LETTER FROM THE DIRECTOR

Dear Fellow New Yorkers

As we have all witnessed, the COVID-19 pandemic has had unprecedented impacts on all aspects of New York City life. While the pandemic has deepened the challenges facing our neighbors and businesses, it has also reinvigorated attention around the importance of creating a food system that is healthy, equitable, and resilient.

The pandemic has acutely illustrated how a myriad of factors – including national and international dynamics – affect our city's food system, but we have shown a steadfast commitment at the local level to ensure that all New Yorkers, regardless of where they live, their income level, age, ability, gender identity, race, ethnicity or immigration status, can take full advantage of food that promotes individual and planetary health.

Despite the tremendous challenges faced this year, the City's commitment to food equity has never been stronger. We believe access to food is a fundamental human right and it is our responsibility as a city to ensure that all residents have the ability and opportunity to access culturally-appropriate, nutritious, and affordable food through the systems and resources we deliver.

This year's Food Metrics Report provides a brief overview of the production, processing, distribution, and consumption of food provided by City agencies to communities across all five boroughs and highlights the progress the City is making towards building a resilient and equitable food system. In mid-March, as a result of COVID-19, City agencies had to adapt to new ways of serving New Yorkers. In most instances, in-person programming and meal provision halted. As such, this year's report captures data between July 2019 and February 2020. Also included in this report is a summary of the COVID-19 food efforts between March and June 2020. It should be noted that the Food Metrics Report captures outputs rather than outcomes. As such, it shouldn't be used to evaluate programs. Also, given the challenges of capturing data during the pandemic, this year's data is not comparable to last year's data.

I would like to acknowledge the strong leadership of Mayor Bill de Blasio, our Deputy Mayors, and the many Commissioners and frontline agency staff that work around the clock to support the policies and services that advance our food system to support the health of all New Yorkers and our planet.

Sincerely,

Kate MacKenzie, M.S., R.D.

Director

The Mayor's Office of Food Policy

CORONAVIRUS PANDEMIC

FOOD RESPONSE DURING THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC

The COVID-19 crisis has challenged New York City in many ways. Food - the way it gets into our City, the way it moves around the City, and the way it gets into the hands of New Yorkers - is one of them.

An interagency "Food Czar Team," was assembled to confront these challenges head-on. The team involved staff from the Mayor's Office of Food Policy, Department of Sanitation, Emergency Management, New York City Economic Development Corporation, Department of Transportation, Taxi and Limousine Commission, and many others. This team approached two distinct problems: 1) the need to combat food insecurity caused by the pandemic, and 2) the need to secure and protect the City's food supply chain.

On April 15, Mayor de Blasio and the Food Czar team released "Feeding New York," to outline the programs already set in place to meet the needs of food insecure New Yorkers as well as plans to make a $25M investment in the City's pantry system, secure the food supply chain, and establish an emergency food reserve.

FEEDING NEW YORKERS

The Food Czar Team made a commitment that we would not allow the crisis of this virus to become a crisis of hunger. In April, food insecurity estimates based on new unemployment claims and increased claims for HRA cash assistance and SNAP benefits, showed that food insecurity had potentially grown by nearly one million, from 1.1 million before the pandemic to 2 million at its height. In response, the City stood up three programs.

GetFood Emergency Home Food Deliveries

A central element of the COVID-19 food response is the Emergency Home Food Delivery program. In the beginning of the pandemic, thousands of taxi drivers, short of work due to the pandemic, signed up to be paid to deliver free meals to any New Yorker who cannot go out, has no one to go out for them, and cannot afford private delivery options. Operating out of approximately 10 distribution hubs across the city (sites like the Kingsbridge Armory or Al Oerter Rec Center), these taxi drivers were at the height of the pandemic delivering over one million meals per day. In addition to a standard meal, vegetarian, Kosher, and Halal options were available. Through June, 61 million meals were delivered to the homes of New Yorkers.

Grab-n-Go Meals

When New York City schools shut down in March, students no longer had consistent access to high quality breakfast and lunch every weekday. In a matter of days, more than 500 school sites opened up to serve any New Yorker, including adults, no questions asked. The program steadily distributed over 2 million meals per week. Between March and June, 32 million meals were distributed through public schools.

Coordinating Food and Funds to Food Pantries

New York City's network of soup kitchens and food pantries not only faced extraordinary demand resulting from COVID-19, but also had to quickly adapt to new ways of operating. Many sites experienced program closures due to the pause order, had to institute new social distancing requirements, and had difficulties recruiting and retaining volunteers. To support these efforts, the Food Czar Team distributed $25 million in direct funding assistance. Funding could be used for food, operational expenses related to the COVID-19 response; supplies, including PPE and food packaging; staffing; transportation for meal delivery; costs to support pop-up emergency feeding distribution; equipment for expanded operations; technology costs related to COVID-19; and outreach related to benefits enrollment.

PROTECTING OUR SUPPLY CHAIN

At the same time, the Food Czar Team was enacting a separate workstream to monitor and protect our food supply chain. Because of the high cost of long-term storage in the city, at any given time, the five boroughs are estimated to only have enough food on hand for approximately five days. As such, we made certain to have a clear line of sight into the food supply coming into the city.

New York is home to approximately 40,000 unique points of food sale – everything from wholesale markets to corner bodegas. The Food Czar team worked with representatives from food businesses of all sizes, ensuring their staff had access to PPE, helping to promote appropriate distancing, and engaging in public information campaigns about price gouging.

The team also worked to monitor the spread of COVID-19 in areas that supply food to New York City, and respond appropriately to regional outbreaks. This prevented repeats of the supply chain disruptions seen early in the pandemic, when staples like flour and lentils were difficult to find.

AN ONGOING COMMITMENT

Demand for emergency home delivered meals reached its height in late June, and has leveled off and steadily declined ever since as the city has reopened. That said, since March, HRA has had three times as many applications for SNAP benefits and twice as many applications for cash assistance as in the three months prior. The agency has received 113,617 more applications than in the same period last year, a 140% increase. It is clear that the need persists, and we will do whatever we can to support New Yorkers with access to nutritious, high-quality food.

PART 1. ADDRESSING FOOD INSECURITY IN NEW YORK CITY

Food insecurity is the lack of access, at times, to enough nutritionally adequate food for an active, healthy life for all members of a household. Food insecure families may worry that food will run out before they have enough money to buy more, eat less than they should, or be unable to afford to eat balanced meals. New York City is working towards becoming a city where everyone has enough nutritious food to eat, through a range of initiatives in partnership with community-based and nonprofit organizations. Understanding that poverty is the root cause of food insecurity, New York City has taken action to increase New Yorkers' earning potential and reduce the cost of living. Each year, the City designates tax-levied dollars for the City's own emergency food program, making New York City a leader in prioritizing food access for those most in need. The City has worked to make it easier to access benefits programs by investing in SNAP outreach, language access services, and mobile platforms that streamline processes.

