BULLETIN IMPORTANT INFORMATION !

Dear Resident,

Don't give your receipt of payment to them

New York City has passed a new law effective May 1st, 2011, that forbids the rental of any apartment or unit for a period of less than 30 days.

If anyone from the City Government finds out that your stay is less than 30 days, then they will ask you to immediately pack your belongings and will personally escort you out of the building, also you will have to find another place to reside. If you disobey the City Government official, you may be subject to a Legal Proceeding. However if you inform the public official that your stay is longer than 30 days, then the public official must leave your residence and should not bother you any further.
