Frequently asked questions about HRA services available to immigrant clients

How can I apply for City services if I don’t speak English well?
Free interpretation services are available at all City agencies, including HRA, Federal, state and local laws protect your right to get services even if you do not speak English well. Types of free language services: (1) Interpretation services over the phone are available at HRA sites in over 170 languages. (2) Bilingual staff may interpret where possible. (3) Face-to-face interpreters can be sent to clients who are unable to leave their home. (4) Translated documents: Many City documents are translated into six languages (Arabic, Chinese, Haitian-Creole, Korean, Russian and Spanish), as required by Local Law 73.

Will HRA report my personal information to the immigration authorities?
HRA will not report your personal information to anyone, except if required by law. NYC Executive Order 41 protects the confidentiality of anyone seeking City services. HRA staff will only ask for your immigration status if it is required to determine eligibility or if it is required by law.

If I receive temporary cash assistance, will it affect my immigration case?*
The U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) says that receiving cash assistance or SSI may or may not have a negative impact on your immigration case. It depends on your situation.

If I receive food stamps, will it affect my immigration case?*
The U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) says that receiving food stamps or other food assistance will not affect your immigration case.

If I receive Medicaid, will it affect my immigration case?*
The U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) says that receiving health care benefits, including Medicaid, will not affect your immigration case. USCIS says that receiving long-term care in a nursing home or another institution may or may not affect your immigration case; it depends on your situation.

If you are undocumented, can you still apply for benefits for your citizen or non-citizen children who may be eligible? Yes.

* HRA is not the Agency that decides if receiving benefits will affect your immigration case; USCIS decides this. HRA strongly recommends that non-citizens speak with a lawyer to understand how receiving public benefits may affect immigration cases.