Indicator: Food Insecurity

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) monitors the extent and severity of food insecurity in U.S. households through an annual, nationally representative survey. There were 1.1 million New Yorkers who were food insecure during 2018. Each year, the City designates City Tax-Levied (CTL) dollars for the City's own emergency food program, making New York City a leader in prioritizing food access for those most in need. The City has made it easier to access benefits programs by investing in SNAP outreach, language access services, and mobile platforms that streamline processes.

Meal Gap

Feeding America has done analyses to project national food insecurity data to the county level and identify where there is a meal gap, the meals missing from the homes of families and individuals struggling with food insecurity. In 2018 (the latest available data), New York City was missing nearly 185 million meals.

Emergency Food Assistance Program

The Human Resources Administration's (HRA) Emergency Food Assistance Program (EFAP) seeks to improve the nutrition of New Yorkers who are experiencing food insecurity. It does this by providing nutritious food to emergency food programs (food pantries and community kitchens). Food items meet the NYC Food Standards and are selected based on the nutritional, cultural, and dietary needs of the diverse communities of NYC.

The City of New York has made it a priority to invest City Tax-Levied dollars into an emergency food program, thereby continuing to support the provision of food and funding to providers. We remain committed to supporting the city's emergency food providers with purchases of nutritious food, and are working to connect food insecure New Yorkers with food assistance benefits. As of July 1, 2020, EFAP provides food and funding to 574 individual emergency food programs.

In Fiscal Year (FY) 2020, EFAP distributed 15.0 million pounds of shelf stable and frozen foods. In the same period, EFAP programs reported serving more than 17.5 million people (this is a self -reported, duplicated statistic).

SNAP

The Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) program serves nearly 1.5 million New York City, or 20 percent of the population on average each month.

SNAP Benefits for Older Adults

Since September 2014, the Benefits Data Trust (BDT) and DSS partnership has sought to create systemic changes for public benefits access, focusing on widely available benefit programs across the five boroughs of NYC and those that research has shown improve health, education, employment and/or mobility. While the program has expanded to support people of all ages with SNAP application assistance, the focus of helping low-income, older New Yorkers access multiple benefits such as health insurance, rent freeze programs and heating assistance, remains a priority. Using sophisticated data-matching analytics and technology, paired with a contact center model, this program has sent 305,000 mail-based outreach to likely-eligible older adult (60+) households. More than 51,700 applications for multiple public benefits have been submitted on behalf of older adult households, including 41,600 SNAP applications on ACCESS HRA. BDT has responded to the COVID-19 emergency by fielding a higher volume of calls resulting from referrals from other groups and agencies across the City. Since mid-March, BDT has received 1,500 referral calls and submitted 1,260 SNAP applications as a result of these calls.

PARTICIPATION
OLDER ADULTS
WAS 72.9%

The Department for the Aging (DFTA) also includes a SNAP evaluation in their intake form. The average monthly number of SNAP recipients age 65 and older for FY 2020 is 342,526. The 2018 SNAP participation rate (the percent receiving benefits among those who were eligible) for older adults (ages 60+) in NYC was 72.9%. The national participation rate for older adults as of 2017 was 48%.<sup>1</sup>

SNAP Outreach Programs

HRA's Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) Support Services educates the public about SNAP benefits in order to maximize the City's use of available federal programs to increase the purchasing power of low-income New Yorkers. SNAP Support Services provides SNAP trainings and presentations, prescreens potentially eligible applicants, and assists with the SNAP application process. In FY 19, SNAP Support Services conducted outreach at 165 community sites and three SNAP facilitated enrollment.

programs. In addition, this program conducted presentations at various community-based, human services, and government organizations, and monitored SNAP outreach activity at 402 community-based organizations. The budget for the SNAP Outreach Services Program for FY 19 was $1.7 million. HRA has worked to make applying for benefits programs easy and accessible to all New Yorkers through the ACCESS HRA (AHRA) initiative. Clients and members of the public interacting with HRA and the Department of Social Services (DSS) can access information and services in multiple languages online, in person, or telephonically. The Access HRA mobile app is also available in seven languages, and provides access to clients' HRA cases.

The Department of Social Services (DSS) Office of Advocacy and Outreach (OAO) conducts targeted outreach campaigns to organizations serving specific populations, including older adults, LGBTQI, persons with disabilities and immigrant communities, to expand benefits access to SNAP benefits through ACCESS HRA. OAO conducts presentations and attends resource fairs, farmers markets, and other events to promote SNAP awareness and increase engagement. In FY 2020, OAO facilitated AHRA trainings for 4,132 Community Based Organization (CBO) staff who provide SNAP enrollment services to their clients. Three-quarters of those (3,025 staff) were trained between April and June 2020 to support clients experiencing food insecurity during the COVID-19 crisis. ACCESS HRA trainings cover topics including SNAP applications, recertifications, mobile document upload, and/or case management through the AHRA Provider Portal. By the end of FY 2020, there were more than 300 CBOs enrolled in the Provider Portal. OAO also collaborates with selected partner CBOs and City agencies, to provide additional information about benefits and to provide enrollment assistance via AHRA at these locations. On-site support was temporarily suspended in March 2020.

PART 2. IMPROVING CITY FOOD PROCUREMENT AND SERVICE

Agency Meals and Food Standards

New York City uses the scale of its food procurement and food service programs to purchase and provide food that meets high nutrition standards, and where possible, is sourced regionally.

The Mayor's Office of Food Policy has initiated a Good Food Purchasing initiative for City agencies that procure and serve food to improve the institutional plate through the values set forth in the Good Food Purchasing framework. The categories for procurement action include: nutrition, environmental sustainability, valued workforce, animal welfare, and local economies. Through this work, New York City is using its purchasing power to shape the market and create more socially-responsible food products and partnerships. New York City has existing frameworks, including the NYC Food Standards, through which City agencies are demonstrating strong performance. The Good Food Purchasing framework will be integrated into ongoing procurement strategies in order to continue to advance our values of healthy food for people and the planet through procurement and provision to New Yorkers.

