II) History of Relationship

New York City Alliance Against Sexual Assault

The Alliance participated in the Kings County District Attorney's College Sexual Assault Colloquium on July 1, 2015. Since then the Alliance has been collaborating with this office to create training and capacity building for college and universities in Brooklyn on campus sexual assault. The Alliance participated in the planning of a 6- hour training on various aspects of sexual assault and domestic violence for City University of New York staff city-wide. Attended by nearly 100 participants, the audience included Title IX coordinators, Central Office staff, Safety Officers and Deans of Student Affairs. The Alliance provided training on trauma and its effects on victims of sexual assault and domestic violence. These activities have led to a productive and mutually beneficial relationship between CUNY, the Kings County District Attorney's Office and the Alliance. In addition, the Alliance has collaborated in the past with CONNECT and Black Women Blueprint on numerous activities. We currently collaborate with CONNECT on a Gender Justice Task Force and Black Women's Blueprint serves on the Advisory Board of the Alliance's program to mount a city-wide sexual assault campaign focused on youth 13-18 years in diverse communities in New York City.

Kings County District Attorney's Office

The partnership between MEC and KCDA developed prior to this grant application. KCDA is a partner of the College Now program at Medgar Evers, and KCDA provide classes as part of a college course on criminal law at Medgar Evers for high school students. Also, KCDA's program Project ReStart works with Medgar Evers students and older high school students who need support in order to graduate.

In July 2014, KCDA formulated a College Consortium to address sexual assault, intimate partner violence, and stalking on college campuses. Several colleges in Brooklyn attended the consortium, including Medgar Evers College. Representatives from these colleges received information on how KCDA could assist their staff and students around these complex issues. A pathway was created for Brooklyn colleges and KCDA to work together in sharing information and referrals and providing trainings to better serve students experiencing stalking, sexual assault, or dating violence. In January 2015, KCDA and the New York City Alliance Against Sexual Assault conducted an unprecedented training for approximately 90 city-wide City University of New York employees on issues related to Title IX.

CONNECT

Since its inception, CONNECT has partnered with MEC's Center for Women's Development. Over the years CONNECT has provided workshops, trainings and partnered on various conferences, capacity building, program development and consultation on organizing strategies around intimate partner violence. CONNECT has also conducted workshops in partnerships with Black Women's Blueprint, Safe Horizon, KCDA, and the Alliance.

Black Women's Blueprint

Black Women's Blueprint and the Center for Women's Development have been partners since 2011. Through their partnership, Black Women's Blueprint has provided crisis intervention and delivered classroom presentations and workshops to faculty and students. This collaborative relationship has created opportunities for students through internships and increased staff capacity to respond to sexual assault and domestic violence. Additionally, Black Women's Blueprint has collaborated with CONNECT and the New York City Alliance Against Sexual Assault on numerous projects including conferences, cultural awareness fairs, and Gender Justice Task Force. Lastly, Black Women's Blueprint is a member of the advisory board of the Alliance's culturally specific city-wide campaign geared toward youth in New York City.

Mayor's Office to Combat Domestic Violence

OCDV has collaborated with The City University of New York, KCDA, and Black Women's Blueprint in providing workshops and training and education addressing healthy relationships, domestic and intimate partner violence as well as sexual assault.

Safe Horizon

Safe Horizon has partnered with the Alliance, CONNECT, and the OCDV. CWD has also referred domestic violence victims to Safe Horizon for counseling and advocacy support. Safe Horizon has and continues to work to ensure victims of crime and abuse receive critically-needed services.

The Alliance, KCDA, CONNECT, OCDV and BWB will provide education and training regarding dating violence, domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking to Medgar Evers College students, faculty, staff, administrators and personnel for 36 months from the date of grant implementation. CWD will continue to partner with these organizations beyond the grant implementation period to further professional development of CWD staff, and other key personnel at the College, who serve as first responders to victims of dating/domestic/sexual violence and stalking on campus.

III) Development of Application

Because of the longstanding partnership between BWB and CWD, BWB encouraged the Center to apply for the OVW grant to reduce dating violence, domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking on campus. Subsequently, BWB provided the Center with information regarding conference call dates for the grant, the kind of services to victims of sexual assault and domestic violence that it would support, as well as education and training for students, faculty and staff that the OVW grant would afford.

