OVERVIEW

NYCDCP is proposing zoning map changes and zoning text amendments for portions of 111 blocks located within the East Village and Lower East Side, generally bounded by East 13th Street to the north, Avenue D to the east, Houston Street/Delancey Street/Grand Street to the south, and the Bowery/Third Avenue to the west. One of the net results of the proposed rezoning actions under the “Inclusionary Housing Alternative” option is a change in permitted development floor areas in commercial and residential uses. If approved, 1,589 additional dwelling units (457 of which for affordable housing) and 74,438 less square feet in commercial uses could be constructed within the above rezoning area. To determine whether these increments would warrant the need for detailed transportation analyses, as part of an environmental assessment or impact study, a trip generation projection was developed to identify the numbers of person, transit, and vehicular trips that could potentially be generated by the proposed actions.

TRANSPORTATION PLANNING ASSUMPTIONS

For the residential trip generation, the Urban Space for Pedestrians (by Pushkarev and Zupan [P&Z]) and CEQR Technical Manual daily trip rate of 8.075 per dwelling unit was used to estimate the total daily person trips and the 2000 census journey-to-work data were used to develop the modal split profile for travel during peak hours. This profile essentially shows approximately 9 percent of residential travel via auto, 3.5 percent via taxi, 44.5 percent via subway, 10 percent via bus, and 33 percent via walk/other. For a reasonable worst-case analysis, the commercial uses were assumed to be office-oriented. The office trip generation made use of the P&Z and CEQR daily trip rate of 18.0 person trips per 1,000 gross square feet, the 2000 census reverse journey-to-work peak period data for the commuting modal split profile (approximately 17.5 percent auto, 1.0 percent taxi, 40 percent subway, 8.5 percent bus, 16 percent walk/other, and 17 percent work at home) for AM and PM peak hour travel, and the No.

7 Subway Extension–Hudson Yards Rezoning and Development Program FGEIS midday modal split profile (2 percent auto, 3 percent taxi, 6 percent subway, 6 percent bus, 66 percent walk, and 17 percent work at home) for midday peak hour travel.

Because the Inclusionary Housing Alternative would result in less developable office space, the office trips were netted out (separately) from the residential trips to estimate the potential trip increments. As shown in Tables 1 through 3 below, the proposed rezoning under the Inclusionary Housing Alternative is expected to generate net increments of up to approximately 1,220 total peak hour person trips, 120 peak hour vehicle trips, 540 peak hour subway trips, and 130 peak hour bus trips.

Typically, the number of peak hour trips projected above (exceeding 50 vehicle trips, 200 transit trips, and 200 pedestrian trips during a peak hour) would warrant detailed analyses of traffic, transit, and pedestrian elements. However, since the projected development sites and the associated vehicular, transit, and pedestrian trips would be dispersed within a large rezoning area, among over 100 intersections, to 12 subway stations and 9 local bus routes, and on hundreds of sidewalks, crosswalks, and corner reservoirs, a screening analysis, as presented below, would suffice in addressing potential traffic, transit, and pedestrian impacts. However, a detailed inventory of on- and off-street parking supply and utilization will be conducted to assess potential parking shortfalls with the proposed actions in place. The findings of this analysis will be presented in the EIS.

TRAFFIC, TRANSIT, AND PEDESTRIAN ANALYSIS SCREENING

TRAFFIC ANALYSIS SCREENING

Based on the East Village and Lower East Side roadway network characteristics and potential travel routes of vehicle trips to and from the development sites within the rezoning area, a general traffic distribution pattern, as illustrated in Figure 1, was developed for specific assignments of the projected vehicle trips. Eight zones, as shown in Figure 2 and summarized below, were designated to assign the peak hour vehicle trips onto the study area roadway network.

Traffic Assignment Zone Boundaries

- Zone 1 – north of East 7th Street and west of Avenue A;
- Zone 2 – north of East 7th Street between Avenues A and B, north of East 6th Street east of Avenue B, and east of Avenue A;
- Zone 3 – north of Houston Street, south of East 7th Street, and west of Avenue A;
- Zone 4 – north of Houston Street, south of East 7th Street between Avenues A and B, south of East 6th Street east of Avenue B, and east of Avenue A;
- Zone 5 – north of Rivington Street, south of Houston Street, and west of Norfolk Street;
- Zone 6 – north of Rivington Street, south of Houston Street, and east of Norfolk Street;
- Zone 7 – south of Rivington Street and west of Ludlow Street; and,
- Zone 8 – south of Rivington Street and east of Ludlow Street.

For a conservative screening analysis, the traffic assignments to the above zones accounted for the vehicle trips attributed to the projected increase in residential dwelling units but not the anticipated decrease in commercial development. The specific allocation of these vehicle trips to the above zones are summarized in Table 4.

