Fulton & Elliott-Chelsea Redevelopment Project

Questions about your new lease? Worried about your rights and protections?

Fulton and Elliott-Chelsea Houses are undergoing major changes. With resources provided by NYCHA, Convergent Law is operating a free hotline that residents can call to learn more and ask questions about their rights and protections under the PACT program. Convergent Law can also answer questions about resident lease agreements, relocation processes, and right-to-return agreements.

CONVERGENT LAW

Convergent Law is a women and minority owned law firm that specializes in community development and finance. Convergent Law attorneys have decades of experience in affordable housing, leasing, and real estate development matters and services including serving as counsel to housing authorities, developers, tenants, and non-profit organizations.

At Fulton and Elliott-Chelsea Houses, Convergent Law is now available to answer residents' questions about:

- Resident Leases
- Relocation Processes
- Right-to-Return Agreements
- Other questions related to resident rights and protections under NYCHA's PACT program

To speak with a member of the Convergent Law team, please call:

(973) 358-2500

 Please note that Convergent Law is available to address legal questions relating to the PACT conversion only. Convergent Law cannot provide legal representation or serve as personal or business legal counsel to any residents.

NEW YORK CITY HOUSING AUTHORITY