Additionally, OCDV, KCDA, and the Alliance contacted The City University of New York to convey their interests in partnering with CUNY campuses applying for the grant. CUNY contacted CWD, which then reached out to the organizations via email to confirm its interest in a collaboration with them. The Center also reached out to CONNECT and Black Women's Blueprint to express its desire to partner with them as well on this grant. The organizations were all extremely helpful in providing guidance regarding the RFP criteria. The Alliance was especially helpful in coordinating a meeting with all the partners to discuss the various resources each organization would provide. It also provided crucial assistance with compiling statistics to demonstrate need for the OVW grant, and has provided feedback and edits for parts of the narrative. Lastly, the Alliance also reached out to Safe Horizon and successfully garnered its support as a collaborating partner.

All participating organizations have been immensely supportive throughout the process.

IV) Roles and Responsibilities

NOW, THEREFORE, it is hereby agreed by and between the partners as follows:

ADAs will also be the point of contact for Medgar Evers. During prosecution, ADAs will reach out to VSU to ensure that the victims are receiving support and trauma-informed care.

KCDA will provide ongoing training to Medgar Evers Public and Campus Safety personnel, Disciplinary Committee, Title IX Coordinator, Student Affairs Sexual Assault Awareness and Prevention Committee, Counseling and Psychological Services, Center for Women's Development and Male Development and Empowerment Center who are first responders to incidents of domestic and dating violence, sexual assault and stalking on campus involving students.

KCDA will also develop training curriculum and presentations to educate Medgar Evers College students, staff, faculty, campus law enforcement, and students on the dynamics, identification, criminal justice options and range of support available to victims of sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking. KCDA will also refer victims to available services, such as the Family Justice Center and Victim Services Unit.

KCDA will also provide the following in-kind contributions: fringe benefits for all KCDA-funded staff under this grant; office space, telephones and internet access, information technology support services, security, copier and fax machine access for all KCDA staff; and expertise of KCDA leadership including the Chief of the Special Victims Division, the Chief of the Domestic Violence Bureau, and the Director of the Victim Services Unit.

BWB will provide three training and workshops per year during the grant implementation period. Students, faculty, and staff will receive the Stopping Homophobia & Transphobia training. This training focuses on creating a safe and inclusive campus for Black LGBTQ students. Tailored for colleges and universities, the training promotes acceptance, inclusion, understanding, and equity for LGBTQ persons of all ages, abilities, and genders on campus. Participants will engage in exercises that help students and/or staff articulate stereotypes and assumptions they may have, then educate them about the facts about LGBTQ people and the rights that protect them. This training is designed to help college students, staff and other personnel strategically plan to provide a safe and supportive climate for all and prepares participants to become better advocates for LGBTQ communities.

This workshop uses culturally specific curricula, responses, tactics and strategies for bystander intervention developed through participatory processes involving indigenous and people of color. This workshop directly engages participants in scenarios, promotes an understanding of why people from myriad cultural backgrounds engage in various types of interventions, why they build environments of accountability, and how they identify high-risk situations in their communities or campuses. It is meant to be responsive to marginalized communities and communities at risk for abuse and violence including sexual violence and bullying, and uses culturally relevant language and strategies for action before, during or after an incident of harm. It includes interactive theater exercises and roundtable discussions. Participants will walk away with concrete tools their own tool kits for having each others' back.

MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING for the OVW FY 2015, Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program

Among the following governmental agencies:

- New York City Mayor's Office to Combat Domestic Violence;
- Office of the District Attorney, Kings County (Brooklyn);
- New York City Mayor's Office of Criminal Justice;
- New York City Police Department;
- New York City Department of Probation; and
- New York State Department of Corrections and Community Supervision.

Among the following nonprofit, nongovernmental victim services organizations:

- Black Women's Blueprint;
- Good Shepherd Services Safe Homes Project; and
- Safe Horizon, Inc.

This Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) affirms the mutual support that each agency or organization will provide in the continuation of the Early Victim Engagement Project (EVE Project) at the New York City Family Justice Center, Brooklyn, New York, a project to be funded under the Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders Program of the Office on Violence Against Women (OVW) within the United States Department of Justice. The continuation of the EVE Project will be implemented by the New York City Mayor's Office to Combat Domestic Violence (OCDV), the King's County District Attorney's Office (KCDAO), Black Women's Blueprint, Good Shepherd Services Safe Homes Project (Safe Homes), and Safe Horizon, Inc., in collaboration with the New York City Police Department (NYPD), New York City Department of Probation (Probation) and New York State Department of Corrections and Community Supervision (DOCCS). It will build upon the success of the current Family Justice Center model of multi-disciplinary service delivery and the extensive history of collaboration among the MOU signatory agencies.