Table 4 – Peak Hour Vehicle Trip Allocations

| | 1566 | 23 | 1589 | 100% | 47 | 102 | 39 | 39 | 93 | 56 | |

The detailed assignment of the projected vehicle trips by zone and peak hour are presented in the attachments to this memorandum. As demonstrated in the individual and total assignment maps, the proposed actions would not result in an increment of 50 or more peak hour vehicle trips through any intersection within and surrounding the rezoning area. Therefore, a detailed traffic analysis is not required and the proposed rezoning under the Inclusionary Housing Alternative option would not result in significant adverse traffic impacts.

TRANSIT ANALYSIS SCREENING

As discussed above, there are 12 subway stations and 9 local bus routes serving the rezoning area. These transit services are summarized below.

Subway Stations

- First Avenue Station at East 14th Street – L train;
- Third Avenue Station at East 14th Street – L train;
- Union Square Station at East 14th Street – N/Q/R/W, L, and No. 4/5/6 trains;
- Astor Place Station at Lafayette Street – No. 6 train;

- Bleeker Street Station at Lafayette Street – No. 6 train;
- Spring Street Station at Lafayette Street – No. 6 train;
- 8th Street Station at Broadway – N/R/W trains;
- Broadway-Lafayette Station at Houston Street – B/D/F/V trains;
- Grand Street Station at Chrystie Street – B/D trains;
- Second Avenue Station at Houston Street – F/V trains;
- Delancey Street Station at Essex Street – F and J/M/Z trains; and,
- Bowery Street Station at Delancey Street – J/M/Z trains.

Local Bus Routes

- M8 – cross-town East 8th and 9th Streets;
- M9 – Avenue B/Essex Street and East 14th Street;
- M14A – Avenue A/Essex Street and East 14th Street;
- M 14D – Avenue C/D and East 14th Street;
- M15 – First/Second Avenues and Allen Street;
- M21 – Avenue C and Houston Street;
- M101/102 – Third Avenue; and,
- M103 – Third Avenue/Bowery.

The assignments of subway and bus trips were conducted in similar manners as for traffic, following the same allocations to the eight designated zones in the rezoning area. To demonstrate a conservative worst-case screening analysis, the PM peak hour transit trips estimated for the projected increase in residential units but not the decrease in commercial development were assigned to the above subway stations and bus routes.

As detailed in the attached, the 610 total PM peak hour subway trips are expected to yield a maximum single station increment of 136 trips at the Delancey/Essex Street Station. This increment is below the CEQR threshold for a detailed analysis of subway station elements. Therefore, the proposed rezoning under the Inclusionary Housing Alternative option would not result in any significant adverse subway station impacts. The assignment of the 141 PM peak hour bus only trips to the nine area bus routes resulted in a maximum single route increment of 38 trips on the M15 route. To assess bus loading conditions, it is also necessary to consider bus-to-bus and bus-to/from-subway transfers. These transfers are particularly prevalent for areas sparsely served by local bus routes and/or at long walking distances from subway service. Because many of the development sites within the rezoning area have limited nearby subway and local bus service, there is expected to be a fair amount of transfers required for transit users traveling to and from these development sites. Accounting for these transfers, the total projected PM peak hour bus trip increment was estimated to amount to 411 trips. However, spread among the nine study area bus routes, the maximum PM peak hour single route increment is expected to be 88 trips on the M14D route. Because this increment is below the CEQR threshold for a detailed analysis of bus line-haul conditions, the proposed rezoning under the Inclusionary Housing Alternative option is not expected to result in any significant adverse bus impacts.

PEDESTRIAN ANALYSIS SCREENING

A detailed pedestrian analysis is typically required if a proposed action is expected to result in 200 or more peak hour trips at sidewalks, corners, and crosswalks near the project site. Based on the residential trip generation estimates shown in Table 1, each residential dwelling unit would yield a maximum of approximately 0.9 person trips during a peak hour. Since the incremental auto and taxi trips would mostly originate or terminate proximate to the projected development sites, the net pedestrian trips expected to travel on the general pedestrian network are primarily those made by other modes. Hence, each residential dwelling unit would generate a maximum of approximately 0.8 pedestrian trips during a peak hour. A review of the locations and sizes of the specific development sites revealed the following clusters of projected residential units.

- 60 dwelling units at Avenue D and East 6th Street;
- 120 dwelling units at Avenue D and Houston Street;
- 70 dwelling units at First Avenue and Houston Street;
- 90 dwelling units at Chrystie Street between Stanton and Rivington Streets;
- 70 dwelling units at Chrystie Street between Rivington and Delancey Streets; and,
- 140 dwelling units at Delancey and Suffolk Streets.

Since none of the above clusters would result in 200 or more pedestrian trips at nearby sidewalks, corners, and crosswalks and there would also not be 200 or more pedestrian trips generated at any of the 12 study area subway stations, the projected peak hour pedestrian trips would not exceed the CEQR threshold at any pedestrian element. Therefore, a detailed pedestrian analysis is not required and the proposed rezoning under the Inclusionary Housing Alternative option is not expected to result in any significant adverse pedestrian impacts.