The Agency Standards for Meals/Snacks Purchased and Served (Food Standards) were established by Mayoral Executive Order 122 of 2008 and set nutrition requirements for the foods purchased and meals and snacks served by City agencies. The Food Standards are an integral part of the City's effort to increase access to healthy foods by improving the nutritional quality of food served in City programs and help to combat some of the structural inequities that make opportunities for healthy eating so challenging. To keep abreast with emerging guidelines, research and nutritional science, the Food Standards are reviewed and revised at least every three years.

The Standards typically apply to approximately 230 million meals and snacks served per year in 11 City agencies, and across a variety of settings, including schools, senior centers, homeless shelters, public hospitals and care facilities, childcare centers, after school programs, and correctional facilities. From July 2019 to February 2020, 11 City agencies served approximately 144 million meals and snacks including more than 103 million meals and snacks in schools. During this same time period, agencies had an average compliance rate of 90% with the standards. See Appendix G for full data on Agency Food Standards.

DOE Food Procurement

The New York City Department of Education (NYCDOE) operates the largest school food service program in the United States, spending more than $200 million annually on food, and serving, in a typical year, more than 950,000 meals per day. As New York City confronts the ongoing effects of the COVID-19 pandemic, its food service operation was marshalled alongside other food relief efforts aimed at ensuring food security for all New York City residents.

The DOE's Office of Food and Nutrition Services (OFNS) continues to prioritize the procurement of local and fresh food, as well as the sourcing of sustainable and healthy products. OFNS only serves antibiotic-free chicken products and 100% beef burgers in schools. OFNS strives to offer a completely locally sourced menu every Thursday, known as New York Thursdays. In FY 2020, DOE spent over $20.1 million on produce, milk, and yogurt that was locally or regionally grown or produced (not including distribution costs). Of that, $4 million was spent on produce and $16.1 million on milk and yogurt.

OFNS continues to be committed to innovative meals that help students make better food choices. In addition to promoting local foods, the department has continued to offer Meatless Mondays menus citywide to expose students to the benefits of a vegetarian diet, offers only whole grain rich foods and low fat and fat free milk options. In order to support these long term approaches to healthy eating we have strengthened partnerships to support this work. In partnership with over 50 organizations we support one another's goals as long as the improved food experience for the student is at heart.

OFNS is committed to realizing the City's mission that nobody in our city goes hungry, even when school is not in session. We support enrichment programs in schools during school holiday and during the weekend as well as summer meals during a typical year. As mentioned earlier we have not stopped serving the community meals throughout the COVID-19 crisis, and continue to offer meals to students in schools, to children attending school remotely, to children enrolled at Learning Labs programs, and to the general public across New York City.

Investments have been made in infrastructure and technology to drive student engagement and improve the student dining experience. OFNS has committed to improving the cafeteria experience of each child, investing in menu research and development, cafeteria décor, and incorporating student voices into menu decisions.

Several key items of note:

- Searchable maps showing meal locations are available online at all times.
- In addition to the DOE website, the OFNS app continues to provide up-to-date menu information.

- Prior to the disruption on normal service, 1,353 salad bars were offered in 1,147 of the City's 1,500 school buildings, as part of the City's efforts to provide healthy vegetables to students. Fresh salads continue to be a staple of the emergency meal service.
- OFNS began a scratch cooking pilot at two schools in the Bronx, earning NYCDOE recognition by Food Service Director Magazine as the #1 most innovative school foodservice program in the country. Lessons learned from this pilot have influenced the current menu philosophy of the organization.
- In 2015, OFNS began offering Breakfast in the Classroom (BIC) to students. By the middle of the 2019-2020 school year, BIC was offered to schools in 596 buildings.
- During normal service, free breakfast and lunch are offered to all students every day.
- In FY 2020, there were 2,074 beverage vending machines and 1,037 snack machines. Their gross sales during that period were $1.9 million and $3.6 million, respectively.
- In FY 2020, students used the 956 water jets in 804 buildings NYC school buildings.

Salad Bars in Hospitals

NYC Health + Hospitals offers prepackaged and prepared salads to order at on-site food vendors in nine facilities: in Manhattan at Metropolitan Hospital Center, Bellevue, and Henry J. Carter Post-Acute; in the Bronx at Jacobi Hospital; in Queens at Queens and Elmhurst Hospitals; in Brooklyn at Kings County, Coney Island, and Woodhull Hospitals; and in Staten Island at Seaview Hospital.

Bottled Water Expenditures

DCAS purchases bottled water primarily for routine service to agency offices in multiple City-owned or leased facilities throughout the city. DCAS expenditures on water for FY 2020 were $594,874 for bottled water in 5 gallon demijohn (including cooler rental); $206,230 for single serve bottles.

Footnote: Salad bars in NYC H+H facilities were paused during COVID-19.

---

A history of racist and discriminatory policies and practices has created deep inequity that continues to shape where New Yorkers live and go to school, what jobs they have, and what their neighborhoods look like, including their access to affordable healthy food. This inequitable distribution of resources and opportunities for health influences New Yorkers' consumption of fruits and vegetables and sugary drinks, contributing to unfair differences in diet-related disease outcomes among the NYC population. New York City's work to improve healthy food access and lower consumption of sugary drinks aims to address the differences in health outcomes between neighborhoods and groups of people.

Indicator: Fruit and Vegetable Consumption

New York City's work to improve healthy food access includes initiatives to increase healthy options at retail stores, increase New Yorkers' purchasing power for fruits and vegetables at farmers markets and grocery stores, and provide education and resources for preparing balanced meals at home. Eating fruits and vegetables every day can lower your risk of heart disease and possibly some cancers. The City's goal, established in OneNYC in April 2015, is to increase the average daily adult consumption of fruits and vegetables by 25 percent by 2035. In 2019, mean adult fruit and vegetable consumption was 2.7 servings/day, an increase from the 2018 mean of 2.5 servings/day. NYC adults residing in households with the highest income levels (400+% of the federal poverty level [FPL]) consumed significantly more fruits and vegetables (3 servings) than those residing in households with lower income levels (200-399% FPL: 2.7 servings; <200% FPL: 2.4 servings).<sup>2</sup>

Indicator: Sugary Drink Consumption

The New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH) has implemented many strategies aimed at reducing sugary drink consumption among New Yorkers, including media campaigns, nutrition education, programs to make healthy beverages more accessible and unhealthy beverages less ubiquitous, and policies to ensure sugary drinks are not served to children in schools and child care centers. Sugary drink consumption is associated with weight gain, cavities, and increased risk of chronic diseases, such as type-2 diabetes and heart disease.