The EVE Project will also continue to reach out to victims before and after an abusive partner has been arraigned to provide them with critical information on the outcome of the arraignment. The continuation funding would support this ongoing work as well as introduce substantial enhancements. The EVE Project will now provide additional services to three traditionally underserved groups: 1) victims of intimate partner violence in the 67, 83 and 75 precincts where there is a complaint for a domestic violence incident and there has not yet been an arrest of the perpetrator (an "open 61"), 2:) victims who are at a high risk of escalation, serious physical injury or fatality; and 3) immigrant victims who are in need of culturally specific services and may be eligible for a U nonimmigrant status (U visa).

The lead partner, OCDV, and all of the partner agencies described below have the expertise, experience, and commitment to ensure the continued success of the EVE Project. If this application for OVW funding is denied, it is fully understood that all agencies and organizations that sign this MOU are in no way obligated to provide the resources or services described in this document.

Brief History of the Collaboration, Roles and Responsibilities of Identified Partners

The EVE Project will be implemented by OCDV with KCDAO as the lead partner. The partnership between these two agencies has developed through the collaboration they formed to create New York City's first BKFJC, located in Brooklyn (BKFJC), which opened in 2005. The BKFJC, which was the first Center in the country to open under the OVW President's Family Justice Center Initiative, is located on an entire floor of an office building in downtown Brooklyn which also houses KCDAO and other City agencies. Partner agencies collaborate while maintaining their victim confidentiality requirements. The criminal justice section of the BKFJC includes the entire Domestic Violence and Elder Abuse Bureaus of KCDAO (including prosecutors, government victim advocates and administrative support staff) and two NYPD Domestic Violence Prevention Officers. The civil side of the BKFJC consists of over 20 community based agencies which provide case management and nonprofit victim advocacy, the New York City Human Resources Administration which offers social services and economic assistance, six civil legal services organizations which offer assistance with family, matrimonial and immigration issues, and the BKFJC Self-Sufficiency Program. Cross-disciplinary training and substantial volunteer projects, such as assistance in the Children's Room, enhance the work of the Center partners.

OCDV and KCDAO were the primary partners on the Department of Justice President's Family Justice Center Initiative grant (#2004-WE-AX-K017) which resulted in the opening of the New York City Family Justice Center in Brooklyn in July 2005. Of the MOU partners in the current application, OCDV, KCDAO, MOCJ, Probation, NYPD, and Safe Horizon, a nonprofit victim services organization, were among the original partners at the creation of the BKFJC. The other MOU partners in the current application are Safe Homes Project and Black Women's Blueprint. Safe Homes Project, a nonprofit victim advocacy organization which specializes in working with Latina and LGBTQI-identified clients, was originally an off-site partner of the BKFJC and became an on-site BKFJC partner in January 2007. Black Women's Blueprint, the newest service provider at the BKFJC, will come on-site in March 2015. Black Women's Blueprint is a civil and human rights organization providing culturally specific resources to domestic violence survivors in the greater-Brooklyn Caribbean community. All of the above MOU partners, except Safe Homes and Black Women's Blueprint, participated in the initial implementation of the EVE Project and were the original partners on the Department of Justice, Office on Violence Against Women's Grants to Encourage Arrest Policies and Enforcement of Protection Orders awarded in Fiscal Year 2007 (#2007-WE-AX-0024). With the exception of DOCCS and Black Women's Blueprint, all of the partners to this MOU were part of the Community-Defined Solutions to Violence Against Women continuation funding that was awarded in Fiscal Year 2010 (#2007-WE-AX-0024). This grant application seeks to continue the existing program and extend the monitoring of criminal cases, enhance risk assessment work with victims whose partner poses a high risk to them, enhance work with domestic violence victims where a perpetrator has not yet been arrested in the 67, 83 and 75 precincts and with immigrant victims, focusing on the Latino and Caribbean communities.

