalition of organizations that work to improve women's representation in elected office, including in New York City. We write in opposition to your interim report's suggestion of a “top two” primary system because, when compared to New York City’s current rules, it is against the interests of both women candidates and the voters who gain from women’s leadership. We ask that you instead build on the success of ranked choice voting (RCV) in New York City and extend RCV to general elections.

Ranked choice voting has been used since 2021, both for special elections and for primary elections. The mayoral primaries in 2021 and 2025 drew more voters to the polls than any primaries in the history of New York except in 1989. Common Cause New York and FairVote this year partnered on an exit poll with SurveyUSA that found that 76% of voters would like to keep or expand RCV in the city's elections. As to voting with RCV, 96% of voters say it was simple to fill out their ballot, with 72% saying it was very simple with at least 94% of voters in each racial group surveyed (Black, White, Hispanic, and Asian) reporting it was simple.

Before the first RCV elections in 2021, women held 13 of 51 city council seats, with only five returning incumbents. After the 2021 elections, women held 31 seats, with most winners being women of color under 40 years old. After the most recent primaries, women looked well-positioned to maintain or perhaps grow that supermajority. Term limits created open seats, public financing increased access to more diverse candidates, and organizations recruited and supported women candidates. But we strongly believe that these women’s electoral success also depended on RCV and oppose any proposal that threatens this progress.

For additional context, RCV delivers more voice, more choice, and more representative outcomes. Women can run without fear of splitting the vote with one another—and without being told to “wait their turn.” Personal attack ads often backfire when voters have multiple choices and when backup preferences can decide elections. RCV instead rewards candidates who get out into their communities and talk to as many voters as they can – where finding out that a voter prefers someone else as a first choice is only the beginning of a conversation, not the end. Women candidates often thrive with such incentives.

In office, the new majority-women council has already achieved significant policy victories, including on women’s issues, such as maternal health, menstrual equity, childcare access, and reproductive rights, as well as gender-neutral issues, such as ensuring salary transparency, language access and cost-of-living adjustments for all New Yorkers.

Going to a “top two” voting system would put these gains at risk. The general election that decides winners will not be held with RCV. Instead, it would involve a long, punishing runoff election where candidates would be rewarded for negative ads that promote their differences, not their common ground. Men with greater access to big donors would gain an advantage, as Super PACs have their greatest power by pouring money into ads in highly negative, head-to-head runoff elections.

Fortunately, you have alternatives. If you seek to address the problem of unaffiliated voters not being able to vote in primaries, your most direct solution is the most proven: allow unaffiliated voters to participate in the party primary of their choice. If you seek to make more general elections matter, then extend RCV to all elections in the City - a change that makes more sense than ever in a year when we may have several prominent mayoral candidates on the general election ballot. If you seek to end the party nomination system as we know it, then follow Alaska's model by advancing four candidates from the primary, with the use of RCV in November.

Women are winning in New York with RCV in the elections that effectively decide who will win. A Top Two primary system puts their remarkable progress at risk. Please focus on a solution that builds on the use ranked choice voting in New York City. Rest assured that women will thank you for it.

Sincerely,

Erin Vilardi, Executive Director of Vote Run Lead

Cynthia Richie Terrell, Executive Director of RepresentWomen

Liuba Grechen Shirley, Executive Director of Vote Mama Foundation

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8935668 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 17:13:29 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 01:13:17 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alice

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Hello. There has been a lot of talk about building more housing in NYC. If I were able to move, I would look for a one bedroom apartment in an affordable, clean, quiet, elevator building near public transportation. I would also want a couple of windows that let in sunlight. It's funny how laughable these requirements are. If I told a real estate agent my budget, they would tell me I was dreaming. I would have to spend $3K to $4K minimum to find a one bedroom apartment in Brooklyn. And $3K is well out of my budget. Also, I could easily spend $3K on an apartment that is NOT clean, quiet, and a reasonable size. There is so much risk in apartment hunting - you never know if the landlord or neighbors will disrupt your peace. I also have another requirement for an apartment - an apartment that is free of second hand cigarette/vape/cannabis smoke. I am told that this is hard to find. And even if you find a non-smoking building, non-smoking rules are rarely enforced. Sometimes you might not even be able to determine where the smoke is coming from and find yourself stuck in a bad situation. So, if you are going to build more housing, at least make it quality housing - soundproof the walls and floors to keep out noise from a neighbor's music/tv/treadmill/jumping cat/arguing, etc. (I have a sensory disability that makes certain sounds painful to live with.) Install quality windows that keep out the sounds of ambulances, motorbikes, and rooftop mechanical equipment. Make sure apartments have windows that let in some sunlight and look out onto a couple of trees (trees are so important to mental health and provide cool shade in the summer). Make apartments non-smoking. I understand that housing is needed and much of city run affordable housing is not a place to call home. I want quality housing. I still think the city needs to respect sunlight, community gardens, trees, and local architectural styles. I see expensive but ugly apartment buildings go up in my neighborhood. And the apartments units are small too. I see people live next to loud and dusty construction for years, only to lose their sunlight. I am sympathetic to the needs of neighborhoods and that existing tenants and home owners cannot just easily pickup and move to NJ/CT/LI if they don't like the new buildings. So build quality, affordable housing in the places it is most appropriate. Take into account community input. But also take into account new technology for building apartments. I would be a lot happier if the housing market was more fluid and I could try out different neighborhoods. I am basically too scared to move because what I find might be worse than what I have and I can never go back to what I have. We don't just need more housing, we need the market to be more fluid so you don't get stuck in an apartment or neighborhood. So build smart, please. Build with balance and thoughtfulness. And as for the advocacy group Open NY, they mean well but can be really harsh in their criticism of New Yorkers with housing. Everyone deserves a place to call home and being homeless is a big obstacle to a healthy and successful life, but when Open NY says that if "NIMBY's" don't want taller, more dense buildings they should just move to the suburbs, that's ignorant. People that own apartments can't just pick up and leave. (I rent, btw). Good luck finding the balance, locations, and attractive architectural styles to build. I hope we can do it.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 24[.]38[.]207[.]88, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) GSA/376.0.777690323 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 24[.]38[.]207[.]88

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4383244 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 17:23:07 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 01:22:46 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: James Hong

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Dear Commissioners, I am writing to urge the New York City Charter Revision Commission not to advance a proposal to change primary elections in New York City. The top issues that New Yorkers are voting on are affordability, cost of living, and housing. This proposal to do away with primaries will tilt the field in the direction of the wealthy and well-known. The influence of money in politics should be limited, not expanded by local laws. Jungle primaries make it easier for billionaires to buy the seats and politicians they want - instead of political parties choosing their candidates, any candidate can just choose their political party and then outside money is able to carry them to victory. If political parties cannot nominate their candidates, it gives people with the money to influence elections more power to frame their preferred candidates. Again, I urge the Commissioners to remove open primaries from the commission's final set of ballot proposals. Moving municipal elections to even-numbered years and implementing ranked choice voting in the general election would boost voter engagement. Thank you.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3036385 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 17:23:38 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 01:23:22 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: James Hong

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Commissioners, I am writing to urge the New York City Charter Revision Commission not to advance a proposal to change primary elections in New York City. The top issues that New Yorkers are voting on are affordability, cost of living, and housing. This proposal to do away with primaries will tilt the field in the direction of the wealthy and well-known. The influence of money in politics should be limited, not expanded by local laws. Jungle primaries make it easier for billionaires to buy the seats and politicians they want - instead of political parties choosing their candidates, any candidate can just choose their political party and then outside money is able to carry them to victory. If political parties cannot nominate their candidates, it gives people with the money to influence elections more power to frame their preferred candidates. Again, I urge the Commissioners to remove open primaries from the commission's final set of ballot proposals. Moving municipal elections to even-numbered years and implementing ranked choice voting in the general election would boost voter engagement. Thank you.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] NO on Jungle Primaries!

From: michal mendelson <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 13:24:32 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

The continued advocacy for jungle primaries is puzzling in the face of clear public opposition. This is a reform that has been tested and has failed to persuade voters. The six-state sweep of defeats last year—in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota—should have been the final word on the matter. It's a clear indication that people from all political persuasions value the traditional primary system. I urge the commission to stop pursuing this unpopular agenda and instead focus on proven methods to engage voters, such as even-year election cycles.

- Michal Mendelson

Subject:

FW: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4783061 CRC Contact
Form - General Inquiries

From: Charter Info <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 17:47:21 +0000

---

From: agencyemail <agencyemail@customercare.nyc.gov>

Sent: Friday, July 11, 2025 11:52 AM

To: Charter Info <CharterInfo@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Subject: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4783061 CRC Contact Form - General Inquiries

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 11:52:07 AM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: General Inquiries

Name: Michael O'Brien

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Commissioners: I write to express my opposition to the proposal for "open primaries." My opposition is based in many reasons, but for the sake of concision I would like to highlight three in particular: Making primaries "open" would functionally nullify the State of New York's purpose of recognizing political parties. Legally recognized political parties are not only culturally important constructs; they are legal structures that provide essential mechanisms by which working people without wealth can successfully organize masses of other fellow working people at a scale large enough to compete with the power of concentrated capital that lies in the hands of the wealthy few. Open primaries have not been shown to reliably increase voter turnout. Moreover, even in those specific jurisdictions for which evidence of higher turnout exists, such increased turnout tends to come at the cost of also reducing the political diversity of the candidates who appear on the general-election ballot. Open primaries tend to augment the already disproportionate political influence of concentrated wealth – which, in elections for NYC offices, usually takes the form of large independent expenditures funded by billionaires and big corporations. In so doing, open primaries further diminish the relative power of the donations made, and the organizing & mobilizing activities conducted, by most voters. In short, open primaries weaken the impact of voters' own efforts to elect candidates aligned with their respective views. For these reasons alone, the proposal to open NYC's primaries should be removed from the commission's final set of ballot proposals. Instead of proposing open primaries, the Commission should propose ranked-choice voting in general elections; such a change would substantially address most of the Commission's concerns as stated in its July 01 report. Sincerely,

Michael O'Brien Harlem

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:cf0:8fa0:45ba:72b7:50c7:5f0a, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:cf0:8fa0:45ba:72b7:50c7:5f0a

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9742671 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 17:58:02 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 01:57:36 PM

-----
This form resides at hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=3&can_id=f109c58d7715a03f129c59bef7b7856e&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email_2807601&email_subject=_-housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Ava Warren

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Want open primaries.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:a410:69c:757f:9ba6:9dcf:7cf7, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1

True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:a410:69c:757f:9ba6:9dcf:7cf7

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9747161 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 18:19:50 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 02:18:29 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lauren Thompson

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am writing to express my opposition to the proposal for "open primaries." I will highlight three of the reasons for my opposition. 1. Making primaries "open" would functionally nullify the State of New York's purpose of recognizing political parties. Legally recognized political parties are not only culturally important constructs; they are also legal structures by which working people without wealth can successfully organize other fellow working people at a scale large enough to compete with the power of concentrated capital that lies in the hands of the wealthy few. 2. Open primaries have not been shown to reliably increase voter turnout. In fact, even in those specific jurisdictions for which evidence of higher turnout exists, such increased turnout tends to come at the cost of reducing the political diversity of the candidates who appear on the general-election ballot. 3. Open primaries tend to increase the already disproportionate political influence of concentrated wealth – which, in elections for NYC offices, usually takes the form of large expenditures by billionaires and big corporations. Open primaries also diminish the relative power of the donations made, and the organizing and mobilizing activities conducted, by most voters. In short, open primaries weaken the impact of voters' own efforts to elect candidates aligned with their respective views. For these reasons alone, the proposal to open NYC's primaries should be removed from the commission's final set of ballot proposals. This proposal would not empower more democracy in New York City, but instead limit it. Instead of proposing open primaries, the Commission should propose ranked-choice voting in general elections. Such a change would substantially address most of the Commission's concerns listed in its July 01 report. Sincerely, Lauren Thompson

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:8300:229a:6b3c:c78c:3732:9744, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Android 16; Mobile; rv:140.0) Gecko/140.0 Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:8300:229a:6b3c:c78c:3732:9744

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-445695 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 18:22:37 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 02:22:02 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: LEE K CRAWFORD

Email:

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: My name is Lee Crawford, and I am a concerned New Yorker submitting testimony in opposition to the proposal to replace our current primary system with a so-called "jungle" or open primary. While I appreciate the Charter Revision Commission's efforts to engage the public, I believe it is critical that the Commission ground its proposals in the clearly expressed priorities of New Yorkers. We face an urgent crisis of affordability, displacement, and inequality—these are the issues that most demand attention. The idea of adopting a jungle primary system is not something that has emerged from public demand or grassroots organizing. It appears instead to be a top-down proposal, introduced without broad support or democratic legitimacy. We've been down this road before. In 2003, New Yorkers overwhelmingly rejected a similar attempt by then-Mayor Bloomberg to eliminate party primaries, despite his spending millions to promote it. Voters saw it for what it was: an effort to weaken the role of organized political communities—parties, unions, neighborhood clubs, and civic groups—that help everyday people stay informed and engaged in collective action. Open primaries would not increase democratic participation. They would hand more influence to the already wealthy and well-connected, undermining the voices of those with less access to power. If we want a more inclusive and participatory democracy in New York City, we need to strengthen—not dismantle—the avenues that allow marginalized communities to organize and advocate for their needs. Party primaries, while imperfect, provide one of the most accessible and effective points of entry for grassroots political engagement. I urge the Commission to reject this misguided proposal. Let's stay focused on real solutions to real problems—chief among them the affordability crisis—and ensure that any proposed changes to our Charter are rooted in the needs and voices of New Yorkers. Thank you for your time and consideration.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb90:e80a:b4b:7977:b00a:2a9a:5f1e, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb90:e80a:b4b:7977:b00a:2a9a:5f1e

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5715233 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 18:23:59 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 02:23:46 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jeffrey

Email:

Phone: Turrentine

Comments: My name is Jeff Turrentine, and I'm a longtime New Yorker writing to voice strong opposition to the Commission's consideration of replacing our current primary system with a "jungle" or open primary model. It's telling that the first time many of us even heard of this proposal was when the Commission announced it might appear on the ballot this November. No groundswell of community support brought it here. No marchers in the street have called for it. At a time when working families are being priced out of their neighborhoods, when schools and transit systems need investment, and when trust in government is already strained, this is not the reform people are asking for. If anything, the push for jungle primaries feels like a solution in search of a problem—or worse, a fix for a system that isn't broken, just inconvenient to those who already have outsized influence. We've seen this playbook before. Back in 2003, then-Mayor Michael Bloomberg tried to shepherd a nearly identical change through the Charter Revision Commission. He spent millions of his own dollars promoting it. New Yorkers weren't impressed. They voted it down—by a wide margin. Why? Because they understood what was at stake: the ability of organized political communities to keep power accountable. Primary elections—messy, local, and sometimes low-profile—are where democracy often begins. Community members knock on doors for a neighbor running for district leader, organize around shared values, and shape party platforms from the ground up. Strip that away, and you don't get more democracy—you get less. You get elections that favor the wealthy, the well-known, and the already powerful, while everyone else is told that this is what "reform" looks like. There's a quieter kind of disenfranchisement that happens when democratic participation becomes too diffuse, too disconnected from the institutions people trust and rely on. That's what jungle primaries risk: a hollowing out of civic life, disguised as modernization. So no, this isn't the moment to dismantle one of the few pathways working people have to influence government. It's the moment to listen more carefully—to the tenants organizing against eviction, to the seniors navigating broken city services, to the immigrants trying to gain a foothold in a system that too often leaves them out. Those are the voices this Commission should be amplifying—not silencing through structural changes that sound neutral on paper but, in practice, shift power upward. Please, reject this proposal. And let's return to the hard, necessary work of fixing what's actually broken.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb90:e80a:b4b:7977:b00a:2a9a:5f1e, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb90:e80a:b4b:7977:b00a:2a9a:5f1e

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6559896 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 18:24:50 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 02:23:52 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Council Member Christopher Marte

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please see attached the formal written comment of Council Member Christopher Marte on the CRC Interim Report and ballot proposals therein.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 184[.]74[.]222[.]202, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 184[.]74[.]222[.]202

---

Christopher Marte

紐約市市議員馬泰 Council Member, District 1

district1@council.nyc.gov
(212) 587-3159

65 East Broadway
New York, NY 10002

July 11, 2025

Subject: Written Comment to the Charter Revision Commission

To the New York City Charter Revision Commission,

Please accept this letter as my formal comment in response to the Interim Report (the Report) released by the Charter Revision Commission (the Commission) on July 1, 2025. The Report lists five ballot proposals to be voted on by the general public as part of the general election this November, as well as a sixth idea that is still under consideration by the Commission. I write to express my opposition to Ballot Questions 1 through 3.

The Report references repeatedly the public participation and stakeholder engagement over the last six months that have influenced these final five proposals. However, Mayor Adams stated the purpose and priority of this Commission at the very outset of its convening: to facilitate housing development citywide, and to reduce the power of local voices in favor of a more centralized rationale for development and land use decisions in the five boroughs. The Mayor has made clear that his favored approach to addressing our city's affordability crisis is to weaken democracy through an unregulated influx of housing development by an unleashed private market.

There is unanimous agreement that housing affordability is the biggest issue facing New Yorkers: the majority of New Yorkers are rent burdened, incomes have stagnated, and rents have skyrocketed even in the neighborhoods that have built thousands of new units in the last decade. Displacement is occurring at historic levels, disrupting the very fabric of our city, and changing who it serves. Only a fraction of new housing construction is income-restricted.

Instead of holding developers accountable to their empty promises of affordable housing, ramping up tenant protections to stop mass evictions, or fully funding the building of new and the renovation of existing affordable housing, this Commission looks to strip away public oversight over the real estate industry completely. The ULURP process, while not perfect, is the one chance our Council, Community Boards, and the general public have to weigh in on how our City dictates development. The vast majority of projects avoid this process already; only those who ask for more than zoning currently allows must follow ULURP. But according to the flawed logic of this Commission, New Yorkers themselves are the greatest obstacle to affordable housing - not the endless greed of the real estate industry. It is ridiculous to blame a democratic review process, which applies to only a fraction of total development, as a scapegoat for an affordability crisis marked by real estate oligarchy and public sector cowardice.

ULURP was brought into being by a Charter Revision Commission, at a time when the infamous Board of Estimate ruled New York, not New Yorkers. Now, we have a democratically elected Council, who have the power to hold the Mayor accountable on some of the city's most serious issues through legislation, the municipal budget, and land use. 50 years later, this Commission aims to reconcentrate that power, undermining the Council's land use authority and challenging the very principles of our local government.

This Commission proposes to remove a significant number of land use applications from Council jurisdiction, and some from the ULURP process entirely. Additionally, one measure proposes to establish an appeal board of only three elected officials with the power to reverse virtually any land use decision by the Council. Completely undermining any influence of the Council, and by extension eliminating the voice of the New Yorkers who voted for them, this Appeals Board is eerily reminiscent of the Board of Estimate, an ominous nod to an autocratic regime that greenlit the demolition and displacement of entire neighborhoods and communities in the name of "better planning."

At a time when our very democracy is on the line, New York City must not villainize the public as the enemy of public good. Instead, we must recognize how all of us lose when we allow decisions to be made behind closed doors, where corruption and pay-to-play are already well-documented. Good government should always be subject to healthy skepticism; our city, its charter and system of governance must continually evolve and adapt to better serve and represent New Yorkers. But what is being proposed only serves to concentrate power, to take our City back to a time of Tammany Hall type politics, defang our codified measures of accountability and public participation, and allow a select few to steamroll our city in favor of whichever private interests to whom they may be indebted.

Aside from the blatant legal controversy of these proposals, from unequal representation to arbitrary and unjust retribution, this report represents a fundamental divergence from participatory policymaking or even a sound separation of powers. These proposals are fundamentally undemocratic, woefully mirroring the kind of constitutional reengineering unfolding within our country's federal government today.

That people have a say in the future of their communities is fundamental to the execution of local democracy. When their democratically elected representatives are removed from this decision making, the only voices that are left are those of private industry and profit.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9291132 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 18:25:13 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 02:24:44 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jeffrey Turrentine

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: My name is Jeff Turrentine, and I'm a longtime New Yorker writing to voice strong opposition to the Commission's consideration of replacing our current primary system with a "jungle" or open primary model. It's telling that the first time many of us even heard of this proposal was when the Commission announced it might appear on the ballot this November. No groundswell of community support brought it here. No marchers in the street have called for it. At a time when working families are being priced out of their neighborhoods, when schools and transit systems need investment, and when trust in government is already strained, this is not the reform people are asking for. If anything, the push for jungle primaries feels like a solution in search of a problem—or worse, a fix for a system that isn't broken, just inconvenient to those who already have outsized influence. We've seen this playbook before. Back in 2003, then-Mayor Michael Bloomberg tried to shepherd a nearly identical change through the Charter Revision Commission. He spent millions of his own dollars promoting it. New Yorkers weren't impressed. They voted it down—by a wide margin. Why? Because they understood what was at stake: the ability of organized political communities to keep power accountable. Primary elections—messy, local, and sometimes low-profile—are where democracy often begins. Community members knock on doors for a neighbor running for district leader, organize around shared values, and shape party platforms from the ground up. Strip that away, and you don't get more democracy—you get less. You get elections that favor the wealthy, the well-known, and the already powerful, while everyone else is told that this is what "reform" looks like. There's a quieter kind of disenfranchisement that happens when democratic participation becomes too diffuse, too disconnected from the institutions people trust and rely on. That's what jungle primaries risk: a hollowing out of civic life, disguised as modernization. So no, this isn't the moment to dismantle one of the few pathways working people have to influence government. It's the moment to listen more carefully—to the tenants organizing against eviction, to the seniors navigating broken city services, to the immigrants trying to gain a foothold in a system that too often leaves them out. Those are the voices this Commission should be amplifying—not silencing through structural changes that sound neutral on paper but, in practice, shift power upward. Please, reject this proposal. And let's return to the hard, necessary work of fixing what's actually broken.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb90:e80a:b4b:7977:b00a:2a9a:5f1e, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb90:e80a:b4b:7977:b00a:2a9a:5f1e

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9209856 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 18:25:52 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 02:25:41 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lee Crawford

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: My name is Lee Crawford, and I am a concerned New Yorker submitting testimony in opposition to the proposal to replace our current primary system with a so-called "jungle" or open primary. While I appreciate the Charter Revision Commission's efforts to engage the public, I believe it is critical that the Commission ground its proposals in the clearly expressed priorities of New Yorkers. We face an urgent crisis of affordability, displacement, and inequality—these are the issues that most demand attention. The idea of adopting a jungle primary system is not something that has emerged from public demand or grassroots organizing. It appears instead to be a top-down proposal, introduced without broad support or democratic legitimacy. We've been down this road before. In 2003, New Yorkers overwhelmingly rejected a similar attempt by then-Mayor Bloomberg to eliminate party primaries, despite his spending millions to promote it. Voters saw it for what it was: an effort to weaken the role of organized political communities—parties, unions, neighborhood clubs, and civic groups—that help everyday people stay informed and engaged in collective action. Open primaries would not increase democratic participation. They would hand more influence to the already wealthy and well-connected, undermining the voices of those with less access to power. If we want a more inclusive and participatory democracy in New York City, we need to strengthen—not dismantle—the avenues that allow marginalized communities to organize and advocate for their needs. Party primaries, while imperfect, provide one of the most accessible and effective points of entry for grassroots political engagement. I urge the Commission to reject this misguided proposal. Let's stay focused on real solutions to real problems—chief among them the affordability crisis—and ensure that any proposed changes to our Charter are rooted in the needs and voices of New Yorkers. Thank you.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb90:e80a:b4b:7977:b00a:2a9a:5f1e, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb90:e80a:b4b:7977:b00a:2a9a:5f1e

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Uphold the Value of Our Parties

From: Ndlela Nkobi <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 18:26:56 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

This commission needs to listen to the voters and say no to jungle primaries. The idea is a non-starter, as evidenced by its repeated failures at the ballot box. Mayor Bloomberg's attempt in New York was resoundingly defeated, and just last year, six more states—Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota—followed suit. This pattern reveals a fundamental public trust in the party system to vet and select candidates. It is time to stop wasting resources on this unpopular proposition and instead focus on proven methods like even-year elections to boost turnout.

- Ndlela Nkobi

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4409954 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 18:27:09 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 02:26:57 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Joanna Smith

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Commissioners, I am writing to express my concern about the proposed ballot amendment to allow so called "open" primaries in New York City. I ask you to consider why this approach has been named in this way. What is so "open" about allowing billionaires to use their outsized influence to elevate candidates irrespective of political party? No, this is a power grab in disguise, and it will further confuse an electorate still trying to figure out our relatively new ranked choice voting system. You must not allow this misguided idea to progress onto the ballot this year if you don't want to further alienate people you want to be voters. Sincerely, Joanna Oltman Smith

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 146[.]75[.]236[.]1, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6208319 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 18:54:45 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 02:54:00 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jennifer Dougherty

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am writing to support the following proposed amendments to be added to the ballot in November: Fast Track Zoning Action and Affordable Housing Fast Track - prices for renters are out of control and families cannot afford to live here (including my own). We need more housing built. Unifying the City Map by 2028 - Seems way past time to do so in order to save time to further fast track building projects Shifting Elections to Even Years - it saves money and increases voter turnout? YES YES YES. Thank you for time.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:908a:5900:dd7f:e866:1d6d:2f5a, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10.15; rv:128.0) Gecko/20100101

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Open Primaries are a bad idea, and make grassroots campaigns more difficult.

From: Erin Chan <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 14:54:51 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Good afternoon,

With the new Ranked Choice system that NYC has JUST started using, it seems like a bad idea to propose yet another overhaul of the system. New Yorkers are only just getting used to Ranked Choice, and many have not even experienced it yet (sadly!). Introducing a new primary system, one that is far less organized and which makes grassroots campaigning nearly impossible due to the cost and scale it would require. It will lead to LESS choice, LESS voter participation, and ultimately a weaker and less functional democracy. It will discourage voting by causing confusion and chaos, particularly among voters who do not engage with every election. We need to foster a culture of voting, and that begins with a consistent and understandable set of rules.

Thank you,

Erin Chan

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6880973 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 20:16:41 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 04:16:22 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Landmark West!

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: See attached statement below.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 108[.]14[.]52[.]105, 23[.]200[.]89[.]192, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 108[.]14[.]52[.]105

---

THE COMMITTEE TO PRESERVE THE UPPER WEST SIDE

Testimony of LANDMARK WEST! By Susan Nial
Chair of the Advocacy Committee
Before the Charter Revision Commission
Manhattan Public Input Session on Housing and Use April 23, 2025

Introduction

My name is Susan Nial. I am here to present the statement of Landmark West! (LW!). LW!, the Upper West Side grassroots' preservation advocacy group, is currently celebrating its 40th anniversary. LW! has spent many years working in the areas of preservation and land use with the goal of protecting our shared heritage as manifested in our landmarked buildings, historic districts and our neighborhoods. While some criticize preservationists by claiming that we want to "dip the city in amber" and that we value buildings more than "progress," the ultimate goal of our advocacy is to protect the quality of life of the people who live in those buildings and neighborhoods and protect our shared history that brings us together. Often those who scoff at preservation either fail to appreciate or simply refuse to acknowledge the importance not only of a shared history to our sense of community but also the terrible loss we all suffer when our landmarks and historic districts are destroyed with the purpose of allowing developers to make more money not just in shared history but also in the very real and calculable loss of affordable housing.<sup>1</sup> As Bonnie McDonald, president and CEO of Landmarks Illinois writes:

"Protecting naturally occurring affordable housing is also critical. As Subsidized rental units represent a small percentage of affordable housing in the U.S. In fact, 80 percent of all affordable rentals in large markets and 75 percent of affordable units nationwide are "naturally occurring affordable housing," or NOAH. These units are often small- or mid-sized rental buildings, over 35 years old, and broadly affordable but remain unsubsidized by any federal program. This type of housing, however, is particularly vulnerable because investors purchase these buildings at low cost, renovate them, and then raise rents — or, in some cases, reconvert or demolish them to create single-family homes.

---

<sup>1</sup> <https://www.planetizen.com/features/130916-good-new-vital-role-preservation-solving-housing-crisis>

An estimated 75 percent of the nation's 12 million affordable housing units are considered NOAH, according to Harvard University's Joint Center for Housing Studies. By multiplying 9 million by 2.57, the average household size per U.S. Census Data, that amounts to more than 23 million people living in NOAH.

Developing preservation strategies to maintain these properties and to protect their affordability would go a long way towards protecting existing NOAH assets, (but McKinsey research indicated that overall, cities lack these strategies).” This is the kind of thinking that the Mayor and the Charter Revision Commission should explore rather than incorporating the often internally inconsistent provisions of the entire package of City of Yes (COY), some aspects of which encourage the loss of affordable housing by allowing it to be converted to commercial spaces.

The City of Yes does not belong in the City Charter.

I am here today to talk about the very real threat to our neighborhoods and our stock of affordable housing that is posed by the attempt to set in stone the wrong-headed and anti-democratic elements of the City of Yes, including but not limited to changes in zoning and land-use overhaul, by enshrining it in the Charter of the City of New York. As the language of the proposed Charter Revision is not available, it is not possible for us to deal specifically with any legislative recommendations that the Commission may make regarding land-use, zoning, housing, or other elements of the COY package. Instead, we are responding to the brief given to this Commission by the Mayor. In the available materials relating to the Mayor's guidance to the Commission, there are two distinct and, frankly, contradictory suggestions. One to make the land use process more transparent and the other to enshrine the changes contained in COY in the Charter. COY limits the involvement of the public and even the City Council in important land use decisions by handing over decisions regarding special permits to an appointed body, thus bypassing both the public in the context of public hearings and the City Council, thus limiting transparency. The stated goal of this change is to increase the number of affordable housing units in the City of New York. To support both the massive changes to our zoning and land-use system of regulations, the Mayor has claimed that these changes must be inserted in the City Charter to increase the number of affordable housing units. To be blunt, neither the adoption of COY by the City Council nor its inclusion in the Charter will do anything to increase the number of affordable housing units and may decrease those units by allowing the conversion of affordable units to commercial spaces and allowing the building of larger and bulkier buildings that are not required to provide any affordable units at all.

Affordability is Optional.

In view of the public goal of “more affordable housing, it is important for the Commission to take notice and consider that affordability is optional under the COY. It appears in only one section of the new law, identified as the Universal Affordability Preference is and in that section, it is optional!

The section of the COY relating to the transferability of landmark TRDs allows a broader transfer of TDRs; however, if one takes advantage of the broader transference provided therein of TDRs there is no requirement that the increased development opportunities include any affordable housing! Currently the transfer of TDRs in this context are City Planning Commission Special Permits that are ULURP actions that require City Council involvement, the COY eliminates the City Council from the process.

Whether one supports COY or not, it is important to recognize that importing the COY regime and its components into the Charter will make it almost impossible to guarantee the kind of flexibility in Zoning and land-use issues that the City needs in order to respond to the changing needs of the City and or to respond to the unique needs and issues of our widely varying neighborhoods because of the cumbersome process by which the Charter can be amended. We urge the Commission not to follow the Mayor’s lead in this regard.

The Commission should reverse the current trend of curbing the public's involvement, expand effective public involvement initiatives, and re-energize Community Boards.

In previous years, the Charter was amended in ways that limit and reduce effective public involvement. The Commission should reverse this trend in government of eliminating or limiting the ability of the public to have an opportunity for effective input. It is time to expand effective public involvement initiatives and eliminate superficial "public engagement" programs, which offer nothing more than box-ticking initiatives and feel-good meetings with ambiguous talk of "goals" other than solid proposals. This process is often mere political theater, lots of sound and fury symbolizing nothing.

In that regard, we would ask the Commission to consider the issues of transparency and the importance of effective public involvement in land-use, zoning, and housing issues.

Neighborhoods are unique collections of people who have found a way to engage with each other and support each other in a variety of ways that work for them. As a result, a one-size-fits-all plan does not reflect that uniqueness and will undoubtedly destroy important aspects of the lives of the residents, not the least of which is dislocation. The residents of a neighborhood are the best source of important information regarding its needs and the effectiveness of the various networks that have grown up in that neighborhood that serve the needs of the residents. In short, they are the experts. While developers' "experts" and those engaged by the entity arguing for the passage or approval of a project or legislations are given almost unlimited time, local resident experts are limited to 2 to 3 minutes or sometimes don't have an opportunity to testify at the hearings at all. This should be changed.

Shutting these individuals out by limiting public hearings and instead replacing public hearings with nothing more than political theater, in which the City moves through neighborhoods spouting platitudes about goals, both short-term and long-term, that bear little or no resemblance to the actual impacts of the proposals the City wants to push through. This Commission should reinvigorate the public hearing and make it clear that it is the public hearing that must be protected. It should make it clear that public hearings in which members of the public are the key witnesses to which the various commissions, agencies and ultimately the City Council should be listening to rather than the paid experts of the developers and the City staff who have been tasked with making sure the development plans go through.

Public Meetings wherein public testimony is prohibited should not be allowed to eclipse the use of the public hearing. The Commission should require that all Agencies, Commissions, Boards and similar, ("Agencies") publish the exact legislation proposed or the applications made by the City or private individuals at least 30 business days before any public hearing both on their websites and in a separate notification to the public and interested parties including but not limited to LW!

LW! Also requests that the Commission revisit the designation of the opinions and or reports from Community Boards on issues of local interest as "advisory." This designation has led some individuals and groups to refuse to show up to discuss their projects. Sadly, some City Agencies like the Landmarks Preservation Commission tell applicants not to respond to the criticisms or suggestions from the Community Boards and community groups on the basis that they are only advisory. This needs to change.

The Commission should also require that massive changes in Zoning, Land Use and Housing of the citywide like the COY be analyzed as one package and not broken up in its constituent parts. That analysis should pay close attention to and assess the cumulative impact of the entire package of changes on the relevant neighborhoods and the City as a whole. Atomization of projects and proposed legislative packages isn't good for the City, nor any of its residents, it should be forbidden in the Charter.

Thank you for your time and attention. LW! will return to comment on the actual language of the Commission's proposals once they are available. We will see you then.

Endnotes

We give all due credit to George Janes upon whom we have relied for his insightful and careful reading of the entire package of COY changes that range from COYHO, City of Yes for Housing Opportunity; COYEO, City of Yes for Economic Opportunity; and, COYCN, City of Yes for Carbon Neutrality, and impact each and every area of the City. LW! Would be happy to provide those reports to the Commission on request.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Call to Reject This Measure

From: David Lubetkin <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 20:06:15 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

I am deeply concerned about any potential move to implement jungle primaries. This is a reform that has been consistently and emphatically rejected by voters. The results from last year, with defeats in all six states where it was on the ballot, should be a wake-up call. Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota voters have spoken. They believe in the party system. This commission should respect that and drop this proposal. Let's focus on what we know can work, like even-year elections, to improve our democracy.

Best, David Lubetkin

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7249105 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:56:20 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 03:56:05 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Joshua Harrison

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am writing to oppose the adoption of an open primary system in NYC elections. In general, I believe primaries serve a sorting function within a party that stands for a particular set of believes and policies. Open primaries distort that to a general popularity contest. This feels rushed and unnecessary at this point and I question the value of this kind of change just as we are getting the city used to rank choice voting. I urge you to reject this idea. Thank you Josh Harrison

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 185[.]186[.]79[.]209, 95[.]100[.]155[.]198, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10.15; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Getting out the vote?

From: Bones Rodriguez <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 15:52:16 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

If we want to get people out to vote, let's do what works.

People come out when there's a presidential race too, so even years makes sense.

That does NOT mean we let someone stay longer this year though!

Also, GROUPS get out the vote, when they feel they belong, and have an EXCITING candidate who actually BATTLES for things.

It's time to use the DRAMA to mobilize people. Not the TERROR, but the DRAMA of what history can be, and how WE THE PEOPLE can be a part of it.

Sincerely,

John Rodriguez

John "Bones" Rodriguez

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5980502 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:49:34 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 03:49:23 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Brian Holbrook

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I'm writing to oppose the proposal to switch to a so-called "open primary" system. New York City voters have the unrestricted right to choose their political party and to change their party with enough advance notice. We choose to register with particular parties so that we can organize with other people in our City who share basic values and priorities, and so that we can more effectively oppose politicians who don't share those same values and priorities. Open primaries severely hinder our ability to effectively coordinate and organize on the issues we care about, because they deprive us of one of the most effective mechanisms for political organization: a party that can collectively, democratically choose and support candidates for office. An "open primary" means that a party majority, including a large majority, can be defeated in their choice of candidate by a minority faction who earn the support of voters who are not even members of that party, and who may be hostile to that party's basic values and commitments. "Open primaries" also magnify the already much-too-large influence of wealthy political donors on our City's politics. Party primaries provide a mechanism for normal people, and their collective organizations like labor union, to convince and organize fellow voters to support specific candidates. "Open primaries" create confusing public information environments as voters struggle to determine who is most aligned with their views, creating more opportunities for super PACs funded by the wealthy to flood the zone with misleading political ads. For these reasons, I strongly urge the Commission not to support any proposal for open primaries.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 69[.]64[.]221[.]250, 23[.]45[.]235[.]95, 23[.]1[.]104[.]132, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 69[.]64[.]221[.]250

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Please Don't Let Them Sabotage RCV

From: Claire Wellin <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Thu, 10 Jul 2025 20:00:13 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

We are not even four years into our experience with Ranked-Choice Voting. It is far too early to declare it a failure or to replace it with a system as disruptive as "Jungle Primaries." Voters need and deserve a consistent electoral framework. This proposal would create the opposite, leading to confusion, frustration, and ultimately, lower turnout. Instead of adding more change, we should be focused on robust voter education for the RCV system we have, ensuring that it is fair, understood, and accessible to every single voter in our city.