As part of Take Care New York 2020, DOHMH set a goal to reduce the percent of adult New Yorkers who consume one or more sugary drinks per day to 19% by 2020. Among New York City adults, there was a steady decline in sugary drink consumption between 2007 (36%) and 2013 (23%); however, the prevalence stagnated in more recent years (22% in 2019).<sup>3</sup> Sugary drink consumption was higher among Black and Latino adult New Yorkers than among White and Asian/Pacific Islander residents every year from 2007-2019 (in 2019, Black: 34%, Latino: 29%, White: 13%, Asian/Pacific Islander: 13%).<sup>4</sup> Among children ages 6-12, the prevalence dropped between 2009-2017 (44% vs. 33%). Despite an overall decline among NYC children ages 6 to 12, sugary drink consumption remains higher among Black and Latino children than White children (In 2017, Black: 50%, Latino: 37%, White: 15%).<sup>5</sup> Among the youngest New Yorkers (ages 0 to 5 years), Black and Latino children had about three times higher rates of sugary drink consumption than White children (In 2017, Black: 28%, Latino: 26%, White: 9%).<sup>5</sup> The diseases associated with sugary drink consumption – like type-2 diabetes and heart disease – are more prevalent among Black and Latino communities.

CITY-SPONSORED NUTRITION EDUCATION PROGRAMS

The New York City Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DOHMH) aims to promote and make easier healthy dietary behaviors, particularly in communities at risk for poorer health outcomes. DOHMH's programs combine direct education to build on New Yorkers' nutrition and culinary knowledge and skill with environmental supports to make choosing healthy foods easier.

Farmers Market Based Nutrition Education

DOHMH's Stellar Farmers Market program provides free, multi-lingual nutrition workshops and cooking demonstrations for adults at select farmers markets that serve communities with low-incomes across the city. These activities promote the benefits of a diet rich in fruits and vegetables and provide information about how to prepare healthy meals using fresh produce. Over 16,275 workshops and cooking demonstrations have been held, reaching over 387,900 participants since the program's inception in 2009.

Funding for FY 2020 was $481,535 and was provided by the United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) SNAP Nutrition Education and Obesity Prevention program (SNAP-Ed), through a contract with the New York State Department of Health. The program also distributed Health Bucks to more than 19,400 workshop participants in FY 2020.

To build capacity among community-based organizations for conducting nutrition education programming, DOHMH provided support and technical assistance to conduct nutrition education at farmers markets. Two community organizations conducted over 120 bilingual workshops at two farmers market stands serving communities with low-incomes, reaching over 1,900 participants. $20,000 in funding for this program was obtained through City Tax Levy dollars.

Child Care-Based Nutrition Education

Eat Well Play Hard in Child Care Settings (EWPCHCS) employs registered dietitians from DOHMH to support childcare centers with creating and enhancing environments that support healthy eating and physical activity practices. Dietitians provide technical assistance on menu improvements and nutrition policy development. They also provide nutrition training and workshops to childcare staff, parents, and children in centers serving families with low-incomes. EWPCHCS has worked with over 595 childcare centers and has reached over 98,180 children, parents, and staff since its inception in 2008. Funding for FY 2020 was $1,288,800 and was provided by the United States Department of Agriculture's (USDA) SNAP Nutrition Education and Obesity Prevention program (SNAP-Ed), through a contract with the New York State Department of Health.

EWPCHCS also implements the Farm to Preschool Program, which connects childcare centers to sites selling fresh, locally grown fruits and vegetables. This allows families to more easily purchase local produce, and gives childcare centers the opportunity to purchase local produce wholesale to incorporate into meals and snacks served to children. The program also helps young children develop healthy eating habits early on, by supporting gardening at the centers and by providing on-site nutrition education and cooking demonstrations for parents, staff, and community members. In FY 2020, DOHMH provided over 200 workshops to 805 participants. Eight preschools participated from across the city in FY 2020.

Neighborhood-Based Nutrition Education

Funding for the Bronx Neighborhood Action Centers in FY 2020 was $172,528. Funding for the Brooklyn Neighborhood Action Centers in FY 2020 was $63,068 (CTL) and $299,350 (Grants). Funding for the Harlem Neighborhood Health Action Centers in FY 2020 was $309,833 (CTL) and $399,235 (Grants).

Nutrition Program for the Elderly, DFTA

The NYC Department for the Aging (DFTA) funds 249 older adult centers, 30-plus affiliated sites, and 23 home delivered meal programs. DFTA nutritionists review and approve menus served at these programs, ensuring that meals are nutritious and compliant with city, state, and federal nutrition guidelines.

Older adult centers and affiliated sites are required to conduct six nutrition education lectures throughout the year. DFTA's nutritionists provide one session a year to each center and work with the centers to identify qualified presenters and relevant topics for the other sessions. From July 1st 2019 to February 28th 2020, more than 1,000 lectures were held. Since the start of COVID-19, DFTA nutritionists continue to provide nutrition education sessions using virtual platforms.

In addition, DFTA provides individual nutrition counseling to clients referred by DFTA-funded older adult centers and home delivered meal programs. From July 1st 2019 to February 28th 2020, almost 800 hours of nutrition counseling were provided. During the pandemic, DFTA nutrition counselors have continued to provide counseling via telephone.

Farmers Markets

Farmers markets play an important role in addressing disparities in access to healthy foods by providing an additional healthy retail outlet in the neighborhoods they serve. They connect consumers to local and regional farmers and producers that provide farm fresh produce, dairy, meats, and other goods. In New York City, there are a number of programs that help consumers increase their purchasing power at farmers markets, such as SNAP, WIC, the Senior Farmers Market Nutrition Program at the federal level, and Health Bucks at the local level. There were 143 farmers markets across the five boroughs in FY 2020, 131 of these markets accepted EBT. The number of farmers markets in New York City has grown from 79 in FY 2007 to 143 in FY 2020.

GrowNYC is the largest operator of farmers markets in the city. Its 50 Greenmarkets are located throughout the five boroughs, with 26 markets open year-round. In FY 2020, customers spent over $1 million in SNAP benefits at GrowNYC Greenmarkets, Youthmarkets, and Fresh Food Box sites.

Footnote: The total number of open markets fluctuates throughout the season

GrowNYC also operates Youthmarket farm stands to employ neighborhood youth, providing them with jobs and business skills. In FY 2020, 44 young people were employed at a Youthmarket. There are currently 17 GrowNYC Youthmarkets in the city. For a list of the number of Greenmarkets in NYC, as well as the average number of producers at each market sorted by borough, see appendix J.