Governmental Agencies

New York City Mayor's Office to Combat Domestic Violence

In November 2001, New York City voters approved an amendment to the City Charter to convert the Commission to Combat Family Violence (established by Executive Order in 1994) into a permanent office of City government, headed by a Commissioner. In January 2014, Mayor Bill de Blasio appointed Rosemonde Pierre-Louis as the Commissioner of the Mayor's Office to Combat Domestic Violence (OCDV). OCDV coordinates the domestic violence services of all City agencies and is responsible for developing mechanisms to ensure accountability. OCDV has a history of serving diverse groups of domestic violence victims, and working closely with healthcare providers, nonprofit and government victim advocates, legal service providers, and faith leaders.

OCDV has implemented a number of programs to help domestic violence victims access the services they need to find safety. In 2014, the office implemented several new programs including the Coordinated Approach to Preventing Stalking (CAPS) and the Queens Human Trafficking Intervention Pro Bono Project.

In 2014, OCDV also received city funding to provide targeted outreach and case management services to victims of intimate partner violence who reside in one of the 15 New York City Housing Authority (NYCHA) developments that make up a large portion of NYCHA based crime. The program, called NYCHA DVRT (Domestic Violence Response Team), a part of the Mayor's Action Plan (MAP) for neighborhood safety, includes an outreach team and case manager for every borough, as well as a citywide high risk coordinator to provide rapid response to high-risk cases by facilitating interagency coordination and collaboration to effectively meet the service and safety needs of these clients.

Other examples of OCDV citywide activities include advocating successfully for changes in housing policies to make it easier for domestic violence victims to obtain public housing, awareness campaigns to encourage victims to seek assistance, a peer-led education program to prevent teen dating violence, and a Domestic Violence Fatality Review Committee which reviews and analyzes homicide statistics to make recommendations to improve victim services. In 2014, OCDV distributed over 265,000 public education materials and conducted over 900 outreach events citywide.

The operations of the Brooklyn BKFJC are managed by OCDV through an Executive Director and other BKFJC administrative staff members. The objective of the BKFJC is to provide effective delivery of services to domestic violence victims in order to eliminate the barriers victims face when seeking services. At the BKFJC, essential advocacy, case management, and criminal and civil legal assistance to domestic violence victims are provided under one roof. The services are all provided by on-site partner agencies, including victim advocacy organizations, and City and State agencies. The services currently available at the BKFJC include: criminal prosecution; civil legal advice for immigration, divorce, and Family Court matters; police services; counseling for children; assistance with emergency shelter, permanent housing, and public assistance applications; childcare; safety planning; crisis and long-term counseling; services for the elderly/disabled; emergency food, baby, and clothing supplies; language interpretation; and self-sufficiency services. Since opening on July 20, 2005, through February 27th, 2014 there have been 158,852 client visits to the BKFJC.

Because of the success of the Brooklyn FJC, the City committed to continuing its funding after the federal funding ended in 2006. In addition, the City committed to and currently funds FJCs in Queens (opened in 2008), the Bronx (opened in 2010) and Manhattan (opened 2014). A Staten Island FJC is planned to open in 2015.

Kings County District Attorney's Office

KCDAO is charged with the duty to protect the public by investigating and prosecuting criminal conduct. KCDAO staff includes Assistant District Attorneys, Detective Investigators, government victim advocates, and support staff. KCDAO regularly trains law enforcement, medical professionals, educators, and BKFJC nonprofit and government partner staff on criminal justice issues. KCDAO government victim advocates are dually trained in both clinical social work and criminal justice advocacy, and provide support for victims and assistance with dispositions of criminal complaints consistent with the goals of ensuring victim safety and holding offenders accountable for their criminal conduct.

In 2012, KCDAO partnered with Safe Horizon, New York City Criminal Justice Agency (CJA), the Brooklyn Borough President's Office, the New York Police Department (NYPD) and New York Probation (DOP) to apply for and was awarded a Domestic Violence Homicide Prevention Demonstration Initiative (2013-HI-AX-K001). Recently, these partners were selected for phase two (2014-HI-AX-K004) and will be implementing the Domestic Violence High Risk Team model (DVHRT) within the 75th Precinct.

In 2003, KCDAO partnered with OCDV to submit an application for funding to create a Family Justice Center in Brooklyn through the OVW President's Family Justice Center Initiative. The entire staff of KCDAO's Domestic Violence Bureau and the Elder Abuse Bureau is physically located at the BKFJC. KCDAO prosecutes criminal domestic violence cases and works with the on-site BKFJC nonprofit and government victim advocates, civil attorneys, designated New York City Police Officers, New York City Probation Officers, and interfaith spiritual support caregivers.