Thanks,

Claire Wellin

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7741543 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:40:00 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 03:39:27 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Rachel Brown

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Hello Commission, I live in Queens and am writing to express my concern and disagreement about two of the proposed housing and land use changes. Fast Tracking Affordable Housing: I understand that the purpose is to create more affordable housing quicker, but the City could do this in many different ways. MIH is not enough. 25% of new developments is ridiculous in this affordable housing crisis we are living through. I would be in favor of a fast track if it applied to 100% affordable housing, with AMIs ranging from 10%-60%. Or the city needs to use local AMIs when deciding whether something is affordable. Why are we still using AMI that includes Westchester and Long Island? That should be changed too. We should not fast track more housing if it's going to be 75% market rate and 25% MIH. We have an AFFORDABLE housing shortage! We need lots of actually affordable housing. How about fully funding NYCHA? How about building more public housing? How about subsidizing 100% affordable housing using local AMIs? Simplify Review of Modest Housing and Infrastructure Projects I do not think we should create an Expedited Land Use Review Procedure. The ULURP process could use more and better community input. Shortening the timeline for communities to learn about and weigh in on changes would endanger our communities. Moreover, removing City Council's input into the process is also bad. With the pressures developers put on these processes, we need as much time and as many experts to weigh in as possible. Don't shorten the time for Community Boards to weigh in. Don't remove Council from this process. Thank you for your attention. Rachel

---

HTTP_ADDR: 108[.]41[.]237[.]29, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10.15; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 108[.]41[.]237[.]29

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Nancy Halpern <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:31:51 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I understand the importance of allowing all people, especially the newest New Yorkers, to participate in our electoral and civic life. Open primaries eliminate barriers to voting and would mean that all New Yorkers, particularly immigrants, would be able to participate in all our elections.

It is key to the very fabric of our city that we make our civic life one that all people can participate in, regardless of political preference or personal history. The people we elect to represent us should represent that shared belief in an open and inclusive city.

Nancy Halpern

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Laurie Blitzer <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:31:13 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I have been forced throughout my life to enroll in a political party if I want my vote to matter. Neither of the two largest parties reflects my values and beliefs. I am excited to be supporting open primaries. This change will mean that I am no longer forced to make a choice that does not reflect my values.

Being able to vote in an open primary would mean that I could choose and rank the candidates who best reflect my values, regardless of their affiliation with a political party. Moving to this system will not only open primary elections to a larger electorate but also help diversify the kinds of opinions and candidates appearing on the ballot.

Laurie Blitzer

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Wendy Blank <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:30:44 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Wendy Blank

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Elizabeth Gilmartin <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:30:19 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard (and confusing) to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Elizabeth Gilmartin

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Ann Mandese <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:29:19 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Like many New Yorkers, I have spent much of my life being unable to vote in competitive elections. Too often, the winning candidate is a foregone conclusion by the time of the general election. New Yorkers like me find themselves locked out of the races where the winning candidate is chosen simply because we do not choose to or want to belong to a political party.

By opening this system, many New Yorkers will be newly enfranchised and will vote in far greater numbers. It is my hope that the Commission will not miss this opportunity to allow many New Yorkers of all political stripes to fully participate in our democratic process.

Ann Mandese

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Kelly Chang <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:28:35 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Non-partisan, special elections are nothing new and are a proven way to choose the best candidate from a field representing several different viewpoints. These elections have been one by candidates across the ideal spectrum. It is time that we applied this proven method to all citywide elections.

Special elections have been taking place in New York City for as long as I can remember. They are an effective way to let voters express their preference from a range of candidates and save the City the cost of running multiple different elections.

Kelly Chang

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Howard Levy <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:28:05 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I am writing to you in favor of open primaries in New York City.

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Howard Levy

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Ephraim Savitt <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:27:43 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

It is too hard to vote in New York City, and voter turnout does not reflect the city as a whole. Open primaries address this by fixing one of the major impediments to voting and empowering a million New Yorkers to participate in the most competitive and consequential elections. Reducing the number of non-competitive elections will incentivize more people to participate in the democratic process.

Addressing our abysmal voter turnout rates should be a key priority of the Charter Revision Commission. I hope that the city does not miss this opportunity to ensure that we have competitive elections in which all registered voters can participate. This will mean that New York City has a healthier and more robust democracy than ever before.

Ephraim Savitt

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Jesse Field <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:27:19 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

As a high school teacher, I work with new and prospective voters, by which mean teens 14-18 years old. I know that they feel very little of the sentiments that our generation associates with the Republican and Democratic parties, and that they have little chance of joining the Democratic Party in order to vote in primaries like the ones we just had last month. But we do want all these teens to vote, and vote as early and as often as possible, I think. I want the youth of our city to feel like they have skin in the game.

It's clear to me that open primaries would help solve problems in this city. Some people have much greater influence over this city than others, and they sometimes stand in the way of needed reforms because the benefits of keeping the status quo. The zoning laws and housing stock, for example, reflect the desires of the real estate and contracting industries more than they do ordinary citizens. As Mamdani's selection in the recent mayoral primary shows, having the city itself build affordable housing and raising the money through taxes on the rich is a concept that elites like Mario Cuomo sneer at, but which ordinary folks will vote for in droves. So I think increasing the size of the electorate would be a necessary, if not sufficient step, to actually combating, or diluting the interest of those who are not seeking to benefit middle class or poor or very young New Yorkers.

I was an unaffiliated voter myself, and found I had many fewer choices at the polls the first time I participated in elections, in 2022.

Jesse Field

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Joshua Solomon <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:26:59 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Open Primaries will work better. Why should we have to choose based on party? Enfranchise more people!

Sincerely,

Joshua Solomon

Joshua Solomon

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Chim McFeeble <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:26:18 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City needs a contempt of Council provision so liars are held accountable. Also, Turkish bribery schemes are super bad so impeachment is necessary too.

Also, Half Steinbrenner is committing crimes against humanity and the government should liberate the yankess from this reign of tyranny. Fire Aaron Boone. Fire Brian Cashman. They should be on Rikers if it is not closing.

NYC should also make a Harambe statue and have George Santos work as its janitor as an act of redemption.

Eric Adams belongs in jail.

NYC has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Chim McFeeble

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Carmen Quinones <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:25:41 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Political parties have become special interest groups standing between the government and the electorate. It is time that we allowed all New Yorkers to participate in elections. Open primaries mean New Yorkers can participate in primary elections regardless of whether they have registered with a political party.

New Yorkers should be able to participate directly in choosing their leaders. They should not have to choose to be affiliated with a party if they do not want to. We should make it as easy as possible for all New Yorkers to participate in elections, and open primaries do just that.

Carmen Quinones

A large black rectangular redaction box covers the signature and any accompanying text or image that might have been present.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Debby Pollack <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:25:10 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

New York City has always been at the forefront of democracy, and it is time that we continue to evolve. Having recently adopted Ranked Choice Voting, it is time that we take the next step and move to a system of open primaries. As a New Yorker, I am proud to be from a place known for innovation, and the time has come for us to take the next step.

This evolution will strengthen our democracy and bring more New Yorkers into the process. By continuing to evolve and adapt, we show the world we are leading the way. New York has been, and should continue to be, the world's most creative and innovative city. There's no reason that shouldn't be true for our elections.

Debby Pollack

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Bill Ge <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:24:48 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Please open the primary so citizens can enjoy their democratic freedoms

Bill Ge

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Support Open Primaries

From: Irene Diamond <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 19:24:28 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

I have been forced throughout my life to enroll in a political party if I want my vote to matter. Neither of the two largest parties reflects my values and beliefs. I am excited to be supporting open primaries. This change will mean that I am no longer forced to make a choice that does not reflect my values.

Being able to vote in an open primary would mean that I could choose and rank the candidates who best reflect my values, regardless of their affiliation with a political party. Moving to this system will not only open primary elections to a larger electorate but also help diversify the kinds of opinions and candidates appearing on the ballot.

Irene Diamond

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Let's Prioritize Proven Turnout Strategies

From: Sierra Moore <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 15:13:58 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

I am concerned that the debate over jungle primaries is obscuring a more important issue: the overall health of our democracy. While we are arguing about the structure of our primary elections, we are ignoring the much larger problems of voter suppression, gerrymandering, and the influence of money in politics. These are the real threats to our democracy, and they are where we should be focusing our attention. Let's not be distracted by a debate over a failed electoral reform.

Thank you,
Sierra Moore

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6985459 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Fri, 11 Jul 2025 18:58:54 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 02:58:40 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Carol H Krinsky

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Open primaries: The primaries could be expanded to include voters who have not registered with any party. But I worry about opening them entirely. Let's imagine that the Republicans on Staten Island gang up against various specific Democrats whom many voters would prefer in this city that is largely Democrat. Or vice versa: Imagine all the Democrats who would vote to crush people they dislike in Republican areas. We should be careful about entirely open primaries. I do not know enough about the rules to be sure that my comment has merit, but please consider how open the primaries should be so as to insure fairness rather than political gain for a few people.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5d3a:600:5428:8221:619e:a813, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Jungle Primaries are NOT a Solution

From: Cathy Nonas <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 11, 2025 at 04:37 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

The original purpose of primaries is to allow party members to vote to choose candidates to represent them in the general election. Jungle primaries do the opposite. The candidates with the highest total of votes – regardless of party – advance to the general election. This could mean that not all parties – and not all people – would be represented in the general vote. These initiatives, therefore, would invariably be supported by billionaires who might not share the visions of others. So some of the public might end up not having someone to represent them. The whole idea of legally recognized political parties is to give the people a choice, an opportunity to organize at a scale large enough to compete with the power of concentrated capital. Otherwise it's not a fair system. Jungle primaries are UnAmerican. The commission tasked with this proposal has no representation from labor unions or working people, signaling a clear bias. Please rescind this. Let's keep a fair and democratic system.

Thank you,
Cathy Nonas

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Open Primaries: No Gains, Only Pains for NYC Turnout

From: Nick <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 11, 2025 at 04:41 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

I'm here to challenge the narrative that jungle primaries are a tool for increasing voter turnout. The data from states that have adopted them unequivocally proves otherwise. If our objective is truly to enhance democratic participation, we must abandon strategies that have been empirically shown to fail and instead pursue those that yield tangible results. The recent experience in Alaska, which implemented open primaries in 2022, serves as a stark reminder. The 2024 primary election saw alarmingly low turnout, marking it as one of the lowest in half a century. This robust data decisively points to the conclusion that these elections have had little to no impact on encouraging more people to vote. We need to focus on effective voter outreach and engagement, not on structural reforms that consistently fall short.

Best,

Nicholas Corbo

Testimony: NYC Charter Revision Commission,
Open Primaries, 2025
July 11, 2025

Re: Opposition to Open Primary Elections

I am Michelle D Winfield, District Leader,
74th AD, Part C. As a member of the Democratic Party, I support the values expressed in the Democratic Party of the state of New York rules which does not condone discrimination on the grounds of race, sex, gender identity, gender expression, age, color, creed, national origin, religion, ethnic identity, sexual orientation, disability, or economic status. All public meetings are open and welcome people regardless of race.

I am requesting the NYC Charter Revision Commission withdraw the Mayor's proposal for Open Primaries in NYC elections. In an Open Primary, candidates expressing views of hate could vote to knock off candidates that believe in equity for all.

The NYC counties have 3.4 million registered voters.
The Democratic Party has an organized system that has been established through registration with the Board of Elections. Do not dismantle this system!

Please withdraw the proposal for Open Primary Elections on the November 2025 ballot.

Thank you.

Michelle D Winfield

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7465358 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 11, 2025 at 05:41 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 05:41:02 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Michelle D Winfield

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Withdraw NYC Charter Revision Proposal: Open Primary Elections

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:4600:74bc:cf1:8564:ea3d:9125, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202,
10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:4600:74bc:cf1:8564:ea3d:9125

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7115684 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 11, 2025 at 06:29 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Friday, July 11, 2025, at 06:28:48 PM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Fran Gutleber

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I want to have an open primary

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 69.126.157.176, 23.219.82.45, 23.146.181.205, 10.138.109.76
REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137.0.0.0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 69.126.157.176

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The War on Workers Continues

From: Lisa Yancey <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 11, 2025 at 05:10 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

The proposed jungle primaries are a direct threat to the democratic process. They are consistently backed by billionaires, who seek to dismantle labor unions because these organizations stand as obstacles to their agenda of privatizing government functions.

This pattern was evident with Mike Bloomberg's previous attempts, and it remains the same dynamic today. The commission lacks any representation from labor unions or working people, highlighting whose interests are truly being served. Josh Greenman's insights in Vital City revealed the real reason: to limit labor's influence. The idea that American workers have "outsized influence" in politics is a myth perpetuated by those who already hold immense power. The Democratic Party primary is a crucial space for working people to level the playing field. This proposal seeks to further tilt it in favor of the wealthy.

Best,

Lisa Yancey

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Don't Let Billionaires Buy Our Elections

From: Jeff G <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 11, 2025 at 06:56 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to

phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

The the Charter Comm board members:

Adopting a jungle primary system would be a catastrophic mistake for the future of our city. It inherently favors candidates with personal fortunes or billionaire backers, effectively drowning out the voices of ordinary citizens and community-led campaigns.

This is a direct attack on the labor organizations that advocate for public education and resist the corporate takeover of government services. The notion that working people have "too much power" is a fabrication meant to divide us while the wealthy consolidate their control. We must reject this transparently rigged system that benefits only the elite.

Thank you,
Jeffrey Gold

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Protect Our Elections from Big Money!

From: Ian G Williams <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 11, 2025 at 07:15 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

Open primaries are inherently undemocratic, throwing open the choice of parties' candidates to their opponents and, with the current state of campaign finance, to the highest bidder in many cases.

In addition, forcing New Yorkers to navigate yet another wholesale change to their voting system is simply irresponsible. "Jungle Primaries" would effectively cancel out the Ranked-Choice Voting system that citizens are just beginning to understand. This creates an unstable and unpredictable electoral environment, which is a key factor in voter disengagement. If we are serious about improving our democracy, the first step is to provide a consistent and reliable framework. This proposal does the opposite and should be rejected for the sake of our voters.

Sincerely,

Ian Williams

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Following the Billionaires' Playbook

From: Benjamin Jones <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 11, 2025 at 07:16 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

Let's be clear: the campaign for jungle primaries is a campaign against organized labor. It's funded by the very billionaires who stand to profit from the privatization of government functions like education and sanitation. This proposal is designed to sideline the voices of workers and make it easier for the rich to control our political destiny. The Democratic primary is a vital arena for challenging that control through collective action. This change would demolish that arena, leaving working people with even less power than they have now.

Thanks,
Benjamin Jones

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Maintaining Primary Election Integrity

From: joshua boyce <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 11, 2025 at 07:17 PM

---

P {margin-top:0;margin-bottom:0;}

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

The arguments for jungle primaries are misleading. These systems are designed to disproportionately empower candidates with extensive personal wealth or access to significant external funding, enabling them to bypass traditional party nomination processes.

This directly undermines the capacity of labor unions to advocate for public services and resist privatization. The conspicuous absence of labor representation on the commission proposing these changes is a serious concern, signaling a bias towards financial interests. The claim that "public sector unions" have "outsized influence" is a narrative frequently employed to justify efforts to weaken collective action. Given the pervasive influence of wealth in politics, the Democratic primary offers one of the few avenues for working people to collectively assert their voice. This proposal aims to diminish that crucial counterbalance.

Best,

Joshua Boyce

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Another New System? New York Voters Deserve a Break

From: MARK SMITH <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 11, 2025 at 07:41 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

Let's not make the mistake of piling confusion on top of confusion. The shift to RCV was a major undertaking. The proposal for "Jungle Primaries" would create another seismic shift in our election laws before we've even recovered from the last one. This kind of perpetual disruption is the enemy of broad-based civic participation. It makes voting feel like an exclusive club for people who have the time to track every arcane rule change. Let's keep our system stable and focus on bringing more people into the democratic process.

- Mark Smith

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Problem with Jungle Primary Reforms

From: Jeff Sanoff <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 11, 2025 at 08:01 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

Jungle primary reforms are a bad idea and voters have made it clear they don't want them. These reforms are ineffective and routinely rejected. Last year, this was on the ballot in six states – Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota – and it failed in every single one. This isn't a partisan issue; it's about voters of all ideologies and partisanship understanding the value in Political Parties and their ability to select their own candidates. This commission should not waste voters time and money putting forward an unpopular proposition. If the commission wants to increase voter turnout, it should simply stick with what is proven to work: even-year elections.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Sanoff

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Clear Choice for Increasing Voter Turnout

From: Sarah Berger <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 11, 2025 at 10:06 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

The cornerstone of a high-turnout democracy is organized, personal engagement. We know from experience that jungle primaries are not the answer to low participation. A proven reform is to align primaries with even-numbered election years. Even more importantly, we must support the vital work of community, labor, and political organizations. Their ability to connect with voters on a personal level is the most effective tool we have. Any attempt to hinder these groups would be a direct blow to voter turnout. Let's champion the organizations that are foundational to a thriving democracy.

Best,

Sarah Berger

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Don't Force Unpopular Reforms: Jungle Primaries

From: Giovanni Hernandez <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 11, 2025 at 11:49 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The ongoing discussion about jungle primaries is perplexing given how consistently voters have rejected them. These reforms simply don't work as advertised and, more importantly, they are profoundly unpopular. We don't need to guess; we have recent history. Last year, the proposal was on the ballot in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota, failing in every instance. This isn't a partisan stance; it's a clear message from voters of all political stripes who understand the importance of political parties in our electoral system. This commission would be wise not to pursue an initiative that voters have so clearly dismissed. If the objective is to truly increase voter turnout, then proven methods, like even-year elections, are the way to go.

Kind regards,

Giovanni Hernandez

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6772660 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 12:15 AM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 12:15:12 AM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: 660

Email:

Phone:

Comments: [WFAN-Style Caller Rant: "Banish These Bums" ♦ Delivered in full throttle, NY sports radio fury] Cue the crackling WFAN phone line, midday. Joe from Bayside is on the air with Mike Francesa. --- JOE FROM BAYSIDE (shouting): Let me tell ya somethin'♦,

Mike. I♦m DONE. I am absolutely DONE with this rogue♦s gallery of losers, crooks, and frauds RUINING this city from the dugout to Gracie Mansion to Madison Square freakin'♦ Garden. I got a list, Mike, and every single one of these bums should be BANISHED from the five boroughs, exiled like Napoleon, and tried at The Hague for crimes against humanity. Lemme run it down: ERIC ADAMS ♦ You call this guy a mayor? He♦s a nightlife influencer in a suit. You got FBI raids, illegal donations from foreign nationals, rats runnin' wild in the subway, and this guy♦s at Zero Bond poppin' bottles! He calls himself the ♦nightlife mayor?♦ What is this, a Diddy music video? Where♦s the governance, Eric? MIKE FRANCESCA: "He don♦t govern, folks. He don♦t lead. He disappears when it matters.

The city♦s on fire and he♦s somewhere at Nobu. It♦s pathetic." AARON BOONE ♦ Can we STOP pretending this guy♦s a manager? This guy♦s the human version of a shrug emoji. Press conferences sound like hostage videos. ♦We♦re close.♦ ♦We♦re turning the corner.♦

CLOSE TO WHAT? MEDIOCRITY?! You can't bunt, you can't manage a bullpen, and you think Gleyber Torres deserves a statue! FRANCESCA: "He's not a manager. He's a fan with a laminated lineup card. A robot in the dugout. The Yankees are a Ferrari being driven by a blindfolded Uber driver." JIM DOLAN ♦ Don't even get me STARTED. The man banned Charles Oakley from the Garden like he was a terrorist. Plays the kazoo like he's got a demon in him. Surveillance squads track Knicks fans who boo. This guy makes Emperor Palpatine look like Mr. Rogers. FRANCESCA: "The worst owner in sports. Hands down. The Knicks succeed in spite of this guy. He'd trade Jalen Brunson for a new jazz solo." FRED & JEFF WILPON ♦ These two ran the Mets like it was a Ponzi scheme♦which, let's not forget, THEY INVESTED IN. Bernie Madoff stole your money and you turned around and stole our hope. Ike Davis cleanup? Ollie Perez extension? SHAMEFUL. FRANCESCA: "Fred thought he was Theo Epstein. Jeff thought he was Billy Beane. They were both Fredo Corleone." ANDREW CUOMO ♦ Mister ♦I am the state.♦ A bully, a liar, and a creep. Eleven credible sexual harassment accusations, nursing home cover-ups, book deals DURING a pandemic. He turned daily COVID briefings into auditions for The Bachelor. FRANCESCA: "He treated Albany like a frat house. He was the king of gaslighting. Good riddance." WOODY JOHNSON ♦ Jets fans, how do you sleep? This guy ran your franchise like a tax shelter. A billionaire buffoon who left to be ambassador to the U.K., then came back and STILL didn't fire Joe Douglas. He builds hype and sells garbage. FRANCESCA: "The Jets have been rebuilding since the Nixon administration. He should be indicted for emotional terrorism." JOHN MARA ♦ The silent prince of disappointment. Preaches ♦class♦ while hiring Dave Gettleman, sticking with Joe Judge, and turning the Giants into a meme. Let's not forget he backed Roger Goodell through every botched scandal like a lapdog. FRANCESCA: "He turned a proud franchise into a laughingstock. You got MetLife looking like a cemetery on Sundays."

KAZ DAUGHTRY & JOHN CHELL ♦ These NYPD suits are more focused on clout than crime. Daughtry's posting TikToks while crime spikes. Chell treats protests like an ego contest. They lead like it's a WWE storyline. FRANCESCA: "They treat Twitter like it's a precinct. The NYPD deserves better leadership than cosplay cops." TIFFANY RASPBERRY & INGRID LEWIS-MARTIN ♦ Unelected, unequipped, and unqualified. These cronies act like they're running a shadow government outta Gracie Mansion. Brooklyn machine hacks with more power than brains. FRANCESCA: "If I wanted Friends of Eric Adams running the city, I'd vote for his doorman." EDWARD CABAN & JEFFREY MADDREY ♦ Corruption, cover-ups, and cowardice. Maddrey's out here reversing disciplinary decisions for cops who rough up kids. Caban's like a mute in a uniform. Who's in charge here? The scriptwriter from The Wire? FRANCESCA: "Maddrey got more skeletons than a Halloween store. Caban's a puppet on a blue-string." HAL STEINBRENNER ♦ I'd rather have a coat rack run the Yankees. This guy don't care if they win, lose, or get swept by the Royals. Keeps Cashman around like he's family. And by the way, $300 million for THIS team? Hal, this ain't Tampa! FRANCESCA: "Hal don't bleed pinstripes. He bleeds spreadsheets. He's allergic to accountability." RICH AZZOPARDI ♦ Cuomo's social media hitman. This guy spends more time tweeting at 14-year-old critics than helping New Yorkers. When he's not defending Cuomo, he's lying for him. Real keyboard warrior tough guy. FRANCESCA: "He's a joke. He's the intern who never left." --- AND NOW, I CALL ON THE NYC CHARTER REVISION COMMISSION ♦ Put a ballot initiative on the NOVEMBER ballot to banish these clowns from New York City permanently. Strip ♦em of their keys, cut their Metrocards, revoke their bagel privileges. Let The Hague take it from there. I♦m talkin' international criminal court jurisdiction. Try 'em all for: Crimes against sports fans. Crimes against governance. Crimes against sandwiches. Crimes against sanity. Send 'em to Rikers Island. Life sentences. No parole.

No kazoo solos. Let them rot on that island with nothing but reruns of their worst decisions and Mike'd Up episodes on loop. THEY HAVE FAILED THIS CITY. --- FRANCESCA (calmly): He ain♦t wrong. We♦ll be back after this.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2a0b:f4c2:1::1, 2[.]23[.]230[.]51, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Android 10; Mobile; rv:109.0) Gecko/115.0 Firefox/115.0
True-Client-IP: 2a0b:f4c2:1::1

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2653984 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 01:02 AM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 01:01:11 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Kenneth Ge

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Manhattan resident, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-4 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, strike a better balance in the land use process, and digitize the City Map. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations-not just the narrowest political interests. A unified City Map is a step in the right direction, since the current system can impose significant costs and time on infrastructure, housing, and other projects. Proposal 4's Digital City Map would allow processes that today take months or even years to occur nearly instantly. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Kenneth Ge

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 209[.]122[.]194[.]119, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 Edg/138[.]0[.]0[.]0
True-Client-IP: 209[.]122[.]194[.]119

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Ranked Choice Was a Huge Success - Don't Take it Away
Now

From: Kathryn Sabbeth <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 01:18 AM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello -

Ranked choice voting worked well in June. Why mess with it now?

Getting rid of a Democratic (party -specific) primary undermines the beauty of ranked choice voting. NYC has become a RCV inspiration to leaders across the country. Why throw that away?

Thank you for considering my views.

Kathryn Sabbeth

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No to Jungle Primaries

From: carolyn kelly <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 06:03 AM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear City Charter Team,

I am writing to strongly oppose the adoption of "Jungle Primaries."

First, jungle primaries can result in a situation where entire parties and perspectives are not represented in the general election. Imagine a general election between two Republican candidates, and no Democratic candidate. Imagine a general election between two Democratic candidates and no Republican candidates. This would distort the electorate's choices, and would not result in an accurate reflection of voters' preferences.

Second, I do not think that Republicans should get to dictate who the Democratic candidate would be, or vice versa. If you want to have a say in choosing the Democratic candidate, you need to care about the direction of the Democratic Party enough to actually join it. Same goes for choosing the Republican candidate.

Third, adopting a jungle primary would eliminate ranked choice voting. Now that New Yorkers have had some experience with ranked choice voting, they love it! It allows people to accurately vote on their values and priorities and to have a back up candidate(s) if their first choice is eliminated. Taking away ranked choice voting just as we have gotten used to it is wrong.

If you actually want to boost voter turnout, here are some ideas:

Move city elections to even numbered years, so that they correspond to state and federal elections.

Allow same-day voter registration so that people can update their party registration or join a party for the first time on Election Day. Our current deadlines for switching party registration are ludicrously early, and that often does have the effect of disenfranchising people who might otherwise vote in the primary.

Please drop this terrible idea of instituting jingle primaries and ripping away ranked choice voting.

Sincerely,

Carolyn Kelly

Get Outlook for iOS

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Consensus Against Open Primaries

From: Lisa Aurigemma <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 08:22 AM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners:

I write to express my opposition to the proposal for "open primaries." My opposition is based in many reasons, but for the sake of concision I would like to highlight three in particular:

Making primaries "open" would functionally nullify the State of New York's purpose of recognizing political parties. Legally recognized political parties are not only culturally important constructs; they are legal structures that provide essential mechanisms by which working people without wealth can successfully organize masses of other fellow working people at a scale large enough to compete with the power of concentrated capital that lies in the hands of the wealthy few.

Open primaries have not been shown to reliably increase voter turnout. Moreover, even in those specific jurisdictions for which evidence of higher turnout exists, such increased turnout tends to come at the cost of also reducing the political diversity of the candidates who appear on the general-election ballot.

Open primaries tend to augment the already disproportionate political influence of concentrated wealth. In so doing, open primaries further diminish the relative power of the donations made, and the organizing & mobilizing activities conducted, by most voters.

In short, open primaries weaken the impact of voters' own efforts to elect candidates aligned with their respective views.

For these reasons alone, the proposal to open NYC's primaries should be removed from the commission's final set of ballot proposals.

Instead of proposing open primaries, the Commission should propose ranked-choice voting in general elections; such a change would substantially address most of the Commission's concerns

as stated in its July 01 report.

Sincerely,

Lisa Aurigemma,
Brooklyn, NY

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7368695 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 09:03 AM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 09:02:45 AM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Pamela L Gallagher

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Closed primaries with ranked choice voting allows every New York City resident to gauge finely whom they want on the general election ballot for their registered party. Allowing members of other parties to affect primary results will lead to spoilers changing the straightforwardness and precision of the current process. Keep primaries closed so the best candidates end up on the November ballot.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5bf4:fb00:63d5:46d4:62be:c15e, 184[.]51[.]149[.]31, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] We've Seen This Before. Let's Stop It.

From: Adrian Gonzalez <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 09:50 AM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The Democratic primary is where communities come together to vet candidates and decide their collective future. The jungle primary system is designed to replace that essential, grassroots democratic process with a high-priced media war funded by the super-rich. It transforms an election into a marketing campaign where the wealthiest candidate wins. This is a direct attack on the democratic rights of working people, who rely on organization and collective action, not massive bank accounts, to make their voices heard. This proposal would effectively silence them.

- Adrian Gonzalez

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2277664 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 10:54 AM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 10:53:57 AM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Rico ryder

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Analyzing Digital Personas: A Presidential Race Forecast I. Executive Summary This report undertakes a comprehensive analysis of the social media profiles and public personas of Jeff Nadu, Rico Bosco, and Mike Francesa, projecting their hypothetical performance in a three-way presidential race. The core finding suggests that while each candidate possesses unique strengths, their digital footprints and established public images present distinct advantages and critical liabilities in a modern, social media-driven electoral landscape. The analysis indicates that Mike Francesa, despite his extensive media legacy and potential appeal to a centrist, disillusioned electorate, would face significant challenges due to his fundamental resistance to and misunderstanding of contemporary social media dynamics. Rico Bosco's highly volatile and often controversial persona, while authentic to his base, would likely alienate a broader electorate, limiting his path to victory. Jeff Nadu, with his cultivated "Mafia & Crime Independent Reporter" persona and a narrative of anti-establishment authenticity, is positioned as the dark horse candidate, uniquely capable of galvanizing a segment of the electorate seeking unconventional and unvarnished leadership in the digital age. II. Introduction:

The Social Media Landscape of a Modern Campaign In the current political climate, a candidate's digital presence is no longer supplementary but central to their viability. Social media platforms serve as primary conduits for direct communication, narrative control, grassroots mobilization, and the shaping of public perception. The emphasis has shifted from traditional political gravitas to perceived authenticity, virality, and the ability to foster direct, often unfiltered, engagement with a digitally native electorate. The ability to connect directly with voters, bypass traditional media gatekeepers, and rapidly disseminate messages is paramount. Furthermore, the capacity to cultivate and maintain a relatable or compelling online persona often outweighs traditional political experience or policy depth in capturing public imagination. This report delves into the intricate social media footprints of three prominent media personalities—Jeff Nadu, Rico Bosco, and Mike Francesa. By dissecting their online personas, content strategies, and engagement patterns, an assessment of their potential strengths and inherent liabilities in a hypothetical presidential contest is conducted, offering a data-driven, albeit speculative, forecast of the electoral outcome. The objective is to understand how their established public identities, forged in the crucible of digital and traditional media, might translate into political capital in a modern electoral arena.

III. Candidate Profile: Jeff Nadu

◆ The "Mafia & Crime" Populist Jeff Nadu's digital presence is notably anchored by "The Sitdown: A Crime History Podcast," which is widely distributed across major podcast platforms like Apple Podcasts and maintains a significant presence on YouTube. He also maintains profiles on Muck Rack and is active on X (formerly Twitter) through his podcast's handle, @sitdowncrimepod, and his personal handle, @jeffnadu. His content is deeply immersed in the realm of organized crime and true crime history. He is explicitly identified as a "Mafia & Crime Independent Reporter & Host" , with his podcast exploring "the sinister and evil lives of the world's most ruthless people," encompassing subjects from "the Mafia, to the drug trade, cartels, terrorists, war criminals, serial killers, white collar criminals and more". Beyond this niche, he is also recognized as a "Sports Bettor" and "Hoops Junkie" , indicating a broader, albeit still male-skewing, interest base. Nadu has meticulously cultivated an image as a knowledgeable authority on organized crime, a persona reinforced by unique endorsements from former mob figures such as Michael "Mikey Scars" DiLeonardo and Michael Franzese. This lends an unconventional, almost insider, credibility that distinguishes him from traditional media personalities. His highly publicized departure from Barstool Sports in June 2023, amidst internal discussions regarding his salary and perceived value , can be strategically framed as a stand against corporate undervaluing or a rejection of mainstream media structures. This narrative could resonate powerfully with a populist electorate deeply skeptical of established institutions and seeking authentic, uncompromised voices. While no longer directly employed by Barstool, his past affiliation and ongoing identification as a "Sports Bettor" position him within the orbit of "Barstool conservatism." This political subculture, as described, encompasses non-religious libertarian concerns, opposition to COVID-19 lockdowns, and a general "unwillingness to accept liberal social norms". This alignment could provide a ready-made base of support. His deep immersion in crime history, while an unconventional foundation for a political campaign, could be strategically leveraged. It could be spun into a "tough on crime" platform, suggesting a candidate who "understands the dark side of power" or "how the world really works" beyond conventional political discourse. This could appeal to voters concerned with law and order, or those drawn to unconventional, unvarnished perspectives. A significant observation emerges from Nadu's public identity: the confluence of his "independent reporter" status, his departure from a prominent corporate entity, and his unique endorsements from figures outside conventional power structures (former mob members) creates a compelling narrative of authenticity and an "outsider" persona. This is not merely about his niche content; it concerns a public identity that actively rejects or transcends traditional institutional norms. His exit from Barstool, particularly if presented as a principled stand against corporate undervaluing, further reinforces this "anti-establishment" image, suggesting he prioritizes his own terms over institutional conformity. In a political campaign, this "authentic outsider" persona directly taps into a growing segment of the electorate deeply distrustful of mainstream politicians, traditional media, and established power structures. Voters might perceive his "mafia expertise" not as a liability, but as a unique, unvarnished understanding of human nature and the darker aspects of power dynamics, making him appear more "real" or "street-smart" than conventional candidates. This could effectively mobilize a populist, anti-system voting bloc, particularly those who feel unrepresented by the political mainstream. His lack of traditional political affiliation or experience could be strategically presented as a strength, emphasizing his independence from a perceived corrupt system.

IV. Candidate Profile: Rico Bosco ♦ The "Unpredictable" Outsider Rico Bosco operates as a journalist and blogger for Barstool Sports , leveraging associated Barstool handles such as @barstoolsports, @stoolgambling, and @barstoolpickem. His personal X handle is identified as @Return_Of_RB. While direct follower counts for his X and Instagram accounts are not explicitly provided in the available information, some sources indicate inaccessibility or generic tools for checking these metrics. His content predominantly revolves around sports, gambling, and general lifestyle blogging. Recent article examples include "I Have Bought All The Mike Katic Stock Possible After Seeing His Video About The Barstool Beach House" and "This 'Gold Digger' Test Men Are Doing On Dates Is One Of The Bizarre Stories I've Ever Heard". He also covers diverse topics such as skydiving. Rico Bosco's self-description on Muck Rack as a "Power Broker" and "Dozen Champion" projects a self-assured and competitive image within the Barstool Sports ecosystem, suggesting a drive for dominance and recognition in his field. However, he is widely known for his highly volatile and often "insane" behavior". A notable incident involved him throwing a High Noon can at a colleague, "Big T," which resulted in a one-month suspension from Barstool Sports and a mandate for court-ordered anger management therapy. He has been explicitly described as a "psycho" and possessing "thin skin" , prone to "meltdowns" when his personal life is broached. His initial use of a pseudonym and relative anonymity , coupled with his background as a frequent caller to prominent sports radio shows like WFAN , contribute to an "everyman" appeal. This positions him as a relatable figure who has engaged with public discourse from the perspective of an ordinary citizen. The widely publicized High Noon incident indelibly stamped his public image as intensely volatile and unpredictable. While such behavior would typically be a significant liability for a mainstream political candidate, in the context of social media and a populist electorate, this "unfiltered" nature can paradoxically enhance his perceived authenticity among those who prioritize raw expression over conventional decorum. The perception that Bosco is "on his last strike for multiple immediately fireable offenses" further underscores his boundary-pushing persona. This could be interpreted as a strength by voters who desire a candidate who is unafraid to "fight back," "break the rules," or challenge the status quo, regardless of the consequences. A key observation regarding Bosco's public identity is that his "insane behavior" and "thin skin" can be strategically reframed in the contemporary landscape of social media and populist movements. Rather than inherent flaws, these traits can be presented as indicators of "raw authenticity" and a defiant refusal to conform to "fake" political personas. This "authenticity of chaos" resonates deeply with a segment of the electorate that is profoundly cynical about polished politicians and actively craves genuine, unfiltered expression, even if that expression is aggressive or controversial. His explicit association with "Barstool conservatism" ♦ a movement that openly embraces "politically incorrect" behavior, "sexual libertinism," and opposition to "liberal social norms" ♦ provides him with a pre-existing, highly engaged, and mobilizable base (his "Rico's Ryders," ). This base perceives his volatility as a sign of passionate conviction rather than instability. A Rico Bosco presidential campaign would be characterized by intense energy and fervent, albeit concentrated, support. He could masterfully leverage viral moments, even those born from controversy, to generate significant online buzz and media attention. His "everyman" background as a "professional caller" further enhances his relatability to a working-class, anti-establishment demographic. However, his extreme volatility and documented history of workplace incidents would serve as formidable deterrents to broader appeal, particularly among moderate, female, or professional voters. This would make the formation of a winning, broad coalition exceptionally challenging. His campaign would represent a high-risk, high-reward proposition, capable of dominating niche online spaces but consistently struggling for wider legitimacy.

V. Candidate Profile: Mike Francesa ♦ The "Veteran Voice" of Discontent Mike Francesa's current digital footprint is primarily manifested through "The Mike Francesa Podcast," distributed on platforms such as Spotify and YouTube, and affiliated with the BetRivers Network. His career boasts a long and distinguished history in traditional sports radio, notably with WFAN and the iconic "Mike and the Mad Dog" show. His content consistently focuses on in-depth sports analysis and commentary, covering major leagues and teams such as the Yankees, Mets, NBA, NFL, and MLB. Podcast episodes are released frequently, addressing topical sports news and developments. Francesa possesses significant inherent gravitas and a deeply loyal following cultivated over decades as a leading voice in sports radio. This extensive, long-standing presence establishes him as a trusted, authoritative figure for a specific, largely older, demographic.

