Our History of Colony Care

We started off as a group of feeders and rescuers caring for colony cats in Hunters Point. We have grown a lot over the past decade!

Overpopulation Crisis + TNR

We actively tackle the cat overpopulation crisis in NYC by trapping, spaying/neutering, and releasing community cats in our neighborhood and surrounding areas.

Overpopulation Crisis + TNR

TNR is a safe and humane method of preventing unnecessary birthing cycles from continuing while also medically treating already existing cats in the urban jungle we live in.

Piloting a Start to the Solution:
The LICFF Western Queens Hub

- We currently have NO formal holding space for TNR in Western Queens.
- Furnishing an already acquired space of around 400 sq ft. in CB2 will allow us to serve cats and people from the community in the community.
- Allowing for TNR holding/recovery, crated rehabilitation, and in-house vaccinations using this space would allow us to sustainably scale up to running a much larger community space we want to build in the near future.