New York City Police Department

The NYPD is the chief law enforcement agency for New York City. It is the largest municipal police department in the United States, covering the City's five boroughs: Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Staten Island, or roughly 320 square miles. Over 35,000 uniformed officers of all ranks and approximately 15,000 civilians are employed by the NYPD. In 2014 alone, the NYPD filed 282,648 Domestic Incident Reports (including family related violence).

The NYPD has two Patrol Boroughs in Brooklyn, namely, Patrol Borough Brooklyn North and Patrol Borough Brooklyn South. Within those two commands, there are 23 Police Precincts and three Housing Police Services Areas for public housing complexes. Each Precinct and Police Service Area is proactive in prevention, investigation and enforcement efforts to reduce domestic violence. All Domestic Violence Prevention Officers (DVPOs) and Investigators are trained as specialists in the field of domestic violence.

The NYPD has a Domestic Violence Unit in the Office of the Chief of Department. In addition to briefing the Police Commissioner, Chief of Department and other executive members of the NYPD on domestic violence issues, the Domestic Violence Unit acts as a liaison with the Mayor's Office, the New York State Office for the Prevention of Domestic Violence, District Attorneys' Offices and nonprofit victim advocacy groups. The Domestic Violence Unit also develops and conducts training in conjunction with the Deputy Commissioner of Training. The Unit monitors domestic violence performance indicators in order to give precinct and borough commanders a measure of relative performance, as well as providing an indicator of the Department's performance as a whole. The NYPD has been committed to combating domestic violence and continues to develop innovative programs.

Each day in New York City, NYPD patrol officers respond to over 770 domestic violence incidents. Brooklyn has consistently had the highest volume of domestic violence crimes in the City. The NYPD was an original signatory to both the MOU to create the BKFJC in Brooklyn and the EVE Project MOU, and since July 2005, two full-time DVPOs have served on-site at the BKFJC in Brooklyn and at the other BKFJCs since their opening. In addition to working collaboratively with the on-site nonprofit victim advocacy staff and the government victim advocacy staff, the BKFJC DVPOs record criminal complaints and Domestic Incident Reports (DIRs), follow up with precincts on open cases, provide important NYPD information to victims and nonprofit and government victim advocates, and work with the precinct Police Officers and Detectives to assist in further investigations and arrests, if necessary.

The Domestic Violence Unit is responsible for the training of about 3,000 members of service (uniform and civilian). These sessions included: Promotional Training (Captain, Lieutenant and Sergeant), Probationary Police Officer Training, Precinct Level training, 911 Operator training, Civilian Supervisory and School Safety training. Additionally, the Domestic Violence Unit has trained employees of outside agencies and organizations. Among these agencies/organizations are the Department of Probation, Safe Horizon, Health and Hospitals Corporation, Administration for Child Services as well as civil advocates, social workers and attorneys assigned to the Family Justice Centers in Brooklyn, Queens and the Bronx.

New York City Police Department Commitment, Responsibilities and Resource Contributions

The NYPD will continue to work collaboratively with partners at the BKFJC. The DVPOs at the 67th, 75th and 83rd Precincts will work collaboratively with the advocate at the BKFJC that is assigned to provide services to their residents. Those advocate assignments will be: 1) Safe Homes Project providing services to residents in the 83rd precinct which has a large Spanish speaking community, 2) Safe Horizon providing services to residents in the 75th precinct which upon recent analysis is the precinct with the highest number of DIRs in the City, and 3) Black Women's Blueprint providing services to residents in the 67th which has a large community of Caribbean decent. The NYPD will identify open 61s from domestic violence cases where follow up is needed and identify cases where there is a high risk for escalation, serious physical injury or fatality that need additional safety planning, risk assessment and case management.

As part of the EVE Project, the NYPD will provide the following activities in-kind:

- Identify domestic violence related open 61s with a felony charge in the three EVE Project-designated police precincts (67th, 75th and 83rd);
- Provide appropriate confidentiality agreements to the partner organizations for the release of victim information;

- Meet and communicate regularly with their assigned victim advocate liaison to review DIRs; and

New York City Department of Probation

The Department of Probation protects the community by intervening in the lives of offenders and holding them accountable. In collaboration with the community and other criminal justice partners, Probation provides information and services to the courts, gives victims a voice in the justice system, and encourages probation clients to become law-abiding members of the community, with emphasis placed on the deterrence of future violent behavior. Probation provides direct supervision of probationers and monitors their attendance at programs such as drug treatment programs.