He has publicly articulated a nuanced political stance, expressing disappointment with both Donald Trump (whom he initially endorsed in 2016 but later vociferously criticized for his handling of the COVID-19 pandemic) and Joe Biden (whom he voted for in 2020 but has since criticized for his administration's direction). This positions him as a potential "pox on both their houses" candidate, appealing to a segment of voters weary of partisan extremes. He also critiques media bias, lamenting that "there's nowhere where news is right down the middle unfiltered" , a sentiment that resonates with a broad audience. Francesa's documented shift from endorsing Trump to voting for Biden, coupled with his ongoing criticism of both, suggests a pragmatic and independent political thought process rather than adherence to a rigid ideological framework. This flexibility could attract independent voters and those who prioritize nuanced critique over partisan loyalty. Crucially, Francesa has a well-documented and vocal disdain for modern social media platforms, particularly X (Twitter). He has famously stated that tweeting should be "against the law" and emphatically declared that he would "never join the platform". Furthermore, he actively sought to prevent social media accounts, such as @BackAftaThis (which boasted over 97,000 followers), from posting clips of his show, explicitly expressing "displeasure that social media posted a video of him Tuesday blasting President Trump". This demonstrates a fundamental and active resistance to the uncontrolled virality and rapid dissemination inherent in contemporary digital campaigns. A critical observation is that Francesa's "sports broadcasting legend" status provides a substantial, built-in audience, primarily older and accustomed to traditional media, who trust his authoritative voice. His nuanced criticism of both major political parties positions him as a compelling figure for disillusioned centrists and independents, tapping into a widespread desire for a more pragmatic or less partisan leader. However, his profound and active aversion to social media platforms , including his efforts to control or suppress the organic sharing of his content , is not merely a personal preference. It represents a critical strategic flaw and a fundamental disconnect with the very mechanisms that drive modern political campaigns. In an era where viral clips, real-time narrative control, and direct social media engagement are paramount, his stance is a severe, self-imposed strategic handicap. He perceives social media as something to be controlled or even legislated against, rather than embraced as an indispensable tool for direct public engagement and rapid message dissemination. While Francesa could undoubtedly attract a segment of older, more traditional voters and those who appreciate his "level-headed" critique of the political establishment, his inability or unwillingness to effectively leverage social media would severely limit his capacity to reach younger demographics, control his campaign narrative in real-time, or generate crucial organic virality. His campaign would be forced to rely heavily on outdated traditional media strategies or contend with an internal contradiction where a digital team constantly battles his own stated preferences. This profound digital disconnect would be a significant barrier to expanding his base beyond his existing, aging audience and would ultimately prove to be a critical impediment to victory in a modern presidential race heavily influenced by online presence.

VI. Comparative Analysis: Strengths

and Weaknesses for a Presidential Bid A direct comparison of the three individuals reveals distinct profiles impacting their hypothetical political viability. Mike Francesa commands broad name recognition from his extensive traditional media career, but his active social media reach is significantly constrained by his personal aversion to these platforms. In contrast, Jeff Nadu and Rico Bosco, while having more niche origins (Barstool, independent podcasting), possess potentially higher engagement within their respective online communities, which are more aligned with modern digital consumption habits. Their engagement styles also vary considerably. Nadu fosters engagement through deep dives into niche, often controversial, topics, positioning himself as an authoritative, independent voice. Bosco's style is characterized by raw, unfiltered, and often volatile expressions, generating intense, albeit sometimes polarizing, engagement. Francesa's engagement is more traditional and authoritative, resembling a lecture or expert commentary, and is less interactive or reactive on social platforms. In terms of public image, Nadu projects an image of a niche authority and an anti-establishment, unconventional figure. Bosco embodies the volatile, authentic "everyman" outsider, frequently embroiled in controversy. Francesa is perceived as a veteran voice, authoritative, and a disillusioned centrist, but also resistant to new media paradigms. An assessment of how these unique personas might translate into political strengths and weaknesses is crucial:

Jeff Nadu: Potential Political Strengths: Strong appeal to anti-establishment and populist voters seeking authenticity outside mainstream politics. His niche authority in crime could be spun into a "tough on crime" platform. His independent status allows for a clean break from traditional political baggage. Potential Political Weaknesses: His niche content might struggle to translate into broad appeal beyond a specific demographic. Potential ethical liabilities from association with and endorsement by former mob figures. Lack of traditional political experience or policy depth.

Rico Bosco: Potential Political Strengths: High perceived authenticity and "everyman" relatability, particularly to a younger, male, and "politically incorrect" demographic aligned with "Barstool conservatism." His loyal "Rico's Ryders" base offers a highly mobilizable and fervent support network. Potential for viral moments to generate significant, if controversial, buzz. Potential Political Weaknesses: Extreme volatility, documented anger management issues, and "thin skin" would be significant deterrents to broad appeal, alienating moderate, female, and professional voters. His history of public incidents could overshadow any policy discussions. Perceived instability would be a major hurdle for a national office.

Mike Francesa: Potential Political Strengths: Established credibility and broad name recognition among older demographics. His centrist appeal and criticism of both major parties could attract independent and swing voters. His authoritative delivery and perceived gravitas could be seen as presidential. Potential Political Weaknesses: His active and vocal resistance to modern social media is a critical strategic flaw, limiting his reach to younger demographics and hindering real-time narrative control. His audience is likely aging, making it difficult to expand his base. He could be perceived as "out of touch" with contemporary communication and campaign realities.

Table 1: Comparative Social Media & Persona Analysis

Candidate	Primary Platforms	Key Content
Mike Francesa	WEEI Radio, Fox Sports New England	Traditional media presence, sports commentary, centrist political views
Jeff Nadu	YouTube, Instagram, Twitter	Niche crime content, anti-establishment rhetoric, authoritative voice
Rico Bosco	Barstool Sports, YouTube, Instagram	Unfiltered, volatile expressions, "everyman" persona, anti-establishment

Themes Dominant Persona Traits Potential Political Strengths Potential Political Weaknesses

Jeff Nadu Podcast/YouTube/X Mafia/Crime/Sports Independent, Niche Authority, Anti-establishment Anti-establishment, Populist appeal, Unconventional authenticity, "Tough on crime" narrative Niche appeal, Potential ethical liabilities, Lack of traditional political experience

Rico Bosco Barstool/X/Blogging Sports/Gambling/Lifestyle Volatile, Authentic, "Everyman" High perceived authenticity, Mobilizable niche base, Viral potential Extreme volatility, Alienates broad electorate, Controversies overshadow policy

Mike Francesa Podcast/YouTube/Traditional Radio Sports Analysis/Commentary Veteran, Authoritative, Disillusioned Centrist, Digitally Resistant Established credibility, Broad name recognition (older demo), Centrist appeal

Profound digital disconnect, Aging audience, Perceived as "out of touch"

Export to Sheets VII. Prediction: The Hypothetical Presidential Race In a hypothetical three-way presidential race heavily influenced by social media dynamics, Jeff Nadu is predicted to emerge as the unexpected winner. This projection is based on a detailed assessment of each candidate's digital footprint and public persona. Mike Francesa's undeniable media legacy and a potential appeal to disillusioned centrist voters would prove to be a fatal flaw in a contemporary presidential election. Campaigns are increasingly won or lost based on digital reach, the ability to generate viral moments, and the capacity for direct, real-time engagement with the electorate.

His documented attempts to control the dissemination of his content demonstrate a fundamental strategic misunderstanding of how modern digital narratives are built and spread. His vocal disdain for platforms like X, even stating that tweeting should be "against the law" , would severely limit his ability to expand his base beyond his existing, likely older, fanbase and effectively counter opponent narratives, making it challenging to mobilize younger voters or generate essential organic buzz.

Rico Bosco's raw, unfiltered authenticity and "everyman" relatability would undoubtedly energize a highly loyal and fervent niche base, particularly those aligned with "Barstool conservatism" who appreciate his "telling it like it is" attitude. His "Rico's Ryders" represent a mobilizable force. However, his extensively documented volatility, "insane behavior" , and "thin skin" would constitute significant deterrents to broader appeal. These traits would alienate crucial segments of the electorate, including moderate voters, women, and professionals, preventing him from building the broad coalition necessary for national victory. While he could dominate specific online echo chambers, his controversies would consistently overshadow any policy discussions and prevent mainstream acceptance.

Jeff Nadu's "Mafia & Crime Independent Reporter" persona and his compelling narrative as an "outsider" who chose to depart from Barstool Sports position him uniquely in this hypothetical race. His endorsements from former mob figures , while controversial and unconventional, paradoxically lend him an "authentic" anti-establishment credibility that resonates powerfully with voters deeply distrustful of traditional politics and media. He embodies a "tough on crime" or "understands the system from the outside" appeal, which, in a climate of public disillusionment, could be a significant draw. While his niche might initially appear limited, in a three-way contest where the other two candidates possess significant and campaign-defining liabilities (Francesa's digital disconnect, Bosco's extreme volatility), Nadu could effectively consolidate a populist, anti-system vote. His relative lack of overt political baggage (compared to Francesa's past endorsements or Bosco's public meltdowns) allows for a cleaner, albeit unconventional, narrative that could appeal to a segment of the electorate actively seeking a truly unconventional leader. Potential Voter Demographics Jeff Nadu: Would likely appeal to younger, predominantly male, anti-establishment, and populist voters. This demographic includes those with a strong interest in true crime or the underworld, and potentially a segment of the "Barstool conservatism" base seeking a more serious, albeit unconventional, voice that challenges the status quo. Rico Bosco: Would attract a core of younger, male "stoolies" and voters who prioritize unfiltered, politically incorrect expression. This includes a segment of the "Barstool conservatism" base drawn to extreme authenticity and entertainment value, regardless of controversy. Mike Francesa: Would primarily appeal to older, traditional sports radio listeners and centrist voters disillusioned with both major political parties. This demographic values established media personalities and authoritative commentary over digital-native influencers or volatile personalities.

Table 2: Hypothetical Electoral Viability Matrix
Candidate Perceived Authenticity Score (1-5)
Media Savvy Score (Digital) (1-5)
Controversy Index (1-5, 5=highest)
Niche Appeal (1-5)
Broad Appeal (1-5)
Predicted Outcome Factor (1-5)

Jeff Nadu	4	3	3	4	3	4
Rico Bosco	5	4	5	5	1	2
Mike Francesa	3	1	2	2	3	2

Export to Sheets
Scores are speculative and based on the qualitative analysis presented in this report.
VIII. Conclusion
In this speculative analysis of a three-way presidential race among Jeff Nadu, Rico Bosco, and Mike Francesa, the report concludes that Jeff Nadu, the "Mafia & Crime" populist, is best positioned to win. His unique blend of "authentic outsider" appeal, niche authority, and a compelling narrative of independence from traditional media and political structures aligns more effectively with the demands of a modern, social media-driven campaign than the significant liabilities faced by his competitors. Francesa's profound digital resistance and Bosco's extreme volatility would ultimately prove too limiting for broader electoral success. This hypothetical electoral scenario vividly underscores the evolving nature of political viability in the 21st century. Contemporary elections are increasingly shaped by a candidate's digital persona, their capacity for direct engagement with highly fragmented and niche audiences, and their perceived authenticity, often transcending traditional political experience or broad, mainstream appeal. The "election" in this context transforms from a contest of policy platforms into a dynamic interplay of personality, viral narratives, and digital resonance. The ability to navigate and leverage the complex landscape of social media, rather than merely existing within it, emerges as a decisive factor in capturing the public's imagination and, ultimately, their vote.

-----

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6746345 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 01:26 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 01:26:36 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Donna Gould

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am opposed to open primaries. The would weaken the Working Families Party, which is very valuable in evaluating candidates for public office.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:9cec:e00:903f:3700:4898:232, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:9cec:e00:903f:3700:4898:232

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] We Need Real Solutions, Not Failed Reforms

From: Thomas Gilmore <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 12:18 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

It is time to put to rest the myth that jungle primaries are a tool for increasing voter turnout. The evidence from states that have implemented them is clear and consistent: they do not have a significant impact on participation rates. To continue to argue otherwise is to fly in the face of the facts. We need to be honest with ourselves and the public about what works and what doesn't. Let's abandon this failed experiment and instead focus our resources on strategies that are known to be effective.

Thank you,
Thomas Gilmore

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Stop the Jungle Primary Push: It's Unpopular

From: jessenia <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 01:45 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

Don't even consider jungle primaries. Voters have consistently said no. These reforms are ineffective and routinely rejected. Mayor Bloomberg's attempt in New York in 2003 was dismissed by 70-30%. Last year, the same concept failed in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. This widespread rejection shows that voters understand the value of political parties. This commission should respect the will of the people and not waste resources on an already rejected idea. If the goal is to boost voter turnout, focus on what actually works, like even-year elections.

Best,

Jessenia Ramirez

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7806832 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 02:52 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 02:52:39 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: William Monaghan

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I'm totally against having Open Primaries in New York City. Please prevent this from happening. Thank You.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:b830:7a75:2dc2:cc3d:efe6:fe5, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 16_6_1 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/16.6 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:b830:7a75:2dc2:cc3d:efe6:fe5

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Pace of Election Reform

From: John McFaul <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 02:56 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

We just invested significantly in educating voters on RCV after its 2019 approval. To immediately pivot to "Jungle Primaries" is to waste that effort and create a sense of electoral instability that will deter participation. This constant disruption signals that our electoral rules are temporary, which erodes voter confidence and makes future engagement less likely. We need consistent policy.

Thanks,

John Mcfaul

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1873797 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 03:34 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 03:34:31 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Amit Chaffee

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Dear Commissioners: I write to express my opposition to the proposal for "open primaries." Open primaries would sabotage the mandate of voters by allowing political opponents to interfere with the selection of party candidates. For example, they could vote in a candidate that does not represent the interests of New Yorkers. Furthermore, open primaries do not necessarily increase voter turnout. Instead, I recommend making all election and primary days state holidays and schedule them to coincide with federal elections and primaries. Sincerely, Amit Chaffee Brooklyn

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb90:552d:1f1:4ac:a6d:9d60:42ec, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Jungle Primaries: A Threat to Every Worker

From: Amelia Harrison <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 03:39 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

The true nature of "jungle primaries" should be recognized: they are a well-established tactic employed by billionaires to undermine the power of organized labor. This system enables them to inject substantial financial resources into electoral races, effectively acquiring preferred candidates rather than allowing parties to select representatives accountable to their constituents. This assault on unions is an assault on the capacity to prevent the privatization of educational institutions, sanitation services, and other vital public provisions. The narrative that "public sector unions" have "outsized influence" is a fabrication devised by those who benefit from maintaining a weakened workforce. The reality is that the wealthy already dominate the political and economic landscape. The party primary is one of the few places where counter-pressure can be exerted. The integrity of primaries must be protected.

Best,

Amelia Harrison

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Writing to Oppose Jungle Primaries

From: Sagie Tvizer <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 04:46 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

I'm writing to express my concern about your consideration to move to so-called open primaries. I remember learning about the distinction between types of primaries and caucuses when I was about 14 years old. I remember thinking then "closed primaries seem like the only common-sense approach". Why should Democrats get to vote in Republican primaries? What the is the purpose of having political parties?

The data from states that have adopted jungle primaries unequivocally demonstrates that they do not increase voter turnout. If our objective is truly to enhance democratic participation, we must abandon strategies that have been empirically shown to fail and instead pursue those that yield tangible results. The recent experience in Alaska, which implemented open primaries in 2022, serves as a stark reminder. The 2024 primary election saw alarmingly low turnout, marking it as one of the lowest in half a century.

This robust data decisively points to the conclusion that these elections have had little to no impact on encouraging more people to vote. We need to focus on effective voter outreach and engagement, not on structural reforms that consistently fall short.

Best,

Sagie Tvizer

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Why NYC Should Avoid Open Primaries for Turnout

From: Malcolm Balles <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 04:49 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to

phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

I want to express my deep concern that advocating for jungle primaries as a solution for voter turnout is misguided. The factual evidence from states where they have been implemented shows they do not boost participation. We must base our policy decisions on what the data tells us, not on hopeful but ultimately unsubstantiated claims. Consider Alaska, which adopted open primaries in 2022. The 2024 primary election saw alarmingly low turnout, ranking among the lowest in half a century. This outcome decisively points to the conclusion that these "new systems" have had little to no impact on encouraging greater voter participation. We need to recognize that this new system doesn't automatically guarantee high turnout and that other, more direct methods are far more effective.

Sincerely,

Malcolm Balles

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3137357 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 04:54 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (leung5326@gmail.com) on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 04:54:18 PM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Nick Leung

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Hello, I am a member of the public and Open New York, a grassroots housing advocacy organization. I'd like to express my support for the first four questions proposed by the commission (fast track affordable housing, simplifying smaller projects/ELURP, land use appeals board, and digitized city map). I am especially excited about questions 1, 2 and 3; to me it is obvious that our current process and current amount of local community input (well-intentioned to housing or not) applied towards local housing projects has exacerbated NYC's housing production for decades. While in fact I personally wish these reforms could go further, these proposals seem reasonable, and I hope the commission is thoughtful regarding their political viability, as to not propose something which is unlikely to have political appeal. Naturally I believe most CBs and CMs will object to 1, 2 and 3 which could influence the overall popularity of the proposals. I cannot predict their viability but would love for the commission to consider if there's concern that their are not viable: 1) adjusting the wording/branding of the proposal to broaden appeal 2) adjusting the intensity of the proposal (for example, using bottom 8 or 10 districts rather than 12) I really appreciate the commission's effort and time into these proposals and again provide my support with just this consideration.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:5871:a100:1570:24dd:4da0:7076, 184[.]51[.]149[.]37, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10.15; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:5871:a100:1570:24dd:4da0:7076

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

ULURP:

Denying City Council & Community Boards their legal right to testify, equals total lack of transparency. This equates to silence.

Silence kills.

The Fed has done serious damage to human, environmental and economic health. As you all are aware. The City must wake up and not permit total lack of transparency and silence.

Be Well,
Denise

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7143876 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 05:50 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 05:50:30 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Denise Katzman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Shutting out City Council is a legal violation. Be Well, Denise Katzman

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:a010:f1b4:d919:8920:3b47:39e1, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/136[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:a010:f1b4:d919:8920:3b47:39e1

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3989855 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 04:55 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 04:55:08 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Kamil Bokina

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: The recent Democratic primary has shown that with the correct political messaging, a candidate can win people from all political parties, not just the one political party they are running with. Republicans, Democrats, and especially members of the Working Families Party need their voices heard in all stages of democracy. Most importantly, independents make up the majority of voters, representing a working class voter base that also needs to be represented. It will also increase voter turnout, more accurately reflecting the needs of working class people.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:96f3:1900:18b1:b146:b898:39e, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2949756 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 05:58 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 05:58:35 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Azuka Anunkor

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Shifting Elections to Even Years I support this proposal. Holding municipal elections on even years to coincide with federal and state elections would get more voters to turn out & save money.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 105[.]113[.]36[.]184, 2[.]18[.]30[.]223, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (X11; Linux x86_64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/135[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 105[.]113[.]36[.]184

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-204596 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 07:50 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 07:50:18 PM

-----

This form resides at hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=4&can_id=cfe2f5a217f4e4370529791af41a0f8c&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email_2807601&email_subject=_-housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Salli Barash

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I oppose any changes to the city charter. The upcoming mayoral election is very concerning . Communist candidate Zohran Mamdani poses a grave threat to the citizens of New York City. No changes should be made to the city charter which could make it easier for so-called Progressives to institute radical changes. Housing can be made more affordable by repealing environmental regulations which increase the cost of energy and require burdensome reporting in furtherance of mythical net zero goals. Ending sanctuary city policies will also prevent illegal aliens from taking subsidized housing from needy American citizens.

-----

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Respecting Voters' Will: No Jungle Primaries

From: Ryan Williams <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 08:07 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to

phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

Voters do not like jungle primaries. It's that simple. These reforms are ineffective and are routinely rejected. Mayor Bloomberg's attempt in New York in 2003 was dismissed 70-30%. Last year, it failed in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota.

This widespread rejection shows voters' appreciation for political parties. This commission should not waste time and money on an unpopular proposition. If the aim is to increase turnout, stick with proven methods like even-year elections.

Thank you,

Ryan Williams

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9252232 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 11:01 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 11:00:06 PM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alex Schiff

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: To the Charter Revision Commission: I am a resident of New York for about 4 years. I've lived all over: suburban Detroit and Tampa, Boston and Cambridge, San Francisco, and now Brooklyn. When I moved to New York, people asked if I moved here for work, school, family, and the usual suspects. My job had gone remote during the pandemic, so I could be anywhere but I moved to New York because I wanted to be here. San Francisco felt stuck, and it didn't change much in the five years I was there, besides everything getting more expensive, and more of my friends leaving. New York wasn't cheap, but it always felt new every time I visited. After living here for four years, neighborhoods still feel new if it's been a few months since I was last there. Not long after moving here, I noticed this building on the water near the bridges on Manhattan that's just towers over all the other low rise buildings. It doesn't fit in at all, and I remember thinking to myself - how the hell did that get built? It wasn't a very pretty building. It probably blocked a lot of people's views and pissed a bunch of people off, probably for the sake of some luxury condos. That would never get built in San Francisco, I said. And that's why I love that building. That's One Manhattan Square, and it houses over 1,000 people. That's 1,000 people who aren't competing for the homes in the surrounding area, meaning they're not driving up everyone *else's* rent, putting more incentives on their landlords to find higher paying tenants. That's 1,000 more people living in New York - paying millions of dollars in city taxes and subway fares, spending even more money at local businesses, and giving the city and state more weight in elections. Maybe even starting the next bar, restaurant, or shop locals love. Right before I moved to San Francisco, I met a career mentor for coffee. He said in 2015: "San Francisco is going to have to become like Manhattan and build up. It's the only way anyone will be able to afford living here." He was right about one thing - it was the only way anyone can afford to live there. But 10 years later, San Francisco builds so little and rejects housing for such comically bad reasons that it has become a meme. Entire sections of the city are essentially frozen in time, because a single resident protests on the basis of a ruined view, an unwanted shadow, an objection to its style or color, less parking, or whatever, and enough of them band together with the people who don't want more development for any reason to kill a project. This may sound familiar to many of you involved with housing approvals in New York - but let me assure you, it can get worse. In fact, the default is that it does, because it's a lot easier to find creative ways to say no. The city charter sets the ground rules for the process by which much of this happens. I challenge us to imagine a city where the default is yes, and where we focus on creating the right *rules* for thoughtful, deliberate growth that actually meets demand, because that is the only way to keep prices in check. We have building codes, zoning codes, and all kinds of rules that govern what can be built, by who, for who, etc. Those rules have their problems, but they are predictable and enforceable. Predictable environments means developers can plan and budget for projects, and spend less time on one-off customizations and accommodations to please the small minority of people who show up to a hearing - every single one of which adds cost that make no mistake, someone is paying for in rent. Most people think most projects seem fine, but

"seems fine" doesn't show up to a hearing. I want more homes - because I want a more affordable and vibrant city - and I don't go those hearings. I am only contributing to this process because I hope to influence the rules vs litigate competing visions of the city block by block. What would a true city of yes look like? I think it would mean looking for ways to remove the ways to say no - because I don't like it. There are plenty of reasons to oppose something in your neighborhood, but they should be litigated on the basis of the laws and codes that allow it to happen, not every single project. Decide buildings need to include X% affordable units to get a tax credit, or can't be above a certain height in certain areas, or just can't be painted purple, or even that certain areas can make their own rules. But don't let a single neighbor - or more frequently - some outside pretend-justice group - protest a project because a building is "changing the neighborhood" until they agree to use the right labor or make the right donation or appease the right group and tie up the process in hearings. The point being - litigate the rules, not every project. We don't ask all our neighbors if it's okay if we can have friends over for a birthday party - we have noise ordinances that define what disrupting our neighbors means, and there are consequences for breaking those ordinances. We don't have a committee review every car before it's sold or brought into a neighborhood to ensure it meets environmental standards - we have laws around what these standards are and hold companies accountable when they make cars that do not meet these standards. Why is housing different? Can we honestly look at the situation today and say it's any better? As this commission weighs public input for these rules, my sole ask is create more space for default yes to happen. If we create a more predictable environment for development in more places in the city, more housing projects will just make sense, and just happen. Embracing this doesn't just keep our own rent down, but keeps New York from becoming San Francisco: stuck in time, working only for people who bought a home decades ago, or who make enough money to not care about the rent.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:a410:d7c5:e5f7:1ee6:62b1:98eb, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) CriOS/138.0.7204.119 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:a410:d7c5:e5f7:1ee6:62b1:98eb

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6099203 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 09:42 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 09:42:03 PM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Judith Jacobson

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I do not support open primaries. If people don't want to register for a party, they don't have to. However, if they want to offer their opinion they should register. They do not have to stay in the the party and can quit the next day. It is not a great burden. There are no obligations or fees to register for a party. There will be imposter candidates with an open primary. Also what is not clear is whether there will be one or 2 primaries. Or whether candidates will have to submit signatures. Things are fine as they are.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 216[.]169[.]136[.]125, 23[.]62[.]155[.]143, 23[.]220[.]105[.]89, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Prioritizing Proven Turnout Strategies

From: Matthew Stillman <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 08:08 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

Genuine voter turnout gains are achieved through organized effort, not through untested electoral schemes. The empirical evidence is clear: jungle primaries have not, and do not, increase voter participation. Our focus, if we are serious about turnout, should be on proven reforms like transitioning to even-year primaries. Critically, the power of people's organizations – community groups, unions, and political parties – in mobilizing the electorate is immense and undeniable. They possess the infrastructure and dedication to conduct the most effective forms of voter engagement, namely canvassing and direct member-to-member contact. Countless analyses have underscored how these personal interactions are key drivers of participation. The underlying motivation behind attempts to diminish the power or self-determination of organized groups, such as political parties, seems to be to suppress, not increase, turnout. If we want a more vibrant and engaged electorate, we need these organized entities to flourish and participate robustly.

Best,

Matthew Stillman

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-139540 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 12, 2025 at 11:16 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Saturday, July 12, 2025, at 11:16:40 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Rabbi Jill Hausman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I oppose eliminating and/or limiting the roles of the City Council and Community Boards in the ULURP process. I also oppose open primary elections. Taking decision making away from City Council members who we have elected, and who have a firm grasp of the issues and the power structures ultimately diminishes the ability of neighborhoods to have input into important governmental decisions and reduces our representation in government affairs. The parties also have an important role to play in vetting and educating candidates. I urge a "no" vote on these issues.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 35[.]131[.]61[.]11, 23[.]34[.]83[.]87, 23[.]220[.]105[.]88, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] This Idea Has Already Been Defeated

From: Will Schanz <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 12, 2025 at 11:46 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to

phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners, The pursuit of jungle primaries is a solution in search of a problem and one that voters have consistently rejected. The six-state sweep of defeats last year is the most recent and powerful evidence of its unpopularity. Voters in Arizona,

Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota all chose to stick with the traditional primary system. This commission should take that as a clear directive. It is time to abandon this failed idea and focus on proven reforms that can actually improve our elections, such as consolidating them in even years. Best, Will Schanz

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1617708 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 07:18 AM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (rcroon@gmail.com) on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 07:17:56 AM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Robert Croonquist

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am opposed to open primaries.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:4c3a:bbac:f1e8:fc21:8856:657, 23[.]33[.]43[.]213, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Safari/605.1.15

True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:4c3a:bbac:f1e8:fc21:8856:657

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9599311 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 08:05 AM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by [REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 08:05:21 AM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Marc Walkow

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I am writing simply to offer my thoughts on the two possible ballot proposals that concern election and voting issues: the proposal to establish open primaries for municipal elections and the proposal to shift municipal elections to even years. The proposal to establish open primaries for municipal elections should not appear on the ballot yet, due to the rushed process through which it was proposed and formed. This would be an enormous change to primary elections in New York and should be further studied, researched, and reviewed before it appears on a public ballot. The proposal to shift municipal elections to even years, however, will require additional state approval and therefore it should move forward and proceed to the public ballot. Thank you for your consideration.

-----

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] NYC: Don't Expect a Turnout Revolution from Open
Primaries

From: Miriam Cohen <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 10:51 AM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to

phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

I'm here to challenge the narrative that jungle primaries are a tool for increasing voter turnout. The data from states that have adopted them unequivocally proves otherwise. If our objective is truly to enhance democratic participation, we must abandon strategies that have been empirically shown to fail and instead pursue those that yield tangible results. The recent experience in Alaska, which implemented open primaries in 2022, serves as a stark reminder. The 2024 primary election saw alarmingly low turnout, marking it as one of the lowest in half a century. This robust data decisively points to the conclusion that these elections have had little to no impact on encouraging more people to vote. We need to focus on effective voter outreach and engagement, not on structural reforms that consistently fall short.

Best,

Miriam Cohen

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Wrong Priority for New York's Voters

From: Karen Wang <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 10:56 AM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

I am writing to you as a New York City resident who votes in every election. I have also worked as a poll worker. I care greatly about our city and about civic participation.

The proposal for "Jungle Primaries" fundamentally misunderstands the needs of the New York electorate. Voters need consistency and clarity, not a revolving door of electoral systems. After adopting Ranked-Choice Voting in 2019, the responsible next step is to let it mature, study its effects, and strengthen voter education. Abruptly shifting to another complex system would be a chaotic and counterproductive move, betraying the public's recent decision and sowing confusion that will inevitably harm turnout.

In addition, there is no evidence that jungle primaries boost voter turnout. In fact, jungle primaries have proven NOT to raise turnout in the states where they have been implemented. Jungle primaries have been the law in California since 2012, and according to California's own turnout data, turnout has stayed almost exactly the same when compared to the previous 12 years, for both primaries and general elections. If the commission's primary goal is to increase turnout, the way to do that is to move to even-year primaries.

Re: Opposition to Jungle Primaries in NYC – Charter Revision Commission Proposal

To the Commissioners:

I'm writing to express my strong opposition to the proposal to introduce jungle (open) primaries in New York City. My opposition is grounded in extensive scholarly research and empirical evidence that demonstrates these systems fail to achieve their stated goals while creating significant new problems for democratic governance in our city.

Introduction

Jungle primaries, also known as top two primaries or nonpartisan blanket primaries, were initially suggested by various political scientists and reform advocates as a solution to political polarization and low voter turnout. The system gained traction in states like California and Washington, where all candidates regardless of party affiliation appear on a single primary ballot with the top two vote-getters advancing to the general election. However, the evidence from these implementations tells a troubling story that New York City must heed before making the same mistakes.

The proposal before this commission represents a fundamental shift in how we conduct elections in our city. But unlike successful reforms that build on evidence and strengthen democratic institutions, jungle primaries have consistently failed to deliver on their promises while creating new barriers to representation for marginalized communities. The data is clear, and the implications for New York City's diverse political landscape are profound.

What Are Jungle Primaries and Why They Don't Work

Jungle primaries are electoral systems where all candidates, regardless of party affiliation, appear on a single primary ballot, and the top two vote-getters advance to the general election. Proponents claim this system reduces polarization, increases voter turnout, and produces more moderate candidates. However, the empirical evidence from states that have implemented these systems tells a different story entirely.

The fundamental problem with jungle primaries is that they rest on flawed assumptions about how voters behave and how democratic institutions function. The Supreme Court's decision in California Democratic Party v. Jones (2000) established that these systems violate the First Amendment's freedom of association clause by forcing political parties to accept candidates they have not chosen. As Professor Richard Pildes of NYU Law School has extensively documented, parties serve as crucial intermediary institutions in democratic governance, and jungle primaries undermine their associational rights.

This constitutional framework is particularly relevant to New York City, where strong party organization has historically facilitated representation across our diverse communities. Political parties, despite their flaws, serve as vehicles for coalition building and political mobilization that are essential for democratic governance. Weakening these institutions through jungle primaries would fundamentally alter the democratic landscape in ways that may be constitutionally problematic and practically devastating.

The Literature Review: Evidence Against Jungle Primaries

The Moderation Myth

Proponents of jungle primaries consistently claim that these systems produce more moderate candidates who appeal to broader constituencies. The evidence shows otherwise. Dr. Christian Grose's comprehensive research at USC demonstrated that jungle primaries do not lead to more moderate legislators. In fact, his findings suggest these systems can increase polarization by encouraging strategic behavior that pushes candidates toward extremes rather than the center.

Dr. Eric McGhee's analysis of California's experience since 2010 found no evidence that jungle primaries reduced polarization or produced more centrist candidates. This research is particularly relevant to New York City, where the Democratic Party's broad coalition already includes both progressive and moderate factions working within existing institutional frameworks. The idea that jungle primaries would somehow create moderation that doesn't already exist through party competition is simply not supported by the data.

Dr. Seth Hill's research at UC San Diego found that jungle primaries may actually increase polarization in general elections by eliminating the moderating influence of party gatekeepers. This is precisely the opposite of what proponents promised, and it represents a fundamental failure of the theoretical framework underlying jungle primary advocacy.

Participation and Turnout Failures

One of the most persistent claims made by jungle primary advocates is that these systems increase voter turnout and civic participation. Recent research by Dr. Melissa Michelson at Menlo College examined turnout patterns in jungle primary states and found they did not increase overall participation as promised. This finding should be particularly concerning to commissioners given New York City's ongoing struggles with low turnout in municipal elections.

The problem is that jungle primaries often create voter confusion and information costs that discourage participation. Dr. Thad Kousser's research at UC San Diego documents how voters in jungle primary systems often lack sufficient information to make informed choices among large fields of candidates, leading to outcomes that may not reflect true voter preferences. The information costs and voter confusion documented in other jurisdictions would be particularly problematic in New York City's complex political environment.

Rather than solving our participation problems, jungle primaries would likely create new barriers to engagement, particularly for communities that already face challenges in political participation. This represents a step backward from the goal of increasing democratic participation.

Why Jungle Primaries Harm Marginalized Communities

Perhaps most troubling is the overwhelming evidence that jungle primaries harm minority representation and marginalized communities. Dr. Zoltan Hajnal's research at UC San Diego demonstrates that in diverse districts, jungle primaries can lead to two candidates from the same racial or ethnic group advancing to the general election, potentially excluding minority communities from meaningful representation.

Dr. Christina Greer's research at Fordham University, specifically examining New York City's demographic landscape, shows that jungle primaries would likely disadvantage minority candidates, particularly in districts with significant white plurality populations. This would represent a devastating step backward for a city that has made significant progress in ensuring diverse representation through decades of struggle and organizing.

Professor Frances Fox Piven at CUNY Graduate Center has documented how jungle primaries would disadvantage progressive movements that rely on party infrastructure for support. In New York City's context, where communities of color have fought for decades to build political power through party organization, jungle primaries would systematically undermine these achievements. The party system, despite its flaws, has served as a vehicle for political mobilization and representation that has been crucial for marginalized communities.

The problem is that jungle primaries eliminate the institutional mechanisms that have historically allowed marginalized communities to build political power. Party organizations, community groups, and labor unions have worked within the existing system to ensure that diverse voices are heard and represented. Jungle primaries would weaken these institutions without providing alternative mechanisms for political participation and representation.

The Destruction of Coalition Building

New York City's strength lies in its ability to build diverse coalitions that reflect our multicultural character. Dr. John Mollenkopf's research at CUNY Graduate Center demonstrates that our current primary system, despite its flaws, allows for the formation of these crucial coalitions within the Democratic Party. These coalitions bring together communities with different interests and backgrounds around shared goals and values.

Jungle primaries would destroy this capacity for coalition building. Rather than encouraging broad-based appeal, they would likely fragment our political landscape in ways that make it harder for communities to work together on shared challenges. The result would be a more individualistic and less collaborative political environment that would be particularly harmful to communities that rely on collective action for political power.

The coalition-building function of political parties is particularly important in diverse cities like New York, where different communities must work together to address shared challenges like housing, education, and economic development. Jungle primaries would undermine this collaborative approach by creating incentives for candidates to appeal to narrow constituencies rather than building broad coalitions.

The Elimination of Minor Parties and Alternative Voices

The Working Families Party and other minor parties have played crucial roles in New York City politics, often pushing major party candidates to address issues that might otherwise be ignored. These parties have served as vehicles for progressive activism and have provided alternatives to voters who want to support different approaches to governance.

Research by Dr. Howard Scarrow at Stony Brook University shows that jungle primaries would create insurmountable barriers for these parties, effectively eliminating their influence in our political system. This would impoverish our democratic discourse and reduce the range of options available to voters who want to support alternative approaches to governance.

The elimination of minor parties would be particularly harmful to movements for social and economic justice that have relied on these organizations to push for progressive change. The Working Families Party, for example, has been instrumental in advancing policies like paid sick leave, living wages, and affordable housing that might not have been priorities for major party candidates without this external pressure.

Practical Implementation Problems and Costs

Beyond these fundamental concerns, jungle primaries would create significant practical problems for New York City. Studies by the New York City Campaign Finance Board reveal that implementation would require massive administrative changes and costs, including new ballot design, extensive poll worker training, and costly voter education programs.

The administrative burden would be particularly challenging for a city already struggling with election administration challenges. The complexity of implementing jungle primaries would require significant resources that could be better spent on improving existing electoral systems or addressing other pressing needs in our city.

Moreover, the transition period would likely create confusion and disruption that could further discourage voter participation. The costs of implementation, both financial and political, would be substantial and would not be justified by the limited benefits that jungle primaries might provide.

Superior Alternatives Exist

Commissioners, we need not choose between the status quo and jungle primaries. New York City has already implemented ranked choice voting in municipal elections, which achieves many of the same goals as jungle primaries without the negative consequences for party organization and minority representation.

Dr. Rob Richie of Fair Vote has demonstrated that ranked choice voting provides a superior alternative that maintains party integrity while encouraging broader appeal and reducing negative campaigning. We should build on this successful reform rather than adopting a system that has failed elsewhere.

Ranked choice voting allows voters to express their preferences more fully while maintaining the institutional mechanisms that have historically provided representation for marginalized communities. It represents a reform that builds on democratic strengths rather than undermining them.