Health Bucks

Health Bucks are two-dollar coupons that are redeemable for fresh fruits and vegetables at all NYC farmers markets year-round. They provide New Yorkers with low incomes additional purchasing power to buy fresh, locally-grown produce at all 143 farmers markets across NYC. Health Bucks are distributed as a SNAP incentive – for every $5 spent in SNAP benefits (formerly known as food stamps) at the market, beneficiaries receive a $2 Health Bucks coupon – and through community-based organizations as part of nutrition and health programming.

In 2019, over 220,000 Health Bucks were distributed at 118 farmers markets as a SNAP incentive, nearly 100,000 Health Bucks were distributed by more than 550 community-based organizations and over 80,000 Health Bucks were distributed through a pharmacy-based fruit and vegetable prescription pilot program. Over 170,000 Health

Bucks were purchased and distributed by more than 30 organizations and elected officials. In total, over 575,000 Health Bucks, worth more than $1,150,000 in fruits and vegetables, were distributed, putting fresh, locally-grown produce into the hands of thousands of low-income New Yorkers. Health Bucks have continued to be distributed as a SNAP incentive at participating farmers markets since the beginning of and throughout the COVID-19 pandemic in NYC.

Green Carts

Green Carts are mobile vending carts that sell fresh fruits and vegetables in low-income neighborhoods with low rates of fruit and vegetable consumption. As of July 2020, there were 248 Green Carts with active permits, of which 10 may be using EBT machines. For a full list of information on Green Cart permits and EBT machines, see Appendix H. For a list of information on Green Cart violations by location, see Appendix I.

FRESH

The Food Retail Expansion to Support Health program (FRESH) was established in 2009 and is administered by the New York City Economic Development Corporation (NYCEDC) and the Department of City Planning.

Every New Yorker deserves access to affordable, healthy food and it is an essential component of neighborhood development. However, many low-income areas continue to be underserved by full-scale grocery stores, due to high acquisition, development, and operating costs. The FRESH program can mitigate costs by providing zoning and/or financial incentives to eligible grocery store operators and developers.

Since 2009, a total of 55 FRESH projects have been approved, comprised of 20 projects receiving financial incentives, 22 projects receiving zoning incentives, and 3 projects receiving both financial and zoning incentives. A total of 20 of these projects have been completed and are now open to the public. These approved projects provide, or will provide, over one million square feet of new or renovated grocery store space to New York City. In FY 2020, FRESH supermarkets receiving financial benefits had 1,604 full time equivalent employees.

For a full list of stores receiving financial benefits through FRESH, see Appendix F.

Shop Healthy NYC

Shop Healthy NYC is a DOHMH initiative to support neighborhood-based sustainable changes in access to healthy food. To ensure a long-term impact on food access, Shop Healthy NYC aims to influence supply and demand by reaching out to food retailers, including bodegas and grocery stores, to increase stock and promotion of healthy foods. It also engages community residents to support participating retailers in their efforts to increase neighborhood access to healthy foods.

As of March 2020, 1,844 stores have agreed to promote healthier items as part of Shop Healthy. Approximately 1,128 of those stores have also agreed to increase access to healthier foods. All Shop Healthy establishments are located in 21 zip codes throughout the City, with new neighborhoods added: Central Harlem in Manhattan, Bushwick in Brooklyn, and Concourse Village in the Bronx. Due to COVID-19 NYC Stay at Home Order, the above numbers only reflect Shop Healthy activities completed as of the first week of March. No data is available for stores post timepoint.

PART 4. SUPPORTING A JUST AND SUSTAINABLE FOOD SYSTEM

In 2015, New York City committed in One New York: The Plan for a Strong and Just City (OneNYC) to build a more sustainable, resilient, and just food system, in which more of our food comes from regional and local growers, producers, and manufacturers. To achieve those goals, we are investing in infrastructure to strengthen our regional food system, supporting community-based gardening and greening efforts, healthy eating, community development, and encouraging the growth of local food producers and manufacturers to create good job opportunities in the food sector.

NYC Watershed Agricultural Program

Much of New York City's drinking water comes from reservoirs in upstate watersheds that include productive farmland. To preserve the quality of its source water, the City's Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), in partnership with the Watershed Agricultural Council (WAC), promotes the planning and implementation of agricultural best management practices (BMPs) on farms throughout the watershed. The goal of the Watershed Agricultural Program (WAP) is to support well-managed family farms through the development of Whole Farm Plans (WFP) and the implementation of BMPs that advance water quality protection while also promoting rural economic viability.

Since 1992, the program has developed more than 457 WFPs on watershed farms and implemented over 8,400 BMPs on farms that reduce runoff from agricultural pollution and protect water quality. These management practices are funded by the City in the form of technical and financial assistance to watershed farmers. In FY 2020, farmers received $4,086,334 in City financial support, which was used to fund the installation of BMPs on 107 farms covering 33,640 acres of watershed farmland. For a list of participating farms by county and type, see Appendix B.

Hunts Point Food Distribution Center

Hunts Point is home to the Hunts Point Food Distribution Center (FDC), which dispenses over 4.5 billion pounds of food each year to the New York metropolitan region and supports 8,500 direct jobs. The FDC is comprised of over 130 public and private wholesalers, including the Hunts Point Terminal Produce Market, the Cooperative Meat Market, and the New Fulton Fish Market. A food supply study completed by NYCEDC and MOR in 2016 found that the FDC is the largest single geographic cluster of food distribution in NYC by volume. Twenty-five percent of New York City's produce, 35% of the City's meat and 45% of the City's fish pass through the FDC annually and arrive in independent restaurants, supermarkets, bodegas, and food markets across the five boroughs. The City and NYCEDC are committed to continuing to grow the Hunts Point FDC as a competitive 21st century industrial hub, delivering healthy food and living wage jobs to the City.

NYCEDC, in partnership with the Mayor's Office of Resiliency (MOR) and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), is investing $71 million to protect a critical part of the City's food supply and increase social resiliency in Hunts Point. The Hunts Point resiliency energy pilot project will provide backup power to ensure continuity for this critical part of New York City's food supply, as well as provide community shelter in the event of an emergency. The project will include a tri-generation microgrid to provide backup power to critical facilities during flood or other emergency events. To expand benefits to the surrounding community, the project will include the installation of solar panels and storage at two neighborhood schools, providing year-round renewable energy as well as establishing a community gathering space during emergency events. The project also includes mobile generators, which will provide resilient backup power for businesses in emergency conditions.

