

NYC NONPROFIT WEEK SPECIAL EDITION

A Look Back at NYC Nonprofit Week

Let's hear it for NYC's Nonprofits! As we look back on Nonprofit week, where we celebrated and honored our nonprofit partners, we continue to remind ourselves how thankful we are for the essential services they provide to New Yorkers.

Throughout the week, the city held several events to highlight the incredible work these organizations do, such as providing essential resources to underserved communities and advocating for social justice. Honestly, it would take an entire library just to list the overwhelming array of services Nonprofits provide our city. Thank you!

Before you go further, make sure to read "After a Perfect Storm, a Nearly Perfect Rainbow" by Kim Yu, City Chief Procurement Officer and Director, Mayor's Office of Contract Services. Posted to LinkedIn last week, It's a strong reminder of the work we're doing to help Nonprofits thrive in this great city.