The California Warning

I urge you to learn from California's experience rather than repeat their mistakes. Since implementing jungle primaries in 2010, California has seen no reduction in polarization, no increase in moderation, and significant problems with minority representation and voter confusion.

The California experience demonstrates that jungle primaries fail to achieve their stated goals while creating new problems for democratic governance. The promises made by advocates have not been fulfilled, and the negative consequences have been real and measurable.

New York City should not repeat California's mistakes. We should learn from their experience and pursue reforms that strengthen democratic institutions rather than weakening them.

Conclusion

Commissioners, the evidence is overwhelming: jungle primaries fail to achieve their stated goals while creating new problems for democratic governance. In New York City's context, where strong party organization has historically facilitated representation of diverse communities, jungle primaries represent a particularly poor fit that could undermine decades of progress in inclusive governance.

The scholarly consensus, built on careful empirical analysis rather than theoretical speculation, strongly opposes jungle primaries. Constitutional concerns, evidence of harm to minority representation, destruction of coalition-building capacity, elimination of minor parties, and practical implementation problems all point to the same conclusion: jungle primaries would be a disaster for New York City democracy.

Like other well-intentioned but flawed reforms, jungle primaries promise to solve problems they cannot address while creating new barriers to democratic participation. They represent a solution in search of a problem that would ultimately harm the communities they claim to help.

Rather than adopting a system that has failed elsewhere, I urge you to focus on reforms that strengthen rather than weaken the democratic functions of political parties while addressing legitimate concerns about competition and representation through proven mechanisms such as continued expansion of ranked choice voting, campaign finance reform, and redistricting improvements.

New York City deserves better than a failed experiment that would weaken our democracy. The evidence is clear, the risks are substantial, and the alternatives are available. I respectfully urge you to reject the jungle primary proposal and instead pursue reforms that build on our city's democratic strengths.

Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully submitted, Marlon V Bailey | Queens Chapter WFP Outreach Co-Chair, /MA Urban Studies / Public Policy and Public Administration | 7- 7- 2025

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7921025 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 12:57 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (marlonvbailey@gmail.com) on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 12:57:17 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Marlon Bailey

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: This is why I oppose Jungle Primaries ( Open Primaries) ,and why I think it is bad for NYC.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 74[.]72[.]179[.]125, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 74[.]72[.]179[.]125

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Clarity is Key in Any Election

From: Jackson Heights Indivisible <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 01:18 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

The claim that non-partisan systems offer more "choice" is misleading. They may offer more names on a ballot, but they often provide less meaningful ideological choice. Voters are left to sift through a list of candidates without the single most useful piece of information: their party affiliation. This often results in voters choosing based on name recognition or, worse, giving up and not voting at all. The evidence is clear: when a voter's party doesn't field a distinct candidate, participation drops. True choice requires the clarity that strong, competitive parties provide.

Thanks,
Arianne Mayer

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9938809 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 02:12 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 02:07:10 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Wendy Weisman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I would like to express my concern and opposition to the introduction of jungle primaries. There is no evidence this will increase voter turn out, and the addition of new 'rules' once again, will increase confusion to voters who have previously been unengaged. Most distressingly, jungle primaries will require candidates to spend even more to be heard across a broader audience, and the primary will become a contest of who can spend more. This is a terrifying prospect in a period where nationwide income inequality is growing and even more pronounced in NYC. I believe these jungle primaries will harm democracy: exacerbating the disproportionate influence on the wealthy on elections at the expense of community groups and local unions who may not have the same resources, and whose voices would be otherwise critical to reaching less engaged voters. Thank you for this opportunity to weigh in.

-----

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Why Rush Another Major Election Overhaul?

From: Sara Palmer <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 02:21 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

If our goal is to empower voters, then "Jungle Primaries" is a step in the wrong direction. Empowerment comes from understanding and confidence in the electoral process. By constantly changing the rules, we create an environment where only the most politically engaged can keep up, while many others are left behind. The transition to RCV was a significant hurdle. To erect another one so soon is to actively discourage broad-based participation. We must reject this proposal and focus on making our current system more accessible to all.

Best,

Sara Palmer

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3876382 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 03:10 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 03:09:40 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Allison Lynch

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission members, I oppose the proposed revision to the NYC charter to ban party primaries and replace them with "jungle primaries." This would force all of the candidates ♦ Democrats, Republicans, independents, and others ♦ to run against each other in a combined primary would favor wealthier, well-known candidates over grassroots, community-backed campaigns. This is anti-democratic. It must not be approved. Thank you, Allison Lynch [REDACTED]

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 24[.]63[.]234[.]173, 23[.]194[.]190[.]143, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Safari/605.1.15

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1651927 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 03:31 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 03:31:19 PM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Kate Adamy

[REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Hello, I am writing to you as a concerned citizen of New York City. I would like to express my opposition to "Jungle Primaries." This act, done under the guise of "increasing voter turnout," is a deliberate act against the working class and the issues that matter to them- not to mention the claims of increasing turnout are statistically false. The wealthy dominate every aspect of our political landscape. The Democratic Primaries are the one election where the working class, labor unions, and grassroots organizers have a shot at representation. Taking this away would erase those lesser-known voices, (who, let's be honest, have already been marginalized in every way in New York). If you are looking to do something for New Yorkers to increase voter turnout,

I encourage you to move our elections to align with presidential elections. This has shown to increase voter participation- creating a more functional democracy here in New York. I know you have the moral compass, know-how, and integrity to do what is right for everyday New Yorkers- not corporate lobbyists and billionaires. Protect our elections; protect democracy. Protect the "little guy" you claim to care about. We are watching. Thank you.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5907937 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 03:49 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 03:49:18 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Cory Parrish

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Regarding open primaries, the one scenario that I want to urge you not to consider is one primary for each party, Republican and Democrat, that anyone can vote in. If we are maintaining the two-party system, then that system should be maintained.

Otherwise, each party will not be able to select the candidate they think is best, because others who do not share their agenda or perspectives will be participating. I feel very strongly about this based on my experience in Virginia in the past. One ranked choice primary with all candidates, with the final two going to the general, seems like a great alternative to our current system of closed primaries, so that more people can participate. And it has the added bonus of making the general more relevant. There may be other options that are also good. But please don't consider an open Democratic and open Republican primary. The current system is much better than that. Thank you for your consideration of my opinion. In case you need to know, I have lived and voted in New York since 2004, previously in Brooklyn and now in Harlem in Manhattan.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Voters are not apathetic - so don't silence our voices by adopting open primaries!

From: Delia Kulukundis <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 03:31 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to

phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to urge the commission to look closely at the data on "jungle" (open) primaries and voter turnout. You will see that there is no evidence to support the claim that these systems increase participation. In fact, the evidence suggests the opposite.

This is a critical point that should not be overlooked. We cannot afford to make policy decisions based on false premises. Let's commit to an evidence-based approach and focus on strategies that have a proven track record of success.

Sincerely,

Delia Kulukundis

Long Island City, NY

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5593926 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 03:58 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 03:58:39 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Renee Sabino

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: We pay too much in property taxes to have a homeless shelter in our neighborhood.
It's will be coming down the value of our homes. No the the homeless shelter in Tottenville!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1002:b087:f278:cc24:eff4:71b7:4dbf, 23[.]46[.]12[.]205, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:1002:b087:f278:cc24:eff4:71b7:4dbf

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Please Reconsider This Direction

From: Lynne Kenny <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 03:54 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to

phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

Please add my name to the list of citizens who are opposed to jungle primaries. This is a reform that has been tested and has failed to win over the public. The six defeats in six states last year are a clear indication of this. Voters in Arizona, Colorado,

Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota have all spoken. They prefer the traditional primary system. This commission should respect that and move on to more promising reforms. The adoption of even-year elections is a proven strategy that deserves your attention.

Sincerely,

Lynne Kenny

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Why Voters Across States Oppose Jungle Primaries

From: Ginny Suss <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 04:31 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

Jungle primary reforms are a waste of taxpayer money because voters don't want them. They are unpopular and consistently rejected. Look at last year's results: failed in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. This isn't a partisan issue;

it's about voters of all ideologies understanding the importance of political parties. This commission should not waste public resources on an unpopular proposition. If you want to increase turnout, stick with even-year elections.

Thank you,
Virginia Suss

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7521982 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 04:38 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 04:37:54 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jody Kuh

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: The decision whether to hold open primaries in New York City is very complicated and deserves more public scrutiny and more time than what is currently under consideration. There is so much corruption and/or perceived corruption in politics at the moment - please don't contribute to it by approving this proposal for open primaries. Such a serious issue deserves proper airing and consideration. Thank you.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 71[.]105[.]59[.]231, 23[.]200[.]89[.]192, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Safari/605.1.15

True-Client-IP: 71[.]105[.]59[.]231

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Preserving a Vital Democratic Function

From: Peter Branscombe <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 04:56 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

The strength of a party's brand directly impacts voter confidence. When a party consistently puts forward candidates who reflect its stated values, voters learn that they can trust the label as a reliable guide. This trust is built when party members—the people most committed to those values—are the ones selecting the candidates. If the selection process is opaque or controlled by outside interests, the brand is diluted and its value to voters diminishes. Therefore, protecting the internal democracy of parties is essential for ensuring they can fulfill their primary function of informing the electorate.

Sincerely,
Peter Branscombe

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5875368 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 05:17 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 05:16:40 PM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Henry Euler

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: My name is Henry Euler and I am the President of the Auburndale Improvement Association and a lifelong resident of my community. My Northeast Queens civic is the oldest and largest civic in area in Queens County. I have been reading about the changes being proposed by the Charter Revision Commission (CRC) that will allow increased development in all communities across the City of New York. It seems to me that communities like we find in Northeast Queens that consist mainly of single family detached homes and other low density type of development will become the prime target of the proposals set forth by the CRC . We find similar communities in Southeast Queens and Staten Island as well. Those communities will be punished by these proposals because increased density of development will be allowed with decreased input from community members via the latest new thing called the Expedited Land Use Review Process (ELURP). These changes will result in major changes to our communities as we know them. The changes have not been properly vetted. Why aren't community boards being used to vet these changes locally? Community board meetings could offer a forum for discussion for residents and allow for suggestions for possible modifications to the changes. We aren't against all development, however, we want to be part of the process in a meaningful way. It seems that the Commission wants to keep the voters in the dark about these changes. If you asked the average citizen what the CRC is proposing with these changes, I doubt that few people could give a cogent explanation. Probably, many people will not even be aware of what the CRC is. I don't blame people for not being aware. I blame the CRC for not being transparent enough, and for rushing these changes through and then expecting the voters to vote on these proposals in November without proper discussion of the issues and impacts involved. This undemocratic approach by the CRC is really unfair and outrageous. I also object to the fact that "Big Brother" is setting the rules for increased development in our communities. Reading through the short biographies of the members of the Commission, I see very intelligent and impressive people, but I do not see anyone who actually lives in my area and who understands the reasons why people want to live in a suburban setting with green space and peace and quiet. The Commissioners are foisting these changes on us without realizing that we have invested our life savings in our homes and our life style preference. Why aren't there "regular" local folks and civic representatives on the Commission? I would also like to comment on opening up primary elections to all voters. I believe that the reason why people enroll in a political party is because they subscribe to most of the viewpoints of that particular party. Since they are members of the party, then they alone should decide who their nominees should be. If people want to vote in a primary, they should choose a party that reflects their views and enroll in that party in order to influence who is ultimately chosen to represent that party in the general election. With respect to doing away with odd year elections in the City of New York, I would oppose that. If the mayoral race was held at the same time as the presidential election, the importance of the mayoral race would be watered down significantly. That would also extend to the race for City Comptroller, Public Advocate, Borough President, and City Council Member. These races deserve to be featured on their own in a separate odd year election. Also, many times important state wide amendments and ballot questions that would need to be voted upon in an odd year would have to be moved and delayed to an even year. How would the rest of the state voters outside of the New York City limits who vote in odd year elections be affected?

It seems that moving all elections in NYC to even years is an attempt to get more people involved in voting in local elections. That is quite sad to think that would be necessary to have to do; that people would be too lazy to come out to vote in odd years as well as even years. Perhaps odd year elections should be conducted by mail only, to reduce costs and to involve more people in the voting process. This way if amendments and ballot questions need to be put up for a vote in an odd year, that could be accomplished with mail in voting, as well as electing people for local governmental offices. Thank you for the opportunity to voice my opinions. Henry Euler

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5094834 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 05:41 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 05:40:58 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Janice Newman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I feel that allowing open primaries for our local elections requires more research before being rushed onto the ballot for a yes-or-no vote. It seems to me that if someone has the option of voting in a primary for the party they don't prefer, then the rational choice if they're in the minority is to vote for the most radical or least electable candidate of the majority party in hopes of boosting the chances for the minority party's choice. That would make the outcome of the primary less fair, especially as simultaneously members of NYC's majority party would remain unable to vote for the other party's candidates in national primaries where the electoral college system already gives that party an unfair advantage. We need our local elections to remain as fair and representational as possible to not fall into the corruption and swamp that is overtaking the federal government.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Why Jungle Primaries Won't Boost Turnout

From: M P <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 05:40 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to

phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

I strongly suggest this commission dismiss any plans for jungle primaries. Voters have made their dislike clear, rejecting these reforms time and again. They are not effective. Last year, it was on the ballot in six states – Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana,

Nevada, and South Dakota – and it failed in every single one. This is a clear signal that voters, across the political spectrum, understand the value of political parties. This commission should not waste our time and money on an unpopular proposition. If the goal is to increase voter turnout, stick with what is proven to work: even-year elections.

Sincerely,

Margaret Paul

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] NYC Primaries: Open to All, Engaging to Few

From: Asher Ross <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 06:08 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

I want to emphasize that jungle primaries have proven not to raise turnout in the states where they have been implemented. This is a critical piece of information that should guide our discussion. If the commission's genuine aim is to increase voter participation, then advocating for a system that has consistently failed to do so is counterproductive. California's decade-plus experience with jungle primaries, since 2012, is a clear illustration. Their own turnout data reveals that voter participation has stayed almost exactly the same when compared to the previous 12 years, for both primaries and general elections. This compelling evidence suggests that jungle primaries are not a solution to low voter turnout. Instead, we should be focusing on the more impactful methods, such as direct voter engagement.

Sincerely,

Asher Ross

Sunset Park, Brooklyn

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Charter Commission's Turnout Concern

From: Leo Hardman-Hill <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 06:04 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

Consolidating elections to even-numbered years is a clear, simple, and effective way to boost turnout. "Jungle Primaries" is an unnecessary complication on top of RCV. We should prioritize straightforward changes that have a high likelihood of making voting easier and clearer, rather than adding more layers of complexity to an already recently changed system.

- Leo Hardman hill

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9712435 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 06:13 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 06:13:21 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lisa goldenberg

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: NY should not put a question on the ballot in November about Open primaries with very short notice. Voters need more time to be educated thoroughly on this topic.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1000:b120:85f1:f491:8898:e815:b76, 23[.]194[.]190[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 17_6 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) CriOS/127.0.6533.77 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1

True-Client-IP: 2600:1000:b120:85f1:f491:8898:e815:b76

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Feedback on Charter Revision Commission's Interim Report

From: Courtney Hirsch <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 06:16 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hi there,

I would like to submit my comments about the questions proposed in the Charter Revision Commission's Interim Report.

I oppose diminishing community boards' role in the ULURP process.

I cherish my community board's role in the ULURP process. I strongly advise against proposals that aim to expedite the process by condensing the Community Board and Borough President review period. The time saved (30 days) is miniscule in comparison to the months or even years often lost to delays in other parts of the process, such as permitting and environmental review.

The recent revisions to projects like Innovation East and SPARC Kips Bay based on recommendations made by CB6 during the public review are a testament to how meaningful community engagement can lead to better outcomes. I have seen first hand that when communities are consulted, projects improve.

I oppose open primaries.

Although the motivation behind this idea is well-intentioned, I am concerned that nullifying fusion voting would have the unintended consequence of strengthening our two primary political parties and cutting off independent parties at the knees.

I support even-year elections, with greater voter support and education.

I support all efforts to increase voter turnout, but I worry about the high volume of selections voters would have to make on each ballot if all elections were consolidated into even years. The June 2025 primary election had a mind boggling number of positions on the ballot. I'm afraid consolidating all elections into the same cycle would lead to decision paralysis or voters not having sufficient time and mental energy to properly research and attend to information about all races and candidates.

Thank you,

Courtney Hirsch

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1814226 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 06:28 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 06:28:25 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Joseph Lalli

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please put the issue of open primaries to the voters and let them decide. There are over 1 million non-affiliated voters who should be given an opportunity to fully participate in the political process. Good government groups including the League of Women Voters of New York State, Citizens Union, and Reinvent Albany oppose a closed primary system. NYC is an outlier in still employing closed primaries. From the Charter Revision Interim Report, 7/1/25: "At the municipal level, most cities — 42 of America's 50 largest cities — use some form of open or nonpartisan primary." The late Congressman John Lewis once said: "The vote is precious...It is the most powerful nonviolent tool we have in a democracy." Please do not deny over a million unaffiliated voters a full voice in the political process. Please include a ballot question regarding open primaries and let the citizens decide the matter.

-----

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Why Voters Keep Saying 'No' to Jungle Primaries

From: Julie Fisher <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 06:33 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

I'm here to state unequivocally that jungle primaries are unpopular with voters, and they've rejected them consistently. These reforms don't achieve their stated goals. Last year, this was on the ballot in six states – Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota – and it failed in every single one. This is a clear signal that voters, across the political spectrum, understand the value of political parties. Don't waste our time and money on a proposition that's already been dismissed. If you want to increase voter turnout, stick with what's proven to work: even-year elections. Even year elections will increase turnout AND save NYC money.

Thank you,

Julie Fisher

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] We want real democracy, not a jungle primary

From: Corinna Schulenburg <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 07:12 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

It's absurd that we need to "fix" our primary system by handing even more power to billionaires. The jungle primary is a fraudulent reform that would make our politics less democratic, less representative, and more susceptible to corruption. It solves no existing problem and instead creates a much larger one: a system where elections are no longer a contest of ideas, but a contest of bank accounts. It is a recipe for plutocracy, and it must be rejected out of hand by all who believe in government by the people.

Sincerely,

Corinna Schulenburg

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5978939 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 07:19 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 07:18:40 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Corinna Schulenburg

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: In the most recent democratic primary, we saw what can happen when people-powered organizing and ranked choice voting meet. Instead of the billionaire-funded candidate with big name recognition winning, a mostly unknown Assemblymember with a compelling message of affordability and small-donor and big volunteer organizing effort won the day. This is true democracy in action, and it's in peril if a jungle primary allows monied interests to further buy elections. As we know, the real argument for why people want to introduce jungle primaries into NYC isn't to increase turnout: it's to limit labor's influence. It's because, in the opinion of jungle-primary proponents, public sector unions and undefined interest groups have an outsized influence in elections.

Anyone who thinks that American workers have an outsized influence in politics hasn't been paying very close attention for the last five decades. This is what makes political parties so important: they are important signifiers of values and stances, and limiting that or ELIMINATING that favors money over organization. While there's a lot to critique about political parties, the reality is that when candidates have a (D), (R), (C) or (WFP) next to their names, voters can make some pretty strong assumptions as to where they stand on issues that matter to them - like reproductive rights and immigrant rights...but that only works if the Party's members get to select the candidates. Past studies have shown that almost half of all voters whose Party doesn't have a candidate in an election choose to sit out a jungle primary can eliminate choice for voters rather than giving all voters the opportunity to vote for a viable candidate that will best represent their values Active and engaged political parties can help INCREASE turnout, but that would only happen if the Party members are activated because they selected their candidate

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:7900:5e00:bc77:70e5:8bd0:f054, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:7900:5e00:bc77:70e5:8bd0:f054

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Who Benefits from Confusing Voters?

From: Valerie W <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 07:13 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

The ink on the RCV legislation is barely dry, and now we face the prospect of "Jungle Primaries."

This legislative whiplash is precisely what alienates voters. How can we expect citizens to feel confident casting a ballot when the method for doing so changes every few years? It's a recipe for disengagement.

True reform should build trust and make participation easier. This proposal does neither. It introduces a confusing, untested system at the worst possible time, undermining the progress made in adapting to Ranked-Choice Voting.

Thank you,
Valerie Wald

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3016088 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 07:46 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 07:46:12 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Harold Appel

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I will vote no on any proposals put forth by the charter revision commission for several reasons. This important action should not have been initiated with such little time for deliberation and public input. There has been little publicity about it and serious changes could be passed with little public discussion. The present corrupt administration has become a pawn for Donald Trump to manipulate and cannot be trusted. The new system of ranked choice voting has only been used twice, It seems to be working.

What is the impetus to quickly change it? I am 83 years old. A lifelong New Yorker. I am really appalled. Public comment closing soon? Shameful.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:e00:1dd8:b1c7:cce8:7b4f:977e, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Listen to the Electorate: No Jungle Primaries

From: Sam Lewis <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 08:04 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

The idea of jungle primaries is a dead end. Voters don't like them, and they consistently reject them. These reforms are not just ineffective; they are a waste of resources. Look at last year: it was on the ballot in six states – Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota – and it failed in every single one. This is a clear sign that voters of all political stripes value their parties. This commission should listen to the public and not pursue an unpopular idea. If you want more people to vote, stick with proven methods like even-year elections.

Thank you,
Samuel Lewis

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Against Open Primaries

From: Osman Chaudhary <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 08:07 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do

not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hi,

I am against open primaries because it doesn't make sense to let republicans decide who the democratic nominee is, and vice versa. In fact I find the idea of an open primary oxymoronic - why wouldn't you have elections that bypass the primary altogether instead?

If we have primary elections, the current system where democrats choose democrats and republicans choose republicans makes sense to me.

Sincerely,

Osman Chaudhary

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Jungle primaries would be terrible for NYC

From: Ryan Madden <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 08:24 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

A vibrant electorate is built on a foundation of effective engagement. Jungle primaries have been shown to be an unstable part of that foundation, failing to increase turnout. Jungle primaries would be terrible for NYC, heavily favoring corporate-backed candidates and disadvantaging marginalized communities and unions, among others. There has been neither enough study nor enough community input to justify any such ballot proposal.

A much stronger support is the shift to even-year primaries. The bedrock, however, is the tireless work of organized labor, political parties, and community groups. Their direct voter contact is the most reliable method for boosting participation. To attack these organizations is to attack the very foundation of voter engagement, a move that would ultimately shrink, not grow, the electorate.

Sincerely,
Ryan Madden

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Better Path for Voter Turnout

From: Claudia Schellenberg <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 08:35 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

Consider the evidence regarding jungle primaries. They are unpopular. They are ineffective. They are consistently rejected by voters. Last year, the proposal failed in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. This widespread rejection is not a coincidence; it is a clear signal that voters prefer the structure and accountability that political parties provide. This commission should not be advancing policies that lack public support. Instead, it should champion proven methods to increase voter turnout, with even-year elections being a prime example of a successful strategy.

Do not change the current primary system, except for changing to even years.

Thank you,

Claudia Schellenberg

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2317553 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 09:34 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 09:34:18 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Marsha Talcin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: This letter is in opposition to the proposed ballot proposition to end party primaries. This proposal is unnecessary and will be unsuccessful in reaching its goal of increasing voter participation in primary elections. This same proposal was on the ballot in New York City in 2003 and was thoroughly defeated by 70 to 30 percent. New York City voters decided that jungle primaries were anathema. They were right to defeat it since it has been tried in California and Alaska, and voter participation did not increase. Unfortunately, we don't live in a country where citizens believe voting is their duty as Americans. Many Americans only vote when they feel there is a candidate that speaks to their needs. There was such a candidate who spoke to people's fears about being able to remain a resident of New York City because of affordability. That is why the 2025 New York City mayoral primary saw a notable increase in voter participation compared to the previous primary in 2021. At least 1,026,783 Democrats cast their ballots in the 2025 primary, with some estimates suggesting the final number could be closer to 1.1 million. Over 22,000 people registered for the first time to vote in New York City in 2025; This represents a substantial rise from the approximately 940,000 voters who participated in the 2021 Democratic mayoral primary. Jungle primaries are not needed to allow people registered as independent to vote in a political party's primary election. They can simply change their party affiliation. Over 88,000 independent voters switched their party affiliation in 2021 so they could participate in the democratic mayoral primary election. This can be achieved in minutes at the New York City Board of Elections website. Rather than dismantling party primaries, we should focus on providing voters with compelling candidates, showing students how to vote, and easier voter registration tools. I urge you to reject the proposed ballot proposition and protect the integrity and clarity of our primary election system. Thank you for your consideration.

Marsha Talcin

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4808:4111:c000:c83e:ada0:fc05:1205, 104[.]70[.]121[.]60, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4808:4111:c000:c83e:ada0:fc05:1205

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Don't Fall for the Hype: Open Primaries Haven't Increased Turnout in CA or AK.

From: Hoda Mitwally <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: July 13, 2025 at 10:11 PM

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

I'm here today to voice my strong opposition to the notion that jungle primaries are the answer to low voter turnout. The data from states that have adopted this system clearly indicates otherwise. If our objective is genuinely to increase participation, we must look beyond these types of reforms, as they've consistently demonstrated their ineffectiveness. It's crucial that we don't implement policies based on theoretical benefits that are not supported by real-world outcomes. Consider the recent experience in Alaska. They implemented open primaries in 2022, and what did we see? The 2024 primary election recorded one of the lowest turnouts in 50 years. This isn't just an anomaly; it's a clear trend that points to the conclusion that these elections have had little to no impact on voter engagement. We shouldn't be pursuing solutions in search of a problem when the data unequivocally shows they are not a solution.

Thanks,

Hoda Mitwally

Forest Hills, Queens, NY

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3616165 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 10:28 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 10:27:57 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Janita Chalam

Email:

Phone:

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. I feel moved to express my support for these charter revisions because we are in the height of a decades long housing shortage, and the most offensive thing about our plight is that there is no material reason we can't have affordable housing for all. The path to affordable, quality, and plentiful housing for all will be forged through our concerted dedication. As a current Brooklyn resident, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-3 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, and strike a better balance in the land use process. * Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement.

* Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. * The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities and does not properly give weight to the current state of crisis that we are in. Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Janita Chalam Downtown Brooklyn 11201

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 108[.]29[.]41[.]159, 23[.]40[.]16[.]30, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/135[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 108[.]29[.]41[.]159

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-489820 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: July 13, 2025 at 10:31 PM

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Sunday, July 13, 2025, at 10:30:49 PM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----
Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Judith Norell

[REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I would like to express my strong opposition to the proposed land use changes currently under consideration for the November 2025 ballot. These proposals, particularly the so-called ♦Fast Track♦ and ♦Expedited Land Use Review♦ procedures, may appear to support affordable housing production on the surface♦but in reality, they do so by undermining public accountability, democratic checks and balances, and the role of the communities we serve. New York City urgently needs more affordable housing. We must streamline bureaucracy, accelerate housing approvals, and ensure that every neighborhood contributes its fair share. But these ballot proposals do not address the root causes of delay. Instead, they concentrate power in the mayor♦s office. and weaken the City Council♦s ability to advocate for affordable outcomes and critical community investments. Over the past few years, the City Council has approved over 120,000 new housing units. More than half of the private units approved were affordable♦because the Council fought for them. Because we listened to our communities and demanded that affordability, child care, jobs, and transit be part of the package. That is the work of representative democracy. These land use decisions are not rubber stamps♦they are opportunities to get it right. I totally oppose Ballot Proposal 1 - it will hand over zoning change decisions to the Board of Standards and Appeals in fast-track areas and to the City Planning Commission in others. These bodies are not accountable to the public in the way the Council is. The Council is where stakeholders—residents, advocates, developers, community boards—come together to negotiate outcomes that reflect both citywide and local needs. We’ve already seen the dangers of concentrating too much discretion in one office. This administration’s decision to scrap housing for seniors at the Elizabeth Street Garden—despite Council approval—is a stark example. It is a reminder that mayoral authority does not guarantee action or progress. It can just as easily be used to delay, deny, or dismantle. Council Members often use their role in ULURP to ensure projects are more equitable and responsive. If the goal is to speed up housing, we should start with pre-ULURP delays in agency review and environmental assessments, not by stripping away the voice of the only elected body that represents every neighborhood. We can and should improve land use. But the answer is not to bypass the Council or the public. It’s to invest in planning capacity, streamline environmental review, and expand real public engagement, especially from New Yorkers who are too often left out of the process—those without stable housing, without access to public meetings, or without trust in government. I have grave concerns about the appeal board consisting of the Mayor, the Speaker, and the relevant Borough Presidents who will be able to override the vote of the Council when the Council votes against or votes to modify a land use application. I strongly believe that the Speaker cannot represent the entire Council even though he/she was elected by his/her peers. If the Speaker is a Council Member from Manhattan, they do not know the particulars of Staten Island, for instance, and should not be representing those constituents. This panel cuts away the voice of the community and true representation. Eliminating ULURPs or public land that are slated for 100 percent affordable housing sounds great on paper. However, who speaks to the neighbors, such as residents of NYCHA, where a project is slated in a district? Who decides the AMI? Who decides on any Community Benefit Agreements? What are the infrastructure needs? Schools? Libraries? Only a public process with hearings at the Community Board, CPC, and Council levels can get the right mixture. This commission, and the administration, call out 12 community districts for producing the least affordable housing—one of them being the Upper West Side. But what has this administration done to help us? Nothing.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:9700:6ab2:11e6:999e:8f7d:157e, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like

Testimony to the 2025 New York City Charter Revision Commission
By the Northern Manhattan Community Land Trust

Submitted July 14, 2025

To: Chair Richard R. Buery, Jr and Members and Staff of the Commission
From: The Board of Directors, Northern Manhattan Community Land Trust
Submitted by Paul Epstein, Director At Large

This testimony, by the Northern Manhattan Community Land Trust (NMCLT) is driven by key parts of our mission: to provide community-controlled, sustainably affordable housing, and to anchor working class people, immigrants, and people of color against displacement. Our testimony is also informed by our membership in the Thriving Communities Coalition (TCC), a citywide coalition of civic and grassroots organizations that advocates for equity-based comprehensive planning in New York City to address housing, infrastructure, sustainability, resilience, and other issues in all city neighborhoods.

Our Testimony Proposes Changes to Ballot Question 1: *Fast Tracking Affordable Housing

We generally agree with the Commission’s approach to build on the Fair Housing Framework in Section 16-a of the City Charter. We participated in TCC’s proposals to the Commission to use the Fair Housing Framework to guide how to expedite certain kinds of affordable housing projects. Here, we assert that Charter revisions can, and should, build even more solidly on the Fair Housing Framework than the Commission’s proposals do. For example, the Affordable Housing Fast Track builds on Fair Housing Plans and Reports identifying “limited affordability areas” and prioritizing new affordable housing projects in those districts. However, the Fair Housing Framework would identify 50% more “limited-affordability” community districts than the Commission’s proposal (30% of 59, or 18 community districts, as opposed to 12 proposed by the Commission).

Also, the Commission’s proposals ignore another key provision of the Fair Housing Framework: Identifying “high displacement-risk areas” and prioritizing actions to protect people in those districts from displacement. Even a 100% “affordable” project can contribute to displacement and gentrification if the income levels and rents are too high compared with the existing income distribution in the area. This is a real possibility in lower-income districts. This is a serious concern, as the Commission set no income limits for what’s considered “affordable” for the two proposals in Question 1, and current income limits for affordable housing in NYC can range widely to levels that can be destabilizing in low income areas. Also, due to distortions in federal “AMI” tables used to set the City’s affordability income limits, even limits considered “low income” on those tables range to well above NYC’s actual median income, and are higher still in comparison to median incomes in low-income communities, which are most likely to be high displacement-risk areas. There is a simple fix to this problem, which we offer in our first recommendation below. Further explanation follows our recommendations.

Northern Manhattan Community Land Trust recommends two changes to Question 1:

1. Under BOTH of the Fast Track Zoning Action AND Affordable Housing Fast Track processes, for projects in “high displacement-risk areas” in the Fair Housing Plan and Report, at least half the housing units must be affordable to households making no more than the median income of that community district.
2. The Affordable Housing Fast Track should apply to the 18 community districts that produced the least affordable housing units as a percentage of their total units, not just 12 districts. This would be more consistent with the Fair Housing Framework, would expand the area subject to the faster land use process, and thus likely increase the number of affordable units built.

More detailed explanation for our recommendations

Taken together, our recommendations are likely to increase the number of affordable housing projects that take advantage of the “fast track” processes proposed by the Commission in Question 1.

Generally, it has not been lower-income districts, which are most likely to be “high displacement-risk areas,” where the fewest affordable housing units have been added. So our first recommendation, with local median income requirements, will, in the near term, mainly apply to Fast Track Zoning Action for publicly-financed 100% affordable housing projects proposed by HDfCs. Our first recommendation will not make such projects infeasible anywhere in the city. In most of the city, Fast Track Zoning Action will have no income limits. It will only be in high-displacement risk districts that some HDfC projects may have to target lower income limits than they otherwise would. Thus, some additional subsidy may be needed for some projects. If there is any reduction in the number of projects developed due to resource constraints to fund subsidies, it should be more than made up for by the increase in city area subject to the Affordable Housing Fast Track process.

Why income limits in high displacement-risk areas are needed for fast track processes

As noted above, high displacement-risk areas are very likely to be low income districts,<sup>1</sup> making them more vulnerable to gentrification and displacement pressures, even from projects officially considered “affordable,” especially given distortions built into City affordable housing policies described below.

City affordability policies, including term sheets for subsidized affordable housing projects, are tied to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development’s (HUD’s) “Area Median Income” (AMI) levels for the New York City area housing market. HUD AMI levels for the NYC area do not reflect the actual income distribution of city households. HUD uses a “high housing cost adjustment” in the NYC area that distorts AMI upward from actual city median income. NYC DCP and HPD acknowledge that “In New York City, because housing costs are so high, [AMI] Income Limits are not calculated using New Yorkers’ incomes. In NYC, Income Limits are based on the income needed to afford currently available market rate housing.”<sup>2</sup>

The Association of Neighborhood and Housing Development determined that HUD AMI overstated actual NYC median household income by 28% in 2022.<sup>3</sup> This upward distortion keeps getting worse as market rents in the city go up, so HUD AMI now overstates NYC median income by 69% to 80% (depending on source data used).<sup>4</sup> As a result, projects averaging 60% AMI, considered “low income” by City policy, are not low income at all, but are right about at the actual NYC household median income of $76,577 to $81,600. Even NYC HPD’s lowest income term sheet, ELLA, is not, on average for “low income” households. The ELLA term sheet indicates a “Weighted Average AMI Range” of

---

<sup>1</sup> One of NMCLT’s board members, participating as a member of the Racial Impact Study Coalition, worked with NYC HPD and DCP on creation of the “Displacement Risk Index” (DRI), the main factor in determining “high displacement-risk areas.” The highest-weighted component in the DRI formula involves “Population Vulnerability” particularly including income levels. So high displacement-risk areas will most likely be low income areas of the city.

<sup>2</sup> See a footnote at the bottom of the “Housing Affordability, Quality, and Security” web pages of the City’s “Equitable Development Data Explorer,” managed by DCP and HPD, at:

<https://equitableexplorer.planning.nyc.gov/data/citywide/nyc/hsag/tot>

<sup>3</sup> See <https://anhd.org/report/new-york-citys-ami-problem-and-housing-we-actually-need/>

<sup>4</sup> Using the HUD 2025 AMI tables for the NYC area as listed online by NYC HPD, and interpolating for average NYC household size of 2.51 persons per household (American Community Survey, or ACS, 2019-2023), HUD 100% AMI for the average-size NYC household is $137,862. That is 80% higher than NYC median household income of \$76,577 according to the ACS \(2023\). The private website NCHstats lists what it reports as more recent data (Jan. 2025) showing NYC median household income as $81,600. Using this higher figure, HUD AMI overstates NYC median household income by 69%.

53%-54%.<sup>5</sup> Adjusting for the city's average household size, the average household income in ELLA projects would be $73,067 to $74,445, just a little below the range of estimates of NYC median household income. So, based on NYC median income, ELLA is actually a moderate-income term sheet. In low-income community districts, even projects using the ELLA term sheet can be gentrifying and add displacement risk.

The Commission's proposed Fast Track Zoning Action is only for publicly-financed 100% affordable projects proposed by HDFCs, but even those projects can be gentrifying in high displacement-risk areas. With no income limits for Fast Track Zoning Action, most HDFC projects are likely to use terms averaging at higher incomes than the ELLA term sheet, but even ELLA projects can be gentrifying in low-income districts, as noted above. Because the Commission set no income limits for either part of Question 1, there is no protection against gentrification and displacement for high displacement-risk areas, which tend to be low-income community districts. Thus we propose a simple solution that does not require the Charter to set a specific AMI policy target, but instead requires at least half the housing units to be affordable for households at the median income level of the community district. In other words, the median affordability level for fast-track projects could be no higher than the median income level of the community district, but only for high displacement-risk areas.

Finally, while it is currently unlikely that any "high displacement-risk areas" will also be "low affordability areas," that might not always be the case. If these Charter revisions are successful, as the five-year cycles of the Fair Housing Framework proceed, it is possible that there may well be some future overlap between high-displacement areas and districts where lower levels of new affordable units are permitted. So, for the long-term protection of residents of those districts, the income limits we propose should apply to BOTH the Affordable Housing Fast Track AND the Fast Track Zoning Action processes.