Community and School Gardens

GreenThumb

GreenThumb, a program of the New York City Department of Parks & Recreation (NYC Parks), is the largest community gardening program in the country. GreenThumb supports NYC's community gardens and urban farms through free land access, materials, technical assistance, public programming, and community engagement while preserving 100 acres of open space throughout NYC. Located in all five boroughs, GreenThumb gardens are hubs of neighborhood activity and pride that offer a myriad of environmental, economic and social benefits to neighborhoods. In 2019, there were over 550 GreenThumb registered gardens in New York City.

For a list of community gardens located on NYC Parks land and/or registered and licensed by GreenThumb, see Appendix C. Information about the size of each garden and whether or not it engages in food production is included to the extent it is available.

GrowNYC School Gardens

GrowNYC School Gardens, in partnership with NYC Parks' GreenThumb and the Department of Education, inspires, facilitates, and promotes the creation of a garden in every public school in New York City. Schools work directly with GrowNYC School Gardens to ensure that their garden programs are sustainable, responsive to their communities, and transformative for student learning in the cafeteria, the classroom and beyond. The citywide school garden initiative provides material and financial support to get schools growing, provides technical and professional development support to school gardeners, and makes the scale of New York City manageable by bringing together partnerships and resources into one convenient central location. As of 2020, 824 schools have registered garden projects with GrowNYC School Gardens. For a list of registered GrowNYC School Gardens, see Appendix D.

Garden to Café

With the support of the NYC DOE's Office of Food and Nutrition Services, the Garden to Café Program (GTC) helps develop a student's curiosity about food, nutrition, and the various ways food can be grown, through school gardens, lunchtime tastings, and classroom lessons. The program currently has over 140 schools registered, serving 73,517 students. Garden to Café works with NYC's public and charter schools in all five boroughs, from elementary to high school, including students with special needs (D75) and those who are at-risk (D79).

The program received a one-year extension on their 2019-2020 USDA Farm to School grant that will allow us to provide schools with such experiences as rural and urban farm trips and more hands-on activities. Our work has also encouraged us to create a Farm to School team with the NYC Department of Education. The goals of the FTS team include: 1) increasing the volume and variety of local farm products procured by the Office of Food and Nutrition Services; 2) encouraging an ever-increasing demand of fresh fruits and vegetables from our students citywide; and 3) continue building a learning connection and partnerships between NYS farmers and NYC schools.

Farms at NYCHA

Farms at NYCHA is part of Building Healthy Communities (BHC), a citywide partnership designed to improve health outcomes in 12 neighborhoods in New York City. The farms expand healthy food access, provide youth workforce and leadership development, and promote sustainable and connected public housing communities. Farms are constructed and operated by 18-to 24-year-old NYCHA residents who are

Green City Force (GCF) AmeriCorps Members and other NYCHA community leaders. In the past four years, approximately 200 young adult public housing residents have been trained in farm management and community programming, placing NYCHA and partners at the vanguard of urban agriculture initiatives that are tied to affordable housing.

In 2020, NYCHA welcomed a new farm partner, Red Hook Initiative via their Red Hook Farms program. As a critical food security support during this year's unprecedented public health crisis, Farms at NYCHA will continue to advance work with backbone partner Green City Force and community-specific collaborators such as Red Hook Initiative, to drive innovation in equity-centered local food production.

The farms are also a prominent example of NYCHA's award-winning Connected Communities Initiative that consolidates the Authority's urban design and community engagement priorities for reshaping the more than 2,400 acres of open space NYCHA oversees throughout the five boroughs.

Food Manufacturing

NYCEDC supports the role of the food importing, manufacturing, and distribution sectors in growing and diversifying New York City's economy. With a huge market base and the world's largest food distribution center, these sectors create job opportunities for New Yorkers and are a vital part of our economy. The Brooklyn Army Terminal's 4 million square foot modern industrial campus is home to established and growth-stage food companies, such as Jacques Torres Chocolate, The Konery, MOMO Dressing, City Saucery, Green Mustache, Luxury Gourmet Sweets, Saedico, Granola Labs and We Are the New Farmers.

NYCEDC's current footprint in the food sector also includes Queens FEASTS. Queens FEASTS, which started as Jamaica FEASTS in 2016, supports food entrepreneurs through a 12-week entrepreneur training program for aspiring chefs, bakers, and business owners. Offered in four locations in Queens, Queens FEASTS provides business skills training, one-on-one entrepreneur counseling, and vending opportunities to participants. To date this program has served over 150 entrepreneurs (75% female.)

In addition, NYCEDC provides financial incentives to businesses operating in the food importing, manufacturing, and distribution sectors through the New York City Industrial Development Agency (NYCIDA) and the Accelerated Sales Tax Exemption Program (ASTEP). These programs lower the cost of real estate and/or the purchasing of equipment and furnishings, allowing businesses to gain a foothold in the competitive New York market or expand their existing operations. For example, in FY 2020, the NYCIDA supported an Industrial Program Project to facilitate the acquisition, renovation, furnishing and equipping of an approximately 9,000 square foot facility in Brooklyn operated by Best Choice Corporation., a family-founded and operated importer and distributor of frozen seafood and other frozen foods throughout the tristate area. The project will allow Best Choice Corporation to increase its operational capacity by creating a new state-of-the-art large-scale freezer, generating and retaining at least 17 full time equivalent private-sector jobs. During FY 2020, NYCEDC also authorized Accelerated Sales Tax Exemption Program (ASTEP) benefits to Talea Beer Inc., a brewer. These benefits will allow Talea to save on sales and use taxes for purchases made towards the furnishing and equipping of a 9,000 square foot space in Williamsburg that will serve as a new base for the company's beer brewing operations, and will include a small taproom to showcase Talea's growing product line.

During FY 2020, the NYCIDA directly supported 22 companies in the food and beverage manufacturing, distribution, and importing sectors, employing workers. These projects represent $105,850,956 of private investment into New York City. For a full list of projects, see Appendix E.

NYCHA Food Business Pathways

The New York City Housing Authority's (NYCHA) Food Business Pathways program (FBP) is a free business training program that helps NYCHA and NYCHA Section 8 residents start and grow food businesses in New York City. FBP is a collaboration between NYC Small Business Services (SBS), NYC Economic Development Corporation (NYCEDC), Citi Community Development, Hot Bread Kitchen, Start Small Think Big, and NYCHA's Office of Resident Economic Empowerment & Sustainability (REES).

Residents who are accepted into FBP receive a free, intensive 10-week business course tailored specifically to meet the needs of NYCHA entrepreneurs. The program offers free licenses and permits, group and one-on-one business coaching designed to move their businesses forward, and assistance securing commercial kitchen space to operate their food businesses. Food Business Pathways has awarded free commercial kitchen incubator space grants to 42 businesses.