A designated liaison within Probation provides information and support to the BKFJC by obtaining detailed information regarding probation clients. The Probation liaison works with KCDAO to ascertain information regarding current probationers who are arrested and prosecuted for domestic violence offenses in order to coordinate any subsequent probation violation hearing and the prosecution of the underlying new criminal offense. With sufficient access to facts, probation violation hearings can result in the revocation of probation status and incarceration, often without victim/witness testimony. The Probation liaison may also provide current status information, as permitted by law, to domestic violence victims whose abusers may be on probation. By accessing the Probation computer system, the Probation liaison can connect the victim to the Probation Officer assigned to the offender. The Probation liaison can also contact the NYPD and refer a victim of domestic violence to the NYPD if the victim reports that the abuser committed new criminal conduct or the Probation Legal Department should the victim wish to report a violation of the probation client's technical conditions of probation that could prompt a probation violation proceeding.

New York City Department of Probation Commitment, Responsibilities and Resource Contributions

New York State Department of Corrections and Community Supervision

The mission of the New York State Department of Corrections and Community Supervision is to improve public safety by providing a continuity of appropriate treatment services in safe and secure facilities where offenders' needs are addressed and they are prepared for release, followed by supportive services under community supervision to facilitate a successful completion of their sentence. DOCCS makes a special effort to ensure that victims of crimes do not become forgotten parties in the criminal justice process. DOCCS has worked with the New York State Crime Victims Board and the DA's Office to help ensure that victims are aware of their rights with regard to the supervision process. Landmark legislation in 1994 allowed victims to meet face-to-face with a member of the Board of Parole, or to submit a written victim impact statement to the Board. Procedures have been established allowing the Board of Parole to maintain contact with victims and, at their request, keep them apprised of parole interview dates and decisions, and the release dates of the offenders who victimized them. Sentencing Reform Act of 1998, known as Jenna's Law, provided all citizens with an opportunity to call a toll-free number to receive information about inmates released to parole supervision after January 1, 1999. This toll-free service is currently a state contract with VINE (Victim Information Notification Everyday, 1-888-VINE-4-NY). All on-site partners at the BKFJC are trained on the use of VINE, and brochures and fliers are available for BKFJC clients.

Outreach is conducted in the form of workshops for parents at daycare centers and schools, through training sessions for providers, and at tables at health fairs and street fairs where brochures and hotline cards in Spanish are distributed.

Safe Homes Project has collaborated throughout the years with the NYPD in providing roll call training on their services available for domestic violence victims. Description of Partners/Partner Agencies:

Safe Horizon offers a range of services at nearly 70 sites across the five boroughs of New York City that help more than 250,000 victims of violence each year. Safe Horizon is the main gateway to the New York City domestic violence shelter system, operating a 24-hour domestic violence hotline and shelters for battered woman in all five boroughs. Safe Horizon has staff stationed throughout the NYC criminal and family courts, and operates four Child Advocacy Centers, one of which is in Queens. Staff is sought out as experts on issues of violence and victimization by programs around the country.

The Honorable Carol Stokinger is a Justice of the Family Court, Queens County. She is the supervising judge of the Queens County Family Court. The Family Court of the State of New York was established to take action in the lives of children, parents and spouses. The court has a wide range of powers to fit the particular needs of the people who come before it. The Family Court hears matters involving children and families. It has the authority to make legal decisions over a number of types of cases including domestic violence cases, custody and visitation cases, and child protective proceedings. Judge Carol Stokinger was appointed to the Family Court bench on February 9, 2000; on July 7, 2009 she was appointed Supervising Judge of Queens County Family Court.

The Mayor's Office to Combat Domestic Violence (OCDV), New York City Family Justice Center, Queens - In November 2001, New York City voters approved an amendment to the City Charter to make the Commission to Combat Family Violence (established by Executive Order in 1994) into a permanent office of City government, headed by a Commissioner. The Mayor's Office to Combat Domestic Violence, oversees the citywide delivery of domestic violence services, develops policies and programs, and works with diverse communities to increase awareness of domestic violence. OCDV works alongside City agencies, community based and advocacy organizations, local leaders, and service providers to expand access to services citywide for victims and their children to receive the help that they need.

