

Medicaid and Behavioral Health Services

Can I access mental health and substance use disorder services with my Medicaid coverage?

If you receive Medicaid, you should be able to access mental health and substance use disorder services through your coverage. If you are enrolled in a Medicaid managed care plan, you can contact your health plan or its Member Services division to learn more about your coverage these services. If you need help to confirm the type of Medicaid coverage you are enrolled in, you can contact the New York State of Health or call the New York State Department of Health Medicaid Helpline at 1-800-541-2831

New York State and federal laws require most comprehensive health insurance plans to cover medically necessary mental health services and manage your mental health or substance use benefits as they manage medical and surgical benefits, without additional limitations. This is called “mental health parity” and requires that rules about copayments, number of visits and pre-authorizations should be similar for accessing mental health and substance use disorder services as they are for physical medical care. The New York State Office of Mental Health \(OMH\) provides more information on mental health parity for New Yorkers.

What type of mental health and substance disorder services can I get with Medicaid?

Your Medicaid managed care plan should provide you with a Summary of Benefits and Coverage (SBC) in clear and accessible language that describes what is covered under your specific health plan. An example of the SBC is available on healthcare.gov. The SBC will show you the costs and services associated with your health plan, including information about mental health and substance use disorder services in a section titled "Types of Medical Events". You can learn more about the SBC on healthcare.gov.

If you do not have your SBC, you can request it from your health plan using the phone number provided on the back of your health insurance card or you can call the New York State Department of Health Medicaid Helpline at 1-800-541-2831.

New York's Medicaid program covers behavioral health-related preventive services, such as alcohol misuse screening and counseling or depression screening, which can support health and wellbeing. You can learn more about the preventive services that must be covered through Medicaid at healthcare.gov

Will I need a referral or prior authorization to get mental health and substance use disorder services through Medicaid?

Depending on your particular health plan, you may need to get prior authorization or a referral from your primary care doctor before you can receive the mental health or substance use disorder services you might need. You should check your SBC or contact your health plan to confirm whether a referral or prior authorization is required.

If you don't need a referral from your primary care provider, you can use the NYC Well website to find a mental health professional. Visit NYC Well or call the NYC Well Hotline at 1-888-NYC-WELL (1-888-692-9355) and indicate that you need to find a mental health provider who accepts Medicaid.