Since the program's launch in January 2015, 271 NYCHA public housing residents and Section 8 voucher holders graduated from the program across nine cohorts and have created 189 registered businesses.

In August 2019 NYCHA and its partners launched Catering Business Pathways which provides immersive business education to catering businesses in the food sector. Throughout the 10-week course enrollees receive education on how to lead a profitable food catering company, learn business planning, menu design, pricing for profit and receive mentorship, professional coaching opportunities and assistance to obtain needed business licenses. The first cohort of Catering Business Pathways graduated in March 2020 with 24 NYCHA residents.

Food & Beverage Industry Partnership

The NYC Food & Beverage Industry Partnership (F&B IP) works directly with its NYC Hospitality Council of advisors, State and local industry associations and foodservice business owners citywide to ensure alignment of strategies and interventions with industry need to improve workforce development and business stability in the sector.

In response to the need for New Yorkers, unable to afford the high cost of professional culinary training, to access high-quality culinary jobs and careers in the food service sector and for employers to access the qualified entry-level talent they need, the FIRST COURSE NYC line cook apprenticeship program was launched in November 2019. This program, delivered in collaboration with Hostos Community College, Empowered Hospitality HR and leading NYC restaurants and chefs, also supported improvement in employee hiring and engagement and in workplace culture to reduce the high turnover rates that are the norm in the food service industry. The initial program cohort was successfully completed in March 2020, just as the City mandated shutdown took effect in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. The shutdown of all partnering restaurants precluded their ability to retain program graduates for the F/T line cook positions they had trained for. The F&B IP has continued to provide support to these graduates where possible as widespread disruption to the restaurant industry continues.

In partnership with SBS's Division of Business Services and Citi Community Development, the F&B IP also worked to develop and launch a new iteration of the NYCHA Food Business Pathways program, Catering Business Pathways, in November 2020. This no-cost entrepreneurship training program worked with selected NYCHA residents, who were actively operating informally selling food, to professionalize their catering businesses by providing the business education, tools and resources required to grow their businesses and provide a living wage. Participants successfully completed this intensive course in February 2020, however the mandated COVID-19 shutdown interfered with the ability of program graduates to move forward with the mentoring and operational assistance designed to support their first-year business growth. As NYC moves forward with phased reopening that allows for the safe resumption of larger outdoor events the program team is determining how best to engage with and support program grads over the coming months.

Zero Waste

In April of 2019, Mayor de Blasio announced his OneNYC 2050 strategy for Building a Strong and Fair City. This plan cites the fact that over one-third of New York City's residential waste by tonnage comes from food scraps and yard waste. Therefore, a transition to citywide mandatory composting is essential to adopting an effective zero waste management strategy. To fulfill this vision, the NYC Department of Sanitation (DSNY) is working to expand opportunities for food scrap and yard waste diversion for residents, schools, city agencies, and businesses.

Residential Curbside Composting

DSNY advanced another round of the Make Compost, Not Trash organics outreach campaign in FY 2020. The campaign goal was to increase residential awareness and participation in the curbside composting program through intensive outreach to targeted community boards. In FY 2020, the campaign ran in 7 community boards (BKS06, BKS07, BKN02, QW02, QW05, QE08, and BX08) that had curbside composting collection.

A community meeting was held in each borough to kick off the campaign and encourage residents, community organizations, and elected officials to get involved. Ongoing, neighborhood-based volunteer events (trainings and activities) were organized. And, an online "influencer packet" was provided to community members that wanted to independently volunteer to encourage curbside composting in their own communities and through their own networks. Volunteer "meet-ups" were held to build relationships amongst those working on curbside composting outreach to solidify a volunteer base for DSNY. During the campaign 174 volunteers were trained and supported 22 greening events such as park clean-ups, compost giveaways, and leaf rakes. Resources like compostable dining kits, paper lawn and leaf bags, reusable carryout bags, and 1-lb bags of finished compost were distributed by volunteers to over 9,000 residents.

DSNY also conducted its own outreach events, including presentations at Community Board meetings, street tree care activities, compost application events, and informational tabling events. DSNY also ran 212 neighborhood canvassing events that were supported by volunteers. Over 12,000 households were reached through these canvassing efforts.

DSNY worked to enroll more buildings in the curbside composting program and to encourage greater participation of existing enrolled buildings. To encourage greater participation, DSNY held over 69 Kitchen Container distribution events, providing approximately 6,900 Households with a Kitchen Container to help them participate in the curbside composting program. The Department also contacted sites with low participation to understand why they were not participating more and to offer tools to increase participation. The Department conducted outreach to 240 low performing sites in FY 2020 through presentations to the tenants, tabling events in building lobbies, improving signage at the buildings, and by providing additional brown bins and kitchen containers.

Schools

DSNY's Zero Waste Schools (ZWS) program, which aims to divert all recyclable and compostable waste in participating schools, has reached more than 140,000 students and over 10,000 teachers, administrators and kitchen and custodial staff.

Now in its fourth year, the Zero Waste Schools website has continued to grow to include over 899 schools, or 50% of all DOE schools (as of July 2020). DSNY's interactive ZWS website, www.nyc.gov/zws, is a safe, online platform where teachers and students can share their recycling and sustainability projects and ideas.

Also hosted on the ZWS Website is the Green Team Mini Grant Program. DSNY has partnered with Citizens Committee for New York City to create this grant program, awarding up to $1,000 to school green teams. During the 2019-2020 school year, 96 schools received Green Team Grant funding. In Spring 2020, 42 schools were awarded funding and material support to further their school's initiatives.

Businesses

After conducting a survey of regional processing facilities in 2019, DSNY determined that sufficient processing capacity exists to manage the organic waste of the remaining businesses to be covered by rule under Local Law 146 of 2013. DSNY subsequently proposed new rules that were adopted on January 31, 2020. Beginning July 31, 2020, the following NYC businesses are required to source separate their organic waste.

- Food Service Establishments (such as restaurants, delis, coffee shops, cafeterias, etc.)
  - Food Service Establishments having 7,000 to 14,999 square feet
  - Chain Food Service Establishments of 2 to 99 NYC locations with combined floor area 8,000 square feet or more

- Food Service Establishments in Hotels having 100 to 149 guest rooms
- Food Service Establishments with combined floor area 8,000 square feet or more in the same building or location
- Retail Food Stores (such as supermarkets and grocery stores)
  - Retail food Stores having 10,000 to 24,999 square feet
  - Chain Retail Food Stores of 3 or more NYC locations with combined floor area 10,000 square feet or more
- Food Preparation Locations having 6,000 square feet or more
- Catering Establishments hosting on-site events to be attended by more than 100 people
- Temporary Public Events to be attended by more than 500 people

July 31, 2020 also marks the beginning of a one-year warning period for these additional businesses and Notices of Violation (NOVs) will not be issued until at least July 31, 2021 (the first two sets of rules are already in effect and continue to be enforced).

