

Rating_Action: Moody's assigns Aa2 to NYC GO Fiscal 2023 Series E, Subseries E-1 & E-2; outlook stable

24Mar2023

New York, March 24, 2023 – Moody's Investors Service has assigned Aa2 ratings to the City of New York's $950 million General Obligation Bonds, Fiscal 2023 Series E, Subseries E-1 (Tax-Exempt) and $240 million General Obligation Bonds, Fiscal 2023 Series E, Subseries E-2 (Taxable). The bonds are scheduled to price March 28 and 29. Moody's also maintains Aa2 ratings on approximately $39 billion of outstanding general obligation debt. The outlook is stable.

RATINGS RATIONALE

The Aa2 general obligation rating, the same as New York City's issuer rating, reflects the city's competitive advantages which include a young and highly skilled labor pool, access to higher education and medical centers, normally strong domestic and international transportation links and low crime rates relative to other large cities. The rating also reflects the city's strong institutional budgetary and financial management and the breadth and diversity of its revenue base. New York City's financing responsibilities are broader than most local governments, since it is a city, five counties and the nation's largest school district and its debt burden is above-average because of this operational scope. Despite those responsibilities, the city's fixed costs for debt service, pensions and retiree healthcare are below the median for the largest local governments and in the bottom five among the nation's largest cities.

RATING OUTLOOK

The stable outlook reflects improvement in the city's overall financial position, including the substantial budget flexibility provided by strong tax revenue collections, growing budget reserves and federal pandemic aid. It also reflects the risk that the State of New York (Aa1 stable) will push some costs down to the city over the next several years. Job growth continues but employment is still slightly below the pre-pandemic peak and trails the nation. The longer-term credit impact of hybrid work remains uncertain, especially regarding the values of office properties. A strong institutional framework, including multiyear phase-ins of changes in commercial property assessed values and very strong budgeting, provide the city ample time to adjust if necessary. Future year budget gaps persist and are manageable but will need to be balanced amid forecasted slower tax revenue, persistent inflation, demand for higher public employee wages as contracts are renegotiated, and the need to keep pace with large pension and retiree healthcare liabilities.

FACTORS THAT COULD LEAD TO AN UPGRADE OF THE RATINGS

- Continued recovery of city economy to near pre-pandemic levels, combined with structurally-balanced budgets
- Stronger reserves, at levels similar to higher-rated peers

- Reduction of debt burden or further reduction in fixed costs

FACTORS THAT COULD LEAD TO A DOWNGRADE OF THE RATINGS

- Divergence from well-established fiscal practices and strong budgetary management
- Emergence of significant liquidity strain, especially that results in the need for large cash-flow borrowing
- Economic events such as sustained declines in equity prices, or trends that create significant structural budget imbalances

LEGAL SECURITY

The general obligation bonds are full faith and credit obligations of the city, secured by a real property tax levied without limitation as to rate or amount. All of the city's property tax is deposited into the general debt service fund, which is administered and maintained by the state comptroller.

State law requires that the real property tax - which is used to pay general obligation debt service - be segregated into a general debt service fund held by the state comptroller. The state also statutorily covenants not to impair the rights of city bondholders to be paid when due. In our opinion, those features do not create a statutory lien on the property tax in favor of general obligation bondholders, but are strengths in the payment mechanism that are not found in most local government general obligation bonds.

USE OF PROCEEDS

Proceeds of the bonds will be used to help finance the city's capital plan.

PROFILE

New York City, the largest city in the United States, is large and diverse, with an estimated population of 8.5 million. The size and scope of the city's operations are broader than most local governments: in addition to the city government, New York City is five counties and the nation's largest public school system, with approximately 1 million students. New York City's GDP is larger than all but four states.
