This bike tour will take you through several Brooklyn neighborhoods which collectively include almost 60% of Brooklyn's registered GreenThumb gardens. You will start in the Bedford Stuyvesant neighborhood (53 gardens), cycle through Brownsville (26 gardens), and finish in East New York (56 gardens). While the main use of these gardens is food production, you will be sure to see the beauty of Spring flowers in almost every garden.

Community gardens are volunteer-run green spaces where people can come together around growing food and community. Gardens across the city are seeking new members to plant produce and flowers, host events, maintain community spaces, and contribute extra hands for garden projects! Beginners and experienced gardeners are welcome!

NYC Parks GreenThumb supports over 550 community gardens and 20,000 gardeners by providing gardening space, materials and supplies, and technical assistance at no cost. GreenThumb hosts innovative gardening workshops, trainings, and conferences. Learn more at greenthumb.nycgovparks.org.