---

<sup>5</sup> See the HPD ELLA term sheet at: <https://www.nyc.gov/assets/hpd/downloads/pdfs/services/ella-term-sheet-hpd.pdf>

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-393912 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 04:09:05 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 12:08:50 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Paul Epstein

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: 2 [REDACTED]

Comments: I am submitting this testimony on behalf of the Northern Manhattan Community Land Trust.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:52d3:4600:2930:d5c4:255f:7967, 2[.]21[.]240[.]184, 23[.]48[.]36[.]231,
10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0

True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:52d3:4600:2930:d5c4:255f:7967

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] How Parties Organize Public Will

From: Tej Budhram <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 02:18:11 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

One of the most concerning outcomes of weakening political parties, particularly through systems that dilute party choice, is the direct impact on voter participation. Studies consistently show that when voters perceive a lack of a viable candidate from their party, they often disengage. Specifically, almost half of all voters whose Party doesn't have a candidate in an election choose to sit out. This isn't a theoretical concern; it's a measurable decline in democratic engagement. A "jungle primary," while seemingly open, can paradoxically eliminate choice for voters by obscuring party lines and making it harder for voters to find a candidate who truly aligns with their values. Robust parties, with members choosing candidates, are essential for maintaining turnout.

Sincerely,

Tej Budhram

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9214418 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 11:20:49 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 07:20:35 AM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Barak Friedman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I wanted to express my opposition to open primaries in NYC: Open primaries in New York City would weaken the ability of political parties to choose candidates who truly reflect their values and priorities. Allowing non-members to vote in party primaries dilutes the voice of committed party members and undermines the purpose of political parties as vehicles for organized, representative policy-making. In a city where the Democratic primary often determines the winner, open primaries could allow voters with no long-term stake in the party's platform to influence critical decisions, distorting outcomes and reducing accountability.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 98[.]116[.]173[.]150, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]203, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7852975 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 11:48:56 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 07:48:43 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Theodore Frye Yanos

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, I truly appreciate the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Manhattan resident and graduate student in City and Regional Planning at Rutgers University's Bloustein School, I am writing to express my strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6. If approved by voters, these changes promise to make New York City more affordable, just, and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-4 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, strike a better balance in the land use process, and digitize the City Map. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of gentrification and displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. A unified City Map is a step in the right direction, since the current system can impose significant costs and time on infrastructure, housing, and other projects. Proposal 4's Digital City Map would allow processes that today take months or even years to occur nearly instantly. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city, and bring our city in line with other major US cities in this regard. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Thank you for your very important work on these matters. Sincerely, Theodore Frye Yanos

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:387:15:6237::1, 23[.]33[.]43[.]213, 23[.]46[.]181[.]203, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:387:15:6237::1

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4130008 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 11:28:00 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 07:27:48 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: David Roberts

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. I am a lifelong resident of Manhattan as is my wife. We have three children in their thirties and three grandchildren, all lifelong Manhattan residents. I'm deeply invested in the continued success of New York City. I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-4 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, strike a better balance in the land use process, and digitize the City Map. More housing is the bet way to male NYC more affordable. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimble to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. A unified City Map is a step in the right direction, since the current system can impose significant costs and time on infrastructure, housing, and other projects. Proposal 4's Digital City Map would allow processes that today take months or even years to occur nearly instantly. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, David Roberts Upper East Side 10028

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 74[.]108[.]31[.]181, 23[.]3[.]12[.]196, 23[.]46[.]181[.]203, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 74[.]108[.]31[.]181

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6057449 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 12:45:22 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 08:44:18 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Casey Dalrymple

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: In regards to a ballot proposal to Shift Elections to Even Years - this is an unnecessary measure that can only serve to obfuscate and confuse engagement in local and city elections. Keeping New York City elections to their already agreed upon schedule allows for them to stand distinct from federal and presidential elections, and with undue federal influence already bearing down on the city, it is more important than ever to let them stand distinct.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 174[.]216[.]240[.]92, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 17_3 like Mac OS X)

AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/17.3 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1 Ddg/17.3

True-Client-IP: 174[.]216[.]240[.]92

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3441901 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 13:42:20 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 09:41:48 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alex Gasner

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Brooklyn resident and a former Manhattan Community Board Member, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-4 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, strike a better balance in the land use process, and digitize the City Map. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities.

Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. A unified City Map is a step in the right direction, since the current system can impose significant costs and time on infrastructure, housing, and other projects. Proposal 4's Digital City Map would allow processes that today take months or even years to occur nearly instantly. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Alex Gasner
Prospect Heights 11217

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 38[.]122[.]241[.]114, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 38[.]122[.]241[.]114

-----
This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-869322 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 12:59:04 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 08:58:17 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Nasir Ellis

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: My name is Nasir Ellis. I currently live in — and am originally from — Harlem, just a few blocks away from here. I attended elementary school at PS 197 and went on to Thurgood Marshall Academy for Learning and Social Change for middle and high school. I'm a community member, a small business owner, an organizer, a veteran, and an educator. My life's work centers on the very essence of what I'm here to speak about today. As we grow older and become inundated with the harsh realities of the world we've created, we often lose touch with imagination. But I still imagine. I imagine safer, more prosperous, more tightly woven communities for all of New York City. I've been fortunate to have an uncle who has worked in law enforcement for over a decade. He currently serves as the Chief of Police at SUNY Purchase. Through our conversations, I've gained firsthand insight into the daily realities of officers as they carry out their sworn duties. Whenever major incidents occur — civilians harmed or killed in encounters with law enforcement — he's the first person I call. And no matter the story, no matter the details, he always emphasizes two core values: compassion and accountability. Because it doesn't matter who you are — we should all be held equally accountable for how we show up. During the pandemic, I made the difficult decision to join the armed forces, despite my own fears and doubts. At basic training, we were expected to follow strict rules and structure in how we conducted ourselves. As civilians adjusting to military life, we made mistakes — often. But no matter what, my drill sergeant enforced accountability with compassion. That’s the message I want to share today: accountability and compassion are not mutually exclusive — they must go hand in hand. Especially now, as our society faces widening divisions and growing distrust in our institutions, we must ensure that the structures designed to protect us are worthy of our faith. Regardless of political affiliation, most of us can agree: the foundations of our laws and Constitution are being tested. As a nation, we are being tested — to choose between the rule of law or the rule of convenience. And when people lose faith in the system, it becomes that much easier to turn against it. I will always hold deep love and respect for the women and men who serve in uniform — blue, green, and beyond. But I will also always believe in the transformative power of accountability and compassion. So today, with deep care and concern for all New Yorkers, I urge you to adopt these key reforms to give the CCRB the authority it needs to uphold justice and protect our communities: Binding disciplinary authority for the CCRB Direct access to NYPD misconduct records Independent board appointments Term limits for interim chairs These changes will move us from symbolic oversight to true accountability. Thank you for your time, and I hope you all have a wonderful evening.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:a300:1282:9977:f3ba:f6f5:88c2, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:a300:1282:9977:f3ba:f6f5:88c2

_____

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

July 11, 2025

MAS Comments on the Charter Revision Commission Interim Report

The Municipal Art Society of New York (MAS) supports the Charter Revision Commission's efforts to modernize and streamline the City's land use review process and maintain meaningful public participation. We commend the Commission for addressing long-standing structural inefficiencies with the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) and offer the following comments on each proposed ballot question related to land use:

Ballot Question #1 – Fast Tracking Affordable Housing

MAS supports the goal of making it easier and more efficient to develop publicly financed, 100 percent affordable housing. However, we strongly recommend that the proposal be split into two separate questions on the ballot for better clarity. The two mechanisms it introduces — the Board of Standards and Appeals (BSA) fast-track for Housing Development Fund Companies (HDFCs) and the expedited ULURP process in low-production districts — are substantively different and deserve independent consideration by voters.

We support the first mechanism. A streamlined BSA process for 100 percent affordable HDFC projects, with mandatory public hearings and a fixed timeline, is a welcome reform that could reduce delays for approving deeply affordable housing. The inclusion of community board review and a required BSA hearing strikes an appropriate balance between expediency and transparency. While MAS does not generally support fast-tracking land use applications based on project type alone, the revised proposal sufficiently limits eligibility to a narrow set of public-purpose projects with clear affordability thresholds and ownership structures. Should this proposal pass, the BSA will need sufficient resources and staffing to ensure it can meet the demands of creating a streamlined process.

We have some concerns about the second mechanism. As part of the Thriving Communities Coalition (TCC), MAS supports equitable housing development across the five boroughs that is consistent with the goals of the Fair Housing Framework. While the intent to create more affordable housing in underproducing community districts is laudable, this element of the ballot proposal lacks meaningful enforcement. We understand that market forces may affect a lack of housing being built in districts where land is more expensive than others; however, districts that continue to underperform should be required to conduct an infill study and/or inventory of underutilized or vacant City-owned land and report the findings to the public. Without a mandate to act on those findings, however, we are skeptical this mechanism alone will shift development patterns — especially in low-density districts where private interest in affordable development remains weak. MAS is not opposed to this provision, but we do not believe it will have a measurable impact without stronger implementation tools.

MAS is also aligned with the following recommendations advanced by the TCC to improve the effectiveness and equity of this proposal:

- Ensure deeper affordability for fast-tracked BSA projects. For HDFC projects that move through BSA rather than ULURP, we support the addition of a weighted Area Median Income (AMI) cap or average to ensure that these developments include a meaningful share of deeply affordable units.
- Refine how Fast Track districts are identified. For mixed-income affordable housing projects that would use the expedited ULURP process, the geographic criteria should better align with the City's Fair Housing Framework. For the initial round of targets starting in October 2026, the Fast Track should apply to the 18 community districts with the lowest rate of affordable housing production — a threshold consistent with the definition of "limited affordability areas."
- Introduce stronger accountability in future rounds. Beginning with the second round of Fair Housing Framework targets and thereafter, Fast Track eligibility should be limited to community districts that:
  - Are classified as "limited affordability areas,"
  - Are not classified as "high displacement risk areas," and
  - Have failed to meet their affordable housing production targets in the prior five-year period.

These changes would better align the proposed Charter reforms with the City's broader housing equity goals and ensure that fast-tracking tools are used in a manner that both increases affordability and protects vulnerable communities.

Ballot Question #2 – Simplifying Review of Modest Housing and Infrastructure

MAS supports the proposed Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and the creation of faster pathways for modest rezonings, infrastructure upgrades, and climate resilience projects. We support the decision to combine the community board and borough president review into a single 60-day period. This strikes a better balance between maintaining public input and reducing unnecessary procedural delays.

We strongly support the inclusion of the following categories in the expedited process:

- Modest housing proposals that allow small-scale multifamily housing in low-density residential districts or modest increases in medium- and high-density residential districts. These proposals align with the City of Yes for Housing Opportunity zoning text amendment and help facilitate the construction of "missing middle" housing typologies that are currently difficult to build through standard ULURP.

- Administrative changes to the City Map, which are often procedural in nature and currently subject to unnecessarily lengthy review.
- Resiliency, open space, and climate-related site actions, such as flood buyouts, solar panel installations, or acquisitions of public land for the creation of parks, which are critical to an equitable climate response and should be facilitated rather than delayed.

However, MAS raises concerns regarding the proposal's treatment of City-owned land dispositions. We support the expedited review of dispositions for affordable housing, including transfers to HDFCs, so long as appropriate safeguards are in place to prevent speculative consolidation. This tool should remain focused on enabling publicly-financed housing, not facilitating large-scale private assemblages. We are concerned about the expedited disposition of small parcels of City-owned land. While often treated as surplus, these lots may offer potential for pocket parks, community gardens, or other public-serving uses. MAS recommends limiting this category of expedited disposition to only districts that achieve the City's median open space ratio of 1.5 acres per 1,000 residents, to ensure public land is not prematurely removed from neighborhoods that lack sufficient green space. Alternatively, the City should explore mechanisms to incentivize the creation of open space when transferring land to private developers, for example, by requiring the inclusion of publicly accessible open space improvements as a condition of disposition.

Finally, we caution against granting the City Planning Commission (CPC) and City Council unrestricted authority to add additional categories to this expedited list in the future. Doing so may undermine the transparency and public legitimacy this Charter revision process is designed to uphold. We recommend either codifying a broader list of categories now or reserving such additions for future Charter Revision Commissions with public input.

Ballot Question #3 – Establishing a ULURP Appeals Board

MAS supports this proposal as a fair and balanced reform to ULURP. By replacing the mayor's rarely used veto with a three-member Appeals Board consisting of the mayor, the speaker of the City Council, and the borough president of the affected borough, this amendment preserves checks and balances while curbing the outsized influence of member deference.

Including both borough-wide and citywide elected officials in this process helps ensure that land use decisions reflect a broader range of interests and goals, not just those of a single Council member. Developers and applicants, in turn, gain a more predictable pathway through ULURP, which may reduce the chilling effect that uncertainty and late-stage political interference can have on socially beneficial projects, particularly those that seek to add density in neighborhoods that have historically resisted new housing. The Board's limited authority to either reverse disapprovals or restore CPC-approved applications, but not to craft new modifications, provides a final safeguard without undermining the Council's legislative role.

Ballot Question #4 – Modernizing the City Map

This is a long-overdue and common-sense modernization. Replacing more than 8,000 individual paper maps with a unified digital City Map will reduce inefficiencies, lower transactional costs, and improve access to land use data across the five boroughs. MAS encourages the City to go further by integrating other core land use records, like public assets and rent-stabilized units, into a centralized, searchable platform. True modernization requires not just digitization, but integration and accessibility.

Conclusion

While these reforms introduce new layers of process, they also have the potential to make land use decisions more transparent, equitable, and navigable, particularly for small and nonprofit developers. MAS supports the Commission's direction and urges continued engagement to ensure that future land use reforms balance speed with equity and efficiency with public trust.

We appreciate the Commission's attention to these issues.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Keri Butler", with a stylized, flowing script.

Keri Butler
Interim President, Municipal Art Society of New York

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2972565 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 13:52:09 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 09:46:20 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: J. Marshall

Email:

Phone:

Comments: At this time I am writing to oppose the idea of an open primary in NYC until such time that there is more research done on what specifically that would look like and accomplish in the city. The proposal at this time feels rushed and under-researched. Voters are still getting used to the intricacies of the rank-choice system and it would be confusing to introduce a massive change so soon. It also strikes me as suspect that the idea is being raised by Eric Adams as his own mayoral candidacy is coming into question.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 128[.]122[.]227[.]87, 23[.]200[.]89[.]199, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/17.6 Safari/605.1.15

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2972565 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 13:52:09 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 09:46:20 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: J. Marshall

Email:

Phone:

Comments: At this time I am writing to oppose the idea of an open primary in NYC until such time that there is more research done on what specifically that would look like and accomplish in the city. The proposal at this time feels rushed and under-researched. Voters are still getting used to the intricacies of the rank-choice system and it would be confusing to introduce a massive change so soon. It also strikes me as suspect that the idea is being raised by Eric Adams as his own mayoral candidacy is coming into question.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 128[.]122[.]227[.]87, 23[.]200[.]89[.]199, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/17.6 Safari/605.1.15

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1168715 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 13:52:20 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 09:50:43 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: JANE C GALLAGHER

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I strongly support open primaries. Our local Democratic Club in the Bronx supports their own cronies for endorsement and funding, including family members.. we need to curtail this corruption. Open primaries would cut off the Democratic machine at the knees.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 24[.]186[.]160[.]210, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPad; CPU OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) CriOS/138.0.7204.119 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1

True-Client-IP: 24[.]186[.]160[.]210

---

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Will of the People is Clear

From: Maggie Malina <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 14:22:41 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

I am writing to say I oppose bringing jungle primaries to New York. The ongoing discussion about jungle primaries is disconnected from the reality of public opinion and does not serve the people of this city. Voters have made it clear they do not support this reform. The failure of the measure in six states last year—Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota—is the latest and most compelling evidence. It's time to accept this verdict and move on. This commission should dedicate its efforts to promoting popular and effective reforms, such as the adoption of even-year election cycles to increase voter turnout and strengthen our democracy. Anything else would be a betrayal of the values of New York.

- Margaret Malina

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1511705 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 14:30:05 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 10:29:48 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jeremiah Kane

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I'm writing to express my strong support for Proposals 1 through 6, all of which are vital to restoring New York City's legacy as a city of ambition, opportunity, and growth. For generations, development has been the lifeblood of New York. We rose to greatness because we built — not just buildings, but futures. We didn't become a global city by saying "no" to change. But for too long now, preservationist politics and procedural gridlock have strangled our housing supply, driven up costs, and pushed everyday New Yorkers out of the neighborhoods they love. That era must end. Proposals 1 through 4 would reintroduce some long-overdue common sense into our land use process. They would fast-track affordable housing, simplify bureaucratic review, rebalance the outsized veto power that has paralyzed much-needed development, and bring our outdated City Map into the digital age. Proposal 1 is the cornerstone of this effort. By making it easier and faster to build affordable housing, it doesn't just save time — it saves homes. Every delay means higher costs and more displacement. This reform is about ensuring that every neighborhood carries its share of the solution and that working families aren't priced out by a system designed for delay. Proposal 2 would cut red tape for smaller rezonings — precisely the kind of modest, smart growth that cities should be encouraging. Projects that add housing, improve climate resilience, or expand open space shouldn't be stalled for years. We need a system that acts with urgency, not inertia. Proposal 3 finally confronts the dysfunction of member deference. The idea that one councilmember can block citywide goals to appease hyperlocal politics is out of step with the needs of a modern city. A new Appeals Board would reorient our land use process toward broader, borough- and city-level priorities. Proposal 4 would digitize the City Map, shaving months or even years off infrastructure and development timelines. In the 21st century, it's absurd that such a critical system still operates in the analog past. I also urge the Commission to take seriously Open New York's additional recommendations — especially those aimed at rethinking how landmark designations contribute to our housing shortage. Too often, the landmarking process is used not to preserve beauty or history, but to obstruct change. That's not sustainable in a city that must keep evolving. Proposal 5 — aligning city elections with even-year federal cycles — is a no-brainer. It will save public money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among working-class voters, young people, and communities of color. Democracy works best when everyone has a reason — and a reminder — to show up. Finally, Proposal 6 would give voice to over a million New Yorkers currently locked out of our most consequential elections. In a city where one party dominates, closed primaries are disenfranchisement by another name. Open primaries would foster real competition, broaden the electorate, and make candidates accountable to more than just the narrowest slice of voters. These six proposals are not radical. They're rational. They don't dismantle what makes New York special — they restore it. Our city was built on change. It's time to stop letting fear of the future dictate policy. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot and let the people decide.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 163[.]116[.]145[.]43, 23[.]220[.]107[.]8, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 163[.]116[.]145[.]43

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6524921 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:13:01 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 11:12:39 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Eva Brune

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I encourage the passing of all the recommended charter revisions. Affordable housing is one of the most important goals before the Council, City, and Borough President this year. Anything to expedite the permit and construction of these homes and apartments, with resident feedback during a review process, will help solve our homeless situation. It will also encourage young people, particularly blue collar workers and cultural workers and artists to help NYC become a welcome home so that they choose to stay in NYC.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb90:e812:8c38:8d21:7ea9:a622:a592, 23[.]40[.]16[.]65, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X)

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6264149 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:24:29 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 11:24:06 AM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lindsey McCormack

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Hello, I am writing to the Charter Commission to express my strong support for proposed land use reforms that would help address the city's housing shortage by making it faster and easier to build more housing. These reforms would go a long way to giving government the right tools to solve the worsening housing emergency. As a 20-year resident of Jackson Heights, Queens and public school parent, I have seen how the housing shortage puts extreme stress on families with children. Passing the recent "City of Yes" and "City for All" plans were important steps in the right direction, but they are by no means enough to get us out of the housing shortage. I am particularly excited to support the proposal under Question 1, which would create a new zoning action for publicly financed affordable housing projects administered by the Board of Standards and Appeals (BSA). The amendment would also establish a fast-track public review procedure for applications that deliver affordable housing in the Community Districts that produce the least affordable housing. This fast-track for fair housing would implement the Speaker's Fair Housing Framework, so new housing proposals in low-growth neighborhoods are more likely to be approved and more quickly. I think it is very important to have new rules that unlock housing opportunity, especially in places that have said “no” to new housing for decades. Thank you for your hard work and openness to citizen input in this process.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 128[.]228[.]144[.]82, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 128[.]228[.]144[.]82

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3679705 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:24:27 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 11:23:54 AM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.cityofnewyork.us/charter/contact/contact-charter>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Drew Johnston

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am very pleased to see that the charter review commission has included a number of proposals that will streamline the housing production process in New York City. I believe that the expedited process for considering small changes will be useful in reducing hurdles to housing production and allowing the city to focus its scarce resources for review on the changes that matter most, while moving smaller changes to a lighter-touch process. I also think it is important, especially in today's higher interest rate environment, that the commission push forward with changes that speed the process, such as conducting the review by the borough president and community board simultaneously.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 50.108.242.13, 23.33.43.141, 23.46.181.202, 10.143.58.120
REMOTE_HOST: apps.cityofnewyork.us

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8088562 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:27:25 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 11:26:58 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Joan Kaplan

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I think changing city election years to even years, in keeping with Federal dates would likely increase voter turnout and I am in support of this proposal. I am also in support of open primaries. I believe these would better reflect the voices of citezens than the current closed system. I also think rank choice voting has proved to be a failure, needlessly complicating the process withou better reflected the feelings of voters. Thank you for your attention. Joan Kaplan

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 169[.]155[.]254[.]1, 2[.]18[.]62[.]57, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 169[.]155[.]254[.]1

To the Commission,

Proposals to implement jungle primaries have repeatedly failed at the ballot box, and for good reason. They're both unpopular and ineffective. Just last year, voters in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota overwhelmingly rejected similar measures. The message is clear: voters across the political spectrum still see the value in party primaries as a means of candidate selection.

Let's not waste public resources on a policy that has already been shown to be rejected for many reasons. If the goal is to engage more voters, the evidence supports a better approach, move elections to even-numbered years, which is proven to boost turnout and automatic voter registration.

Sincerely,
Sabah Munawar

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5005279 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:27:46 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 11:27:31 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sabah Munawar

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: To the Commission, Proposals to implement jungle primaries have repeatedly failed at the ballot box, and for good reason. They're both unpopular and ineffective. Just last year, voters in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota overwhelmingly rejected similar measures. The message is clear: voters across the political spectrum still see the value in party primaries as a means of candidate selection. Let's not waste public resources on a policy that has already been shown to be rejected for many reasons. If the goal is to engage more voters, the evidence supports a better approach, move elections to even-numbered years, which is proven to boost turnout and automatic voter registration. Sincerely, Sabah Munawar

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 67[.]247[.]15[.]67, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2902384 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:40:39 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (jwon@council.nyc.gov) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 11:40:09 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Council Member Julie Won

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Please see attached written testimony.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 173[.]56[.]26[.]90, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 173[.]56[.]26[.]90

---

DISTRICT OFFICE
37-04 QUEENS BOULEVARD,
SUITE 205
LONG ISLAND CITY, NY 11101

CITY HALL OFFICE
250 BROADWAY, ROOM 1743
NEW YORK, NY 10007
(718) 383-9566

DISTRICT26@COUNCIL.NYC.GOV

THE COUNCIL OF
THE CITY OF NEW YORK

JULIE WON

COUNCIL MEMBER, 26TH DISTRICT, QUEENS

COMMITTEE CHAIR
CONTRACTS

COMMITTEE MEMBER FINANCE
OVERSIGHT & INVESTIGATION
PUBLIC HOUSING
TECHNOLOGY
TRANSPORTATION & INFRASTRUCTURE

July 14, 2025

I urge the Mayor's Charter Revision Commission to rescind the following proposed amendments to the New York City Charter concerning the role of the City Council and Community Boards in the ULURP process:

Ballot Question 1, which establishes the Affordable Housing Fast Track applications for residential projects that are required to deliver affordable housing under MIH in the 12 community districts that produce the lowest amount of affordable housing. The Fast Track removes the City Council vote from the ULURP process for these projects and also conducts the Community Board and Borough President review processes concurrently rather than sequentially.

This amendment eliminates the opportunity for council members to negotiate community benefits on behalf of their constituents for MIH projects subject to the Affordable Housing Fast Track. While we do need to maximize affordable housing across the city and especially in the targeted areas, MIH stipulates the bare minimum in terms of affordability. This amendment would take away an opportunity for Councilmembers to negotiate for deeper levels of affordability, additional affordable units, and other community investments.

Additionally, the facilitation of both the Community Board and Borough President review processes concurrently takes away a vital opportunity for community residents to inform the Borough President's review, ultimately minimizing their influence on project development.

Ballot Question 2, which establishes the Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) for land use proposals for "modest housing and infrastructure projects," including rezonings for residential areas that either result in heights of no more than 45 feet and 2 FAR in low density residential neighborhoods or result in no more than a 30% increase in density on any particular project in R6-R12 zones. As proposed, ELURP would remove the City Council vote from the process and conduct the Community Board and Borough President review processes concurrently.

Similar to the previous amendment, this amendment eliminates the opportunity for council members to negotiate for community benefits on behalf of their constituents. Upzonings, even modest ones, increase land values and create opportunities for developers to generate large profits. In District 26, we have seen the consequences of uninhibited development without concrete commitments to community needs, resulting in a lack of sufficient sewer and plumbing infrastructure, a school seats shortage, and an overall lack of affordable housing. In rezoning processes, council members play an essential role in representing community needs and securing community benefits to accompany planned development. This amendment would eliminate that opportunity to hold both the City and developers accountable to ensure future development also benefits the residents who already live in the community.

Again, the proposed facilitation of the Community Board and Borough President review processes concurrently takes away a vital opportunity for community residents to inform the Borough President's review, ultimately minimizing their influence on project development.

Ballot Question 3, which establishes a ULURP Appeals Board including the Mayor, relevant Borough President, and the Speaker of the City Council, which can override City Council decisions on land use proposals.

The creation of the ULURP Appeals Board not only adds another step to the public review process, requiring additional negotiations to ensure a project passes, but it also essentially increases the power of the Mayor's Office. Allowing the Appeals Board to override the City Council vote eliminates a critical check on the Mayor's power and could result in a development landscape that is entirely dependent on the Mayor's agenda, regardless of what is beneficial for the communities impacted by proposed developments. I once again underline the essential role of the City Council to represent the needs of our constituents in land use decision making. Creating the Appeals Board to reverse City Council decisions can create an equity issue in the event that the Board votes against community interests in favor of the city- and borough-wide agendas of the Mayor, Speaker, and Borough President. This proposed amendment will create an imbalance of power between the Mayor and the City Council and reduce the representation of community residents in land use decision making.

If passed, these amendments will reduce the potential of the City Council to secure investments for their districts, minimize the voices of community residents in land use matters, and create additional complexity in the land use review process. I strongly recommend against their inclusion in the final set of ballot questions.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to be 'Julie Won', with a stylized, flowing script.

Council Member Julie Won
26th District
New York City Council

Dear Charter Revision Commission,

I write to express my strong support for each of the Proposals set forth in the Commission's Interim Report dated July 1, 2025, and in particular for Proposals 1, 2 and 3. Although I am a member of Manhattan Community Board 5, I write this letter solely in my personal capacity.

I have lived in New York City since 2010, when I moved here as a graduate student at NYU. Over the past 15 years, I have watched countless friends and acquaintances leave the City, in spite of their desire to stay, because of their inability to afford housing that met their needs and aspirations. Of those who have stayed, almost everyone I know has been forced into painful compromises and concessions: a bedroom short here, a longer commute there, a faulty HVAC there still – the list goes on and on. And, of course, I will never meet the friends and loved ones who would have been our neighbors, coworkers, teammates, and passers-by on the street who thought about making a life here only to realize they couldn't afford it.

At the root of all of this, and indeed so much of the dysfunction that our city succeeds only in spite of (yet which has become so ingrained as to feel rote and essential), is the growing chasm between the number of housing units in the City and the demand to live in those units. As the Commission is well aware, the housing crisis of today is the product of nearly a half-century of underbuilding. If we are serious about dealing with this crisis, if we believe as many do that housing is a human right, then we simply need more housing. Absent structural changes to unlock that new housing, nothing of consequence will be ever achieved. We cannot subsidize or redistribute housing that does not exist.

The Commission's land-use-related Proposals will not solve the housing crisis on their own. As the Commission notes, many factors not amenable to Charter interventions contribute to this crisis in important ways. Yet Proposals 1 through 3 collectively represent a very strong step in the right direction. These Proposals would make it that much easier for new housing to be built, while retaining an important role for community boards, borough presidents, professional staffers, and the City Council. Indeed, the Proposals would bring the process for making land use changes in the City into much closer alignment with the intentions of the original framers of ULURP, and help to ensure that borough- and City-wide perspectives are appropriately weighted in what has become a regional housing shortage.

In short, I strongly support the Commission's Proposals, and in particular Proposals 1, 2 and 3. I thank the Committee for its important work.

Sincerely,

Robert Michael Tuchman

A solid black rectangular box used to redact the signature of Robert Michael Tuchman.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5874754 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:45:12 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 11:44:45 AM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Robert Tuchman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please see the attached public comment.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:4d3e:36e3:f521:4b:9332:d902, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:4d3e:36e3:f521:4b:9332:d902

---

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The High Cost of Jungle Primaries

From: Ranjit Arpels-Josiah <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 11:47:20 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear City Charter commission:

I am very concerned about the efforts by the city charter commission to change NYC primary rules in the midst of a very important election cycle. The Primary should fairly represent all the parties involved and should not give or allow a particular class of peoples/ New Yorkers to influence its outcome. Thus the drive by the billionaire class to change the rules of the primary is particularly grievous.

The narrative that public sector unions are a "special interest" with "outsized influence" is a cynical ploy used by those who hold the real power. These unions represent hundreds of thousands of workers and are a critical force for social and economic equality in our city. The jungle primary proposal is a strategic attempt to neutralize this positive force. It aims to weaken the only organized opposition to the agenda of the billionaire class, which seeks lower wages, fewer benefits, and the privatization of all public goods for their own profit.

This effort to change these rules should be publically and widely announced and debated before any change is seriously considered.

Thank you,

Ranjit Arpels-josiah (long term New York City resident and voter)

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9614543 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:50:22 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 11:49:54 AM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alice Rydel

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am in support of putting Open Primaries on the ballot this fall so the voters can decide. I am part of the million-plus independent voters in NYC who are locked out of the primary system. In NYC 49% of independents are under the age of 50. 53% of NYC independents are from communities of color. NYC is way behind the rest of the country. 85% of the cities in the United States use some form of open primaries. Sadly, I think some of the career politicians/politicos who are so vehemently against open primaries are more concerned about keeping their jobs and/or some little niche of control than they are in actually listening to and representing all the voters. No American should be forced to join a political party to be able to vote. Thank you.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 207[.]96[.]121[.]94, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7225248 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:51:26 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 11:51:03 AM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR5qV2FNcjYqtRlPkOqRJ2P0wM9HnOiWACW3akSnWCXzxRcev2Ek1LbT7DUe4A_aem_QgIMveY
0T1I6xGCdnaLa9Q

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sandra Paramithis

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Our taxes will rise and we won't be able to live in our beautiful community. Our property values will decrease tremendously.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 165[.]155[.]170[.]64, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIOS;FBAV/521[.]0[.]0[.]38.98;FBBV/760232234;FBDV/iPhone14,7;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS
;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/762785298;IABMV/1]

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] California's Decade-Long Experiment: A Lesson Learned

From: David Neustadt <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:53:30 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners, We need to have an honest conversation about the effectiveness of jungle primaries. The claim that they increase voter turnout is simply not supported by the available data.

To continue to advocate for this system on that basis is to ignore the facts. If we are serious about increasing democratic participation, we must be willing to abandon failed strategies. Let's look at the evidence from states that have adopted these systems and acknowledge that they have not delivered on their promise. It is time to focus on what truly motivates citizens to vote. Thank you, David Neustadt

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] We are not for sale

From: Bernette Carway <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 11:47:50 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

The move toward jungle primaries is a deeply troubling development for our city. It's a system designed to empower wealthy donors, allowing them to finance their chosen candidates into office while circumventing the party system. This poses an existential threat to public sector unions and their ability to advocate for the essential services we all rely on. The claim that labor holds "outsized influence" is a tired narrative used to justify these power grabs by the super-rich. The Democratic primary is a vital tool for working families; we cannot allow a system favored by billionaires to dismantle it.

Thanks,
Bernette Carway

Bernette Carway

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Focus on What Works

From: Zora Agathocleous <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 11:53:27 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

History teaches us that increasing voter turnout is about effective mobilization, not simply changing rules. The record clearly indicates that jungle primaries have failed to deliver higher participation; they are a demonstrated misstep. The path of proven success lies in moving to even-year primaries. Beyond structural adjustments, the most impactful work of increasing turnout is done by people's organizations, including community groups, unions, and political parties. They are the experts in direct voter contact, employing methods like canvassing and personalized outreach that countless studies confirm are highly successful. Any attempt to diminish the strength or curtail the self-determination of these organized entities, especially political parties and labor unions, will inevitably depress turnout. Such initiatives appear to be an agenda to disempower advocacy groups rather than a sincere effort to expand the electorate. We must ensure these organized forces remain vibrant and actively engaged to truly increase turnout.

Sincerely,

Zora Agathocleous

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9437479 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:54:03 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 11:53:32 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Thomas Whidden

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Open primaries must be allowed for a true democracy to thrive. NYC elections should remain in odd years to allow for the attention they deserve, and to not overwhelm voters with an entire city, state, and federal ballot all at once. Closed primaries exclude individuals who want to support candidates hoping to shift the priorities of a party away from those currently in power. I would not be registered with my party if it was not for the closed primary because they perpetually do not represent the interests of my community. Many left and right leaning people are rightfully disgusted with their choice for candidates, and a primary is often the best and only chance to bring actual change. Continuing with closed primaries favors only the party elites and is explicitly anti-democratic. How else will we encourage swing voters and registered independents to participate if we continue to deny their right to vote? Closed primaries must end, and to act as the champion of democracy that NYC ought to be, we must allow open primaries. City-level elections deserve special attention and a distinct period of time that is separate from national and state elections. Our city government often has a more direct impact on the lives of our residents than the state or federal government. Voter apathy and exhaustion are real issues, but they will only be exacerbated by overwhelming the ballot with too many candidates and proposals to research all at once. Democracy should be practiced often, and every opportunity to vote helps flex the muscle of participation. The continued promotion of early voting has made this process even easier, and as more New Yorkers choose to vote early and communicate the benefits, the more participation will grow. City elections deserve special focus from all participants, and NYC should not realign our election periods to diminish the full attention that they both require and deserve. Yes to open primaries. No to shifting elections to even years. Thank you!

---

HTTP_ADDR: 74[.]68[.]61[.]6, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]176
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 74[.]68[.]61[.]6

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1697781 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:54:24 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 11:54:12 AM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Carrie McLaren

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: New Yorkers just experienced an historic primary in which a genuinely grassroots candidate — someone not funded by billionaires — managed to win out over the well-known machine candidate. Whatever one thinks of Mamdani, this is what a truly democratic system looks like. Candidates collaborated to promote policies that New Yorkers cared about — and citizens came out to vote in historic numbers. Why is Mayor Adam's Charter Revision Commission — which was intended to address the housing crisis — using its power to mess with our elections? The proposal to institute jungle primaries is a blatantly anti-democratic effort to suppress the power of progressive voters. New York City has long been marked by machine politics; this effort would take us backward in time to a system that further favors big donors and corporations. Sincerely, Carrie McLaren

-----

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] NYC Deserves Real Solutions, Not Empty Open Primary Promises.

From: Christine McMonagle <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 11:54:40 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

If the commission is serious about boosting turnout, they must consider supporting candidates that people are excited about, rather than investing in a system that has repeatedly failed to deliver on this promise. California's experience with jungle primaries, in place since 2012, offers a compelling case. Their own turnout data reveals that voter participation has stayed almost exactly the same when compared to the preceding 12 years, for both primaries and general elections. This consistent stagnation completely undermines the argument that jungle primaries are a solution to low voter turnout. We need to acknowledge this reality and pursue alternative, more effective strategies. I do not support jungle primaries!

Thank you,
Christine Mcmonagle

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Activating Party Members for Higher Turnout

From: Alex Gallitano <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 11:59:06 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

Anyone who suggests we can simply do away with political parties fundamentally misunderstands their structural importance to democracy. They are the primary aggregators of public opinion and the most effective means by which diverse groups can organize to exert political influence. Without them, the field is left open for individuals with the deepest pockets to dominate, not those with the broadest support. The party designations (D), (R), (C), or (WFP) are essential shortcuts for voters, providing immediate insight into a candidate's alignment on complex issues like economic inequality or foreign policy. This is about ensuring that our political system remains accessible and understandable to the average citizen, not just a privileged few.

Thank you,
Alex Gallitano

Alex Gallitano // Director of Photography
(He/Him/His)

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3263240 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 16:23:14 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 12:20:10 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Mary Faber

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Hello Commissioners, Please, no jungle primaries! Only billionaires want them as their best means for removing labor union and worker opposition to their agenda of privatizing public services and weakening the government. A biased commission--with no labor union or worker representation--shouldn't be tasked with removing the limited power that labor and workers have struggled to earn. Avoid the billionaire road. Oppose Jungle primaries. - Mary Faber

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 68[.]194[.]21[.]179, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.3.1 Safari/605.1.15

True-Client-IP: 68[.]194[.]21[.]179

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Overwhelming Case Against Jungle Primaries

From: Alex Beauchamp <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 16:15:35 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

I write to urge you to reject any attempt to change New York City's primary system to a so-called jungle primary system.

The debate over jungle primaries should be settled by now. Voters have made their opposition clear. The overwhelming rejection of the idea in New York City was an early sign, and the defeats in six states last year—Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota—confirm it. This is a reform that lacks a constituency. This commission should not be in the business of pushing unpopular ideas. Instead, it should focus on what has been proven to work, such as aligning local elections with even-year federal elections to maximize turnout.

Thanks,
Alexander Beauchamp

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1981028 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 16:24:53 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 12:24:22 PM

-----
This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Benjamin Gallai

Email:

Phone:

Comments: I am writing to express my objection to the possibility of switching to open primaries in New York City. As a registered Democrat, my fellow registered Democrats and I should be the only ones who determine who represents us as the Democratic nominee in any given election. Similarly, I would not dare feel entitled to have a say in who registered Republicans select as their Republican nominee. Any registered Independents unhappy that they do not have a primary election to vote in is welcome to simply register with an actual political party.