OCDV operates four Family Justice Centers (FJC) throughout the City, including the NYC Family Justice Center in Queens. The FJCs provide comprehensive multi-agency services for victims of domestic violence, elder abuse, and sex trafficking. The Centers are co-located with the local District Attorney's Office and have NYPD Domestic Violence Prevention Officers (DVPOs) and staff from over 35 community partners on-site to offer counseling services for adults and children, civil legal assistance, immigration assistance, economic empowerment and supportive services. The range of services currently available at the FJC include: criminal prosecution; civil legal advice for immigration, divorce, and Family Court matters; police and probation services; access to emergency shelter; counseling for children; advocacy with housing applications; childcare; safety planning; crisis and long-term counseling; services for the elderly/disabled; emergency food, baby, and clothing supplies; language interpretation; and voluntary spiritual support. The FJCs are safe, caring environments, the services are free and confidential and all are welcome regardless of language, income, immigration status, gender identity or sexual orientation.

The Administration for Children's Services (ACS) was created by Mayoral Executive Order on January 10, 1996. ACS became a permanent mayoral agency through a charter revision approved by New York City's voters in November 2001. ACS is the first NYC agency devoted solely to serving children and their families; its mission is to ensure the safety and well being of New York City's children. To fulfill this mission, ACS protects children by investigating more than 50,000 reports of abuse or neglect each year; helps families in need through counseling, referrals to drug rehabilitation programs and other preventive services; recruits and trains foster parents and caregivers to provide safe, temporary homes for approximately 11,000 foster children; assures that children in foster care find safe, permanent homes as quickly as possible, either with their birth or adoptive parents; assists older children in foster care in making the transition to adulthood through Independent Living programs; and provides family day care and center-based child care, as well as Head Start programs. ACS has established the Office of Clinical Practice, Policy and Support in the Division of Family Support Services, which works across all program areas of the agency to ensure a coordinated and cohesive response to families affected by domestic violence, through policy and program development as well as staff training.

The Mayor's Office of Criminal Justice (MOCJ), established pursuant to Section 13 of the City Charter, is primarily the Mayor's advisor on criminal justice policy and legislation and is responsible for coordinating the activities of the City criminal justice agencies, including the NYPD, Fire Department, Department of Correction, and Department of Probation. MOCJ also serves as the City's primary liaison with the court system, the District Attorneys and the state criminal justice system, and is the official signatory and oversight authority for the Office of Justice Programs grants.

New York Legal Assistance Group (NYLAG) is a nonprofit civil legal services agency serving domestic violence victims, immigrants, seniors, families facing foreclosure, renters facing eviction, consumers, those in need of government assistance, children in need of special education, persons with disabilities, patients with chronic illness or disease, members of the LGBT community, and others in need of free legal services. Founded in 1990, NYLAG works to empower individuals, protect fundamental legal rights, and promote access to justice among vulnerable New Yorkers. NYLAG provides direct representation, advocacy and consultation to domestic violence victims on contested and uncontested divorces, including maintenance and equitable distribution, child custody and visitation, family offenses and immigration matters.

The New York State Chapter of the Supervised Visitation Network (NYSSVN), is a multi-national, non-profit, membership organization, started in 1995 at a meeting of the New York Society for Ethical Culture in New York City. Its purpose is to give supervised visitation providers an opportunity to share ideas with the goal of assuring that children can have safe, conflict-free access to parents with whom they do not reside.

The New York Asian Women's Center (AWC) helps women and their children overcome domestic violence and other forms of abuse by empowering them to govern their own lives. The Center provides a safe haven through multi-lingual support programs and shelter services. In addition, the Center works to raise public awareness about violence against women, advocates for the rights of survivors, and acts as an agent of social change.

Since its inception in 1967, Queens Legal Services (QLS) has sought equal access to justice for all low-income residents of Queens through a range of legal advocacy, education and community partnerships. QLS provides free legal counseling, representation and referrals in civil matters to eligible low-income individuals and families. QLS works with clients and partners to identify and address root causes for systemic inequalities in Queens and throughout New York City.

Safe Space was founded in 1919 and was originally known as the Queensboro Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The mission of Safe Space is to ensure that vulnerable children and youth receive the care they need to remain free of violence, abuse and neglect.

Saint John's University Child HELP Partnership develops and operates trauma-specific mental health programs with innovative and scientifically supported protocols. The Child HELP Partnership believes that all children deserve safe and happy childhoods, so each and every one can grow up to be a strong and healthy adult. The Child HELP Partnership provides culturally-adapted therapy and prevention services free-of-charge to underserved children and families in the surrounding communities in Queens.

