Medical Information

Influenza (flu) is a very contagious respiratory virus that causes outbreaks of varying severity almost every winter. The influenza virus can mutate from year to year and protection from a dose of flu vaccine wanes over time, so last year's vaccine will not protect you this year. Since the vaccine is made from inactivated virus, you cannot get the flu from receiving the vaccine. For most people, the influenza vaccine will cause no side effects or mild side effects. The most common side effects are soreness at the injection site, low-grade fever, or muscle aches for 24 to 48 hours after the vaccine is given. The vaccine you will receive contains trace amounts of thimerosal. Women who are, or may be, pregnant, may wish to ask their physicians about vaccines containing thimerosal before receiving the flu shot.

- You will not be eligible for a flu vaccination at this event if you exhibit COVID-19 symptoms as outlined by the CDC guidelines, such as, but not limited to fever/chills, cough, shortness of breath, nausea or vomiting, etc.
- CDC egg allergy guidance update: People with an egg allergy, regardless of the severity of past allergic reaction to egg, are now eligible to receive a flu vaccination at this event.

Please check Yes or No for each of the following questions:

1. Do you have a history of Guillain-Barre syndrome (GBS)? ☐ Yes ☐ No
2. Do you currently feel sick? ☐ Yes ☐ No
3. Have you ever had a severe/life-threatening allergy to any component (or part) of the flu vaccine other than eggs? ☐ Yes ☐ No
4. Is there a chance you are pregnant? ☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ N/A