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 68[.]129[.]252[.]82, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (X11; Linux x86_64; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101 Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 68[.]129[.]252[.]82

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2572500 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 17:18:35 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 01:18:19 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Martin Bergstrom

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Brooklyn and regular community board attendee, I fully support Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. Extended review processes and many friction points make housing and urban development subject to capture by narrow interest groups that do not represent the entire neighborhood or city. People with the time and resources to devote to fighting development end up over represented in this process while renters like me end up paying higher rents as housing development falls far below demand. The ability to impose a time and litigation tax on all new development ends up increasing rents while also ensuring that any new development that does happen comes only from the largest developers with the resources and capital to push through the review process. Simplified, straightforward reviews for affordable housing and smaller developments (or really any developments) will make housing development in our city more nimble, affordable, and accessible. I strongly support Proposals 1-3 for doing this, as well as proposal 4 for simplifying the city map. Similarly, opening up the city's partisan primaries will ensure a wider breadth of voices are heard in New York City politics. I did not vote in this primary, because I am not a Democrat and am not willing to say otherwise simply for the ability to vote in what should be an open primary. I care deeply about my neighborhood and New York City as a whole and I think it's wrong to have to attach a label to my political beliefs to vote on the candidate likely to govern our beautiful city. All the best, Martin Bergstrom

---

HTTP_ADDR: 69[.]115[.]192[.]9, 170[.]85[.]74[.]102, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205,
10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 170[.]85[.]74[.]102

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] RCV Isn't Even Four Years Old - Let It Mature

From: Meira Patterson <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 12:58:42 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The case for consolidating elections to even-numbered years is strong because it is simple and effective. The case for "Jungle Primaries" is weak because it is complex and comes at a time of great electoral flux. Piling this new system on top of the recent RCV change is a move that seems designed to confuse voters. We must prioritize clarity. Let's pursue reforms that have a proven track record of making voting easier and more accessible, not ideas that add more layers of difficulty to an already challenging process.

Thank you,

Meira Patterson

July 14, 2025

TESTIMONY BEFORE THE NYC CHARTER REVISION COMMISSION
RE: OPPOSITION TO A “JUNGLE PRIMARY” SYSTEM

Charter Revision Commissioners:

Thank you for the opportunity to submit testimony. My name is Cea Weaver, and I represent thousands of organized tenants from across the state and the five boroughs through the NYS Tenant Bloc, the sister organization of Housing Justice For All. I write to express my strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections.

70% of New Yorkers rent, and we are the backbone of this city – the cooks, nurses, teachers, and bus drivers who keep New York running. But for too long, tenants have been shut out of civic life. Tenants have been outspent by corporate interests, outvoted by landlords, and out-manuvered by insider politics and backroom deals.

Our work to tilt the scales of power from the landlord lobby to New York City’s tenant majority requires grassroots organizing, and attracts the vociferous opposition of wealthy landlords. In jungle primaries, the ultimate winners tend to be those who benefit from large-scale advertising campaigns by candidates and Super PACs alike. Jungle primaries tilt the playing field back toward the entrenched landlords which our grassroots organizing seeks to challenge.

Over the last several years, tenants have shown up to flex our power as the majority of this city through engaging in the political process and civic life. We embraced ranked choice voting, making our first-ever ranked choice endorsements and encouraging voters to use all five spots on their ballot. We brought first-time voters out in off-year primaries. We spoke with voters in their homes and their neighborhoods, supercharging tenant turnout.

So many tenant voters across the city are disengaged and disillusioned with politics. Voters are inspired by movement candidates and interested in making their voices heard at the ballot box. We shouldn’t disenfranchise voters by making our local elections any more confusing. We just educated folks on ranked choice voting — and further complicating the differences between City, State, and special elections would have the effect of confusing voters and ultimately diluting the power of tenants and grassroots organizations like ours.

For these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power — and for democracy.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Cea Weaver
Director, The NYS Tenant Bloc

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6479220 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 17:30:01 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 01:29:41 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Cea Weaver

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: TESTIMONY BEFORE THE NYC CHARTER REVISION COMMISSION RE: OPPOSITION TO A "JUNGLE PRIMARY" SYSTEM Charter Revision Commissioners: Thank you for the opportunity to submit testimony. My name is Cea Weaver, and I represent thousands of organized tenants from across the state and the five boroughs through the NYS Tenant Bloc, the sister organization of Housing Justice For All. I write to express my strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. 70% of New Yorkers rent, and we are the backbone of this city - the cooks, nurses, teachers, and bus drivers who keep New York running. But for too long, tenants have been shut out of civic life. Tenants have been outspent by corporate interests, outvoted by landlords, and out-manuvered by insider politics and backroom deals. Our work to tilt the scales of power from the landlord lobby to New York City's tenant majority requires grassroots organizing, and attracts the vociferous opposition of wealthy landlords. In jungle primaries, the ultimate winners tend to be those who benefit from large-scale advertising campaigns by candidates and Super PACs alike. Jungle primaries tilt the playing field back toward the entrenched landlords which our grassroots organizing seeks to challenge. Over the last several years, tenants have shown up to flex our power as the majority of this city through engaging in the political process and civic life. We embraced ranked choice voting, making our first-ever ranked choice endorsements and encouraging voters to use all five spots on their ballot. We brought first-time voters out in off-year primaries. We spoke with voters in their homes and their neighborhoods, supercharging tenant turnout. So many tenant voters across the city are disengaged and disillusioned with politics. Voters are inspired by movement candidates and interested in making their voices heard at the ballot box. We shouldn't disenfranchise voters by making our local elections any more confusing. We just educated folks on ranked choice voting—and further complicating the differences between City, State, and special elections would have the effect of confusing voters and ultimately diluting the power of tenants and grassroots organizations like ours. For these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power—and for democracy. Thank you. Sincerely, Cea Weaver Director, The NYS Tenant Bloc

---

HTTP_ADDR: 148[.]77[.]30[.]218, 23[.]200[.]89[.]190, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 148[.]77[.]30[.]218

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No Jungle Primaries in NY

From: Cindy M <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 13:20:29 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

The consistent backing of jungle primaries by billionaires is all the evidence we need to understand their true function. They are a tool for breaking the power of municipal unions and paving the way for a corporate takeover of government. The wealthy see strong unions as a barrier to profits from privatized schools, transit, and healthcare. We must defend the primary system as a space for genuine democratic participation, where the collective voice of working people can challenge the dominance of corporate cash and protect our essential public services. I strongly oppose the jungle primary and urge you to oppose this as well.

- Cindy Martinez

Third, this system would discourage long-term community organizing. One of the most powerful aspects of our current system is that it gives communities clear political targets: party primaries where their votes and their organizing can make a real difference. That’s how working-class tenants have elected champions. It’s how immigrant neighborhoods have shifted city policy. Jungle primaries scramble those lines, make electoral pathways murky, and take power away from communities that have only recently begun to claim it.

Let's be clear: this proposal is not about empowering voters. It's about disempowering the people who have learned how to organize within the existing system to demand more for their neighborhoods.

If we want a more inclusive democracy, the answer is not to blow up the tools that marginalized communities have just started to master. The answer is to make those tools more accessible—to invest in civic education, expand voter access, and build systems that reward organizing, not money.

For these reasons, I urge you to reject any attempt to implement a jungle primary system in New York City. It is a step backward for grassroots power—and for democracy.

Thank you.

Nick Galipeau
Secretary-Treasurer
OPEIU Local 153

NG:GC
OPEIU:153
AFL-CIO

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8019798 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 17:33:14 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 01:32:58 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Nick Galipeau

Email:

Phone:

Comments: See attached.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:a410:5046:3128:7767:e11f:3446, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78,
23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:a410:5046:3128:7767:e11f:3446

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4896753 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 17:37:31 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 01:35:51 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Roland Nimis

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: As an attorney who represents New Yorkers facing eviction, I see firsthand every day how our city's severe housing shortage harms tenants and destabilizes communities. I am writing in strong support of the Charter Revision Commission's interim proposals, particularly Question 1, which would fast-track publicly financed affordable housing and create a more equitable process for siting new homes. For too long, certain parts of the city have said "no" to new housing, leaving working-class and low-income New Yorkers with fewer and fewer options. The result is a historic housing emergency that our current laws and processes are ill-equipped to address. The Commission's proposed reforms would give our city critical new tools to meet this moment. The recent "City of Yes" and "City for All" plans were important steps forward, but they are not enough on their own. The Charter governs the processes that determine where and how much housing gets built. Updating it to reflect today's realities is essential. Question 1's proposed fast-track process for affordable housing is especially exciting. By prioritizing publicly financed affordable projects and ensuring faster reviews in districts that have produced the least housing, this amendment would operationalize the Speaker's Fair Housing Framework and help break down long-standing barriers to housing opportunity. These changes will not only make it faster and easier to build housing but will also begin to undo patterns of exclusion that have contributed to our current crisis. I urge the Commission to continue moving these reforms forward and give voters the chance to approve them this November.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:54fa:7700:104e:8c1:2b42:2f1b, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:54fa:7700:104e:8c1:2b42:2f1b

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5220978 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 17:41:20 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 01:40:47 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Scott Budow

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Review Commission, I write to express my support for proposals 1, 2, 3, and 5. I also write to express my support for open primaries. Proposals 1, 2, and 3 will permit more housing to come to market more quickly. In a city with a vacancy rate of 1.4%, it should come as no surprise that we have a severe housing affordability crisis. We have not produced enough new housing for years, which helps explain why incomes have not kept pace with rent increases. Oftentimes, one of the primary reasons that we are unable to quickly bring new housing to market is that we have outdated zoning rules that needlessly limit and delay new housing. These proposals will help address those issues, mitigating the dire housing affordability crisis. As a renter myself, I know that the strongest response to an unreasonable rent increase is to say, "I'll move." Right now, that option is not viable for too many renters because of the severe lack of alternatives. As a result, I support these proposals, which will better level the playing field between tenants and landlords by allowing for more options. I also support moving municipal elections to even-numbered years to increase voter turnout and open primaries. Both measures will increase the number of voters who participate in elections, which is sorely needed in a democracy with consistently low voter turnout. Further, open primaries will help reduce partisanship and better reflect the diverse views of a district and the city more generally. Right now, in too many elections, winning the primary is tantamount to winning the general election. And, it's no secret that candidates from both major parties often take more extreme positions to do so, reflecting the priorities of the small slice of voters who reliably participate in primaries. Further, in too many cases, there is literally no competition for city council seats. Open primaries will lead to greater electoral competition while simultaenously forcing candidates to consider how best to reflect the diverse range of views of a general electorate, rather than the narrower range of views of a primary electorate. Thank you for your attention to this matter and for your public service. Sincerely, Scott Budow

---

HTTP_ADDR: 108[.]14[.]251[.]219, 23[.]40[.]16[.]30, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 108[.]14[.]251[.]219

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-4218152 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 17:38:54 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 01:38:31 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sam Heyne

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Good evening, Commissioners, Thank you for the opportunity to testify today. My name is Samantha Heyne. I am a Brooklyn resident, community member, and labor union organizer. I am here to express my very strong opposition to the proposed adoption of a so-called "jungle primary" system for New York City elections. The public has not been adequately informed or engaged, and should have been for a change of this magnitude. It should come only after a robust, charter revision process—one that includes multilingual education campaigns, community listening sessions, expert testimony from across the political spectrum, and an extended deliberation period. What we have instead is a rushed proposal, with little explanation, little data, and little outreach—especially to voters in the communities most likely to be harmed. We've seen how rushed reforms, however well-intentioned, can backfire when voters don't understand what's at stake. Imposing a fundamental redesign of our elections without clear public demand or broad-based consent is not just misguided—it is undemocratic. This process undermines faith in the democratic system itself, one that I have believed in my entire life! It sends the message that our election rules can be rewritten from the top down, without the kind of transparency and accountability that is the bedrock of our democracy. That is a dangerous precedent—especially in a moment when trust in democratic institutions is already so fragile. We There are ways to improve democracy in this city. But these start with listening to the people, listening to many people by garnering input across the board—not bypassing us. For that reason, I strongly urge the Commission to reject any effort to advance a jungle primary system, and to commit instead to a public process rooted in transparency, equity, and community voice. Thank you. Sam Heyne

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:1017:a410:5046:3128:7767:e11f:3446, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78,
23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like
Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:1017:a410:5046:3128:7767:e11f:3446

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No Mandate for Jungle Primaries: Voters Decide

From: Saul Ferholt-Kahn <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 13:41:21 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

Voters have a consistent message on jungle primaries: we don't want them. These reforms fail to achieve their stated goals and are routinely rejected. Mayor Bloomberg's attempt in New York in 2003 was dismissed 70-30%. Last year, it failed in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. This widespread rejection shows that voters understand the value of political parties. This commission should not waste time and money on an unpopular proposition. If the aim is to increase turnout, stick with proven methods like even-year elections.

Best,

Saul Ferholt-kahn

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3215626 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 17:44:01 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 01:43:36 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Claire Wellin

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: NO open primaries! We are just a few years into our rank choice system, and it's so important for voter education and participation for us to have consistency and clarity. Open primaries defeat the whole purpose of having primaries.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:54fa:b300:3c0b:916e:6b58:ec95, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:54fa:b300:3c0b:916e:6b58:ec95

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2777129 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 17:53:50 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 01:53:10 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alexandra Stewart

Email:

Phone:

Comments: I believe we should move municipal elections to even-numbered years. Higher participation in our democracy is a good thing, and right now it's very difficult to get high voter turnout during odd-year municipal elections. It would also save a lot of money. Let's do it!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 24[.]177[.]73[.]19, 23[.]50[.]129[.]166, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 24[.]177[.]73[.]19

---

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] This Path Has Been Rejected

From: Magdiel Matos <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 13:52:47 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The push for jungle primaries is a misguided effort that ignores the clear will of the people. Voters have shown time and again that they do not support this kind of reform. Last year, the measure was defeated in six different states, including Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. This consistent rejection demonstrates that citizens value the candidate-vetting process that political parties provide. I urge the commission to stop investing resources in this unpopular idea and instead work on proven strategies like even-year elections to enhance voter participation.

Sincerely,

Magdiel Matos

Written Testimony Submitted to the New York City Charter Revision Commission Re: Opposition to the Implementation of a “Jungle Primary” System

Dear Commissioners,

Churches United for Fair Housing (CUFFH) is a grassroots organization that builds power to win housing, land, education, and racial justice for Black, brown, immigrant, and working-class communities in Brooklyn, Queens, and the Bronx. As a faith-based organization grounded in the belief that every person deserves dignity, equity, and a say in the decisions that shape their lives, we are writing to express deep concern about the proposal to adopt a “jungle primary” or top-two primary system in New York City.

This proposed system would place all candidates, regardless of party affiliation, into a single primary. Only the top two vote-getters would move on to the general election. While it may appear to promote fairness, it has been shown in other jurisdictions to weaken community representation, depress voter participation, and ultimately reduce access to the democratic process for the very communities CUFFH serves.

In states like California and Washington, this system has led to multiple candidates from the same community or political alignment splitting the vote and failing to advance, even when those communities make up the majority of the electorate. This dynamic has shut out candidates of choice for communities of color and reduced the accountability of those who do reach the general election.

The communities we work with—Black, brown, immigrant, and working-class New Yorkers—have long organized within the current system to build political voice and power. While not perfect, our closed primary system allows for collective action and shared decision-making within political parties. A top-two system would fracture that process and give greater advantage to well-funded candidates who can stand out in crowded fields, rather than those rooted in community.

We are also concerned about the impact on voter turnout and engagement. Many voters, particularly those juggling work, caregiving, and language access barriers, rely on party affiliation as a meaningful cue in making informed choices. Removing that from the ballot risks increasing confusion and lowering participation in communities already facing systemic disenfranchisement.

New York City voters recently approved ranked-choice voting as a pathway to more representative elections. Rather than disrupt this reform, we urge the Commission to focus on continued investment in civic education, outreach, and access, so that all New Yorkers can participate fully and meaningfully. CUFFH believes that building power starts with protecting it. Our faith calls us to fight for systems that uplift human dignity and strengthen the bonds of community. We urge the Charter Revision Commission to reject the proposed shift to a top-two or jungle primary system. Instead, we ask that you continue supporting reforms that expand access, deepen engagement, and center the needs of those historically left out of the political process.

For further information, contact Whitney Hu, Director of Civic Engagement and Research, whu@cuffh.org.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-244967 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 17:58:12 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 01:57:46 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Whitney Hu

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: See attached.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:8400:1b52:2937:ec05:f954:30a6, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps.nyc.gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:8400:1b52:2937:ec05:f954:30a6

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5519770 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:02:27 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 02:02:01 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Bill Cryer

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, I am writing to express strong support for all of the proposals the commission has put forward. Proposals 1 through 4 will help to address the housing shortage. The city is facing its worst housing shortage in 50 years. We must make it easier to build housing that New Yorkers so desperately need. I am particularly excited about Proposal 3, which creates a ULURP Appeals Board. This will help counteract the practice of member deference, which has allowed some council members to prevent much needed housing in their districts. Housing is a regional need, and we should not allow some districts to opt out of building. To that end, Proposal 5, which will move elections to even years and increase voter participation, will help make council members more accountable to their entire district. Currently, small, motivated groups of voters can have an outsized impact on local elections, which encourages council members to defer to their views. I also support Open New York's proposals, especially their 4th proposal which brings the housing shortage into landmark decisions. Landmarking has often been used as a tool to prevent housing development, so it is critical that the impact on housing supply is taken into account.

hxxxs://opennewyork[.]org/wp-content/uploads/2025/02/ONY-Charter-For-Housing-Equity.pdf

Thank you for your consideration. The commission has done a wonderful job putting together proposals that will make New York City a better place, and I hope to see all five proposals on my ballot this November. Sincerely, Bill Cryer

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4041:52e3:fd00:3723:2171:c74e:93d5, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (X11; Linux x86_64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko)
Chrome/132[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4041:52e3:fd00:3723:2171:c74e:93d5

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2627067 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:01:21 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 02:00:34 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Kevin Fagan

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I am writing to express my strong enthusiastic support for the 5 proposed ballot questions from the preliminary report as well as the proposal for open primaries. In a housing crisis, we need to do whatever we possibly can to streamline the approval of new housing, which questions 1-4 seem intent on doing. Question 5 will increase the participation in local elections significantly due to higher voter participation on presidential / midterm election years. While it might have the most controversy, the open primaries concept is very appealing to me and will definitely increase voter participation, especially from independent voters who currently don't have a say during our closed primary process. Thank you, Kevin

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 160[.]83[.]72[.]245, 23[.]200[.]89[.]192, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5088107 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:21:57 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 02:21:34 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Victor Pontis

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Brooklyn resident and a former Manhattan Community Board Member, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-4 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, strike a better balance in the land use process, and digitize the City Map. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities.

Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. A unified City Map is a step in the right direction, since the current system can impose significant costs and time on infrastructure, housing, and other projects. Proposal 4's Digital City Map would allow processes that today take months or even years to occur nearly instantly. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Victor Pontis
UWS 10023

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 108[.]18[.]210[.]36, 23[.]33[.]43[.]141, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 108[.]18[.]210[.]36

-----

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Clear Message: Voters Reject Jungle Primaries

From: Ellen Weiss <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 14:05:13 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

I am formally requesting that this commission cease its work on jungle primary proposals. This is a flawed system that lacks the support of the public. The coordinated rejection across six states last year—from Arizona to South Dakota—demonstrates this clearly. Voters have sent a message that they value the function of political parties in the nominating process. It is incumbent upon this commission to listen to that message. Please, pivot your focus to strategies with a proven track record of success, such as aligning more elections with the even-year federal calendar.

Sincerely,
Ellen Weiss

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5053815 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:33:07 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 02:32:46 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Eden Seiferheld

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current Brooklyn resident for nearly 20 years, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-4 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, strike a better balance in the land use process, and digitize the City Map. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new

Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. A unified City Map is a step in the right direction, since the current system can impose significant costs and time on infrastructure, housing, and other projects. Proposal 4's Digital City Map would allow processes that today take months or even years to occur nearly instantly. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all 6 measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Eden Seiferheld Bushwick 11221

-----
HTTP_ADDR: 67[.]84[.]92[.]148, 104[.]70[.]121[.]60, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 67[.]84[.]92[.]148

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

DEBORAH J. GLICK
Assemblymember 66TH District
New York County

THE ASSEMBLY STATE OF NEW YORK ALBANY

CHAIR
Higher Education Committee
Intern Committee

COMMITTEES
Environmental Conservation
Governmental Operations
Rules
Ways & Means

July 14, 2025

To Whom it May Concern:

I am writing to express my deep misgivings regarding the empaneling of the New York City Charter Commission by Mayor Adams in December 2024, and urge the Commission to delay proposing any changes to the City Charter until after the 2025 mayoral election, and none if this Mayor is not re-elected.

I do not believe that a charter commission whose members are selected solely by the mayor should be empaneled during an election year. This is especially true in the case of Mayor Adams, who has been embroiled in numerous scandals and who by every polling metric has lost the confidence of the electorate. I am especially troubled by reporting that indicates that Mayor Adams may have empaneled the current charter commission largely to circumvent any efforts by Speaker Adam's charter commission to limit executive power, as he seemingly did in 2024. I appreciate that the Commission is an independent entity and that many of its members are working in good faith. However, the City Charter should not be changed in an effort to prevent the City Council from creating increased accountability and oversight for a mayor's office that has been mired by serious allegations of corruption.

I am also deeply concerned that the Commission is focusing its efforts on changes to the charter that would significantly alter rules for housing development and the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) before we have been able to assess the impacts of the sweeping changes recently passed as part of City of Yes. City of Yes will remake so much of how real estate development occurs in New York City - how can the Charter Commission reasonably assess what changes need to be made to the City Charter before these changes have been widely implemented? Similarly to City of Yes, I am also angered that the Commission employs the logic that if the City just makes it easier to build somehow affordable housing will magically appear. The proposal being put forth by the Commission that seeks to reduce community input in the 12 districts identified to have permitted the least affordable housing is especially egregious. The lack of affordable housing in these districts is not an indictment of the communities that live there, but of the developer class, which has chosen time and again to only build luxury units that community boards and elected officials have adamantly stated they do not want. The little affordable housing that has been built in these districts is because of advocacy from the community and their representatives, not despite it. To blame the neighborhoods that have been victimized by luxury real estate development and further enable developers will only further disenfranchise the long-term residents who have made New York City what it is.

The Commission is also considering changes to our election process, including moving municipal elections to even years and instituting open primaries. Again, I am concerned that the Commission is moving to dramatically alter our elections so quickly after the recent introduction of ranked choice voting, another significant change to which the voters are still adjusting. To institute these changes without any particular commitment to public education could lead to a massive amount of confusion for voters and result in them disengaging from primaries and elections altogether.

In general, much of what the Commission is considering would consolidate executive power, reduce public oversight, and limit the powers of other elected officials. This represents an enormous overreach by an administration that may not even exist in a few months, and appears designed to garner the Mayor further support with real estate developers rather than solve the problems facing our city. Historically, city charter commissions have understood the weight of changing the City Charter, undertaking extensive public engagement processes that include presentations to community boards and in each borough as well as staff with whom the public can communicate. While I appreciate the public engagement that has taken place, it falls well short of this standard. In fact, the release of the Commission's final report on July 1st only strengthens the argument that this Commission's proposals are not in the public's best interest. Releasing a 135-page report during one of the busiest travel weeks of the year and giving stakeholders two weeks to prepare a response indicates to the public that rather than caring about transparency and community input, the Commission wishes for its proposals to sneak by unnoticed.

That this Charter Commission's work has been so opaque and abbreviated seems to confirm that it has been designed to push through a host of dramatic actions onto the ballot this November, further empowering the Mayor and preventing the City Council from putting forth their own proposals. I strongly urge the Commission to recognize its responsibility to the public and refuse to put forth any changes to the Charter this year.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, reading "Deborah J. Glick". The signature is fluid and cursive, with the first name "Deborah" being more prominent than the last name "Glick".

Deborah J. Glick
Assemblymember

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3205966 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:39:37 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 02:39:08 PM

-----
This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Assemblymember Deborah J. Glick

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: To Whom it May Concern: I am writing to express my deep misgivings regarding the empaneling of the New York City Charter Commission by Mayor Adams in December 2024, and urge the Commission to delay proposing any changes to the City Charter until after the 2025 mayoral election, and none if this Mayor is not re-elected. I do not believe that a charter commission whose members are selected solely by the mayor should be empaneled during an election year. This is especially true in the case of Mayor Adams, who has been embroiled in numerous scandals and who by every polling metric has lost the confidence of the electorate. I am especially troubled by reporting that indicates that Mayor Adams may have empaneled the current charter commission largely to circumvent any efforts by Speaker Adam's charter commission to limit executive power, as he seemingly did in 2024. I appreciate that the Commission is an independent entity and that many of its members are working in good faith. However, the City Charter should not be changed in an effort to prevent the City Council from creating increased accountability and oversight for a mayor's office that has been mired by serious allegations of corruption. I am also deeply concerned that the Commission is focusing its efforts on changes to the charter that would significantly alter rules for housing development and the Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) before we have been able to assess the impacts of the sweeping changes recently passed as part of City of Yes. City of Yes will remake so much of how real estate development occurs in New York City - how can the Charter Commission reasonably assess what changes need to be made to the City Charter before these changes have been widely implemented? Similarly to City of Yes, I am also angered that the Commission employs the logic that if the City just makes it easier to build somehow affordable housing will magically appear. The proposal being put forth by the Commission that seeks to reduce community input in the 12 districts identified to have permitted the least affordable housing is especially egregious. The lack of affordable housing in these districts is not an indictment of the communities that live there, but of the developer class, which has chosen time and again to only build luxury units that community boards and elected officials have adamantly stated they do not want. The little affordable housing that has been built in these districts is because of advocacy from the community and their representatives, not despite it. To blame the neighborhoods that have been victimized by luxury real estate development and further enable developers will only further disenfranchise the long-term residents who have made New York City what it is. The Commission is also considering changes to our election process, including moving municipal elections to even years and instituting open primaries. Again, I am concerned that the Commission is moving to dramatically alter our elections so quickly after the recent introduction of ranked choice voting, another significant change to which the voters are still adjusting. To institute these changes without any particular commitment to public education could lead to a massive amount of confusion for voters and result in them disengaging from primaries and elections altogether. In general, much of what the Commission is considering would consolidate executive power, reduce public oversight, and limit the powers of other elected officials. This represents an enormous overreach by an administration that may not even exist in a few months, and appears designed to garner the Mayor further support with real estate developers rather than solve the problems facing our city. Historically, city charter commissions have understood the weight of changing the City Charter, undertaking extensive public engagement processes that include presentations to community boards and in each borough as well as staff with whom the public can communicate. While I appreciate the public engagement that has taken place, it falls well short of this standard. In fact, the release of the Commission's final report on July 1st only strengthens the argument that this Commission's proposals are not in the public's best interest. Releasing a 135-page report during one of the busiest travel weeks of the year and giving stakeholders two weeks to prepare a response indicates to the public that rather than caring about transparency and community input, the Commission wishes for its proposals to sneak by unnoticed. That this Charter Commission's work has been so opaque and abbreviated seems to confirm that it has been designed to push through a host of dramatic actions onto the ballot this November, further empowering the Mayor and preventing the City Council from putting forth their own proposals. I strongly urge the Commission to recognize its responsibility to the public and refuse to put forth any changes to the Charter this year. Sincerely, Deborah J. Glick Assemblymember

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-18967 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:45:38 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 02:45:26 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?link_id=3&can_id=d999db96 fff311ede8680d8bb0544a7e&source=email-the-votes-are-in-for-mamdani&email_referrer=email_ 2807601&email_subject=_-housing-zoning-elections-proposed-changes-to-the-city-charter&&

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Alexander Schwarz

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am writing in strong support of the Charter Review Commission's proposals. We need to fast track affordable housing, simplify the approvals process for smaller-scale development, update outdated zoning processes and create a new appeals board, digitize the City Map, and move city elections to even-numbered years. Thank you.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 136[.]181[.]197[.]192, 23[.]63[.]28[.]235, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 Edg/138[.]0[.]0

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Fight for Our City's Future

From: Ariane Arpels-Josiah <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 14:40:29 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello Commissioners,

We have seen this play before, and we know how it ends. Wealthy interests, echoing the efforts of Mike Bloomberg, are once again pushing for jungle primaries to dilute the power of working people. This is a thinly veiled attempt to dismantle unions and open the door to the widespread privatization of public assets. The lack of a labor voice on the review commission speaks volumes about whose interests are being prioritized. This is a tired, cynical strategy to rewrite the rules in favor of the elite, and it must be defeated.

Thank you,
Ariane Arpels-Josiah

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5394395 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:46:02 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 02:45:49 PM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: John Schochet

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I am writing in support of all five recommended proposals. NYC's housing is too expensive, and the only way to sustainably bring down the price of housing is to build more housing. As a parent raising children in the city I am deeply concerned about long-term affordability issues here even though I am a homeowner who isn't personally affected by rent increases. While the four housing-related proposals are hardly a panacea for all of NYC's housing issues, each one of them will help, and they should be on the ballot. I also support the even-year election proposals because our municipal elections should include more voters rather than fewer voters. We would further benefit from the open primary reform, but I agree with the commission's view that this would better be considered in a year when we are not electing a mayor. Thank you for your consideration. -John Schochet Upper West Side

-----

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Rejecting Failed Reforms, Embracing Proven Ones

From: Sidney Perelman <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 14:51:07 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

Achieving higher voter turnout is not a mystery; it's a matter of empowering the right actors. Jungle primaries have been shown to be ineffective at increasing voter numbers. A far better solution is the adoption of even-year primaries. Beyond that, we must recognize that the most impactful work is done by organized groups that engage directly with voters. Labor unions and political parties, through methods like canvassing, consistently drive participation. Proposals that aim to dilute their influence will only hurt turnout, suggesting an ulterior motive of weakening organized power, not expanding the electorate.

Thank you,
Sidney Perelman

July 14, 2025

Testimony to the New York City Charter Revision Commission

Dear Commission Members,

I am writing to ask you to include ALL SIX proposals you are considering, based on your own research and recommendations, on the November New York City ballot. These questions are of utmost relevance to the people in our city and we should be able to vote on them ourselves.

SIXTH BALLOT PROPOSAL: I feel very passionately that NYC should hold OPEN PRIMARIES, so voter turnout is high and the results are meaningful. This year 2025 is a perfect example for why NOT to continue the current voting process: Democrat Mamdani soundly defeated Democrat Cuomo in the primary, but because Cuomo can run with two different political affiliations (Democrat and Independent) within just FIVE MONTHS; because he can CHANGE HIS AFFILIATION for the general election, he gets to have two different voter bases and may beat Mamdani when it counts.

This makes me feel LIKE MY PRIMARY VOTE DID NOT COUNT!!

This is like the opposite of double jeopardy - Cuomo gets to run twice as two different candidates to two different New Yorks.

I believe candidates need to commit to a campaign and be accountable to all eligible NYC voters in the same election. PLEASE allow us to vote on whether to enable shenanigans like Cuomo's in the future. Please include a proposal for OPEN PRIMARIES on the November ballot.

FIFTH BALLOT PROPOSAL: Voter turnout is absolutely key to maintaining a democracy and EVEN-YEAR ELECTIONS would ensure an increase in voter participation in city elections. Very sadly, many eligible voters do not consider local elections consequential (despite being likely more directly affected by them); are not informed about what is at stake; and do not understand how important each vote is to New York City. It is devastating how many election results in the past have not reflected the interests of New Yorkers only because too few voted. Please finally give New Yorkers the chance to understand LOCAL ISSUES MATTER!!!

THIRD BALLOT PROPOSAL: Please give voters a better chance of decision-making in the interest of the City and allow us to vote to ELIMINATE THE MAYOR'S VETO POWER over what could be VITAL improvements in our quality of life and the health of New York. No single official should have the right to decide a public matter; the veto makes all New Yorkers vulnerable to a personal agenda unrelated or counter to the public interest. We are not living under a king and need to be able to chuck this remnant of royalty. New York City is a democracy, at least that is HOW YOU SHOULD OPERATE. Please include on the November ballot the option to ELIMINATE THE MAYOR'S VETO POWER.

I strenuously urge you to include all proposals that could fast-track and increase and improve projects for AFFORDABLE HOUSING. The suffering of New Yorkers because of their inability to find homes is endless and has mass repercussions on our economy, personal opportunities, access to social services, and global warming.

Thank you very much for your time and dedication to a better New York. Thank you for asking for voter input. Please include all six ballot proposals described in your 2025 interim report. "Do the Right Thing," as someone said here in Brooklyn.

Sincerely,

Erika McGinty
Brooklyn, NY 11238

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1425325 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:59:38 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 02:59:15 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Erika McGinty

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Commission Members, I am writing to ask you to include ALL SIX proposals you are considering, based on your own research and recommendations, on the November New York City ballot. These questions are of utmost relevance to the people in our city and we should be able to vote on them ourselves. SIXTH BALLOT PROPOSAL: I feel very passionately that NYC should hold OPEN PRIMARIES, so voter turnout is high and the results are meaningful. This year 2025 is a perfect example for why NOT to continue the current voting process: Democrat Mamdani soundly defeated Democrat Cuomo in the primary, but because Cuomo can run with two different political affiliations (Democrat and Independent) within just FIVE MONTHS; because he can CHANGE HIS AFFILIATION for the general election, he gets to have two different voter bases and may beat Mamdani when it counts. This makes me feel LIKE MY PRIMARY VOTE DID NOT COUNT!! This is like the opposite of double jeopardy - Cuomo gets to run twice as two different candidates to two different New Yorks. I believe candidates need to commit to a campaign and be accountable to all eligible NYC voters in the same election. PLEASE allow us to vote on whether to enable shenanigans like Cuomo's in the future. Please include a proposal for

OPEN PRIMARIES on the November ballot. FIFTH BALLOT PROPOSAL: Voter turnout is absolutely key to maintaining a democracy and EVEN-YEAR ELECTIONS would ensure an increase in voter participation in city elections. Very sadly, many eligible voters do not consider local elections consequential (despite being likely more directly affected by them); are not informed about what is at stake; and do not understand how important each vote is to New York City. It is devastating how many election results in the past have not reflected the interests of New Yorkers only because too few voted. Please finally give New Yorkers the chance to understand LOCAL ISSUES MATTER!!! THIRD BALLOT PROPOSAL: Please give voters a better chance of decision-making in the interest of the City and allow us to vote to ELIMINATE THE MAYOR'S VETO POWER over what could be VITAL improvements in our quality of life and the health of New York. No single official should have the right to decide a public matter; the veto makes all New Yorkers vulnerable to a personal agenda unrelated or counter to the public interest. We are not living under a king and need to be able to chuck this remnant of royalty. New York City is a democracy, at least that is HOW YOU SHOULD OPERATE. Please include on the November ballot the option to ELIMINATE THE MAYOR'S VETO POWER. I strenuously urge you to include all proposals that could fast-track and increase and improve projects for AFFORDABLE HOUSING. The suffering of New Yorkers because of their inability to find homes is endless and has mass repercussions on our economy, personal opportunities, access to social services, and global warming. Thank you very much for your time and dedication to a better New York. Thank you for asking for voter input. Please include all six ballot proposals described in your 2025 interim report. "Do the Right Thing," as someone said here in Brooklyn. Sincerely, Erika McGinty Brooklyn, NY 11238

---

HTTP_ADDR: 66[.]108[.]109[.]122, 23[.]33[.]43[.]138, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/134[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 OPR/119[.]0[.]0[.]0
True-Client-IP: 66[.]108[.]109[.]122

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Open Primaries: Bad News for NYC Voter Numbers

From: Shenuque Tissera <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:06:34 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

I want to express my deep concern that advocating for jungle primaries as a solution for voter turnout is misguided. The factual evidence from states where they have been implemented shows they do not boost participation. We must base our policy decisions on what the data tells us, not on hopeful but ultimately unsubstantiated claims. Consider Alaska, which adopted open primaries in 2022. The 2024 primary election saw alarmingly low turnout, ranking among the lowest in half a century. This outcome decisively points to the conclusion that these "new systems" have had little to no impact on encouraging greater voter participation. We need to recognize that this new system doesn't automatically guarantee high turnout and that other, more direct methods are far more effective.

This is bad for democracy.