Since its inception in 2003 as a volunteer run organization, Voces Latinas continues to address the devastating impact of HIV among Latinas. Voces Latinas hold firm to the belief that Immigrant Latinas have much to say about their community and their needs but are rarely given a voice to express it. Throughout the years Voces Latinas has seen the impact these women have had on one another, their community, and their families. To reduce the rate of HIV among women in Queens, Voces Latinas operates programs that recognize Latinas as the best educators in their community if an opportunity or space is provided.

I. Description of Partner Agencies

A. Black Women's Blueprint

The organization empowers African-American/Black women and girls towards safety and economic security. The organization focuses on economic justice, gender-based violence, and enhancing women and girls' leadership. It continues to partner with local communities, faith based leaders, national agencies, policymakers, advocates and community-based organizations to strengthen efforts to address issues of critical concern to African American/Black women.

The organization uses various media including street and institutional outreach and events to deliver public education to over 2500 low-income individuals at community sites as well as on-site at its offices specifically on the cultural and linguistic factors for victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking.

Our track record in providing services for this highly vulnerable population include programs that address the economic impact of domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking:

1. The Violence Prevention and Intervention Initiative, which works towards the safety of women, their children and girls in dating relationships providing outreach and community education, cultural competency training. It provides individual and group counseling. The program provides workshops for Black church leaders and congregations in communities on culturally and linguistically specific issues facing victims of domestic violence, dating violence, stalking and sexual assault, and services available; and uses radio and social media to educate the community on these issues. Develops culturally and linguistically specific curricula and programs of training for community organizations, advocacy groups, individual activists, community organizers and other entities that provide the knowledge and develops the capacity of these entities to serve African-American victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking.
2. Economic Justice and Self-Sufficiency services tailored for victims/survivors of violence and tailored to address the myriad of mental and emotional health impact. The organization uses curricula sponsored by the U.S. Office on Violence Against Women (OVW) and developed by the Redevelopment Opportunities for Women in St. Louis Missouri and collaborates with Women's Hands Establishing Entrepreneurial Leadership Skills (WHEELS) and The New York City Solidarity Economy Network which provide non-traditional and alternative economic empowerment programs. This economic security component tailored to be offered over a period of six, 5-week cycles during the one-year grant period. The women who are out of work have been out of work at least two years and the prospect of going out on job interviews with no appropriate clothes, support system, or self-esteem can be stressful. The program helps women gain up-to-date knowledge of the working world in a supportive and therapeutic environment. General 'hard skill' job readiness training provided includes: time and stress management, balancing work and personal lives, organizational skills, interpersonal conflict resolution, financial planning, finding and utilizing resources, confidence and self-esteem building, awareness around health and mental health issues, and focused support groups.

Applicant: Carter Burden Center for the Aging

Pursuant to the application submitted by Carter Burden Center for the Aging in response to NYC Department for the Aging RFP for EAPIS Program, the applicant, if funded, will establish programmatic linkage with the Mayor's Office to Combat Domestic Violence (OCDV) in the form and manner described below.

The Carter Burden Center for the Aging promotes the well-being of seniors 60 and older through a continuum of services, advocacy and volunteer programs in NYC oriented to individual, family and community needs. We are dedicated to supporting the efforts of older people to live safely and with dignity. One of our programs, CEMAPP (Community Elder Mistreatment and Prevention Program), provides direct assistance to Manhattan seniors experiencing elder abuse (physical, psychological, financial, neglect). Services include but are not limited to targeted assessments, safety planning, obtaining orders of protection, court advocacy, supportive and crisis counseling, and support groups. In addition, educational outreach and trainings are conducted throughout the year to professionals and seniors in the community.

The Manhattan Family Justice Center (MFJC), operated by OCDV, is a walk-in center for victims of domestic violence, elder abuse, and sex trafficking. As appropriate, MFJC will refer seniors who are victims of elder abuse to Carter Burden Center or JASA (who will be subcontracting with Carter Burden Center to provide elder abuse services). Referrals will be made directly to the Director or to the JASA social worker who will be at the MFJC one day a week providing on-site services. The client will be contacted by the Director or a designated social worker within five business days. In addition to being an important resource for clients who are victims of elder abuse, the Carter Burden Center will provide MFJC staff with in-house education on issues related to elder abuse and will refer clients for MFJC's valuable services when needed and appropriate. This is a mutually important linkage for both agencies.