Food Waste Creative Solutions Grant

In 2017, DSNY's Foundation for New York's Strongest launched its Microgrant Program for city businesses looking to address food waste in their operations. The Foundation awarded grants of up to $2,000, plus technical advisory services, to two small NYC businesses that demonstrated a need for support and a viable implementation plan.

In its second year of the Microgrant Program, DSNY's Foundation for New York's Strongest accepted proposals for its Food Waste Creative Solutions Grant from businesses that are working towards food waste prevention, recovery, and recycling solutions. As of July 2020, one small business was awarded this grant for up to $2,000 plus technical advisory services. This business successfully completed its project to expand its food waste diversion program and develop a local restaurant guide to composting.

DonateNYC Food Portal

In March 2019, the Department of Sanitation's donateNYC program launched its food donation portal, the first municipally developed food recovery platform of its kind. The portal aims to reduce the amount of edible food sent to landfills while supporting the City's robust food rescue and redistribution infrastructure.

As of June 2020, the donateNYC food portal had 589 business, nonprofit, and agency locations registered to donate or receive food. In its first full year, 5.84 tons of food was rescued through the portal.

In disaster, donateNYC's role is to prevent unsolicited donations from becoming solid waste and ensure that necessary donations get to organizations responding on the ground. The donateNYC program has remained operational through the City's COVID-19 response and has handled a larger volume of donation activity due to food businesses closures, philanthropy efforts, and increased demand and strain on food pantries. From mid-March through the end June 2020, donateNYC directly facilitated 1,258 tons of donated food in response to COVID-19.

INT. NO. 1194-A

By Council Members Palma, Cabrera, Chin, James, Koppell, Brewer, Eugene, Vacca, Van Bramer, Levin, Rodriguez, Gentile and Gennaro

A Local Law to amend the New York city charter and the administrative code of the city of New York, in relation to assessing food security.

Be it enacted by the Council as follows:

Section 1. Section 20 of the New York city charter is amended by adding a new subdivision j to read as follows:

j. The director or the director's designee, in consultation with the commissioner of the department of health and mental hygiene, the commissioner of the department of social services/human resources administration, or their respective designees, and community based organizations and service providers with relevant expertise and such other individuals as the director shall designate, shall establish a set of indicators to measure food security. Such indicators shall include but need not be limited to an analysis of existing federal data on food security and the use and impact of governmental nutrition assistance programs. The director, or the director's designee, shall prepare and present a report on such indicators to be included in the annual city foodsystem metrics report required pursuant to section 3-120 of the code.

§ 2. Subdivision a of section 3-120 of the administrative code of the city of New York, as added by local law 52 for the year 2011, is amended to read as follows:

§ 3-120 Annual city food system metrics report. a. No later than September first, two thousand twelve, and no later than every September first thereafter, the office of long-term planning and sustainability shall prepare and submit to the mayor and the speaker of the city council a report regarding the production, processing, distribution and consumption of food in and for the city of New York during the previous fiscal year. Such report shall include:

1. the number, size in acres, county and type of production of, and annual dollar amount of city financial support received by, farms participating in the watershed agricultural program;

2. the total dollar amount of expenditures by the department of education on milk and other food products that are subject to the United States department of agriculture country of origin labeling requirements, disaggregated and sorted by the product and country of origin in which the essential components of such food products were grown, agriculturally produced and harvested, to the extent such information is reported to the department of education. For any such product where there are multiple countries of origin, the total dollar amount of expenditures, disaggregated by product, shall be separately listed, to the extent such information is reported to the department of education. If the country of origin of milk or fresh whole produce is the United States, for the report due no later than September first, two thousand thirteen, and in every report thereafter, and to the extent such information is reported to the department of education, such report shall include the total dollar amount of expenditures on such milk or fresh whole produce that is local or regional. For purposes of this paragraph, milk or fresh whole produce shall be considered "local" if grown, agriculturally produced and harvested within New York state, and shall be considered "regional" if such food products were grown, agriculturally produced and harvested within the states of Connecticut, Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont, Virginia or West Virginia;

3. the location, sorted by community board and size in square feet, of each community garden located on city-owned property that is registered with and licensed by the department of parks and recreation, and whether each such garden engages in food production;

4. the number of food manufacturers receiving monetary benefits from the economic development corporation or industrial development agency and the annual dollar amount of such benefits per food manufacturer. * Waitlists are now exhausted. The programming to create new waitlists in Accela is currently being tested. Following successful testing, new waitlists will be created and used to fill permit vacancies. Vendors can be on multiple waitlists at the same time, so the numbers will not necessarily represent unique individuals

** Currently active permits as of July 30, 2020

*** Number fluctuates due to vendor usage

*As a result of COVID-19, the reporting/data collection period was shortened. Compliance data is represented from July 2019–February 2020.

** While the Department of Citywide Administrative Services (DCAS) participates in the implementation of the Standards as purchaser of food for numerous agencies, it does not submit a compliance report as information on items procured by DCAS is captured in the reports of other agencies

*** Information is based on a review of food and beverages purchased and a one month sample of menus and nutrition analysis from any month in the year prior to the report's publication. Agencies were asked to submit a copy of menus and nutrition analysis to the Health Department for verification.

1 Compliance data based on a combination of self-report survey and field visits or data collection coordinated by agency staff

2 Compliance data based on field visits and menu reviews conducted by agency staff
3 Compliance data largely based on information submitted by agency program sites and/or program caterer from a self-report survey tool and is not verified; agencies continue to work to enhance processes to assess accuracy of program site and/or caterer self-report and to improve data quality going forward

4 Compliance data was collected from July 2019 through January 2020 and does not include data from all programs. An on-line survey was not conducted during Spring 2020

5 Agency utilizes centralized menu and food ordering process; information for all locations based on agency assessment of products purchased and menu analysis conducted by agency nutritionists

6 During the data collection period, programs were either closed, focused on reopening or reclosed due to COVID-19. As a result, all 214 programs did not report on all of the nutrient standards.

7 Agency purchases food only

8 Agency serves snacks only