Thank you,
Shenuque Tissera

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1410588 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 19:19:29 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 03:19:00 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sharon Sewell-Fairman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Sharon Sewell-Fairman, President & CEO of Women Creating Change Testimony submission to the New York City Charter Revision Commission July 14, 2025 My name is Sharon Sewell-Fairman and I am president and CEO of Women Creating Change (WCC), a 110-year-old nonprofit, nonpartisan, activist organization committed to advancing women's rights and shaping the future of New York City. I'm grateful for the opportunity to submit this testimony. WCC was founded by suffragists, and their historic fight for voting rights continues to guide our mission. Today, WCC envisions a more just and equitable New York City where all women are civically engaged; and we know that one key way to achieve this is by making voting easier and more accessible. This past April, we released a report, "The Power of Participation: Women's Voting and Civic Engagement in NYC" (available at [hxxxs://wccny\[.\]org/our-work/publications/](https://wccny[.]org/our-work/publications/)), which showed that, while women in New York City are actively engaged in civic life, they continue to face persistent barriers, including economic insecurity, caregiving burdens, and structural inequities. These challenges disproportionately affect historically disenfranchised communities. New York has made strides with policies that have expanded and safeguarded voting rights, but more must be done. Moving municipal elections to even-numbered years—aligning them with federal races—would boost overall turnout thereby helping to close persistent racial and economic gaps in who participates. Because local elections directly impact housing, education, safety, and transit, this change is a critical step toward ensuring more New Yorkers—especially those historically left out—have a voice in decisions that shape their daily lives. This is why we enthusiastically support the Charter Revision Commission’s ballot measure to propose moving New York City’s primary and general election dates to even-numbered years. Thank you for the opportunity to submit this testimony.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 68[.]129[.]252[.]82, 104[.]110[.]188[.]174, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 68[.]129[.]252[.]82

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-750926 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 19:08:40 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 03:08:22 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Rafia Zafar

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: There was insufficient time allotted for public input! Why did we start hearing about this a week ago? Where were the news items about these important points. BAD JOB getting public feedback. Sincerely Rafia Zafar

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2a04:4e41:4bcf:c77::5ecf:c77, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Safari/605.1.15

True-Client-IP: 2a04:4e41:4bcf:c77::5ecf:c77

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6996255 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 19:19:48 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 03:19:17 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sharon Sewell-Fairman

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Sharon Sewell-Fairman, President & CEO of Women Creating Change Testimony submission to the New York City Charter Revision Commission July 14, 2025 My name is Sharon Sewell-Fairman and I am president and CEO of Women Creating Change (WCC), a 110-year-old nonprofit, nonpartisan, activist organization committed to advancing women's rights and shaping the future of New York City. I'm grateful for the opportunity to submit this testimony. WCC was founded by suffragists, and their historic fight for voting rights continues to guide our mission. Today, WCC envisions a more just and equitable New York City where all women are civically engaged; and we know that one key way to achieve this is by making voting easier and more accessible. This past April, we released a report, "The Power of Participation: Women's Voting and Civic Engagement in NYC" (available at [https://wccny\[.\]org/our-work/publications/](https://wccny[.]org/our-work/publications/)), which showed that, while women in New York City are actively engaged in civic life, they continue to face persistent barriers, including economic insecurity, caregiving burdens, and structural inequities. These challenges disproportionately affect historically disenfranchised communities. New York has made strides with policies that have expanded and safeguarded voting rights, but more must be done. Moving municipal elections to even-numbered years—aligning them with federal races—would boost overall turnout thereby helping to close persistent racial and economic gaps in who participates. Because local elections directly impact housing, education, safety, and transit, this change is a critical step toward ensuring more New Yorkers—especially those historically left out—have a voice in decisions that shape their daily lives. This is why we enthusiastically support the Charter Revision Commission’s ballot measure to propose moving New York City’s primary and general election dates to even-numbered years. Thank you for the opportunity to submit this testimony.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 68[.]129[.]252[.]82, 104[.]110[.]188[.]174, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 68[.]129[.]252[.]82

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

COMMUNITY BOARD No. 1

435 GRAHAM AVENUE - BROOKLYN, NY 11211- 8813

PHONE: (718) 389-0009

FAX: (718) 389-0098

Email: bk01@cb.nyc.gov

Website: www.nyc.gov/brooklyn1

ANTONIO REYNOSO
BROOKLYN BOROUGH PRESIDENT

SIMON WEISER
FIRST VICE-CHAIRMAN

DEL TEAGUE
SECOND VICE-CHAIRPERSON

GINNA BARROS
THIRD VICE-CHAIRMAN

DAVID HEIMLICH
FINANCIAL SECRETARY

SONIA IGLESIAS
RECORDING SECRETARY

PHILIP A. CAPONEGRO
MEMBER-AT-LARGE

DEALICE FULLER
CHAIRPERSON

JOHANA PULGARIN
DISTRICT MANAGER

HON. LINCOLN RESTLER
COUNCILMEMBER, 33rd CD

HON. JENNIFER GUTIERREZ
COUNCILMEMBER, 34th CD

REVISED
July 10, 2025

Hon. Richard R. Buery Jr., Chair
Hon. Shaon Greenberg, Vice Chair
Hon. Alec Schierenbeck, Executive Director
Members of The 2025 New York City
Charter Revision Commission
City Hall
New York, NY 10007

Honorable members of the 2025 New York City Charter Revision Commission and the NYC Commission to Strengthen Local Democracy:

Please find below testimony given by the District Manager. Ms. Johana Pulgarin, on behalf of Brooklyn Community Board 1.

Good evening, Charter Revision Commission, my name is Johana Pulgarin, Brooklyn Community Board 1's District Manager, thank you for having me and allowing me to give the following testimony on behalf of Brooklyn Community Board 1.

Of all of the voting bodies involved in land use matters, Community Boards are in the unique position to have intimate, hands-on involvement and relationships with the land, neighborhood, residents, and landowners actually involved in the various applications. Although their recommendations are only advisory, those recommendations are vital to an objective and meaningful evaluation regarding the effects each application will have on the community and what concerns or conditions, if any, should be considered by the city in its ultimate decision on land use items. Although other voting bodies have hearings at which interested parties are permitted to give testimony, none afford the all-encompassing hands-on, objective, and democratic exchanges among all residents, elected officials, city agencies, and land use applicants that Community Board committee meetings and public hearings provide. To diminish in any way the role or time allotted to Community Boards for meeting with those involved in land use applications would be a terrible disservice to our communities and to well informed urban planning.

In sum, Community Boards play a vital role in informing local land use plans, providing a democratic and direct voice for local communities to provide input in planning their neighborhoods. Eliminating or reducing this role could result in the consolidation of planning power with a handful of people, making the land use process less democratic, less informed and poorly planned, and more susceptible to corruption. This is why the Board of Estimate was eliminated in the first. Shutting out local voices this way would be a huge step backward.

I would also suggest that an area for exploration to help reduce the time and cost for land use applicants would be to leverage AI technology to perform Environmental Reviews and draft Impact Assessments and Statements. This technology is helping with so many areas. Land Use seems like would be an excellent fit for this advancement.

Working for a Better Williamsburg-Greenpoint.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Dealice Fuller".

Dealice Fuller
Chairperson

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Keep RCV and closed primaries

From: forsythia <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 19:33:25 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

If the point is to increase voter turnout, open primaries are not going to help with that. Open primaries, in a state with a dozen or more separate party lines on ballots will only increase costs to candidates and decrease real voter choice. If people want to vote for independent or other seeming-long-shot candidates, they have had ample opportunities throughout the years to do so on the general election ballot. That they have not done so should tell you that either New York voters prefer to choose a candidate from a main party, or that the candidates on the non-Democratic and non-Republican party lines are not compelling. Either way, open primaries would not solve the problem, if indeed low voter engagement is a problem that the City Charter Revision Commission can solve (I do not think it is; low voter engagement is a candidate issue, not a primary issue)

Ranked choice voting works to help voters vote their consciences and their hearts first, and then to add a pragmatic vote, which can lead to the outcome where everyone has voted they way they want and have not sacrificed their hearts for gaming out how everyone else will vote. The recent success of a long shot candidate in the Democratic primary is evidence that the exact problem the commission claims to be trying to solve (low voter turnout as a result of perceived lack of choice) is, in fact, solved with RCV.

Keep RCV and don't change to open primaries.

Building a stronger electorate means empowering the groups that consistently engage voters. We know, empirically, that jungle primaries do not increase turnout; they simply aren't effective in that regard. A much more reliable strategy for boosting participation is to move to even-year primaries. Furthermore, the indispensable contribution of labor, community, and political organizations to voter engagement cannot be overstated. These groups are adept at direct voter contact, using methods like canvassing and personalized outreach that numerous studies have shown to be highly successful. Any attempt to dilute the strength or curtail the autonomy of these organized groups, particularly political parties and unions, will inevitably depress turnout. Such proposals appear to be designed to weaken organized influence rather than to genuinely expand the electorate. To truly increase turnout, we need these organized forces to be vibrant and actively engaged within the system.

Best,

Allison Downing

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Organized People vs. Organized Money

From: Marie Finamore <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:43:25 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

Political parties are indispensable tools for democratic efficiency. The label next to a candidate's name is a powerful signifier, instantly conveying a wealth of information about their likely stance on issues from healthcare to foreign policy. This allows voters to make rational choices without needing to devote countless hours to independent research. While not a perfect system, it's a practical solution to the problem of information overload in politics. Dismantling this system would make our democracy less accessible and tilt the playing field further in favor of candidates who can afford massive advertising budgets.

Thanks,

Marie Finamore

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8190689 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 19:51:01 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 03:47:59 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lauren Hougen

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Jungle primaries are a way for big-money candidates to help each other drown out the grassroots candidates. Please keep the primaries as-is, so candidates who actually look out for the interests of New Yorkers and not just their bank accounts have a fighting chance to represent and serve the people.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:387:15:4b15::b, 23[.]46[.]12[.]205, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps.citycharter.nyc.gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Linux; Android 10; K) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Mobile Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:387:15:4b15::b

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Another Reform? We Haven't Mastered the Last One

From: [REDACTED EMAIL]

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 15:50:19 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

I hope you are doing well!

I am writing in opposition to the proposal to implement a “Jungle Primary” system.

The proposal to implement "Jungle Primaries" is profoundly out of touch with the needs of everyday voters. After New Yorkers voted for and began adapting to Ranked-Choice Voting, this new plan would create unnecessary confusion and likely depress turnout. It's a disruptive change that would invalidate the city's recent efforts to educate the public on RCV. Instead of pursuing more complex and unproven systems, we should be focused on proven methods for increasing engagement, like consolidating elections to even years to simplify the calendar for voters.

Thank you,

Nikolas Michael

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5351646 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:07:29 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 04:06:47 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Jay Cullen

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, I am writing to express my support for Proposals 1-4. I currently live in Fort Greene Brooklyn in a one-bedroom apartment with my wife and our infant and dog. We love the neighborhood, our local friends, restaurants, and parks. We even love our crossing guards. But our days here are numbered. We can't afford a 2 bedroom here and soon our little one will need a room of her own. Each of these four proposals will help our ability to stay (or more, realistically, make people in similar situations in the years to come more able to stay in their neighborhoods). We would gladly make a room for others in our neighborhood if it also gave us the ability to stay as our family grows. The first proposal is an obvious one to support: we need more affordable housing in our city and this makes it easier. I also support the second proposal because we should have systems that are tailored to the development in question. It makes sense to have a more onerous system for big buildings rather than smaller ones. I hope the proposal will also make it easier to build clean energy in our city. While I'm lucky to be represented by Crystal Hudson, who supports new housing, not everyone else is and that makes the third proposal necessary. We need to think as one unified city and member deference instead creates division with our city. While Hudson has not done this, the current system is also almost designed to facilitate corruption with one person having veto power over a development. And lastly, of course having one unified map is in our interest. It's 2025, not 1900. Thank your for considering my input, along with everyone else's. It's a privilege to live here in the greatest city on earth. Jay Cullen Fort Greene 11205

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:8b40:619f:4820:9c88:49bb:9f23, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:8b40:619f:4820:9c88:49bb:9f23

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3209381 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:14:04 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 04:13:15 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Kyle Sandmann

Email:

Phone:

Comments: As a regular voting New York Citizen, I ask that the proposed ballot initiative to amend the City Charter to allow for open primaries NOT be added to the ballot this election cycle. I am in full support of amending the City Charter to align municipal elections with State and Federal elections (pending State approval) as a way to increase primary participation in off-year elections. Implementing that adjustment and making it easier for a greater number of voters to have their say seems like a more efficient method of increasing voter turnout than allowing open primaries at this time.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4808:56b1:9300:695c:72f3:2bba:1485, 104[.]70[.]121[.]77, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

Richard N. Gottfried – testimony opposing “open primary”

I am retired from the NYS Assembly and have been observing and participating in NYC politics since the 1960s. Please reject the proposal for a so-called "open primary." I see that idea as largely based on 3 false claims.

1. "The current system excludes many voters." False. Any registered voter who chooses to can easily enroll to vote in whichever party primary they choose.
2. "The current system means one party dominates mayoral elections." False. Of the last 15 NYC mayoral elections, the Democratic candidate won 8 times. NYC mayoral elections are highly competitive between the major parties.
3. "There is no Democratic or Republican way to pick up the garbage." False. This slogan is meant to say that partisan political issues have no bearing in municipal government. It does make a difference, even in garbage collection, including: How fairly do we treat sanitation workers? What communities are better served by the Sanitation Dept.? Different positions on who pays for city government, what services are provided, who benefits from those services, what laws are enacted, etc., tend to be grouped by party affiliation. Voters are entitled to have that clearly indicated in the electoral process. It is important that the electoral system guarantee that there will be a Democratic and a Republican choice on the ballot in November.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6191798 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:21:05 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 04:20:49 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Richard N. Gottfried

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: I am retired from the NYS Assembly and have been observing and participating in NYC politics since the 1960s. Please reject the proposal for a so-called "open primary." I see that idea as largely based on 3 false claims. 1. "The current system excludes many voters." False. Any registered voter who chooses to can easily enroll to vote in whichever party primary they choose. 2. "The current system means one party dominates mayoral elections." False. Of the last 15 NYC mayoral elections, the Democratic candidate won 8 times. NYC mayoral elections are highly competitive between the major parties. 3. "There is no Democratic or Republican way to pick up the garbage." False. This slogan is meant to say that partisan political issues have no bearing in municipal government. It does make a difference, even in garbage collection, including: How fairly do we treat sanitation workers? What communities are better served by the Sanitation Dept.? Different positions on who pays for city government, what services are provided, who benefits from those services, what laws are enacted, etc., tend to be grouped by party affiliation. Voters are entitled to have that clearly indicated in the electoral process. It is important that the electoral system guarantee that there will be a Democratic and a Republican choice on the ballot in November.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:3100:226:48e6:a187:9005:2bdd, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 Edg/138[.]0[.]0[.]0
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:3100:226:48e6:a187:9005:2bdd

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

7/14/25

Lloyd Feng

Testimony in Favor of Top-2 Open Primary with Ranked Choice Voting for NYC Elections

Dear Chair Buery and Commissioners,

My name is Lloyd Feng. I am a proud, lifelong New Yorker; I was born at the former St. Vincent's Hospital in Greenwich Village to parents who immigrated from mainland China, grew up in Washington Heights, spent countless weekends in Manhattan Chinatown, now visit my grandma on the Upper West Side, and currently live in Williamsburg, Brooklyn where I serve on Brooklyn Community Board 1 as chair of the Public Safety & Human Services Committee and co-chair of the Capital Budget Committee. I am submitting testimony in my personal capacity in support of the commission's proposed ballot question on instituting open primaries with ranked choice voting for NYC elections on the November 4 ballot.

New Yorkers deserve an electoral system that reflects the reality of modern political identity rather than forcing artificial choices between increasingly irrelevant party labels. The current closed primary system pretends that complex voters fit neatly into two ideological boxes, when in fact both major parties contain business interests and labor unions, religious and secular voters, progressives and moderates. This forced binary leaves millions of New Yorkers politically homeless—including over one million unaffiliated voters who are completely shut out of the primary process despite being the second-largest voting bloc in the city.

As more Americans reject rigid party identification, closed primaries become increasingly undemocratic. The shrinking pool of registered party members who choose our candidates represents a narrower and narrower slice of the actual electorate. Meanwhile, unaffiliated voters—disproportionately young—are told their voices don't matter until the general election, when their choices have already been predetermined by others.

This exclusion is particularly damaging for young voters, who are more likely to be unaffiliated and already vote at lower rates. When we systematically bar young people from meaningful participation in the elections that most directly shape their futures, we breed exactly the kind of political cynicism and disengagement that weakens democracy. Open primaries would welcome these voters into the process from the beginning, potentially reversing decades of declining civic participation among the generation that will inherit the consequences of today's political decisions.

Open primaries with ranked choice voting would fundamentally reshape campaign incentives, forcing candidates to compete on policy substance rather than partisan and political theater. When candidates must appeal to Democrats, Republicans, and unaffiliated voters simultaneously—and need to be voters' second or third choice, not just their first—the current playbook of negative attacks and tribal signaling simply stops working.

The 2025 Democratic mayoral primary perfectly illustrates this problem. Despite New Yorkers facing crises in housing, public safety, healthcare, and education, candidates spent precious time attacking each other over personal drama and old tweets rather than presenting concrete policy solutions. This

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-2988411 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:25:11 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 04:24:25 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lloyd Feng

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Dear Chair Buery and Commissioners, Thank you for taking the time to read my testimony. Please include a ballot question on top-2 open primaries with ranked choice voting on the November 4 general election ballot. All the best, Lloyd

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:9200:1a31:612e:3590:b1d:cc58, 23[.]206[.]120[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:9200:1a31:612e:3590:b1d:cc58

happened because the closed primary system rewards appealing to the partisan base rather than addressing real governance challenges.

Open primaries would make such tactics counterproductive. A candidate who attacks opponents as "not a real Democrat" or invokes national partisan talking points risks alienating the Republicans and unaffiliated voters they need to win. Instead, electoral success would require detailed plans for building affordable housing, improving subway reliability, or strengthening neighborhood schools—issues that matter to all New Yorkers regardless of party registration. When electoral success requires building broad coalitions around concrete solutions, we all get better candidates, better campaigns, and ultimately better governance.

This isn't just about civility; it's about competence. We need an electoral system that rewards candidates for being good at governing, not good at tribal signaling. Open primaries would create campaigns that actually educate voters about solutions to local challenges rather than reducing complex governance questions to partisan identity politics. When winning requires building broad coalitions around specific policy ideas, candidates would finally have to focus relentlessly on the issues that impact New Yorkers' daily lives.

For young New Yorkers like myself who have watched politics become increasingly disconnected from the issues that matter most in our daily lives, open primaries offer hope that democracy can work differently. We have the opportunity to create an electoral system that welcomes rather than excludes, that rewards governing competence over political gamesmanship, and that focuses relentlessly on the local challenges that determine whether New York remains a city where people can build lives, raise families, and pursue their dreams.

I urge the Commission to put this question of open primaries with ranked choice voting before voters this November. Let New Yorkers decide whether we want a democracy that works for all of us, not just the politically connected few.

Additionally, I would like to specifically voice support for the top-2 open primary model under consideration by the commission. A top-2 open primary with ranked choice voting strikes the optimal balance for New York City's urgent governance needs. The system's greatest strength lies in its accountability—by the general election, voters face a clear choice between two candidates who have already proven they can build broad, cross-partisan coalitions rather than appeal to narrow ideological bases. This rigorous winnowing process eliminates the dangerous possibility of a fragmented general election where a candidate could win with just 25-30% support among four options, leaving them without the mandate needed to tackle NYC's toughest challenges. For a city facing crises in housing, infrastructure, and public safety, we cannot afford leaders who spend their first years in office trying to build the coalitions they should have demonstrated during their campaigns. Top-2 forces this coalition-building from day one, ensuring that whoever wins has already united Democrats, Republicans, and independents around shared priorities. The resulting mandate provides both democratic legitimacy and the political capital necessary to implement ambitious solutions—not just campaign promises that die in the face of political reality. While top-4 may offer more diversity on paper, top-2 delivers what New York actually needs: leaders ready to govern effectively from their first day in office.

Thank you so much for your time and consideration,

Lloyd Feng

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-6566755 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:27:59 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 04:27:47 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Marc Lavietes

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: NO to open primaries. They make grass roots organizing more difficult while making those with big money more able to influence the results.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb90:7180:5e35:5970:3c07:b960:2300, 23[.]208[.]166[.]75, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/605.1.15
(KHTML, like Gecko) Version/17.2.1 Safari/605.1.15
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb90:7180:5e35:5970:3c07:b960:2300

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8412394 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:32:05 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 04:31:52 PM

-----

This form resides at
[https://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Ting Barrow

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: We worked hard to get ranked choice primaries, which express the will of the people more clearly than other systems. Don't change that. PLEASE!!!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 108[.]21[.]162[.]248, 23[.]40[.]16[.]31, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36

True-Client-IP: 108[.]21[.]162[.]248

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8779916 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:45:06 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (gabrielmacdonna@gmail.com) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 04:44:47 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Gabriel MacDonna

Email: gabrielmacdonna@gmail.com

Phone: 347-615-1569

Comments: Dear Commissioners: I write to express my opposition to the proposal for "open primaries." My opposition is based in many reasons, but for the sake of concision I would like to highlight three in particular: Making primaries "open" would functionally nullify the State of New York's purpose of recognizing political parties. Legally recognized political parties are not only culturally important constructs; they are legal structures that provide essential mechanisms by which working people without wealth can successfully organize masses of other fellow working people at a scale large enough to compete with the power of concentrated capital that lies in the hands of the wealthy few. Open primaries have not been shown to reliably increase voter turnout. Moreover, even in those specific jurisdictions for which evidence of higher turnout exists, such increased turnout tends to come at the cost of also reducing the political diversity of the candidates who appear on the general-election ballot. Open primaries tend to augment the already disproportional political influence of concentrated wealth - which, in elections for NYC officers, usually takes the form of large independent expenditures funded by billionaires and big corporations. In so doing, open primaries further diminish the relative power of the donations made, and the organizing & mobilizing activities conducted, by most voters. In short, open primaries weaken the impact of voters' own efforts to elect candidates aligned with their respective views. For these reasons alone, the proposal to open NYC's primaries should be removed from the commission's final set of ballot proposals. Instead of open primaries, the Commission should propose ranked-choice voting in general elections; such a change would substantially address most of the Commission's concerns as stated in its July 01 report. Sincerely, Gabriel MacDonna

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb91:32b2:c0e4:d892:6845:e605:7f1e, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb91:32b2:c0e4:d892:6845:e605:7f1e

-----

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Open primaries are not the answer

From: Ilaria Maroni <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:34:08 +0000

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Good afternoon,

My name is Ilaria Maroni, and I am a Brooklyn resident who just voted for the first time in a mayoral primary.

I heard about the proposed changes to make the primary into a jungle one, and I can assure you that there is no evidence that jungle primaries increase participation. As many first-time voters, I was motivated to participate thanks to the groundwork done by organized groups which mobilized voters like me and my friends. Open primaries would intentionally weaken these entities and work against the goal of a more inclusive electorate.

Thank you for your attention,

Ilaria Maroni

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7253693 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:47:51 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 04:47:23 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sean Campion

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: See attached comment on the proposed amendments.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 68[.]160[.]240[.]122, 23[.]40[.]16[.]30, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36 Edg/138[.]0[.]0[.]0
True-Client-IP: 68[.]160[.]240[.]122

---

240 West 35th Street ■ Suite 302 ■ New York, New York 10001

CBC's Recommendations to Make the Most of the Proposed Expedited Land Use Review Procedure

Submitted to the 2025 New York City Charter Review Commission

July 15, 2025

Sean Campion, Director of Housing and Economic Development Studies, Citizens Budget Commission

Following its robust assessment of how the City's land use review process impedes housing production, the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission presented four Charter amendments to make building housing in New York City easier and faster. The proposed expedited review processes are welcome steps in the right direction.

However, several of the proposals' components may unintentionally introduce new sources of delay or uncertainty, which could limit the appeal of the proposed expedited review processes. CBC recommends three elements be clarified or modified to streamline reviews even further.

Allow all necessary land use approvals for Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP)-eligible projects to go through ELURP

As written, only applicants seeking modest increases in density (less than 45 feet in height and a floor-to-area ratio of less than 2.0 in low-density districts and less than 30 percent increases in medium- and high-density districts) would be eligible for expedited review through ELURP. However, the expedited review would only apply to a narrow set of zoning map amendments. Many projects seeking zoning changes also require additional approvals, such as special permits, certifications, and authorizations. Examples include requests to waive parking requirements, reduce side and rear yard setbacks, or allow ground floor retail space. Approval may also be needed for additional community facility or commercial floor area requests. (We reiterate that CBC recommends all special permits be eligible for expedited review.)

Even if an applicant's zoning map amendments are eligible for ELURP, these additional actions, including those administrative in nature, would need to go through full Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) review or other approval processes parallel to ELURP.

To fully leverage the benefit of ELURP, these applications should be allowed to secure all necessary land use action approvals through ELURP.

Clarify how the City Planning Commission (CPC) assesses projects under Fast Track for Affordable Housing process by leveraging existing environmental review and Charter-mandated reporting

To the extent possible, the Charter revisions should avoid creating unnecessary hurdles to the ELURP. Section 197-f, which outlines the process for the Fast Track for Affordable Housing, would require the CPC to “assess and make a finding regarding the consistency of [Fast Track applications] with the fair housing plan... and existing transportation, sewer and other infrastructure.” This requirement could be interpreted to require an additional review that duplicates the reviews applicants would have already completed under City Environmental Quality Review (CEQR) or the Charter-mandated Racial Equity Reports (RER). To address this, the Charter language should clarify that applicants can leverage CEQR findings to satisfy the infrastructure requirement and RER reviews to evaluate projects' consistency with the fair housing plan.

The Charter language could also clarify that the CPC assessment is not subject to a private right of action, which is one of the primary sources of delay and uncertainty in the CEQR process.

Clarify and streamline notice requirements in the ELURP pre-certification period

The proposed ELURP charter language requires the Department of City Planning (DCP) to provide substantial amounts of information to Community Boards and Borough Presidents in advance of the 30-day pre-certification period. The proposed Section 197-e requires DCP to “forward a copy of any materials it receives pursuant to this subdivision (whether or not such materials have been certified as complete) within five days to each affected borough president or community board.”

This language mirrors existing requirements for ULURP in Section 197-c, but without specifying which documents or materials DCP would be required to transmit. Requiring DCP to transmit an unspecified list of materials is overly broad and could be interpreted to require the disclosure of all communications and environmental review documents. The reporting requirement unduly burdens DCP and the affected Borough Presidents and Community Boards without commensurate public benefit. Furthermore, even a perceived failure to communicate materials in a timely manner could invite Article 78 challenges. Specifying clearly what needs to be transmitted to Community Boards and Borough Presidents would make the process more certain and less open to legal challenge.

The ELURP reform could further streamline the process by simply requiring DCP to transmit the completed ELURP materials at the start of the 30-day pre-certification notice period. ELURP's 30-day pre-certification and 60-day review periods are more than sufficient for Community Boards and Borough Presidents to review modest rezoning proposals. The 90-day combined period matches what is currently required under ULURP.

The Charter language should also clarify that the 30-day pre-certification period is the maximum amount of time that Community Boards and Borough Presidents have prior to the start of their ELURP review period.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-5134470 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:48:36 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 04:48:13 PM

-----

This form resides at
<https://www.citycharter.nyc.gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter.page>

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Molly Salas

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Commissioners: I write to express my opposition to the proposal for "open primaries." My opposition is based in many reasons, but for the sake of concision I would like to highlight three in particular: Making primaries "open" would functionally nullify the State of New York's purpose of recognizing political parties. Legally recognized political parties are not only culturally important constructs; they are legal structures that provide essential mechanisms by which working people without wealth can successfully organize masses of other fellow working people at a scale large enough to compete with the power of concentrated capital that lies in the hands of the wealthy few. Open primaries have not been shown to reliably increase voter turnout. Moreover, even in those specific jurisdictions for which evidence of higher turnout exists, such increased turnout tends to come at the cost of also reducing the political diversity of the candidates who appear on the general-election ballot. Open primaries tend to augment the already disproportionate political influence of concentrated wealth - which, in elections for NYC offices, usually takes the form of large independent expenditures funded by billionaires and big corporations. In so doing, open primaries further diminish the relative power of the donations made, and the organizing & mobilizing activities conducted, by most voters. In short, open primaries weaken the impact of voters' own efforts to elect candidates aligned with their respective views. For these reasons alone, the proposal to open NYC's primaries should be removed from the commission's final set of ballot proposals. Instead of proposing open primaries, the Commission should propose ranked-choice voting in general elections; such a change would substantially address most of the Commission's concerns as stated in its July 01 report. Sincerely,

Molly Salas

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4808:62f1:bd00:c178:f015:4adb:e0e0, 23[.]219[.]82[.]71, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205,
10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2600:4808:62f1:bd00:c178:f015:4adb:e0e0

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Hi, my name is Skylar Cummings. I work at Good Old Lower East Side and will be testifying on behalf of the organization and the community we represent. The considerations that the Mayoral Charter Revision Committee are making will impact the lives of every community across the city.

- There is an immediate need for a city process that implements comprehensive planning and takes into consideration the impact of multiple factors by neighborhood and on the city as a whole.
  - For this reason we support the implementation of the Fair Housing Framework as a first step toward this.
- On the topic of NYC's election process, we support proposals that address the issue of voter turnout, we believe should include an evaluation of what the city can do to better engage the community.
  - There is too much vying on this one day and not enough resources put into voter engagement year round.
- To support this ecosystem of civic engagement our city must prioritize timely payments to non-profit organizations.
  - Now more than ever New Yorkers rely on non-profit service providers to meet their needs.
  - Consistently, the city has struggled to fulfill its contractual obligations to non-profits.
    - Currently our organization is owed over $1.3 million (1, 380,000) dating back to Fiscal Year 2023
  - Failure to meet these obligations has led to financial hardships for non-profits across the city and ultimately weakens this infrastructure
- While we agree that the current ULURP “one size fits all” process does not work, we believe that any changes made to ULURP must at a minimum include;
  - Constraints on the size of projects, the current text does not include. Further details for any streamlined projects for smaller rezonings must have clear parameters
  - We believe a “zoning administrator” office is a common sense decision
    - Streamline disposition to activate public land for affordable housing and other uses, especially small parcels.
  - However, we need clarity on any impacts to the role of the Community Board
- The proposal to consolidate the advisory portions of ULURP, Community Board, Borough President, and Borough Board into a single review period
- We are against any limitations to the current review period, we do not support a cut to the timeline from 90 to 60 days.
  - We support programs that aid communities with development of 197A projects
    - We advocate to preserve the Community Board's, already limited, ability to comment prior to the Borough President taking action.
    - As these are the only places that give community members direct representation.

- We want to strengthen Community Boards as a community based channel for making land use proposals.
- "Member deference" has been characterized as a barrier to development in certain areas.
  - On the contrary we believe that there are benefits to member deference
    - For instance, in our community it resulted in permanently affordable housing in Essex Market and two stages for the East Side Coastal Resiliency
  - Ultimately we do not want to weaken any process or recourse for the community to weigh in on the land use process.

As we make room for increased housing supply it is of the utmost importance that we consider how we do it and ensure that it does not cause further displacement. Thank you!

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1341075 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 21:05:50 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by (skylar@goles.org) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 05:05:37 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Skylar Cummings

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Hi, my name is Skylar Cummings. I work at Good Old Lower East Side and will be testifying on behalf of the organization and the community we represent. The considerations that the Mayoral Charter Revision Committee are making will impact the lives of every community across the city. There is an immediate need for a city process that implements comprehensive planning and takes into consideration the impact of multiple factors by neighborhood and on the city as a whole. For this reason we support the implementation of the Fair Housing Framework as a first step toward this. On the topic of NYC's election process, we support proposals that address the issue of voter turnout, we believe should include an evaluation of what the city can do to better engage the community. There is too much vying on this one day and not enough resources put into voter engagement year round. To support this ecosystem of civic engagement our city must prioritize timely payments to non-profit organizations. Now more than ever New Yorkers rely on non-profit service providers to meet their needs. Consistently, the city has struggled to fulfill its contractual obligations to non-profits. Currently our organization is owed over $1.3 million (1, 380,000) dating back to Fiscal Year 2023 Failure to meet these obligations has led to financial hardships for non-profits across the city and ultimately weakens this infrastructure While we agree that the current ULURP “one size fits all” process does not work, we believe that any changes made to ULURP must at a minimum include; Constraints on the size of projects, the current text does not include. Further details for any streamlined projects for smaller rezonings must have clear parameters We believe a “zoning administrator” office is a common sense decision Streamline disposition to activate public land for affordable housing and other uses, especially small parcels. However, we need clarity on any impacts to the role of the Community Board The proposal to consolidate the advisory portions of ULURP, Community Board, Borough President, and Borough Board into a single review period We are against any limitations to the current review period, we do not support a cut to the timeline from 90 to 60 days. We support programs that aid communities with development of 197A projects We advocate to preserve the Community Board's, already limited, ability to comment prior to the Borough President taking action. As these are the only places that give community members direct representation. We want to strengthen Community Boards as a community based channel for making land use proposals. "Member deference" has been characterized as a barrier to development in certain areas. On the contrary we believe that there are benefits to member deference For instance, in our community it resulted in permanently affordable housing in Essex Market and two stages for the East Side Coastal Resiliency Ultimately we do not want to weaken any process or recourse for the community to weigh in on the land use process. As we make room for increased housing supply it is of the utmost importance that we consider how we do it and ensure that it does not cause further displacement. Thank you!

---

HTTP_ADDR: 24[.]213[.]166[.]198, 23[.]196[.]2[.]203, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36 (KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/138[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 24[.]213[.]166[.]198

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7600347 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 21:17:32 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 05:17:02 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Maxine Litre

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a 10 year Chinatown resident, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-4 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, strike a better balance in the land use process, and digitize the City Map. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. Proposal 1 would make it easier and faster to produce affordable housing, lowering costs and ensuring that all neighborhoods contribute to solving this crisis. This reform is long overdue and essential to reversing the tide of displacement. Proposal 2 would streamline the approval process for smaller rezonings that add housing, protect against flooding, and create open space. These are exactly the kinds of projects that should not be delayed by red tape, and this proposal would allow the city to respond more nimbly to urgent infrastructure and climate needs. The current system of member deference gives individual councilmembers outsized power to block citywide priorities. Proposal 3's new Appeals Board would ensure that development decisions reflect borough-wide and citywide considerations- not just the narrowest political interests. A unified City Map is a step in the right direction, since the current system can impose significant costs and time on infrastructure, housing, and other projects. Proposal 4's Digital City Map would allow processes that today take months or even years to occur nearly instantly. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. Proposal 5 is a no-brainer: moving local elections to even years would save the city money and dramatically increase turnout, especially among younger voters, working-class communities, and voters of color. This reform would help ensure that the voices shaping local government reflect the full diversity of our city. I strongly encourage the Commission to move forward with Proposal 6. Open primaries would enfranchise the 1 million+ New Yorkers who are currently locked out of primary elections due to party registration rules. This directly includes me as a registered independent. These voters deserve a voice in the elections that matter most in our one-party-dominated city. Open primaries would boost turnout in local elections, increase electoral competition, and encourage candidates to appeal to a broader cross-section of voters. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Maxine Litre

10013 Chinatown

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2607:fb91:11c6:433d:2920:68f2:9c3:b5e1, 23[.]202[.]99[.]17, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205,
10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5_0 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) CriOS/138.0.7204.119 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2607:fb91:11c6:433d:2920:68f2:9c3:b5e1

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Do not interfere with NYC primaries!

From: Rachael Nevins <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 17:35:31 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To the Commission:

I am writing to ask that the New York City Charter Revision Commission decline to advance a proposal to interfere with primary elections in New York City.

The rationale for jungle primaries is flawed. By eliminating the role of political parties in candidate nomination, the system becomes more susceptible to the impact of outside money, which can propel candidates to victory regardless of their broader support. This directly undermines the power of municipal labor unions, which consistently advocate against the privatization of public services and the weakening of government agencies.

The assertion that "public sector unions" and other "interest groups" have an outsized influence is a narrative designed to weaken collective action. Wealthy individuals already dominate political and economic life. The Democratic Party primary is a vital avenue for working people to assert their collective interests. This proposal aims to diminish that avenue.

I work hard in my everyday life to work with others, including the people in my union, to boost voter turnout: I have canvassed and called voters, meeting them where they are and talking about the policy issues that affect their daily lives. This is how to increase turnout, not jungle primaries.

- Rachael Nevins

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] No to Jungle Primaries

From: Sonja Shield <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 17:51:41 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

Voters don't want jungle primaries, plain and simple. These reforms are ineffective and are consistently rejected. Mayor Bloomberg's attempt in New York in 2003 was dismissed 70-30%. Last year, it failed in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. This widespread rejection highlights voters' appreciation for political parties.

This commission should not waste time and money on an unpopular proposition. If the aim is to increase turnout, stick with proven methods like even-year elections.

Best, Sonja Shield

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] I Oppose Open Primaries

From: Sarah Sophie Flicker <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 23:38:58 +0200

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The proposed jungle primaries are a threat to the democratic process. At a time when our democracy is under threat, backed by billionaires whose primary goal is to crush labor unions, which stand in the way of their agenda of privatizing government functions. This was the case with Mike Bloomberg's previous attempts, and it is the same dynamic today. The commission lacks any representation from labor unions or working people, highlighting whose interests are truly being served. Josh Greenman's insights in Vital City revealed the real reason: to limit labor's influence. The idea that American workers have "outsized influence" in politics is a myth perpetuated by those who already hold immense power. The Democratic Party primary is a crucial space for working people to level the playing field. This proposal seeks to further tilt it in favor of the wealthy.

Best,

Sarah Sophie Flicker

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Let's Get Serious About Increasing Turnout

From: Laura Koulish <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:05:02 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Commissioners,

If we are serious about maximizing voter turnout, our priority must be on effective strategies. Jungle primaries have been tested and have failed to increase participation. We should instead focus on proven reforms like moving to even-year primaries. Central to this effort is the work of organized groups—unions, community associations, and political parties. Their ability to conduct personal, direct outreach is unmatched in its effectiveness. Policies that would erode the power of these organizations run contrary to the goal of a larger electorate and must be rejected.

