

Important Reminder About Requirements for Mobile Food Vending Units With a Supervisory License Permit

A mobile food vending unit with a supervisory license permit must have a person with a supervisory license working on-site whenever the unit is operating. To meet this requirement:

- At least one person with a citywide supervisory license must be working on-site when your unit is operating in Manhattan.
- At least one person with a non-Manhattan or citywide supervisory license must be working on-site when your unit is operating outside of Manhattan.

A person with a mobile food vending license can work on any food cart or truck with a supervisory license permit as long as a supervisory license holder is vending at the same time. A mobile food vending unit with a supervisory license permit operating without a supervisory license holder may be closed upon inspection, and the permit holder will receive a violation with a penalty of $1,000.