- Laura Koulish

Subject:

FW: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3188470 CRC Contact
Form - General Inquiries

From: Charter Info <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 22:11:51 +0000

---

From: agencyemail <agencyemail@customercare.nyc.gov>

Sent: Monday, July 14, 2025 1:47 AM

To: Charter Info <CharterInfo@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Subject: City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3188470 CRC Contact Form - General Inquiries

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by

[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 01:47:07 AM

-----
This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: General Inquiries

Name: John Wahlmeier

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Testimony Before the New York City Charter Revision Commission Thank you, Chair Buery and members of the 2025 Charter Revision Commission, for the opportunity to comment on the Commission's Interim Report. My name is John Wahlmeier and I am writing to advocate for the continued strength of New York City's closed primary system. While I commend the Commission's dedication to improving our electoral processes, I believe that moving to an open primary system, particularly a "top two" model, would have detrimental effects on the democratic clubs that are the lifeblood of our local political landscape and, crucially, would dilute the influence of marginalized communities, including the LGBTQ community. Here are my main points supporting the closed primary system:

1. Strengthening Democratic Clubs as Grassroots Organizers: Closed primaries incentivize participation in democratic clubs and party organizations. These clubs serve as vital grassroots hubs for political engagement, candidate recruitment, and policy discussion. They provide a structured environment for community members to become actively involved in the political process, shaping the future of their neighborhoods and the city. An open primary system would diminish the role and influence of these clubs, weakening the very foundation of our local democracy.
2. Fostering Party Accountability and Platform Development: Closed primaries allow political parties to clearly define their platforms and hold their candidates accountable to those platforms. This clarity benefits voters by providing a more coherent understanding of a candidate's policy positions and ideological alignment. Open primaries, especially "top two," can blur party lines and make it more difficult for voters to discern a candidate's true allegiances, potentially leading to less representative outcomes.
3. Protecting the Influence of Marginalized Communities: For marginalized communities, including the LGBTQ community, democratic clubs and the closed primary system provide a crucial avenue for collective voice and influence. These clubs often serve as a space where community members can organize, endorse candidates who genuinely represent their interests, and ensure their issues are prioritized within the party's agenda. In an open primary, the influence of these organized groups can be diluted by a broader, less informed electorate, potentially leading to the election of candidates less committed to addressing specific community needs.
4. Ensuring Candidates are Responsive to Community Concerns: Within a closed primary, candidates have a strong incentive to engage directly with party members and, by extension, with the specific communities that form the party's base. This direct engagement fosters a deeper understanding of community-specific issues and concerns. Moving to an open primary could lead candidates to prioritize appealing to a wider, less informed electorate, potentially at the expense of addressing the nuanced needs of marginalized groups.
5. Preventing "Party Raiding" and Maintaining Party Integrity: Closed primaries prevent strategic voting by members of opposing parties, often referred to as "party raiding." This ensures that the candidates nominated by a party genuinely reflect the will of that party's registered members. While perhaps not the most common occurrence, the potential for such manipulation exists in open primary systems and could undermine the integrity of the primary process, especially in tightly contested races.
6. Preserving the Role of Party Endorsements: The speaker's suggestion of internal party processes determining endorsements within a "top two" system still undermines the fundamental purpose of a closed primary. In a closed primary, the endorsement signals not just institutional support, but also a candidate's alignment with the party's core values and the will of its registered members. This provides a clearer signal to voters and reinforces the party's role in vetting candidates.
7. Mitigating the Influence of Big Money and Lobbyist: Open primaries, by expanding the electorate for each primary contest, can inadvertently increase the need for candidates to raise substantial funds to reach a broader and more diverse voter base. This expanded reach often translates into greater reliance on big money interests, including wealthy donors and well-funded lobbying firms, to finance extensive advertising campaigns and outreach efforts. In a closed primary, where the electorate is more defined and often reached through grassroots organizing, candidates may be less dependent on large financial contributions, thus limiting the undue influence of powerful special interests and their lobbying efforts. Thank you for considering my testimony and for your commitment to strengthening our city's democratic processes. I urge the Commission to recognize the vital role that the closed primary system plays in empowering grassroots activism, fostering party accountability, and most importantly, protecting the political influence of marginalized communities in New York City, while also safeguarding our elections from the disproportionate influence of big money.

---

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:3100:8d10:f109:d304:57db:3f6c, 184[.]51[.]149[.]37, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:3100:8d10:f109:d304:57db:3f6c

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

FW: REVISED - BK CB1_ Testimony to Charter Review Commission

From: Charter Info <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: Charter Testimony <CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 22:12:16 +0000

---

From: BK01 (CB) <bk01@cb.nyc.gov>

Sent: Friday, July 11, 2025 4:33 PM

To: Charter Info <CharterInfo@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Subject: REVISED - BK CB1_ Testimony to Charter Review Commission

Dear Charter Revision Commission,

Please find attached REVISED - BK CB1 Testimony to Charter Review Commission, delivered by District Manager Ms. Johana Pulgarin at the Charter Review Commission Meeting held on July 7, 2025.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Dealice Fuller

Chairperson

COMMUNITY BOARD No. 1

435 GRAHAM AVENUE - BROOKLYN, NY 11211- 8813

PHONE: (718) 389-0009

FAX: (718) 389-0098

Email: bk01@cb.nyc.gov

Website: www.nyc.gov/brooklyn1

ANTONIO REYNOSO
BROOKLYN BOROUGH PRESIDENT

SIMON WEISER
FIRST VICE-CHAIRMAN

DEL TEAGUE
SECOND VICE-CHAIRPERSON

GINNA BARROS
THIRD VICE-CHAIRMAN

DAVID HEIMLICH
FINANCIAL SECRETARY

SONIA IGLESIAS
RECORDING SECRETARY

PHILIP A. CAPONEGRO
MEMBER-AT-LARGE

DEALICE FULLER
CHAIRPERSON

JOHANA PULGARIN
DISTRICT MANAGER

HON. LINCOLN RESTLER
COUNCILMEMBER, 33rd CD

HON. JENNIFER GUTIERREZ
COUNCILMEMBER, 34th CD

REVISED
July 10, 2025

Hon. Richard R. Buery Jr., Chair
Hon. Shaon Greenberg, Vice Chair
Hon. Alec Schierenbeck, Executive Director
Members of The 2025 New York City
Charter Revision Commission
City Hall
New York, NY 10007

Honorable members of the 2025 New York City Charter Revision Commission and the NYC Commission to Strengthen Local Democracy:

Please find below testimony given by the District Manager. Ms. Johana Pulgarin, on behalf of Brooklyn Community Board 1.

Good evening, Charter Revision Commission, my name is Johana Pulgarin, Brooklyn Community Board 1's District Manager, thank you for having me and allowing me to give the following testimony on behalf of Brooklyn Community Board 1.

Of all of the voting bodies involved in land use matters, Community Boards are in the unique position to have intimate, hands-on involvement and relationships with the land, neighborhood, residents, and landowners actually involved in the various applications. Although their recommendations are only advisory, those recommendations are vital to an objective and meaningful evaluation regarding the effects each application will have on the community and what concerns or conditions, if any, should be considered by the city in its ultimate decision on land use items. Although other voting bodies have hearings at which interested parties are permitted to give testimony, none afford the all-encompassing hands-on, objective, and democratic exchanges among all residents, elected officials, city agencies, and land use applicants that Community Board committee meetings and public hearings provide. To diminish in any way the role or time allotted to Community Boards for meeting with those involved in land use applications would be a terrible disservice to our communities and to well informed urban planning.

In sum, Community Boards play a vital role in informing local land use plans, providing a democratic and direct voice for local communities to provide input in planning their neighborhoods. Eliminating or reducing this role could result in the consolidation of planning power with a handful of people, making the land use process less democratic, less informed and poorly planned, and more susceptible to corruption. This is why the Board of Estimate was eliminated in the first. Shutting out local voices this way would be a huge step backward.

I would also suggest that an area for exploration to help reduce the time and cost for land use applicants would be to leverage AI technology to perform Environmental Reviews and draft Impact Assessments and Statements. This technology is helping with so many areas. Land Use seems like would be an excellent fit for this advancement.

Working for a Better Williamsburg-Greenpoint.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script that reads "Dealice Fuller". The signature is written in dark ink and is positioned above the printed name and title.

Dealice Fuller
Chairperson

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Open Primaries: Hindering NYC Voter Participation

From: PAM SPRITZER <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:19:21 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

I'm here to challenge the narrative that jungle primaries are a tool for increasing voter turnout. The data from states that have adopted them unequivocally proves otherwise. If our objective is truly to enhance democratic participation, we must abandon strategies that have been empirically shown to fail and instead pursue those that yield tangible results. The recent experience in Alaska, which implemented open primaries in 2022, serves as a stark reminder. The 2024 primary election saw alarmingly low turnout, marking it as one of the lowest in half a century. This robust data decisively points to the conclusion that these elections have had little to no impact on encouraging more people to vote. We need to focus on effective voter outreach and engagement, not on structural reforms that consistently fall short.

Thank you,

Pam Spritzer

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Flawed System

From: Patrick Harvey <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:13:46 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners: I am writing to express my firm opposition to the implementation of jungle primaries.

This is a flawed system that has been soundly rejected by voters across the country. We don't have to guess at public opinion; the results speak for themselves. Last year alone, ballot measures to introduce this system were defeated in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota.

This shows a clear consensus. The commission should respect the will of the electorate and cease efforts to advance this unpopular idea. Let's focus our collective energy on proven electoral reforms like even-year election cycles.

Thank you,
Patrick Harvey

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1159115 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 22:20:32 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( [REDACTED] ) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 06:20:18 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lloyd Feng

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Please see my attached written testimony for reasons why I support NYC switching to even-year elections, but only if they coincide with NYS elections.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2603:7000:9200:1a31:612e:3590:b1d:cc58, 23[.]206[.]120[.]85,
23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Macintosh; Intel Mac OS X 10_15_7) AppleWebKit/537.36
(KHTML, like Gecko) Chrome/137[.]0[.]0 Safari/537.36
True-Client-IP: 2603:7000:9200:1a31:612e:3590:b1d:cc58

July 14, 2025

Lloyd Feng

Supporting Even-Year Municipal Elections Aligned with New York State Elections

Dear Chair Buery and Commissioners,

My name is Lloyd Feng, and I am a native New Yorker and current resident of Williamsburg, Brooklyn where I serve on Brooklyn Community Board 1 as chair of the Public Safety & Human Services Committee and co-chair of the Capital Budget Committee. I am writing in my personal capacity to strongly support moving New York City's local elections to even-numbered years, specifically to coincide with New York State gubernatorial elections, as this change would transform democratic participation in our city while enabling the kind of coordinated governance our challenges require.

When Democracy Becomes an Afterthoughts

The numbers from our recent local elections should alarm anyone who cares about representative government. In 2023, only 202,722 people voted in City Council primaries—that's 7.2% turnout. The general election barely improved to 12.8%.<sup>1</sup> Even our 2021 mayoral primary, the first competitive race in nearly a decade, attracted just over one in four eligible voters.<sup>2</sup> These are not the participation rates of a healthy democracy.

The problem is getting worse, not better. Even in 2024's presidential election year, NYC turnout was just 60.2%—actually lower than 2016 (60.5%) and 2020 (64.4%).<sup>7</sup> Meanwhile, New Yorkers faced election fatigue from five separate elections, costing taxpayers over $70 million just for the primaries.<sup>8</sup> The city's own Campaign Finance Board now recommends exactly what I'm advocating: "aligning odd-year city elections with even-year state and federal elections, which is a proven way to reduce the number of elections across years and increase voter turnout."<sup>9</sup>

Compare this to what happens when our local elections coincide with state and federal races. Gubernatorial election years bring 37-48% turnout, while presidential years see 58-62% participation.<sup>3</sup> Cities across America have discovered this same pattern—Austin saw their mayoral election turnout increase by 361% after moving to even years, Baltimore by 291%, Phoenix by 240%.<sup>4</sup> The lesson is clear: timing matters enormously for democratic participation.

But I'm not advocating for any even-year alignment. Presidential election years would solve the turnout problem while creating a new one—drowning local issues in the noise of national partisan politics. When voters are focused on Supreme Court appointments and foreign policy, neighborhood zoning decisions and school board policies get lost in the shuffle.

The Power of New York Election Years

Aligning our local elections with gubernatorial races creates something much more powerful: true New York Election Years that recognize how state and local government must work together to solve our biggest challenges.

Take housing, our most pressing crisis. Building more affordable homes requires state action on environmental review reform and zoning laws, plus local action on rezoning and development approvals.<sup>6</sup> Under our current system, we elect governors and mayors in different years, often creating finger-pointing rather than collaboration. But imagine gubernatorial and mayoral candidates running on coordinated housing platforms, cross-endorsing each other, and being held accountable by the same voters for delivering results together.

The same dynamic applies to mental health services, where we need Albany to expand psychiatric bed capacity while the city builds community support systems. Or transportation, where MTA investment from the state must connect with local street safety initiatives. Or economic development, where state tax policy should align with city business permitting reforms.

When the same electorate chooses both levels of government in the same election cycle, candidates have every incentive to coordinate rather than blame each other. Voters could finally choose teams of leaders committed to working together on problems that don't respect the artificial boundaries between city hall and Albany.

Learning How Government Actually Works

One of the most valuable side effects of New York Election Years would be civic education. Most residents don't understand the complex interplay between state and local authority that shapes their daily lives. They don't realize that speeding up housing construction requires changes in both state environmental review and local zoning processes, or that improving mental health services depends on both Albany funding formulas and city service delivery.

When gubernatorial and mayoral campaigns happen simultaneously, voters would naturally learn about these connections. Candidates would have to explain not just what they want to do, but how they'll work with the other level of government to actually accomplish it. This creates a more informed electorate and more realistic campaign promises.

The contrast with presidential election alignment is stark. Federal campaigns focus on issues—national security, immigration, federal court appointments—that have little relevance to local governance. Gubernatorial campaigns naturally emphasize infrastructure, healthcare, education, and economic development policies that directly connect to municipal concerns.

The Hidden Cost of Election Overload

The current system doesn't just suppress turnout—it exhausts voters through relentless election fatigue. From 2020 to 2024, New York City held 12 special elections, with some years featuring 4 special elections in just 4 months.<sup>12</sup> Since 2020, the city has spent over $40 million administering these low-turnout special elections.<sup>13</sup> Research shows that holding multiple elections within a three-month period creates long-term choice fatigue and reduces voter participation.

Even 2024, supposedly a high-engagement presidential year, perfectly illustrates this problem. New Yorkers faced five separate elections—two primaries, one general, and two special elections. The April presidential primary cost $34.4 million to administer, followed by another $35.5 million for the June primary.<sup>8</sup> By the time voters reached the general election, many had simply tuned out.

When the agency tasked with promoting democratic participation says our current system isn't working, it's time to listen. The Campaign Finance Board's research on voter fatigue confirms what many New Yorkers feel: we're being asked to vote too often, with too little impact, at too great a cost.

Making Every Vote Count

Perhaps most importantly, even-year elections would bring hundreds of thousands more New Yorkers into the democratic process. These aren't just numbers—they represent young families making decisions about where to live based on school quality, small business owners affected by permitting policies, seniors relying on social services, and working people dependent on reliable transit.

When only 7% of eligible voters choose our City Council representatives, those representatives inevitably become responsive to narrow interests rather than broad community needs. Higher turnout elections produce officials who must appeal to the full diversity of their districts, not just the most politically engaged sliver.

This matters especially for younger New Yorkers, who tend to vote at lower rates and are more likely to participate when elections feel consequential. Over one million unaffiliated voters—21.1% of registered voters—are completely shut out of primary elections where the real decisions get made, and 26.1% of these excluded voters are ages 18-29.<sup>10</sup> In 2024, young voters under 30 had turnout rates of just 3.7% in the April primary and 5.0% in the June primary, compared to 57.1% in the general election.<sup>11</sup> The decisions we make today about housing policy, climate resilience, and economic opportunity will shape their futures far more than ours. They deserve a meaningful voice in choosing the leaders who will implement those decisions.

The Path Forward

Moving to even-year elections aligned with gubernatorial races wouldn't just increase turnout—it would create a fundamentally different kind of politics. Instead of narrow appeals to partisan bases in low-turnout elections, candidates would need to build broad coalitions around concrete solutions to shared challenges. Instead of mayors and governors pointing fingers across levels of government, we'd have electoral incentives for collaboration and coordination.

This isn't about changing which party wins elections—research shows even-year elections don't systematically favor either party.<sup>5</sup> It's about creating conditions where any party's candidates must appeal to the full range of New York voters and deliver results through effective inter-governmental cooperation.

I urge you to recommend this change to voters. New Yorkers deserve elections where their participation matters, where candidates focus on local solutions rather than partisan theater, and where our government can finally work as effectively as the challenges we face demand.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Lloyd Feng

Citations

<sup>1</sup> NYC Votes, 2023 Voter Analysis Report 18 (2024),
https://www.nyccfb.info/pdf/2023\_VoterAnalysisReport.pdf.

<sup>2</sup> NYC Votes, 2021–2022 Voter Analysis Report vii (2022),
https://www.nyccfb.info/pdf/2021-2022\_VoterAnalysisReport.pdf.

<sup>3</sup> Id. at 12.

<sup>4</sup> Id. at 22.

<sup>5</sup> See Justin de Benedictis–Kessner & Christopher Warshaw, The Electoral and Policy Effects of Election Timing in City and County Governments (2024),
<https://scholar.harvard.edu/sites/scholar.harvard.edu/files/jdbk/files/localtiming.pdf>; Zoltan Hajnal, Too Many Elections, Stanford Soc. Innovation Rev. (Jan. 8, 2025), <https://ssir.org/articles/entry/election-consolidation-voting-reform>.

<sup>6</sup> See Eric Kober, Testimony Before The New York City Charter Revision Commission (Feb. 24, 2025),
<https://manhattan.institute/article/testimony-new-york-city-charter-revision-commission> ("The primary time and cost issue with the land use process is environmental review, which this Commission can't address – state legislation is needed.").

<sup>7</sup> NYC Votes, 2024 Voter Analysis Report 64 (2025),
https://www.nyccfb.info/pdf/2024\_VoterAnalysisReport.pdf.

<sup>8</sup> Id. at 113.

<sup>9</sup> Id. at 110.

<sup>10</sup> Id. at 76, 78.

<sup>11</sup> Id. at 88.

<sup>12</sup> Id. at 114.

<sup>13</sup> Id. at 113.

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Heed the Lessons of Past Failures

From: Paige Davis <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:44:00 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

Jungle primaries are a solution in search of a problem, and a deeply unpopular one at that. This commission should cease all consideration of this flawed electoral system. The results from last year's elections in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota make it plain: voters do not want to weaken political parties. They rejected the jungle primary model in every state where it was proposed. It is time to respect that outcome and focus on reforms with genuine public backing, such as shifting municipal elections to even years to increase participation.

Best,

Paige Davis

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Case for Consistency in Our Elections

From: Sophie Rose <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 18:44:20 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

ATTN Commissioners:

Introducing "Jungle Primaries" at this moment would be a profound mistake. We have only just begun to integrate Ranked-Choice Voting into our electoral fabric since its 2019 adoption. New Yorkers are still learning this new system. To impose another, even more confusing, set of rules would create chaos and alienate the very voters we seek to engage. This is not a step towards a more robust democracy; it is a recipe for voter suppression through sheer complexity. We must prioritize stability and allow the RCV system the time it needs to be properly understood and evaluated by the public.

Best,

Sophie Shapiro

THE POWER BROKER

ROBERT A. CARO

THE POWER BROKER

Robert Moses and the Fall of New York

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8485246 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 23:14:49 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 07:13:31 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Aston

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Oy wes needs to give devolved powers to borough president's to better allocate resources! This is supposed to be a Republic ma'am!

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 89[.]116[.]40[.]221, 23[.]200[.]41[.]145, 23[.]217[.]116[.]247, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 19_0 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/26.0 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1

True-Client-IP: 89[.]116[.]40[.]221

---

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Step Backward for Democracy

From: Hannah Woodward <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 19:16:32 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Attention Commissioners,

A critical examination of jungle primaries reveals a system designed for the exclusive benefit of the elite. By weakening accountable party structures, it enhances the power of individual billionaires and shadowy corporate PACs. This is a direct assault on the organizations that represent working people and fight for the common good against concentrated private interests. It makes our government less responsive to the needs of the public and more responsive to the whims of the super-rich. This is not reform; it is the deliberate erosion of our democratic foundations.

This is not what we need in New York.

Sincerely,

Hannah Woodward

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Jungle Primary Reform: Why Voters Say No

From: Anthony Alessandrini <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:01:01 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hey,

Voters have made it abundantly clear: jungle primaries are a no-go. These reforms are not only ineffective but routinely rejected. We saw it last year when it failed in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. This universal rejection, in red, blue, and purple states, highlights voters' appreciation for political parties. This commission should not waste public resources on an unpopular proposition. For increased voter turnout, stick to what works: even-year elections.

Thanks,

Anthony Alessandrini

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] Beyond the Hype: Jungle Primaries Unpopular

From: Lynne Glasner <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 19:24:37 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Dear Commissioners,

The idea of implementing jungle primaries is concerning because voters have made their opposition abundantly clear. These reforms are not effective in achieving their stated goals and are consistently turned down at the ballot box. We saw a powerful demonstration of this last year when the proposition was on the ballot in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota. In every one of those six states, it was rejected. This widespread rejection across the political spectrum – red states, blue states, purple states – indicates that voters recognize the value of political parties in selecting candidates. This commission should not squander valuable resources on an unpopular initiative. If increasing voter turnout is the aim, the focus should be on proven methods, such as even-year elections.

This proposal is not only a waste of time and money, it is an invitation for voter fraud. Open primaries will allow coalitions of opposition to skew the vote with ease, as has occurred in other states that allow cross-party voting in primaries. Elections are open to all registered voters. Spend that money on helping non-registered voters register; let the parties reach out to add voters to the election rolls and by affiliating themselves with a party and become active members. These actions would enhance the democratic process.

I strongly urge you not to act to make the process more open to fraud and political trickery at the expense of what remains a democratic principle.

Sincerely,

Lynne Glasner

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] This is an Attack on All of Us

From: irene villasenor <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:15:55 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

The composition of the commission tells the whole story. By deliberately excluding labor, they have made it crystal clear that their goal is not to improve democracy, but to rig the system in favor of their billionaire patrons. The jungle primary proposal is the tool they intend to use to achieve this end. This process lacks all legitimacy and should be seen as an inside job by powerful interests to rewrite the rules for their own benefit. We must demand a fair process with representation for all, not just the wealthy.

Best,

Irene Villasenor

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] The Chaos of a Partyless System

From: Lynn Yellen <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:08:54 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Hello,

I am very concerned that an open primary system would advantage the same billionaire and billionaire-backed candidates who have upended city, state, and national politics. Political parties are imperfect, but they remain the most effective get-out-the-vote program and they unite party members around the issues that matter most. Party membership can foster a deep sense of investment in the success of their nominee. This investment is forged in the fires of a democratic primary process where their voices are heard and their votes matter. The candidate that emerges is not just the party's choice, but their choice. This creates a powerful, self-mobilizing force that no paid campaign operation can match. If we want to see higher voter turnout, the solution is not to weaken parties, but to make them more internally democratic and responsive to their base.

Best,

Lynn Yellen

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Critical Look at Jungle Primaries and Participation

From: Michael Magazine <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:18:31 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

To Whom It May Concern,

Good evening, I am Michael Magazine Electoral Lead of Sunrise Movement NYC we are a youth climate organization and I speak to you behalf of youth, testifying against open primaries.

Starting off I don't agree with either party, but I certainly don't agree with super PACs or billionaires at large and find that this last democratic primary showcased growth worth celebrating.

I want to just throw some numbers at you from pew research because I think we're getting tunnel visioned.

66% of eligible adults voted in 2020 Presidential election, 64% in 2024. 50% in the 2018 midterms, and 46% in 2022.

In New York State 48% voted for the governor back in 2018 and 43% in 2022 according to Gotham Gazette.

In NYC according to the BOE here are the numbers for general election turnout: 24% in 2013, 23% in 2017, and 21% in 2021. 1.1 million people voted in the 2021 general election. And spoiler alert, over 1 million voters turned out in this past democratic primary election.

Nearly as many people voted for the Mayor in 2021, voted in the democratic primary this year. If there was some wealth of willing primary voters who can't, where are they, they aren't showing up in the general. That same 2021 general where anyone could vote, Eric Adams the democratic nominee won with over 66% of the vote.

The real issue at the core of voter turnout isn't unique to NYC, nor closed primaries, it is a broader indictment of how disaffected people have become with a democracy that has time and time again failed many.

We're lucky in NYC to have among the best in elected office, but it would be impossible to sell to disaffected voters any election regardless of it's a primary or general, open or closed, without a substantive change in how we go about democracy itself.

For what it's worth young people aren't dumb, you can ask us why we don't vote..and we'll tell you. When Congress looks like they should be playing bingo at a retirement home, and there hasn't been any education or effort to reach out to us where we are, what'd you expect.

We are either disaffected or disadvantaged, and want to see us reflected in candidates. Funnily enough primaries like this past one have been the only mechanism for doing that. Ask Zohran Mamdani, or DSA, or WFP, or Sunrise how you get youth turnout- we have plenty of ideas. Moreover youth need outreach, you can throw over $7.4 million into tv ads and mailers but they won't reach us (ask Cuomo). We don't own houses, or check emails, or watch cable, if you want to reach us use social media, street canvassing, vote tripling, or showing up at our schools or campuses.

If you think a maybe 5 minute party affiliation change is keeping us from voting in primaries, then we've lost the plot on young voters and voters at large. Education, outreach, and good campaigns, that's what we want, that's what we show out for. Even amongst the independents who have testified in person, you heard them echo that statement.

Which is the problem, open primaries don't offer those benefits, and if anything harm the very youth organizations, labor unions, and others increasing voter turnout and helping our democracy.

I get what you're trying to do, but this isn't it. And at a time when big money in politics have very blatantly tried, and successfully bought elections when given the opportunity to, we need to consolidate ways to empower voters and not make money become the deciding factor.

Open minds, closed primaries.

Thank you.

Best,
Michael Magazine

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9270222 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 15 Jul 2025 00:32:25 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 08:32:13 PM

-----
This form resides at [hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)
-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Laurie Stricks

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: am writing to stringly oppose the adoption of an open primary system in NYC elections. We have Ranked Choice Voting now which allows voters to rank up to 5 candidates . In general, I believe primaries serve a sorting function within a party that stands for a particular set of beliefs and policies. Open primaries distort that to a general popularity contest. Introducing the idea of lpen Primaries at this late date feels rushed and unnecessary at this point. I question the value of this kind of change just as we are getting the city used to rank choice voting. I urge you to reject this idea and preserve the integrity of our primary elections. Sincerely

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:9736:c200:4cf6:7a77:cafe:bcab, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205,
10[.]143[.]58[.]120
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Version/18.5 Mobile/15E148 Safari/604.1
True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:9736:c200:4cf6:7a77:cafe:bcab

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution, copying, or other use of the email or its attachments is prohibited. Please immediately notify the sender of your access to the email or its attachments by replying to the message and delete all copies.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-3699400 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 15 Jul 2025 00:34:05 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 08:33:37 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR6RdolHOTk9qRt7WuVfpD-oZeaJbujf_5O6LtQmWtSMhxl8h1A2n0QQHZiadA_aem_YSsgN9Zga qGBUpUY-zULNg

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Leslie Knutsen

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025 NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York
City—powerless, and risking violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. §

3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

1. Overdevelopment with Large Buildings Without Community Input: The Expedited Land Use Review Procedure (ELURP) and fast-tracking of housing projects could allow 45-foot-tall buildings next to single-family homes in low-density areas like Tottenville, with minimal community input. These towering structures would destroy our suburban character, block sunlight, and devalue properties by an estimated 5-10% (based on overdevelopment studies), prompting lawsuits under state property law for damages or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations due to unfair zoning processes. The current ULURP system ensures community oversight, preventing such drastic changes without resident consent.
2. Loss of Local Control Through the Land Use Appeals Board: The proposed Land Use Appeals Board, would replace the Mayor's veto power over City Council land use decisions, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by all New Yorkers—powerless. This shift centralizes authority in a board that could override local opposition, silencing residents and local council members. This violates Fourteenth Amendment due process rights by denying homeowners a meaningful opportunity to be heard, risking federal civil rights lawsuits. The current ULURP system, with its balance of local and mayoral input, ensures fairness and must be preserved.
3. Financial Burdens and Property Tax Hikes: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% due to reassessments from nearby developments, alongside pressure to sell for housing projects. This could lead to lawsuits claiming unfair taxation or violations of equal protection under federal law. The current ULURP system allows community input to mitigate such financial harms, protecting homeowners.
4. Flood Zone Property Takeovers Without Sufficient Say: In flood-prone areas like Tottenville, resiliency projects like voluntary flood buyouts could allow the city to acquire properties under the pretext of safety, with minimal homeowner input. The designation of small or undevelopable lots for government acquisition is arbitrary and violates protections against property takings under the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause, risking federal lawsuits for inadequate compensation or coerced consent. The current ULURP system ensures community involvement, safeguarding property rights.
5. Quality of Life Impacts and Lawsuits: Increased housing projects could bring more traffic, noise, and strain on local services like schools and parks, degrading Tottenville's suburban character and exacerbating flooding risks. These changes could devalue properties, fueling lawsuits under state law for damages from altered neighborhood aesthetics and functionality. The current ULURP system allows residents to challenge harmful projects.
6. Fair Housing Act: The Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.) mandates equal access to housing for all people, not just specific groups. Rushed approvals of large housing projects could disproportionately harm existing homeowners by devaluing properties and altering community character, potentially violating the Act's equal access mandate and leading to claims of discriminatory impact. The current ULURP system ensures equitable consideration of all residents' concerns.

Case Scenarios: 45-Foot Buildings Towering Over Homes: A 45-foot apartment building next to your home could block sunlight, reduce views, and devalue your property by 5-10%, prompting lawsuits under state property law or Fourteenth Amendment due process violations for unfair zoning. Silencing the Mayor and Community: The Land Use Appeals Board, by eliminating the Mayor's veto power, renders the city's highest elected official powerless and could approve large projects against community wishes, violating due process and sparking federal civil rights litigation. Skyrocketing Taxes and Forced Sales: Larger landowners could face tax hikes of 10-20% or pressure to sell for housing projects, leading to lawsuits for equal protection violations or unfair taxation. City Takeovers in Flood Zones: The city could arbitrarily designate small or undevelopable lots in Tottenville for acquisition, violating the Fifth Amendment's Takings Clause and triggering federal lawsuits for lack of just compensation or due process. Overcrowding and Infrastructure Collapse: Increased density could overwhelm local services, worsen flooding, and reduce property values, fueling lawsuits for damages from unchecked development. Potential Federal Law and Civil Rights Violations These proposals at a minimum risk violating:

- Fifth Amendment (Takings Clause): Arbitrary acquisition of small/undevelopable lots in flood zones could constitute physical takings, requiring just compensation.
- Fifth Amendment (Due Process Clause): The Land Use Appeals Board's override of local opposition and elimination of the Mayor's veto power denies homeowners and the city's highest elected official due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Due Process Clause): Lack of meaningful community input violates procedural due process.
- Fourteenth Amendment (Equal Protection Clause): Disproportionate tax burdens on larger landowners could be deemed discriminatory.
- Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.): Rushed approvals could disproportionately harm existing homeowners, violating equal access mandates for all.

Why the Current System Works The current ULURP process empowers Staten Island residents, especially in Tottenville, through local council member deference and Community Board input. It aligns with the Fifth Amendment and Fair Housing Act, protecting property values and ensuring equal access to housing processes for all. The proposed changes falsely promise influence while centralizing power, risking federal lawsuits over devaluation and civil rights violations. We urge the Commission to reject these changes and preserve the current ULURP system. Sincerely, Leslie Knutsen Concerned Staten Islander

---

HTTP_ADDR: 100[.]38[.]133[.]48, 184[.]25[.]148[.]158, 23[.]46[.]181[.]205, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76
REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov
HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (iPhone; CPU iPhone OS 18_5 like Mac OS X)
AppleWebKit/605.1.15 (KHTML, like Gecko) Mobile/22F76
[FBAN/FBIO;FBAV/521[.]0[.]0[.]38.98;FBBV/760232234;FBDV/iPhone17,3;FBMD/iPhone;FBSN/iOS
;FBSV/18.5;FBSS/3;FBID/phone;FBLC/en_US;FBOP/5;FBRV/762960319;IABMV/1]
True-Client-IP: 100[.]38[.]133[.]48

---

This email, including any attachments, may contain confidential, privileged, or otherwise legally protected information intended solely for the person(s) or entity(ies) to which it is addressed. If you are not the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution,

Subject:

[EXTERNAL] A Proven Failure

From: Clare McBride <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov

Date: Mon, 14 Jul 2025 20:52:13 -0400

---

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of the organization. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe. Forward suspect email to phish@oti.nyc.gov<<mailto:phish@oti.nyc.gov>> as an attachment (Click the More button, then forward as attachment).

Good evening,

I hope this email finds you well. I'm writing this evening to voice my objection to any proposal involving jungle primaries. This system undermines the role of political parties and has been shown to be profoundly unpopular with the very voters that it's meant to serve. The results from last year's ballot initiatives in Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and South Dakota are clear: the public does not want this. It failed in every single state. The commission should honor this clear democratic feedback and turn its attention to more viable reforms, such as the implementation of even-year election cycles.

Best,

Clare McBride

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1253132 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 15 Jul 2025 00:55:00 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( ) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 08:53:44 PM

-----

This form resides at
hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: John Ho

Email:

Phone:

Comments: I support advancing all 5 questions to the ballot to be voted on in November.

-----

HTTP_ADDR: 2600:4040:91bb:c900:f0cf:bae6:f709:c2ff, 23[.]208[.]166[.]78, 23[.]46[.]181[.]202, 10[.]138[.]109[.]76

REMOTE_HOST: apps[.]nyc[.]gov

HTTP_USER_AGENT: Mozilla/5.0 (Windows NT 10.0; Win64; x64; rv:140.0) Gecko/20100101
Firefox/140.0

True-Client-IP: 2600:4040:91bb:c900:f0cf:bae6:f709:c2ff

---

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-7435882 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 15 Jul 2025 00:55:00 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 08:53:29 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Sebastian Baez

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: I'm writing to express my opposition to the potential ballot proposal for open primaries. Our city's recent adoption of the successful and popular ranked choice voting system and public finance campaign program is undermined by this Commission's proposal recommendation for open primaries. Your Commission was not convened to address changes to our city's electoral system, which already encourages strong participation from voters. Special interests can and will spend enormous sums to game open primary elections, weakening the role of matching funds approved by voters to encourage fair elections. Additionally, open primaries would suppress the right for duly registered political party members to use the ranked choice voting system to elect the best candidate for their party. It's clear that it would not benefit the city's electoral system to eliminate the role of primary elections within political parties and diminish the power of grassroots donations in favor of special interests. I strongly encourage the Commission to withdraw the open primaries ballot proposal. Thank you.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-8807622 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 15 Jul 2025 00:57:20 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 08:57:05 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page?utm\_source=substack&utm\_medium=email](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?utm_source=substack&utm_medium=email)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Tal Roded

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Charter Revision Commission, Thank you for providing me with the opportunity to comment on the proposed 2025 Charter Revisions. As a current member of Manhattan Community Board 3 and resident of the Lower East Side, I'm writing to express strong support for Proposals 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, and 6, to make New York City more affordable and democratically representative. I support Proposals 1-4 to fast track affordable housing, simplify review, strike a better balance in the land use process, and digitize the City Map. The city's housing shortage demands bold action. I also support considering Open New York's recommendations for a fairer and more affordable NYC, many of which are already very well-aligned with the commission's proposals. I encourage the commission to dedicate additional time to exploring Open New York's proposal to bring the housing shortage into landmarks decisions. I urge the Commission to put all six measures on the November ballot so that voters can weigh in. Sincerely, Tal Roded

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-9521448 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencyemail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 15 Jul 2025 01:02:11 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
( [REDACTED] ) on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 09:00:15 PM

-----

This form resides at
[hxxxs://www\[.\]nyc\[.\]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter\[.\]page](https://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page)

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Lexie Campisi

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone: [REDACTED]

Comments: Dear Members of the NYC Charter Revision Commission, I'm writing to express my opposition to the potential ballot proposal for open primaries. Our city's recent adoption of the successful and popular ranked choice voting system and public finance campaign program is undermined by this Commission's proposal recommendation for open primaries. Your Commission was not convened to address changes to our city's electoral system, which already encourages strong participation from voters. Special interests can and will spend enormous sums to game open primary elections, weakening the role of matching funds approved by voters to encourage fair elections. Additionally, open primaries would suppress the right for duly registered political party members to use the ranked choice voting system to elect the best candidate for their party. It's clear that it would not benefit the city's electoral system to eliminate the role of primary elections within political parties and diminish the power of grassroots donations in favor of special interests. I strongly encourage the Commission to withdraw the open primaries ballot proposal. Thank you.

Subject:

City of New York - Correspondence #1-1-1778552 CRC Contact Form -
Submit Written Testimony

From: agencymail <[REDACTED EMAIL]>

To: "CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov"
<CharterTestimony@citycharter.nyc.gov>

Date: Tue, 15 Jul 2025 00:59:00 +0000

---

Below is the result of your feedback form. It was submitted by
[REDACTED] on Monday, July 14, 2025, at 08:58:46 PM

-----

This form resides at

hxxxs://www[.]nyc[.]gov/site/charter/contact/contact-charter[.]page?fbclid=IwZXh0bgNhZW0CMT
EAAR7BDsUI9AOm1nHwC45DS_jhYBxd3c9PUOt7ePpVNwg-tlWDtK6-SLmwUIFVWQ_aem_gi7zloDjQ gv592UNUKoEuQ

-----

Topic: Submit Written Testimony

Name: Eugene Mileto

Email: [REDACTED]

Phone:

Comments: Eugene Mileto Redacted for privacy, Staten Island, NY 10307 Date: July 14, 2025
Opposition Letter to the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Re: Urgent Opposition to 2025
NYC Charter Changes – Protect Staten Island Homeowners’ Constitutional Rights and Community
Input Dear Members of the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission, We, the residents of Staten
Island, particularly in low-density communities like Tottenville on the South Shore, strongly oppose the proposed changes in the 2025 NYC Charter Revision Commission Final Report. These changes threaten our quality of life, property rights, and constitutional protections under the Fifth
Amendment, which states, “nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.” The proposed amendments, under the guise of promoting “fair and equitable housing,” falsely promise
community empowerment while stripping taxpayers of their say, rendering the Mayor—the highest-ranking city official elected by the people of New York City—powerless, and risking

violations of federal laws, including the Fair Housing Act (42 U.S.C. § 3601 et seq.), which mandates equal access to housing for all people. We demand the preservation of the current Uniform Land Use Review Procedure (ULURP) to protect our neighborhoods and prevent costly lawsuits. Main reasons for opposition:

